ANNOUNCEMENTS

Sister Mail Musical Course

An outstanding musical event of the the season will be the recital given this Friday evening, March 7th at Slater hall, by Edna Rubinstein, acclaimed as "the greatest violin genius of a generation" by the leading musical critics and public.

Since her debut in Carnegie hall with the New York Philharmonic orchestra, when her playing was likened to that of the great masters of the day, Kriesler, Elman and Heifitz, her record has been one of remarkable success.

Miss Rubinstein has appeared, as soloist with the New York Philharmonic, the New York Symphony, the Chicago Symphony, the Minneapolis Symphony, the New York Metropolitan, the Detroit Symphony and in concert tours in Europe and America.

Her wonderful playing has won all audiences.

Tickets $2.50, tax exempt. Tickets are on sale at the Cranston Co., Broadway.

William Courtenay Dangerous People at the Broadway Tonight

William Courtenay in his new play, Dangerous People will be seen at the Broadway theatre, Norwich, tonight.

The presentation is under the direction of H. H. Frazee and the play was written by Oliver White. The story tells of the thrilling adventures of a gentleman crook who after robbings a bank falls in love with a girl and tries to return the money to the bank vault. The result is endless complications which creates much comedy, and there is a pretty love story running through it all. The play gives Mr. Courtenay splendid opportunity to display his great ability as an ideal stage lover. He has a part which is especially suited to him; in fact, he is credited with being the creator of this type of stage character. This attraction comes to this city after a run for four months in Chicago and will be presented at the Wilbur theatre, Boston, following the engagement here. Mr. Courtenay can always be depended upon to furnish enjoyable entertainment and with the support of such sterling artists as Charles Millward, George Parsons, Virginia Hammond and Gertrude Hitz, theatregoers can look forward to viewing a worthwhile performance. Mr. Millward played the title role in The Fool during its Boston run. Mr. Parsons starred under the management of George M. Cohan. Miss Hammond was previously in the support of Henry Miller in The Famous Mrs. Fair. Gertrude Hitz was formerly leading lady with William Hodge.

Seats are on sale at box office today.

Keith Vaudeville at the Strand Theatre

Once again the vaudeville presented at the Strand theatre yesterday proved to be a delight to a large audience. The acts appeared in the following order each in turn scoring an individual triumph.

Arthur Huston and Co. offered a new pantomimic farce called The Nightmare.

Joe and Ernie Van in Bright Ideas was a comedy act.

The Petticoat Band, a syncopation in girls is an exceptionally fine musical offering with nine charming girls.

The musical comedy favorites Eddie Schwartz and Julia Clifford in Popular Melodies and Original nonsense proved to be a comedy act.

Grace Ayer and Billy in "" offered a real surprise.

The photoplay Bag and Baggage proved to be a very delightful photoplay.

So This Is London

Speaking of worth-while plays, we recommend So This Is London from the pen of Arthur Goodrich and produced by George M. Cohan, to be presented here at the Broadway theatre, Wednesday night, March 12.

So This Is London is a clean, clever, wholesome play. It's double-edged satire provides a vast amount of laughable comedy situations, and from beginning to end is an uncommonly fresh and humorous entertainment.

The fun of So This Is London commences to tickle you before the curtain has been up five minutes and the two hours and a half following are filled with brisk dialogue that brings laughter with every line, touched here and there with some sound truths concerning the cause of happiness and the futility of nations in waving their respective flags in each others faces and daring the other fellow to cross the drawn line—if that happiness is to be achieved.

You can go to see So This Is London with absolute certainty of finding an agreeable comedy with a most interesting plot and plenty of refreshing laughter presented in an atmosphere of refinement by an excellent company of Cohan commedians, including Allen H. Moore, Ralph Locke, William Dean, Reginald Carrington, Donald Hall, Eugene Shakespare, William Hazeas, Blossom O'Bryan, Marjorie Dalton, Eugenie DuBois, Barbara Allen and others.

Prices are 50, 1.00, 1.50, 2.00, 2.50. Plus tax.

Mail orders now received at box office. Seat sale starts Monday.

REMEMBER AND BELIEVE.

Remember now that other darkest hour
When you were ready to cry quits with life?
Your last defeat had shorn you of your power;
No more would be "a hero in the strife."
Now that the dark has come to you again,
Remember; All life's best has come since then!

Remember when no single ray of hope
Came to you through the gloom of baffledness?
Remember how you could not even grope
Through that thick murk of piteous distress?
How can remembering but help you, when
Your finest triumphs all have come since then?

Remember well, and you can mock Despair;
Remember well, and you can only smile;
Remember well, and you can flout at Care;
Remember, shorten' Sorrow's little while,
Remember well and you can never grieve;
Remember, and you only can believe!

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

BUY BABY CHICKS WITH CARE

The buying of baby chicks is a far more important problem than most purchasers realize. Baby chicks constitute the foundation stock of the future layers and breeders and, therefore, too much care can not be exercised in deciding upon the hatchery from which you buy.

Officials of the United States Department of Agriculture have observed that practical poultry raisers and farmers are relying upon the hatcheries more and more each succeeding year as a source of supply for their new crop of chicks. In other words, each year sees fewer and fewer chicks hatched under hens and the mammoth hatcheries are taking the place, to a certain extent, of the smaller incubators which are commonly operated on the farms. It is because of the fact that farmers are buying baby chicks from commercial hatcheries in such large numbers that the officials of the department feel the necessity for urging them to exercise great care in deciding upon where to buy this year's supply of chicks.

At the same time it should be pointed out that many farmers, perhaps the majority, will still find it more economical to do their own hatching. This is especially the case where the farm flock is of good standard quality and has been bred for egg production. A farmer hatching his own chicks knows the quality of chicks he can expect.

The commercial hatchery business has developed to a very remarkable extent in the United States in the last two years. Some of the hatchery men have estimated that practically double the number of baby chicks will be hatched in mammoth hatcheries this year compared with last. There is a great increase in the number of hatcheries, each varying in capacity from a few hundred to several hundred thousand chicks.

The question of importance to a purchaser of baby chicks is the source of supply of eggs for the hatcheries. Many of the hatcheries have their business well organized and are able to guarantee the quality of the chicks. Some of the hatcheries, however, are not so paticular where they purchase the eggs they use and are not able to guarantee high-quality chicks.

Purchasers of baby chicks would be well advised, officials of the department say, to make sure of purchasing from a reliable hatchery. Only purebred chicks should be bought and in addition to this, the purchaser should insist upon a satisfactory statement from the hatchery man as to the quality of eggs used. Were the eggs from a standard-bred flock with trap-nest records and was the flock in good breeding condition? Purchase baby chicks with great care. It is better to pay a few cents more for good quality chicks that can be guaranteed.

GARDEN VEGETABLES ATTACKED BY MANY PESTS AND DISEASES

From the time the seeds of garden crops are put into the ground until the crops are gathered, diseases and insects that must be fought may appear. Vegetable troubles are due to numerous causes, including unfavorable soil conditions, too wet or too dry, too rich or too poor, lack of humus or of lime, weather unsuited to some crops, careless use of fertilizers, or attacks of fungi or other parasites. The adoption of the best horticultural practice—crop rotation, the careful application of fertilizers suited to each crop, adequate cultivation, the plant-season—is important for the successful growing of garden crops.

The control of diseases due to fungi, bacteria, and other enemies requires special additional treatment, as does the damage caused by insects. A new bulletin has just been issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, as Farmers' Bulletin 1371, Diseases and Insects of Garden Vegetables, the purpose of which is to present briefly control measures for the most important insects and fungous and bacterial diseases of the home-garden vegetable crops.

The use of disease-free seed and plants, says the auther of the bulletin, is fundamental to all insect and disease control. A modified application of the principle of crop rotation can be made even in the home garden by moving the rows of each vegetable to another place each year. Many diseases and insects live over winter in the soil and will appear on the plants again next season if they are in the same soil. Furthermore, since many of the pests of closely related crops are the same, such vegetables should not be planted in succession. Vine crops, such as cucumbers, melons, etc., should not follow one another, nor should cabbage, cauliflower, or related crops follow one another.

Numerous important diseases are carried in or on the seed and can not be controlled by seed treatment, such as bean anthracnose, pea pod-spot, and potato leaf-roll and mosaic. It is therefore essential to secure the most disease-free seed obtainable.

In presenting the methods of controlling insects and diseases the bulletin discusses them under two headings, Treatment and Prevention. Under Treatment are discussed the methods of control which may be applied after the diseases or insects have appeared in the garden, such as the use of poisoned bait for cutworms, the hand picking of insects, and spraying for disease and insect control. Under Prevention are included all measures of control applied prior to disease or insect appearance which will tend to hinder or stop the development of diseases and insects or prevent their overwintering to attack the next season's crops, such as planting disease-resistant, disease-free, and weevil-free seed, treatment of seed to kill insects and diseases, or planting crops on parts of the garden free from the pests.

FIRST CARE OF BABY CHICKS

This is the season of the year when arrangements must be made to raise chicks to replenish the poultry flocks. Pullets are the most profitable part of the laying flock and a well-balanced laying flock should consist of at least half pullets; which allows careful culling of the hens during the summer and fall before the pullets are matured, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Baby chicks need especially careful attention in breeding and feeding during the first weeks of their lives, which should be followed by careful and regular attention throughout their growing period. Early hatched chicks are by far the most profitable whether grown to maturity for laying or sold as poultry flesh.

The brooder house and stove heater which are used for caring for the chicks during the first few weeks of their lives, must be in working order before the chicks arrive. The most common style of brooding is the use of a stove brooder in a colony house keeping from 350 to 500 chicks in a flock in each house, and placing the houses about 150 feet apart on a good grass range. A house 10x14 feet makes a suitable colony house which can be readily moved if built on runners. Chicks brooded in the winter will do better in a larger house, about 10x30, partitioned so that one side is used for a brooder stove and the other for a cool exercising room. Wire netting should be placed in the doorway.

Chicks should not be fed for the first 36 to 48 hours, after which they should be supplied regularly 4 or 5 times daily with easily digested feed which contains little waste material. They should be fed sparingly until about the 5th day; then they can be put on full ration. An excellent feed can be made of infertile eggs taken from the incubator boiled for 15 minutes, chopped and mixed with a dry mash of equal parts of cracker meal, bran and corn meal, using a sufficient amount of the grain to make a dry, crumbly mixture. Middlings can be used in place of the cracker meal. Dry rolled oats are excellent for chicks and can be used as one feed, the other two or three feeds being the commercial chick grains.

At two weeks of age the chicks can be given a dry mash in a hopper, consisting of 4 parts, by weight, of rolled oats, 2 parts bran, 2 parts corn meal, 1 part high-grade meat scrap, 1 part middlings, and 1-2 part dried buttermilk. Commercial chick feed should be fed three times daily in addition to the dry mash.

Milk is an excellent feed for chicks and should be provided either as a liquid or in the dry form to secure best growth. If liquid milk is available the dried milk can be omitted. When the chicks are one month old they should be fed a coarser or intermediate chick grain, and at about two months of age the scratch feed can be changed to equal parts of wheat and cracked corn. This should be fed two or three times a day.

FARMERS SHOULD GO SLOW ON SOWING NAKED OATS

During the last 50 or 60 years attractive advertisements have led farmers from time to time to try to grow naked or hull-less oats. The very fact that the naked oat has gained no foot-hold in American agriculture after repeated attempts to exploit it is sufficient proof of its inability to compete with the best common or hulled oats.

Until a few years ago the variety commonly exploited was the Chinese hull-less, which is now found growing on sterile mountain sides at high altitudes in northern and western China. Recently, however, some new hybrid varieties have been developed by crossing the Chinese hull-less on the common oat. Of these, the Liberty hull-less, which was developed in Canada, has attracted the most attention. This new variety of naked oats has been grown on several of the field stations where the Office of Cereal Investigation, Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, is conducting experiments with oats. At no station has the yield of the Liberty hull-less compared favorably with that of the best common varieties. In addition to being inferior in yield it is very susceptible to smut. It is necessary to treat the seed every year in order to avoid almost complete loss by smut.

While there is small demand for oat kernels without hulls for feeding squabs and young chickens, it apparently will be better economy to buy ordinary oats from which the hulls have been removed than to try to grow hull-less or naked oats. For feeding farm stock, except hogs, the hull usually is considered an advantage, rather than a detriment, as it lightens the ration and increases its bulk. Not until high-yielding, smut-resistant and otherwise better varieties of naked oats are developed and available will it be possible to recommend this type of oat as a safe crop for the farmer to grow.

"Faith and toil and helping one another." These seven words form the plea for international peace submitted by Anton Lang, Christus of the Oberammergau Passion Plays to Edward W. Bok.

BROTHER OF PATRICK M'GUIRE, SUICIDE, COMMUNICATES WITH N. LONDON POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 6.—The funeral of Miss Julia Kelley, daughter of Mrs. Johanna and the late Timothy Kelley, of Niantic, was held this morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was largely attended. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Edward A. Flynn of Niantic. The bearers were Henry Gallant, George Warner, John Flynn, and Thomas McCarthy, all of Niantic. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

That Patrick Maguire, formerly a resident of New York, was the man who leaped from the deck of the New London line steamer Chester W. Chapin, while enroute from New York to this port on the night of May 16th, there is not the slightest doubt, for this morning the New London police were advised by Michael H. Crowley, superintendent of the Boston police that Michael H. Maguire, 271-273 Lamartine street, Jamaica Plains, Mass., brother of the suicide had positively identified a picture found among the suicide's effects and sent to the Boston authorities, as that of his brother. Michael MacGuire will communicate with the New London police within a day or two for the purpose of claiming the effects of the suicide found in the room occupied by the New York man and among which is a bank book showing deposits in a New York savings institution of nearly $2,000. The other effects in possession of the local authorities are clothing and suitcases.

The police received a telephone communication last night from an employe of the Thames club that a burglar was on the roof of the building and was undoubtedly endeavoring to obtain entrance to the rooms of members of the club on the top floor. Sergeant Charles Hammond and Patrolman William Babcock speeded to the club house. Upon their arrival at the building the officers searched the place thoroughly, even going to the roof and later to the yard of the building and yards of adjoining buildings, but could not locate the supposed crook.

Sergeant Charles Hammond was detailed late yesterday afternoon to endeavor to detect the fellow who is alleged to have exposed himself to two young girls residing in East New London, as they passed through Bulkeley place, Monday and Tuesday afternoon, on their way to their homes from their work at the plant of the New England Collapsible Tube company. Sergeant Hammond secreted himself at the location where the fellow is accused of making an exhibition of himself, but he was nowhere to be seen when the girls passed that way.

James R. Johnson has sold to Edward R. Keefe and May L. Keefe a house and lot on Faire Harbour place.

Joseph R. and Michael Schwartz have sold a cottage on Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach to Ellen V. Gorten.

Harry L. Bradshaw and Mildred E. Bradshaw have sold a house and lot on West Pleasant street to Frances A. Simon.

William Nealon, of Linden street, a former member of the New London baseball club when this city was represented in the Eastern League, operated upon at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital a fortnight ago, was able to return to his home today. Other patients discharged today were Mrs Oswald J. Diagoli and infant daughter of Smith street, Mrs. Benjamin Clyde of Old Mystic, and Mrs. Levinson, of Shapley street.

The automobile, owned and operated by Daniel Button, of 11 Williams street, struck and ran over Benny Cannata, 5, of Shaw street, this afternoon on the latter street. The youngster was not seriously injured. Button caused the child to be taken to the office of a physician where it was determined the only injuries sustained were bruises.

Farrucein Albini of 22 Fourth street complained to the police this morning because of youths annoying him. Albini declared that the boys had smeared the entrance of his home by hurling eggs against the door.

The fellow who was about the city yesterday selling lead pencils and who was complained against by housewives because of the peddler exhibiting an incurable growth on the eye in an endeavor to obtain sympathy and promote his sales, was allowed to go to his home in Providence this morning, following his arrest last night by Sergeant Charles Hammond.

Morgan Haven, son of former Police Captain and Mrs. George Haven of Blinman street, underwent an operation today at Lawrence hospital. His condition this afternoon was reported to be comfortable and the operation a success.

The agreement entered into verbally yesterday in the $25,000 damage suit brought by Miss Fannie Taylor, of Quaker Hill, against Louis Markow of Norwich and New London, for breach of promise and which was settled out of court just before the convening of the superior court yesterday forenoon, is being drawn up for approval today.

It is reported at the court house that the agreement calls for a payment by the defendant of between $8,000 and $9,000 and the marriage of the couple.

The case of Samuel Bronner of Pearl street, a Bank street pawnbroker, was continued until next Saturday in the police court this morning. Brenner furnished a surety on his bond for appearance at that time. He was arrested late yesterday afternoon upon complaint of his wife, who alleged breach of the peace.

State Policeman Howard Eliott, this afternoon raided a farm in East Lyme and found a large still. The owner of the place, a Russian, was arrested, charged with violation of the liquor law. The still was seized and was brought to the New London police station for storage.

Tony Bassi and his wife, Mary, proprietors of a little grocery store on Garfield avenue, told their troubles to Judge Prince in the police court today. Mrs. Bassi complained to the police that her husband abused her and that she had stood that sort of thing as long as she proposed to stand it. Bassi was taken to the police station and into court a few hours after he committed the indiscretion of striking the woman. Mrs Bassi declared that her husband choked and struck her and that he threatened to kill her. She did not seem to fear the latter treatment but she said she had tired of the abuse she had been subjected to year after year. The couple have two children, 13 and 15 years. They are attending school in this city and they are bright children. Mrs. Bassi declared that her husband called her the vilest of names and mentioned them in court, saying that she desired a divorce from such a man. She told the court that Tony objected because she turned in bed and represented that her turning was for the purpose of relieving the pain she endured from rheumatism. Tony struck back in words that were eloquent in their innocence and in their postiveness. He said the women in America did not know when they were favored, and pointed out that they desired to be going about all the time. He said he objected to his wife turning so much in bed was that she dragged the bed covering with her and that as a result he could not sleep. "I go to bed to sleep," he reiterated and "I do not propose to be kept awake by her." He added that he was afflicted with rheumatism and that he bore the pain without annoying her. The prosecutor suggested twin beds for the incompatible couple. Both insisted that they would be better apart than living together. The court was disposed to create conditions under which Tony and Mrs. Tony live in peace, so Judge Prince turned them over to the care of Probation Officer Mansfield that he might use his persuasion to have the marriage conditions continued.

The five large elms that have adorned the north side of State St., in front of the former Williams property, now owned by Frederick W. Mercer, John P. T. Armstrong and Theodore Bodenwein, and which is being converted into business block sites, are being removed, work having started today. The trees have been a source of shade for three score years and their beauty in the summer season has excited the admiration of visitors.

Announcement is made of the wedding Feb. 16th at the Hotel Continental, New York of Captain Granville Conway of Staten Island, N. Y., and Miss Carolyn E. Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Elliott of 98 Blackhall street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. H. Guyer of New York and the attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Cloyce F. Gordon of Jersey City. Capt. Conway is merchant marine officer in charge of the United States Shipping Board fleet at Staten Island.

Gus Kelios, manager of the S. Patterson Co., and Mrs. Helen Patterson, widow of S. Patterson, were married last Saturday at the Greek Trinity church at Astoria, L. I. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Mexenopoulos. Announcement of the wedding has just been made by the couple.

Mrs. John Flaherty and daughter, Miss Alice O'Neill are spending a few days with relatives in New York.

Mrs. Charles A. Pinney, wife of Captain of Police Pinney and Mrs. Annie McBride, of Montauk avenue, are visiting Mrs. Pinney's sister in Hartford.

Funeral services for George H. Smith were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his former home, 111 Broad street. Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, officiated. The bearers were Frank Woodworth, E. Augustus Harrison, Judson Hempstead and Edward P. Calvert. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Samuel Friedman, president of the Columbia Leather Goods company and a resident at the Hotel Mohican, is a patient at Lawrence hospital suffering from accidental poisoning. His condition is not serious. Friedman was about the hotel late last night and was suffering from a severe headache. Upon the advice of friends he swallowed three headache powders. A short time later he collapsed, falling to the floor in a semi-conscious condition. Medical aid was obtained for Mr. Friedman and after antidotes had been given he was removed to the hospital.

William A. Graham, 73, of Poquonnoc Bridge, died today at the private hospital, after an illness of two weeks. He was a native of Old Mystic and had been employed as a stone cutter and farmer. Mr. Graham is survived by three sons, Clifford E. Graham of Poquonnoc Bridge, Robert B. Granam of New York and Arthur S. Graham of Poquonnoc; two daughters, Miss Ann Graham of New York and Mrs. Francis Stritch of Scotico, Conn.

Rev. Walter P. Buck has complained to the police that he is unable to leave his empty milk bottles on the veranda of his home and have them secure for the milkman who takes them away in the morning. The police say that such a condition should not be allowed to exist and they are to make an effort to put a stop to it.

Boys in Green street hover around the electric lights like moths around a candle. They take up the wide walk so that pedestrians have to go into the street to get by them.

It is rumored that one of the largest ship companies in the country has an eye on the Groton Iron Works, scheduled to be sold on the 18th inst. The secret is guarded so that no details are given out, but it is understood that there is a customer for the plant when it is offered for sale.

Strange as it may seem the number of lodgers at the police station is increasing as the weather warms up. The reverse is ordinarily true, for at the first evidence that spring weather has set in the number of strollers is cut down, for there is then work for the laboring men.

Complaint has been made that a house of ill repute is being operated in the heart of the city, and that the police have been "tipped" off as to the party who is maintaining it.

New London lodge of Elks had a large class for initiation at its meeting this evening.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Getting Homesick

Poor Little Jack Rabbit was so tired in the last story that he lay down on a cushion of moss at the foot of a tree. By and by, he began to dream

He seemed to hear Lady Love say, "I wish my little son were home again."

"Dear me, I'm getting homesick!" said the little bunny to himself when he awoke and found it morning.

Just then, all of a sudden, he spied a snail with his little shell house on his back.

"Oh, tell me, poky snail

Is your house tied to your tail?"

"Wherever I wander, wherever I roam, I always take my little home."

answered the Snail.

"Well, I'm going home to mother," sighed the bunny boy, and off he hopped.

Suddenly, whom should he see but his friend, the little dwarf.

"Heigh-ho, what's the trouble?" asked the little man.

"I've lost my way home," replied little rabbit.

"Follow me," answered the little dwarf, and in a few minutes from the mountain they saw the Sunny Meadow below.

"Hurrah!" cried the bunny boy. But goodness me! There was no trail leading down the mountainside.

"Have patience," said the dwarf, blowing a shrill blast on his whistle.

The next minute, a snow white bird fluttered down to the ground.

"He will carry you home," said the dwarf.

Little Jack Rabbit lost no time in seating himself on the great white bird, which, like a silent ship, sailed down the air to the Sunny Meadow.

There at the little gate in the white picket fence stood Lady Love, his pretty bunny mother. Throwing her arms about his neck, she kissed him again and again while the great white bird flew back to the mountain top, where the little dwarf was no doubt waiting for him.

Just then, the little canary began to sing:

"The home nest is always the best,
The home tree the greenest;
The little gate will ever wait—
It's always white and cleanest."

"The little Yellow Bird!" cried the bunny boy. "My friend, the Yellow Bird!" Sure enough, it was. That same little bird who had so often helped him on his journey was his own pretty canary. Now she sang the home song for the little rabbit's journey was over and he was safe in mother's arms.

For the Cough That Sticks

Common Cough Syrup Won't Help—You've Got To Make Your Own.

Cheap and Best

For any kind of a cough, but especially for the stubborn one that persists and keeps you awake nights this home made cough mixture will quickly loosen the phlegm, allay the inflammation and stop the cough.

You can make it yourself at home in two minutes by following these instructions:

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength) — to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint —that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

It's a mighty fine remedy for chest colds and acute nasal catarrh, and remember that any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

SIXTEEN YEARS

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

I wonder How many of you realize that is was just sixteen years ago today,—March 7, 1908,—when you and I began these "Farmer's Talks" through the kindly intervention of The Bulletin?

It was so long ago that I think it may be permissible, now, to tell you that they were begun purely as an experiment, with a good deal of doubt on both sides, i. e. on the part of the editors and the writer, as to whether they would "take." The first understanding was that they should be run for one month. Then, if they seemed to be getting nowhere, or if the writer found himself unable to awaken interest, they were to be dropped. If, on the other hand, there was sufficient encouragement from Bulletin readers, and the strain was not found too great by The Farmer" himself, a continuance was to be considered.

Well, so far as the writer was concerned, it speedily developed that there wasn't going to be any strain. From the outset he resolutely set his face against any dogmatism, any assumption of infallibility or even of superior knowledge. He determined that he would never try to teach his grandmother how to suck eggs nor older and better farmers how to farm it. Remembering Sir Philip Sydney's admonition to would-be poets, "'Fool,' said my muse to me, 'Look in thy heart and write,'" he talked about the things in which he himself took interest, trusting that they would be found interesting to other farmers. He tried to avoid both dangers, the one of being too theoretical and visionary and hifalutin; the other of dropping into the handbook of manual method and playing schoolmaster.

How far he has succeeded it is for you, his readers, to judge. That he has succeeded at least to such a limited extent as to warrant the continuation of the Talks for sixteen years he appreciates. Perhaps even more keenly than any one else. To continue such a department, on a single track, devoted to a single vocation, and that vocation one uniquely marked by the multiform and often contradictory individualisms of its adherents, has required some rather careful steering.

In those sixteen years we have talked together, — or, more accurately speaking I have talked at you, 831 times. Twice the Talks have been written by a sick man, propped up in bed: once when he was too sick even for that, and had to dictate. There would have been 832 of them but for the fact that once an enforced absence precluded all possibility of getting manuscript to The Bulletin on time. And my old friend, Editor Pearson, (on whose grave the dews and the rains and the sunshine are now falling), rather than see the continuity broken, substituted a single Talk for me.

I confess that had I appreciated that March morning in 1908, that I was fated to write and you doomed to read 831 Talks, I should have shivered with what Kipling's Bulvaney would have called "insidious apprehension." Nor do I doubt that if any one of you had foreseen that he or she was going to be asked to wade through that number, he or she would have felt the need for a pre-Volstead-ian "bracer" to face the future.

Isn't it lucky that "heaven from all creatures hides the book of fate?" We pick up the end of a string carelessly enough, wholly unaware that it is fated to enmesh us in an inextricable web. We take hold of the plow-handle blithely enough, unwitting that we shall not be able to let it go till the long furrow is plowed even to the end. We plan to do this or that and make an end of it, and lo, the laggard tomorrows creep in endless procession and we find ourselves "to the last syllable of (our) recorded time" doing something quite different.

And right here I have a confession to make. I have enjoyed keenly all my part of our somewhat one-sided conversations. What I feared might grow into an onerous task has been, instead, a delight. Though I have never seen or heard from most of you, and though probably few of you think of me as a real person, there has, nevertheless, grown up, on my part at least, a sense of comradeship which is almost as vivid as if we were actually sitting opposite each other around the kitchen stove and "chinning," face to face.

You have been very good to me. Some of you have turned roses my way; few have sent cabbages and none that I can remember rotten eggs. This, though many of you must have felt at times,—as I have,—that the old man was losing his grip and was not keeping up to the high mark of his calling. The years take their toll from all of us, and those who have grown old together are prone to become always more and more kindly and over-looking.

Perhaps the future may hold in it more for us all than the past has dribbled out, who knows? We may at least hope so. And I, for one, do hope.

Or (way to square that it will is to study the lessons of that past; examine into our mistakes and their motives; go over our failures and seek out their causes; and face our sins as frankly and repentantly as we shall be compelled to face them before the great tribunal of ultimate justice.

It is popular, in referring to the past, to allude only to its triumphs and to reckon only its gains. This is not only unfortunate but foolish. It is more than a poetic figure, it is a matter-of-fact truism that on stepping-stones of our dead selves we climb to nobler futures.

It is also the popular thing to glow and gloat over purely material advances in the realms of science and industry. This, too, is unfortunate and, worse than that, is futile. It may be boasted that the past sixteen years have seen the evolution of the air-plane. Yes, and they have also seen the development of that slinking and cowardly assassin, the submarine. It may be boasted that they have witnessed the genesis and growth of radio service. Yes, and they have also witnessed the inflation and manufacture and barbarous use of poison gas bombs.

I am myself less interested in striking a doubtful balance between the good and bad in purely material things than in looking for gains in the immaterial and spiritual universe which, unlike the material, is eternal. Moreover, it is the one which, in the end, rules the material as truly as the brain rules the hand.

It would seem almost ridiculous to ask what gain in intellectual and spiritual things has been made by the world in those sixteen years which have seen the horrors of an inexcusable world-war; the abomination of desolation overswept by Russia; the shameful degradation into which financial folly and bestial greed have sunk what was once Germany.

It is more to the point and, for us, more important to ask what moral and spiritual gain we have made in these sixteen years? What have we farmers won out of them for our own improvement and betterment? What steps have we taken towards the development among ourselves of that higher manhood and womanhood which is after all, the most worthwhile result we can aim at?

It is a mad world, my masters. But the prevalence of insanity doesn't warrant us in going crazy, too. The idolatry of the Philistines was never held sufficient excuse for Israel's bowing the knee before Baal.

Fate or fortune of the will of God,—call it what you choose, the form of words matters little,—has placed us in the open spaces of the earth, face to face with the primal verities of life. It has linked us, arm in arm, with the driving forces of nature. It has set us down close beside the springs whence flows the refreshment of the nations. It has given to our hands control of the gates whose opening means plenty and comfort; whose closing brings famine. We work under the more or less muddle-headed orders of no more or less ignorant foreman or superintendent or boss, but under the immutable laws of nature. So long as His bow spans the sky after a rain, so long shall we be certain of seed-time and harvest. So long as men must eat to live, so long shall they come to us to be fed. In unique degree the future of humanity, the home of the world rest on our bowed backs and bending knees.

Our task is no light or trivial one. Our responsibility is no small thing. Our opportunities are almost as limitless as the universe.

Have we measured up to them? Have we grown commensurably with our capacity? Have we made the most of ourselves, — not the most money, nor the biggest reputation, nor the most prize-winning crops,—but the most of ourselves? Have we striven, first and chiefest, to prove ourselves worthy of our high vocation, and to fit ourselves for the yet graver duties and yet more onerous responsibilities which the bag of the future is likely to unloose upon us?

It isn't what Russia does, or what Germany does, or what England does, or what Washington does, or what the coal miners' union does, or what the engineers' brotherhood does that is of most interest to us, but what we do and what we are.

We are not guilty of other men's follies or faults or crimes. Nor do we hold any divine commission to reform them according to our personal ideas of what constitutes reform.

But for our own faults or failures or sins, whether of omission or commission, our own heads must answer, sooner or later. There are no scapegoats whom we can lead with that blame and drive out into the wilderness. The beds we make we must lie in; the medicine we mix we must take; in the pitfalls we dig we shall ourselves fall.

There is no escape in this war. We are drafted into it, perhaps without our deliberate choice. That makes small difference. The result depends, not on whether we are volunteers or conscripts, but on how well we fit ourselves for our tasks and how efficiently we perform the duties allotted to our hands.

There have been grave emergencies in the past sixteen years. There will be graver ones in the coming sixteen. They must be met by a wide enrollment of all qualities which we group together as making up the highest manhood and womanhood.

The question whether we farmers and farmers' wives and farmers' families are prepared or are preparing for these emergencies is one of much greater real importance than whether we reduce taxes or vote a bonus or offer fuller credits to western wheat-growers, or elect Bill Smith to office over Tom Jones.

As adherence to principle is vastly more worthy than subservience to policy, so the molding of true manhood is infinitely more important than the making of money, or the adding of farm to farm.

If, in sixteen years, I have been able to write as much as one line which has helped so much as one fellow farmer in this direction, I should regard it both a triumph and a reward.

THE FARMER.

WESTERLY

Following Town Clerk Everett E. Wattle as a witness in the case of Victoria M. Brown, administratrix, vs Adolphus LaBonte, Wednesday, was the plaintiff, who testified that the monies given by her mother, Dorcas La Bonte, during her lifetime to Adolphus LaBonte were loans and not gifts. Her husband, David F. Brown, gave testimony of a similar nature and to the effect that $600 was advanced LaBonte to purchase an auto-truck. Annie J. Myrick, who lived on Canal street, testified to statements of Mr. LaBonte that he was indebted to his mother's estate. A deposition was read of Hattie M. Collins of Norwich, a cousin of Adolphus LaBonte, which deposition had been taken in the city of Norwich. In the deposition it was stated that she was present in Westerly in November, 1921, at the home of Mrs. Dorcas LaBonte and that she was in the house when Mr. LaBonte sought a loan of his mother to buy furs; and also she was in Westerly for several days at the time of the funeral of Jennie Schreiber. It was not until 12.25 that the plaintiff rested. Mrs. Adolphus LaBonte testified.

Thursday morning, in the Westerly session of the superior court for Washington county, the fourth day of court here, the two cases being tried as one, of Victoria M. Brown, admx., of the estate of her deceased mother, Dorcas LaBonte, as well as of the estate of her deceased sister, Mrs. Jennie Scribner vs. Adolphus LaBonte, of Stonington, was continued. On Wednesday night the testimony on both sides was all in and Thursday morning Attorney Archambault made his plea for Mr. LaBonte. He was followed by Attorney Clarence E. Roche for the paintiff. Judge Sumner charged the jury and they retired at 12 m.

The next case on the docket was that of Shiffenraffer & Co., vs. the J. H. Blacker Co., and by agreement of counsel it was placed at the foot of the calendar.

Vincenso Algier et al vs. Angelo Selvido was called and found ready with Attorney Gallagher for the paintiff and Roche for the defendant. In this case the attorneys agreed to a court trial and the spare jurors were excused until 2 p. m.

Frank Algier, son of the plaintiffs, his father and mother in this case, for whom he acted as agent was placed on the stand. At 12.25 the Brown-LaBonte jury came in having reached a verdict. In both cases judgment was found for the plaintiff. In the estate of Jennie Schribner the amount to be recovered from Mr. LaBonte was placed at $440.14. In the estate of Dorcas LaBonte $1386.25 was the amount which was to be recovered from Mr. LaBonte.

The Algier-Selvido case was one brought to recover $100 balance due on a note of $300 originally and the balance with interest amounting to $166. In the case the shoe repairing business of Joseph Catapano was purchased and in payment the note and agreement not to reengage in the repairing business was signed by Catapano and Angelo Selvido, the defendant. Joseph A. Guarino was sworn as interpreter and Angelo Selvido gave his testimony. After the pleas were made Judge Sumner said he did not deem, under the agreement that any rights were waived and gave his decision for defendant, Selvido at 2.45 o'clock.

At 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon the following jury was empanelled to try the case of Anna Marie Ledestri et al vs. Delia Richards, alias, action brought to recover possession of property, a house which had been let to the defendant, a trespass and ejectment case: Andrew N. Tefft, expressman, South Kingstown; William H. Thurman, farmer, North Kingston; Thomas Gormley, poultryman, Westerly, made foreman; Frank H. Saunders, lnemaker, Hopkinton; Arthur J. Edmund, blacksmith, Westerly, Raymond T. Chappell, chauffeur, South Kingstown; Alston W. Knowles, farmer, Narragansett; Frank Burdick, machinist, Westerly; Gilbert T. Rodman, clerk, North Kingstown; Alfred A. Boswell, stone mason, North Kingston; Horace S. Webster, fisherman, North Kingston; and Alfred H. Straight, mill operative, North Kingston. The jurymen proved satisfactory, no challenge being made by Attorney Clarence E. Roche who represented the plaintiff or by Attorney John Gallagher who acted for Attorney John J. Dunn who originally answered for the defendant.

The premises of which this action seeks recovery are located at 131 Canal street, and the case is one appealed from the Third district court in Westerly. Joseph S. Grilla was sworn in as interpreter. The first witness was Angelina Bianda, sister-in-law of Anna Ledestri, and one of the plaintiffs in the case, who testified that she employed Natale Ledestri as agent for the property. Natale Ledestri, a brother of Anna Ledestri testified to the collection of rent money. Frank H. Brown, a salesman, who was present at a store on Canal St., when the alleged payment of rent money was made, also gave testimony.

This will be the first case on this (Friday) morning's calendar, the case being continued from Thursday.

The Westerly Masonic club played the second round in the bridge tournament series with the Westerly Cycle club, at the Masonic club rooms, Thursday night. The Masonic club defeated the Cycle club, 13,564 to 12,349 or 215 points. In the first game of the series when these teams met at the Masonic club rooms the Masonic club won by 42 points.

Masonic club — Samuels-Haswell 1597, Smith-McLaren 2286, Rathbun-Spargo 2256, Hodgson-Lamb 2350, L. Hiscox-H. Saunders 2475. Total 12,564.

Cycle club—Hartson-Christy 1779, J. Payne-J. Moore 2590, Cook-Stillwell 1859, J. Law-M. Payne 3285, F. Saunders-S. Mayne 1236. Total 11,349.

At the rooms of the Misteuxet club at Stonington, the Mystic Hook and Ladder company defeated their opponents by a total of 540 points, in the series of bridge tournament games.

Miss Margaret W. Grant of 40 Spruce street, Westerly, began her duties Tuesday as railroad ticket agent at Putnam. This is the first time in 20 years that the Putnam railroad station has had a woman ticket agent. Miss Grant qualified as an experienced agent and telegraph operator, having been the Western Union operator when the Westerly office was located at the Westerly railroad station. Following her work at Westerly, she was engaged in telegraph work in Providence, was ticket agent and telegraph operator at the Kingston, R. I., station and station agent at Belleville, R. I. From Belleville she was transferred to Jewett City, where she has been ticket agent up to the present.

The Pioneer, the first cottage built at Pleasant View, is being made ready to be moved from the west side to the east side of the Wigwam hotel. It was in June 1894, that Court C. Bliven, with two or three other carpenters, went from Westerly to erect the first building on the beach. It was in the fall of 1894 that the beach land was marked out into building lots which were sold to become the sites for beach cottages. Since that time the resort has grown to such size that the bounds of the Pleasant View fire district now include in the neighborhood of 200 cottages, or perhaps 350 buildings. The moving of the house will greatly improve the appearance of the grounds adjacent to the Wigwam hotel.

Don't let constipation make you an invalid —relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Few people realize how dangerous is constipation until this dread disease tears down their health. Did you know that more than forty serious diseases can be traced to constipation?

Keep your health, or restore it, with Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. It brings relief in mild and chronic cases of constipation. It is effective because it is ALL bran. That is why it is recommended so highly by doctors. They know that only ALL bran can bring 100 per cent results. Part bran is, at best, only a halfway measure.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran will bring permanent relief—even in the most chronic cases. It is guaranteed to do so. If it fails, your grocer will return your money.

Because it is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestines. Like nature, it acts naturally. It makes the intestine function regularly.

Eat it every day—two tablespoonfuls—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Enjoy it in those wonderful recipes given on every package.

The flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is delicious. It is crisp, nut-like. Quite different from ordinary brans, which are so unpalatable. Kellogg's Bran is made in Battle Creek and served by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Sold by all grocers.

Visitors to the New York Aquarium in the past year numbered 2,121,330, a monthly average of 176,525. Among the homing pigeons that played in the recent great poultry and pigeon show in London was one that did remarkable service in the war. The Mine Sweepers' Hope, as this bird was nicknamed, repeatedly made journeys from the middle of the North sea, and on four successive Saturdays arrived in England half frozen with important dispatches, and so warned the authorities of the approach of Zeppelins.

Nature can sometimes do as good a job in mummification as the expert embalmers of Tut-ankh-amen's day. Not so long ago the body of an ancient warrior was exhumed from a Greek temple where he had been buried 1,500 years ago without any especial effort having been made toward preserving his body. It was so well preserved that the wounds which killed him were plainly visible. Within the last few months a perfectly preserved body, buried 121 years ago, was exhumed in Germany, and many such instances have been noted. The explanation is not known but seems to be connected with the cause of death, the bodies of persons dying from bacterial infection being apparently more prone to decay.

CONNECTICUT FARMERS KNOW THEIR BUSINESS

Under the heading "Farmers Know Their Business," a recent issue of The New England Homestead had the following of local interest.

The other day a farmer friend near Pomfret sent me an editorial clipping from one of the leading daily newspapers of Connecticut, adding some rather caustic comments of his own along the margin of the clipping. The title to the editorial was: "We are a good potato soil." That, in itself, is a rather dangerous conclusion when you remember that on a single farm in Connecticut you can find from one to a dozen different soil types. Connecticut does have a lot of potato soil and does raise a lot of good potatoes but that doesn't prove the apparent contention of the editor that all we need is men from Maine to show Connecticut farmers how to grow spuds.

If there are any Connecticut farmers who think they know it all, I haven't met them. That happy state of mind is much more likely to exist, I think, in some newspaper offices. And if Maine can teach Connecticut anything about growing potatoes in this state, I think there are plenty of farmers who are willing to learn. Whether the man from Maine, now resident of Milldale, can teach Shedd and Dawley of Connecticut anything, will be open to question, however, until the results of Milldale can be compared to the results obtained at Presto from Maine. The editorial doesn't state how many acres the Milldale venture required to produce 5,000 to 6,000 bushels of potatoes but on 20 acres of land Shedd and Dawley harvested the past year about 9,000 to 10,000 bushels of excellent potatoes also, for the most part, Green Mountain and Irish Cobbler varieties. And the July drouth hit Preston Plains just as hard as it hit Millsdale.

So much for potatoes. But what about the half century-ons challenge that we "stick in some apple trees?" We would like to take this expert lecturer from the land of corn and wine (although we thought wine was on the taboo list) for a little motor trip to see Root at Farmington or Rogers at Southington, Billings at Hazardville or Drew at Greenwich, Henry at Wallingford or Browning at Montville or Bilton at Somers or Hale at Glastonbury and Seymour or to 15 or 20 others of the untutored farmers who have "stuck in" a few apple trees. We should like to invite him to attend the next session of the Connecticut pomological society. We don't know where this expert lecturer hails from but if his state can grow better apples than Connecticut does grow he ought to be sticking in apple trees around home.

When you begin to talk about apples, Connecticut doesn't take off its hat to Maine, or Missouri or Ohio or Oregon or anybody!

GARDNER LAKE ROAD IN HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT

Construction of thirty six miles of new roadways and one bridge in Connecticut is called for in thirteen projects which the state highway department have submitted to contractors for bids. Sealed proposals on the specifications will be received at the office of the highway commission until 2 o'clock p. m. Monday, March 17.

One of the notable improvements included in the projects is a new trunk line highway from East Haddam to Montville, linking the former town with the new Hartford-New London military turnpike. This is the improvement of the Gardner Lake road which is a section of highway in which there is much interest in Norwich.

The following sections of improvements are involved:

Towns of East Haddam and Salem —About 21,210 feet of water bound macadam on Norwich-Hadlyme road.

Towns of Westbrook and Old Saybrook (Federal Aid Project)—About 21,800 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on Shore road.

Town of Westbrook (Federal Aid Project)—First, contract, abutments of proposed bridge over Patchogue River.

Town of Westbrook—(Federal Aid Project)—Second contract—steel superstructure and roadway slab for 120-foot through truss span of bridge over Patchogue River.

Town of Old Lyme (Federal Aid Project)—About 17,016 feet of reinforced cement concrete pavement on Post Road.

Town of East Lyme (Federal Aid Project)—About 11,093 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on Post Road.

Town of Waterford (Federal Aid Project)—About 16,836 feet of reinforced cement concrete pavement on Post Road.

Town of Groton—About 7,745 feet of waterbound macadam on Noank-Groton Long Point road.

Town of Montville—About 19,928 feet of waterbound macadam on Norwich-Hadlyme.

Town of Stafford—About 15,720 feet of waterbound macadam on Norwich-Hadlyme.

Town of Stafford—About 22,000 feet of waterbound macadam on Monson Road.

Town of Stafford—About 18,000 feet of waterbound macadam on Wales road.

Town of Union—About 18,765 feet of waterbound macadam on Stafford Union road.

The time for the completion of these contracts will be fixed by the highway commissioner. A certified check or surety company bond for one third the amount of the bid must accompany each sealed proposal unless the contractor shall have filed with the state an annual proposal bond. The successful contractor shall start work in each case within ten days after orders to do so.

The elevation to the peerage of Earl Robert Cecil serves as a reminder of the fact that for more than 300 years a Cecil has sat in the house of lords.

Good News for Ailing Women

Much has been said for and against proprietary medicines by the medical profession. It will interest every woman to know, that as a recent country-wide canvass of over 121,000 purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as to the results received from its use, the replies received showed that ninety-eight out of every one hundred women had been benefited by its use. Therefore every sick and ailing woman owes it to herself to give this remarkably successful remedy a fair trial.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS NARROW.

New York, March 6.—Resumption of pool operations and extensive covering by bear traders, who apparently acted on the theory that a number of stocks had been oversold, resulted in a further advance in prices in today's more active stock market. While net gains in a number of active issues ranged from 1 to 2 1-2 points, the general list failed to break out of the narrow trading area in which it has been moving the past three weeks.

Commission houses reported that public interest in the market was still at low ebb, probably through fear of further unfavorable political developments at Washington. Today's market ignored the publication of telegrams bringing the name of President Coolidge into the oil inquiry and a further break in French francs, which carried them below four cents each to a new record low for all time. Operators on the long side, however, were encouraged by the decision of the senate finance committee to seek immediate enactment of a joint resolution providing for a 25 per cent reduction in personal income taxes payable this year, so that it may apply on installments due on March 15.

Buoyancy of a number of the high priced industrials was one of the features of the session. Woolworth jumped nearly 13 points to 810, a record top, on publication of a statement showing a large increase in February sales. A jump of more than four points in Corn Products, which touched 178 1-4 and closed slightly below that figure, revived rumors of a possible increase in dividends. American Can climbed more than 3 points to 118 and then fell back to 117 1-4. Kress and company soared 10 points to 200.

Strength of the tobacco issues was attributed to the activity of the Whelan interests in these issues. American Tobacco closed nearly five points higher at 150, Schulte jumped more than four points to 106 1-2 and then fell back 2 points from the top, and intervals of strength were shown by the Tobacco Products issues and Philip Morris.

Oils were bid up smartly in the early trading, on expectations of higher crude prices, but reacted from their top prices on the announcement that the government had brought suits to cancel the leases on the naval oil reserves. Motors made a good response to reports of increased production and sales in February. Sugars also showed good group strength in anticipation of some good 1923 earnings reports and preliminary estimates indicating that consumption of sugar was likely to exceed production this year.

Rails were firm despite the reported decrease in freight car loadings. Northwestern rails continued to discount the possibility of a marked improvement in February earnings over those in January, which has been predicted by some of the officials of these roads.

The market was not without its weak spots. Case threshing broke ten points to 50, a new low, on the passing of the preferred dividend and Penn Seaboard Steel broke from 3 to 1 7-8 cents and then recovered its loss on reports that a pool in that stock was disbanding.

A big increase in note circulation was the primary reason for the latest drop in French francs to 3.95 cents, the lowest on record. Belgian francs reacted in sympathy but the other foreign exchanges held relatively steady, demand sterling easing slightly to $4.23 5-8.

Call money ruled unchanged at 4 1-4 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

BOND MARKET.

New York, March 6.—Railroad issues virtually monopolized trading interest in today's bond market, which was influenced by the flood of buying orders for St. Paul four per cent obligations maturing next year, sending the price to a new high level for the year at 81 1-4. Influenced by reports that the road itself was steadily accumulating these bonds and would be in a position to redeem the outstanding liens at par upon maturity, speculative interests were said to be buying on a large scale.

Activity in the 1925 mortgages was communicated to the other St. Paul issues, which gained substantially on fairly large turnovers. Figures made public today showing an increase in car loadings for the first two months of the year indicated improvement in the road's affairs and stimulated a demand for its bonds.

In response to the modification of the reorganization plan for the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad, lightening its financial burden for the next five years, bonds of the company advanced steadily. Missouri Pacific and Southern railway issues also were higher.

The collapse of the franc to a new record low price below four cents and the unprecedented increase of a billion francs in French note circulation was accompanied by weakness of the French governmental and municipal issues. Serbian 8s, however, moved counter to the general foreign list and reached a new high for the year at 78.

CURB MARKET.

New York, March 6.—Stock prices developed a firm tone in today's curb market. Speculative belief that an increase in Mid-Continental Oil prices was imminent brought about rather active buying of the oil shares in the early trading, but prices sagged towards the close on selling inspired by the government suit to cancel the naval oil reserve leases.

A fifteen point jump in Borne Scrymser to 223 was the feature of the oil groups. Except for a few issues such as Cities Service, Continental, Prairie Pipe Oil, Ohio Oil, and Standard Oil of Kentucky, which moved up 1 to 1 1-2 points, the net gains in the active oil shares were held to small fractions.

In the industrial section, Dubilier Radio continued its upward movement, touching a new top at 25 3-8. Ward Baking B stock also made a good recovery from recent heaviness, and Kresge improved moderately in sympathy with the strength of chain store stocks on the "big board."

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, March 6.—Heavy selling in the corn market today led to something of a price setback for all cereals. Cold wave predictions, together with slackening of demand for the lower grades of corn arriving here, had much to do with the increase of selling pressure. Corn as well as wheat and oats closed unsettled—corn at 1-8c to 1-4c@3-8c. Net decline, May 80 7-8 to 80 7-8c@81c, wheat unchanged to 3-8c. Lower, May 1.11 1-4 to 1.11 5-8, and July 1.11 3-8c to 1.11 1-2, with oats 1-4c to 1-2c@5-8c off, and provisions varying from 7@10c loss to 5c gain.

At first, the corn market showed considerable strength as a result of snow and mild temperature, a combination likely to curtail shipments, especially from Iowa and Illinois. For a while, pit offerings were light, but after the market had scored moderate gains in price, selling widened out, and some of the large holders appeared to be unloading. Aside from changed prospects that several days of cold weather might facilitate an increased movement of corn to terminal centers, traders were bearishly affected by advices from Washington that the McNary-Haugen bill might become a law and bring about an upheaval in the present marketing system.

Dealings in wheat were greatly restricted by uncertainty over the outcome as to the McNary-Haugen bill, discussion of the measure occupying brokers far more than actual put transactions. Would-be sellers of wheat, however, were held in check by knowledge that announcement of a raise in the import duty on wheat might be received at any moment.

Oats were depressed chiefly by selling ascribed to the northwest. Most of the selling was in the May delivery.

Provisions were quiet, and without significant change.

ADVISES EMPLOYERS TO GIVE GUARDSMEN EXTRA VACATION

Stanley H. Bullard of the Bullard Machine Tool company of Bridgeport and president of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce has suggested that employers of this state, in recognition of the vitally important place held by the Connecticut National Guard, should give members of that organization an annual leave of absence of fifteen days with pay, in addition to the regular vacation privileges, so that they may attend the summer encampments held by the guard.

"It seems to me that Connecticut has rather taken its National Guard for granted, without particular attention as to how it is constituted and how it may best be developed and maintained," declared Mr. Bullard, in discussing the significance of the national guard to the state.

"Connecticut's militia has had a long and honorable record, a record which goes as far back as the history of the colony itself. It has been strengthened by some of the best men of our state; its military achievements in peace and in war, are such as to cause any Connecticut citizen to be proud.

"Connecticut is a commonwealth which has harkened little to false doctrines. We have been prepared for 'come what may.' When war came, no industries, no business resources, no social structure was mobilized more completely or more effectively than ours. Our industries and our commerce were prepared to assume burdens, just as thousands of our young men were prepared, far beyond those of other states, to lay aside their civilian clothes and respond to the nation's call.

"Our commonwealth is one in which preparedness is practical—preparedness for happiness, preparedness for prosperity, preparedness to meet any crisis, we hope. So far as the national guard is concerned it ought to reflect this important characteristic.

"I have had occasion to make some study of the National Defense Act of 1920, upon which our whole scheme of national defense is now based, and I think that the people of Connecticut ought to be fully apprised of the vitally important part of the national guard has in this scheme. There is now only one army, and the biggest part of the trained force is represented by the National Guard.

"Here in Connecticut our national guard has made splendid progress. Units have been organized and trained and equipped, and the work has been carried on so well that I am informed the war department is planning to give recognition by the appointment of a Connecticut man as a major general in the national guard, the first officer of the rank this state has had.

"We business men ought to do all that we can to assist the national guard, is receiving wide endorsement the whole body politic, and it needs the services of thousands of our young men. A plan which originated in the city of St. Paul, by which employers may give much encouragement to men to join the national guard, is receiving widt endorsement throughout the country. In brief it provides that employers shall give their moral support to affiliation of their employes with the national guard, and where practicable, shall grant each year to such men as are affiliated, fifteen days' leave of absence with pay, in addition to vacation privileges; so they may attend the summer encampments.

"How far Connecticut industry and Connecticut business can afford to go in bestowing such generosity and such cooperation, is, of course, up to the individual manufacturers and business men. But the plan has proved satisfactory to all interests in many sections, and I am sure that it deserves the careful study and consideration of Connecticut employers."

FOURTEEN DAYS SALE OF BEDS AND BEDDING

Schwartz Bros., Inc., at 72-80 Main street are announcing a fourteen day sale of beds and bedding which opens on the stroke of 9 Saturday March 8. Over 300 sample beds are ready for you to take your pick. Sensational values and attractive styles indicate that there will be a tremendous demand for these beds and the first customers will have the benefit of early choice. Included in the sale are quality mattresses, complete bed outfits, couch beds, bed springs and feather pillows, all at such sensational values that they will make a sale Norwich will never forget. Remember that Schwartz Bros., build their reputation on quality and their business on value. Both will be sustained in the offerings they will place before their customers in the mammoth bed sale.

Pile Sufferers
Can You Answer These Questions?
Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?
Why cutting and operations fail?
Do you know the cause of piles is internal?
That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?
Do you know that there is a harmless internal tablet remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Lee & Osgood and druggists generally, that is guaranteed?
HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the internal cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record, for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.

WILL REPORT RESULTS OF SURVEY IN LEBANON

First definite public announcement of the results of the Lebanon Agricultural Economics Survey will be made at the afternoon session of a farmers' institute to be held at the Goshen Community rooms on Tuesday, March 11. Further results of the study will be announced on the evening of Wednesday, the 12th at 8 p. m., at a meeting in Lebanon high school.

The Lebanon agricultural economic survey is one of the three similar studies which the federal government is helping make in different parts of the United States in an effort to arrive at certain definite conclusions of soil adaptation and land utilization. The local survey covers the entire town of Lebanon, which was selected as fairly typical of the humid regions of northeastern United States.

M. F. Morgan, agronomist for the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station at New Haven, who was in charge of the soil studies, and C. I. Hendrickson of the Storrs Experiment station, who conducted the economic phases of the survey, will be the speakers.

The economic survey, which is said to be the most complete of its kind ever made in America, was planned and directed by Prof. I. G. Davis of the agricultural economics department of Connecticut Agricultural college. The plan was approved and in part financed by the U. S. department of agriculture.

Farmers who desire to have samples of their soil tested for acidity may bring such samples to the meeting at Goshen. Such samples should be moderately dry, weigh about one-fourth pound and represent the soil to an average plowing depth. All such samples will be tested free of charge by Mr. Morgan by the new system of potassium thiocyante test.

TO BUY 130 ACRES IN UNION FOR STATE PARK

The state park and forest commission recently authorized the purchase of a large tract of land in the town of Union, comprising about 130 acres, for the purpose of a state forest preserve, in accordance with the development program of the commission.

The addition of this tract enlarges the Union state forests to approximately 600 acres. The influence of the forestry development program in the vicinity of the town of Union has resulted in the application of improved forestry methods to more than 10,000 acres of privately owned forest land, and increased care of forest land by private owners has been noted by inspectors.

In planting new areas, the forestry commission has chosen three species, southern pine, white pine and larch, as being most suitable to the development of the Union state forest.

Fred S. Fletcher of Bristol appeared before the commission and accepted the price determined upon by the commission for a small tract of land at Hammonasset Beach, which was needed for the development plan for an enlarged state park. Mr. Fletcher at the last meeting of the commission had considered the price offered by the state as an under valuation of the property.

Workmen's Compensation

The following workmen's compensation agreements have been approved:

Lorraine Mfg. Co., Pawcatuck, employer, and Mary Sullivan, employe, right side strained at rate of $10.31.

Totokett Mfg. Co., Norwich, employer and Alice Curran, Versailles, employe, splinter in right little finger at rate of $18.62.

Uncas Paper Board Co., Norwich, employer and John Gruncko, 31 St. Regis avenue, employe, two fingers crushed, at rate of $13.91.

Quickly Drives Out All the Rheumatic Poison

The first day you take Rheuma, the doctor's remedy that is selling so rapidly, you'll realize that when Rheuma goes in uric acid goes out.

It matters not whether you are tortured with pain, crippled with swollen joints or distressed with occasional twinges, Rheuma is guaranteed to end your rheumatic trouble or money back.

Rheuma is just as effective in cases of lumbago, sciatica, arthritis and chronic neuralgia.

Rheumatism is a dangerous disease. It often affects the heart and causes death. If you have it in the slightest degree get a bottle of Rheuma from Lee & Osgood Co., or any good druggist today and drive it from your system at once.

WHEN YOU WANT to put your business before the public, there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

SEEKING $10,000 DAMAGE FOR FORMER NORWICH WOMAN'S DEATH

The $10,000 damage suit for the death of Mrs. Alexander Plona of Waterford, who before her marriage lived in this city, was on trial all day Thursday in the superior court at New London before Judge C. L. Avery and a jury when the defendant's motion for a non-suit was denied after the plaintiff's attorneys had rested their case.

The suit is brought by the husband of Mrs. Plona who is the administrator of her estate and is against the Connecticut Co. and Robert W. Perkins, receiver of the Shore Line Railway Co., who are made defendants because Mrs. Plona was fatally injured by a trolley car near Station 13 on the Lyme turnpike, Waterford, about 7:45 on the night of Nov. 30, 1923.

The car was operated by Motorman Earl M. Saxton who, the plaintiff claims, was running his car without his searchlight burning and in consequence did not see the woman on the track. She was on her way from her home to visit a neighbor a short distance away and was walking on the track, the trolley car coming up back of her. The motorman was the only eyewitness of the accident.

Attorneys Thomas E. Troland and Frank L. McGuire are counsel for the plaintiff and Attorney C. M. Whittlesey for the defendants.

Ernest C. Daboll, civi engineer, was the first witness to take the stand and describe the spot where Mrs. Plona was struck by the trolley car. Dr. William D. Cronin testified relative to finding the body of Mrs. Plona under the trolley car and Coroner Jeremiah Desmond of this city described her injuries. Other witnesses were Jennie M. Tiffany, Sophy Bronson, and Earl M. Saxton, the motorman.

After the defendant's motion for non-suit had been denied, the defense introduced some photographs of the scene of the accident taken a few days ago, but these have not yet been admitted as exhibits. The foreman of the car barn gave testimony as to the condition of the trolley car and court adjourned to continue the trial next Tuesday.

The jury drawn to hear the case consists of Albert Hewitt, Frank A. Baier, Allen Penhallow, George E. Cutler, William H. Traill, John Jeffrey, George Winterbottom, Edwin A. Moody, Peter Hoffman, Solon F. Chapman, George A. Keeney, and Arthur H. Davis.

ALLOWS NEW RATING FOR FORD RUNABOUT MODEL

The Connecticut motor vehicle law places upon the commissioner of motor vehicles the responsibility of making a capacity rating for each commercial motor vehicle. Up to Jan. 1, 1924, the lowest permissive rating allowed under the law was one ton. The legislature of 1923 gave the commissioner authority, by an amendment to that law, to rate, in his discretion, for one-half ton. The amendment went into effect January 1, 1924. Up to that time over a long preceding period the particular model of the Ford, known as the "Model T" chassis, popularly recognized as the "runabout model," had been rated at 1250 pounds. With the beginning of the registration period for 1924 certain owners who did not wish to register for over one-half ton began to ask for a change in rating of this particular model of car. The department accordingly commenced to consider evidence as to the proposed change and by correspondence with the Ford Motor company and with petitioners, has worked the matter through until an actual rating of 1000 pounds has now been arrived at.

The 1000 pound rating is based upon the statement of the Ford Motor company, dated February 26, 1924, by its secretary, "One-half ton or 1,000 pounds is the greatest load weight that the Ford 'T' chassis will sustain with safety and without injury to the mechanism when such chassis is in use for commercial purposes." This apparently constitutes a final determination by the company and the department has accepted it as such and will, beginning March 5th, register each such model for such rating.

The difference to the owner is that under the old rating a fee of $22.50 was required, while under the new the fee will be $15. The new rating cuts down the legal load which can be carried two hundred fifty pounds.

As to those cars which have already been registered, the department will take the initiative, will search them out from its records and will, in the course of a reasonable time, write to each such owner explaining how refund of the difference between the fee charged and the new rating fee may be had. Registration certificates of the cars of this model which have already been issued will necessarily be corrected and the capacity rating lowered from 1250 pounds to 1000 pounds. The department will do this. Thereafter, of course, the capacity rating which appears on the side of each such vehicle in use will have to be changed from 1250 pounds to 1000 pounds. The owner must make this change.

It will take some little time to make the necessary alterations in certificates, etc., but the number of vehicles involved up to this date is so comparatively small that all necessary changes can probably be consummated within a month.

JEWETT CITY SHERIFF RECOVERS STOLEN OUTFIT

Deputy Sheriff John T. Dolan of Jewett City has added another to his good record of apprehending criminals by recovering a horse and express wagon that were stolen at Cambridge, Mass.

About January 12th a roan horse, with brass trimmed harness and top express wagon valued at about $350 was hired at Callahan's sale and livery stable of Cambridge, Mass., and driven by two young men to Jewett City with five others and sold for $40. Mr. Dolan was engaged on the depot break and his leads brought him into contact with this team being brought to town and sold for such a low price. His suspicion was that not all was right about the sale. Having obtained names of parties who were in Jewett City about that time, he asked if such a person had sold it. A receipt was produced and the name with another was there. A report was made to the Cambridge authorities who expect to take the two men into custody after notifying Mr. Callahan to come to Jewett City and obtain his horse and wagon.

SCHOOL NURSE FINDS MUD NEAR GOSHEN OBNOXIVE

The Bulletin's Goshen correspondent writes: The warm spell is making heavy traveling on country roads as Miss Kingberger, the "town" school nurse, was attending to the duties of her office Wednesday, her automobile became set in the mud, near Stark's Four Corners. A nearby farmer charged $12 for his services and team in getting the light coupe out of its predicament.

PHENOMENAL SCORE WON FIRST PINOCHLE PRIZE

Mrs. Louis Mitchell entertained the Thursday Afternoon Pinochle club this week, at the home of Mrs. John O. Peckham of West Thames street. As the result of a phenomenal score, Mrs. Milo R. Waters won first prize. The second prize was awarded Mrs. Charles Wright. Hot bread sandwiches, jello with whipped cream and coffee were served at the close of play.

Continuance in Gagnon Case

At the Thursday morning session of the city court the case of Fred Gagnon of Montville, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor was continued until next Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The only other case presented was that of a local man charged with intoxication. The charge was nolled.

VISITORS' SONG OPENS LIONS' CLUB MEETING

With an unusually large attendance including a number of visitors the Lions club held its weekly luncheon and meeting Thursday noon at the Wauregan house. Among those present was President Al. Osborne of the New London Lions club. President George A. Finn, conducted the meeting and George Madden acted as song leader. The right hand of fellowship was given one new member, Earl Taggart.

The visitors sang the first song number, being escorted to the piano by Lion Max Hanover. One of the feature songs was one entitled Hole in the Ground and the Green Grass Grew All Around, President Osborne of the New London club leading. President Osborne also spoke briefly on Lionism. Lions Tyler Stanton and Kopeland Markoff were heard in vocal solos and the Smoke Shop trio, Tyler Rogers, Harlow Bogue and Herbert Corey sang It Ain't Going to Rain No More.

After his absence of several weeks in Hot Springs, Ark., Lion Frank A. Sisk was given a hearty welcome. He spoke briefly on the attractions at Hot Springs. He spoke particularly of the wonderful cooperation of the Lions club, Rotary club and the Chamber of Commerce of Hot Springs.

The attention of the club was called to the presentation of The Hidden Idol, the Tech show written by Witter Tingley Cook, a Norwich boy, which is to be presented in this city this month under the auspices of the Norwich Rotary Club for the benefit of the John S. Blackmar Boys' Fund.

President Finn thanked all who cooperated in making the recent Lions charter night celebration a success. It was announced that at the meeting next week Commander E. W. Wilbur of the local Salvation Army will give a talk. The Star Spangled Banner and salute to the flag brought the meeting to a close.

PER CAPITA REVENUE EXCEEDED STATE EXPENSES

The state revenues collected in Connecticut for 1922 exceeded the cost of operating the state government by the amount of $1.23 per capita, it is reported by the bureau of the census at Washington. The total revenue collected in the state amounted to $21,816,841, an average of $15.30 per capita, while the cost of the government was $20,050,565, and average of $13.97 per capita.

The distribution of the revenue collected from the various sources was: General and special property taxes, $4,805,728; earnings of public service enterprises, $218,606; all other revenues, $16,691,507. The assessed valuation of all property in the state subject to general property taxes was $1,962,763,631.

The expenses of all general department of the government for the year was $14,844,333. Public service enterprises cost the state $64,473 or $154,133 less than the income from these enterprises, while the interest for which the state was liable amounted to $599,005. Outlays for the state during the year totaled $4,542,701.

The total debt of the state in 1922 was $6,045,358 or an average of $4.21 per capita.

The assessed valuation of property in Connecticut was the second highest in New England and her debt was the third largest. The revenue collected and the government costs of Connecticut were the second highest of the six states.

REHABILITATED VETERANS READY FOR EMPLOYMENT

Norwich has been asked to do her part in the work of finding employment for the 400 veterans of the world war who have been undergoing rehabilitation in Connecticut since the termination of the war. These men will be ready to take their places in the industrial, mercantile and business life of the state before July first, according to W. H. Holland, employment officer of the United States Veterans' bureau, who has been working in Connecticut under the direction of Captain Thomas J. Bannigan, subdistrict manager.

Mr. Holland paid a visit to Norwich Thursday and said that these 400 men have been brought to the point where they are ready for employment, and will be released from the places where they have been training in monthly consignments, from 10 to 60 men being ready each month. It is the business of the employment officer to see that these men secure work and Mr. Holland is covering his territory lining up prospective places of employment for his charges.

Governor Charles A. Templeton called the attention of President Stanley H. Bullard of the Connecticut chamber of commerce to the matter, suggesting the importance of having the former service men earn their living rather than become objects of charity. He particularly stressed the point that the men are not seeking charity, neither do they desire to be retained in employment if they are unable to make good in the positions afforded them.

Mr. Bullard immediately called the matter to the attention of the board of directors, and plans were made for receiving these men when they are released by the government and declared fit by training for the various positions to which they aspired. E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association, has advised the Veterans' bureau of his wholehearted cooperation in placing the veterans in employment.

Practically all professions and trades the bureau of men who will be ready are included in the list prepared by for employment in the next four months. There are twenty who have been trained for various commercial positions, not less than seventeen having been given courses in bookkeeping. There are lawyers, carpenters, dental mechanics, architectural draftsmen, thirty-six interior electricians, seventeen machinists, thirteen plumbers and eighteen shoe repairmen. In endeavoring to find employment in this state the bureau is mindful of the fact that the men have homes here and should not be sent out of the state to seek employment.

It is emphatically stressed that these men are in no way to be considered disabled, as the vocations for which they were trained were selected for them particularly because of their especial fitness for that particular work, both as to physical and mental ability. Lieutenant Holland points out that many of the men have more than average ability, and some have exceptional ability in the occupations for which they have been trained.

When the 400 men who will be ready for employment by July 1 of this year are placed, the government will continue the training of the remaining 600 war veterans, and these, too, will be released for employment as soon as their training is completed. The government will complete its work in this respect in July, 1926.

EXPERT TRAFFIC OFFICER AT CUNARDER'S PIER

A former Norwich man, who still counts many friends in this city, is serving as traffic policeman at the Cunard line pier in New York. This is John T. McIntyre of whom it is said that ocean travelers not only know but like Officer McIntyre. He makes it his business to find out who is sailing and treats the small people as nicely as he does the big ones. No matter what the rush he always guards against taxi congestion. He was off sailing one day during the rush last summer and two men were sent to do his work. They soon had to call for help and others were sent. Now Mr. McIntyre has to be on duty every sailing day. He is always there with a smile and a jab of Irish wit and he is popular with the steamship men from the captain to the stoker.

JOHN T. McINTYRE
Cunard Pier Traffic Policeman

He meets lords, dukes, counts, and princes, to say nothing of princesses, countesses, baroneses, etc., with a grace that give them a high opinion of New York's police force.

Officer McIntyre is an expert swimmer and a baseball fan. Each year he makes it a point to take his vacation in the fall about the time of the world's series and usually spends the time in Norwich, where he resorts to The Bulletin office and has a seat on the inside to hear the returns.

ROAD TO WILLIMANTIC BROKEN BY FROST

The state highway between Norwich and Willimantic at present is in the worst condition of the year, the road surface being broken in many places, and the stretches not covered with tar or macadamized soft and hard for traveling.

The warm weather of the past few days has drawn the frost from the ground at a fast rate and this has added to the troubles of the men employed by the state in keeping the highway in repair.

The macadamized stretches are in the worst condition in some time and operators of motor vehicles must be continually on the watch or they will find themselves in trouble. Ruts, mud holes, rocks and cakes of tar bound macadam cover the highway nearly all the way into Willimantic, while the dirt stretches are soft and hard for traveling.

Employes of the state highway department have been busy and their efforts have resulted in many improvements. It will be some time before the road will again be in anywhere near first class condition as the 17 mile stretch must be thoroughly gone over, dragged and hardened down before a new coating of tar can be made to hold it in place.

Only one stretch of joy remains on the entire trip, that being the cement stretch between Williams Crossing and Lebanon Crossing, which has stood the attack of winter and frost without cracking.

This stretch speaks well for cement highways and people realise the saving it represents to the state after the initial cost of construction.

Fail in Their Efforts to Connect the President with "Principal" Message Sent From the White House—Ira E. Bennett, Editorial Writer of the Washington Post, Asserts That Senator Curtis, Assistant Republican Leader in the Senate, was the Man Mentioned as "Principal"—Today Senator Curtis is to Take the Witness Stand to Deny Under Oath That He is the Person Referred to as the "Principal."

Washington, March 7.—Testimony directly linking Attorney General Daugherty with the effort to prevent the recalling of Edward B. McLean to the witness stand was given today before the oil committee.

Ira E. Bennett, an editorial writer on the Washington Post, testified that the attorney general had told him on the day McLean was summoned to Washington to tell the publisher "not to worry." Mr. Daugherty was quoted as saying that he was "attending to things."

Jewett also told the committee that Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the assistant republican leader in the senate, was the man mentioned as the "principal" in one of the telegrams sent to McLean at Palm Beach. Later Senator Curtis issued a statement, however, contradicting several points in that story, and declaring he had had no communication with the McLean agents which would make it possible for them to refer to him as the "principal" or in any other way than in his own name.

Tomorrow the Kansas senator will take the witness stand to make his denial under oath. Bennett then will be recalled and asked for a further explanation.

In his testimony today, the witness insisted that the reference to the "principal" did not relate to President Coolidge, as suggested by some democratic senators, and it was announced at the White House that Mr. Coolidge did not recall any conference with Bennett since the oil issue became acute.

Throughout a long cross-examination repeated efforts were made to link up the "principal" with the White House where Bennett said he had attended a conference between the president and newspaper correspondents just before the message was sent. Under the questioning the witness made varied explanations of other features of his direct testimony, but he insisted to the end that the "principal" was Senator Curtis.

Bennett himself declared there was nothing to be concealed about his conferences with Senator Curtis and that there was no reason why the senator's name should not have been use in the message. He did not say that the Kansas senator had asked him to convey any message to McLean other than personal greetings.

Much of the questioning of Bennett—the only witness of the day—revolved around a code message which he said he had directed be sent to McLean on February 14, a few hours before the formal subpoena for the publisher was issued by the committee. This message as decided by a cipher expert said:

Code Message

"Saw Wytge for nearly an hour. His direct message to you is, 'I am at Wygo elow and standing at the guns. All that is possible to do will be done by us so you should worry delay selection prosecutor. Give Wyhol my love. I don't want Wyhol to be disturbed so long as I am on the job. You know what to depend upon. The fight is on me and I am ready for them and feeling fine.'"

((Signed) "COUNT."

Identifying himself as the "Count" Bennett first said that as nearly as he could remember his intent was to refer to Wilton J. Lambert, of counsel for McLean. He explained that the publisher had sent him a message to find out of Lambert was diligently and ably watching his affairs.

After a conference with Lambert he said he had told John F. Major, another of McLean's employes, to "send down a message to Mr. McLean and say that Mr. Lambert says, quote his words if you want to, that he is attending to this matter very closely, on the job you might say, or something to that effect, very close to Walsh, keeping in touch with Mr. Walsh, and on the job, diligently pursuing his duties."

According to this explanation of the telegram Wycgo was the code word for Senator Walsh, the committee prosecutor, and Wyhol to Mrs. McLean.

Bennett then was pressed as to what fight" was being made on Lambert, and said he did not know anything about any fight except the natural diligence the attorney might use in protecting or working for his client." The witness insisted he had not directed the sending of that portion of the telegram.

"So far as I know anything about it," observed Senator Walsh, "there was no fight on Mr. Lambert."

"I don't either," responded the witness.

"Well, this really does not hook up, Mr. Bennett, does it?" pursued the senator.

The witness conceded it had no meaning to him, and Senator Walsh asked him about another telegram which he had sent to McLean on the same day announcing that he would have a conference with "H. D. before one o'clock." Bennett said he thought "H. D." referred to Mr. Daugherty.

Then inserting Mr. Daugherty's name in the original telegram, where the witness previously had said Mr. Lambert's should be, Senator Walsh said the whole language connected up fairly well.

"That is substantially what Mr. Daugherty said me," the witness said, "as well as Mr. Lambert, strange as it may seem."

Reverting to this telegram later, Senator Bursum, republican, New Mexico, asked Bennett to repeat the substance of what was given to him by the attorney general to send to McLean.

"To the best of my ability," the witness said, "he said 'tell Ned not to worry.' He said 'he is a side issue in this thing. I am attending to things. I am getting posted, and will do what I can to help.' Something like that."

"To do what?" asked Senator Bursum. "To whom?"

"To avoid McLean being called up here to testify. That is all."

Pressed by Senator Walsh, Bennett agreed that there was considerable anxiety" on McLean's part and said it was his impression that this had to do merely with his coming up to Washington from Florida to testify.

"That is my impression," the witness said, "always has been that he was very excited, a rich man, and had a telegraph wire and sent a lot of telegrams, meaningless, and foolish, and in code, and all that sort of business."

A somewhat similar explanation was made by Bennett of the reasons for his approaching Senator Curtis. He said McLean regarded this as a great political question in which he was being more or less involved and that it was "not an expert statesman or anything of that kind," and was seeking to find out what was 'going on and what it all means."

"Principal" Telegram

The name of Senator Curtis was brought in by the witness immediately after the reading of the "principal" telegram, which was sent to McLean at Palm Beach on January 29 and which follows:

"Saw principal delivered message he says greatly appreciates and sends regards to you and Mrs. McLean. There will be no rocking of boat and no resignations. He expects reaction from unwarranted political attacks."

(Signed) BENNETT."

Bennett said that he conceived that this message might easily be misconstrued, and explained that the first sentence had nothing to do with the second sentence. He testified that the second sentence had nothing to do with the word "principal;" that it embodied his own opinion which he had gathered at a conference which the president had with the newspaper correspondents at the White House an hour before.

The witness then went into a lengthy account of how McLean had asked him to find a "most suitable republican for him to send a message in the senate, most suitable in the sense of being well-informed and a friend of his, and in touch with others, and all that." He said he had suggested Senator Curtis and that McLean, thereupon gave him a message for the senator.

"The message," Bennett said, "was to the general effect that he—well, it was verbal from me to Curtis. I will give you the best I can recall. It was to the general effect that Mr. McLean was all right. For him to not worry, that Mr. McLean would be through it; this all right; that he didn't want to come up here and testify, but not to think that he had any connection with this matter except that he had stood up for Fall. Words to that effect. That he appreciated that this was more or less a political matter as well as a pursuit of what appeared to be corruption."

The witness insisted that the sentence "there will be no rocking of the boat and no resignations" had no relation to Senator Curtis.

RETIREMENT OF DAUGHERTY IS HELD IN ABEYANCE

Washington, March 7—The storm which had been expected to attend the return to the capital today of Attorney General Daugherty failed to break and outwardly tonight there was a dead calm in the controversy over his retention in the cabinet.

Underneath the calm, however, there were rumblings which were accentuated by further steps by the senate committee which expects early next week to begin its investigation of Mr. Daugherty's administration of the department of justice. The committee issued subpoenas for half a dozen witnesses but in accordance with the policy previously decided upon did not disclose the line of testimony expected from those who were called.

Mr. Daugherty was silent, the white house was silent and his critics in the senate produced no fresh attack to mark his return after a nine day trip to Chicago and to Florida.

Arriving in the capital about half an hour before the Friday cabinet meeting, Mr. Daugherty went direct to the white house to attend a meeting of President Coolidge's official family at which all present afterward agreed the controversy raging about the attorney-general was not mentioned. He spent the remainder of the day studying precedents to determine whether the department of justice could legally meet the request of the house for the names of the two representatives charged by a Chicago grand jury with misuse of their influence.

The attorney-general was met at the station by two secret agents of the department of justice and his only word to waiting newspapermen was that he was feeling better than he had in five years. He appeared in better health than when he left Washington suddenly and without warning a week ago Wednesday, and after the cabinet meeting displayed little of the nervousness that had marked his last attendance at a cabinet session.

Many were the questions directed at the attorney-general on leaving the cabinet meeting but he made a direct reply on to one, which was an inquiry to whether any change had occurred so far as he knew in his cabinet status.

"That is a question I hardly can answer," was the answer, "I don't know whether the situation in Washington has undergone any change while I have been away."

All evidence continued to point to a change but no outward moves were made during the day to support a feeling held by many of those in high official positions that Mr. Daugherty's retirement may be expected soon.

The subpoenas issued by the senate investigating committee went to Dare Gershon, San Diego, Cal., Emit Kosmalitsky, Los Angeles; Forest C. Pendleton, New Orleans; Charles Breniman, Dallas and William Wiseand B. C. Baldwin, San Antonio. The notices to appear were sent out at the request of Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, the "official prosecutor" of the committee.

HOUSE AWAITS INFORMATION OF BRIBERY OF MEMBERS

Washington, March 7.—The house waited in vain today for information from the department of justice as to the identity of the two representatives charged in a Chicago grand jury's report with improper use of influence.

No reply to the resolution, adopted yesterday, directing the attorney-general to disclose the names was received, and there was no indication as to when it would be forthcoming.

Although declaring he had no official information that he was one of the men involved, Representative Langley, republican, of the Tenth Kentucky district, took the floor to defend his name. Facing two hundred of his colleagues, he said he knew reports were in circulation that he was one if the accused. Publication of his name in newspapers prompted him, he said, to speak out without waiting for the department of justice report. He declared unequivocally that he was guilty of no wrongdoing.

Several times during his brief speech, the Kentuckian who is chairman of the public building committee, was applauded by his colleagues who rose to cheer him as he left the floor.

At the time Representative Zihlman, republican, Maryland, who also was mentioned in newspaper accounts as being one of the men referred to in the Chicago grand jury report; was not on the floor, although he was present in the house chamber at hearvals during the afternoon.

Mr. Zihlman declined to comment on the situation other than to reiterate that he knew nothing of charges, but could prove his innocence if any were preferred. He is chairman of the labor committee.

In the event the names are furnished the house by the department of justice, leaders were undecided today as to what course would be pursued. The general opinion was that the matter would be referred to a committee for an immediate thorough investigation, without regard to any possible grand jury action here.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Deposed Caliph En Route to Switzerland.

Milan, Italy, March 7 (By the A. P.)—The deposed caliph, Prince Abdul Medjid, passed through here today on the Orient express, en route to Switzerland. He is accompanied by his wife and two daughters and three secretaries.

Earthquake in England.

London, March 7.—An earthquake shook large sections of Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire last night and early today without, however, any appreciable damage being done. The tremors shook the whole Alfreton district of Derbyshire, shortly before 11 o'clock last evening. House furnishings were rocked by the shocks and the alarmed inhabitants rushed into the streets. Shocks also were felt early today in Northern Nottinghamshire.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

President Coolidge proclaimed an increase in tariff rates on wheat.

Attorney-General Daugherty returned to Washington without indicating any intention of resigning.

Subpoenas were served on a number of witnesses by the senate committee in the Daugherty investigation.

The senate passed the treasury and post office department appropriation bill.

Paid-up insurance was agreed upon by the house ways and means committee as a major provision in the bonus bill.

The first test votes on Muscle Shoals in the house showed a majority of those voting on amendments to favor the Ford bid.

Representative Theodore E. Burton notified the administration that he preferred to remain in congress to being secretary of the navy.

President Coolidge, it was announced, favors the proposal in Congress for a joint resolution to make effective a 25 per cent reduction in the 1923 taxes.

Representatives Langley, of Kentucky, and Zihlman, of Maryland, denied that they had ever exercised influence improperly and Mr. Langley demanded a house investigation of rumors that his name was mentioned in connection with the Chicago grand jury report on misuse of office.

Ira E. Bennett, of the Washington Post, told the oil committee that Attorney-General Daugherty sent a reassuring message to E. B. McLean at Palm Beach, and that Senator Curtis, republican, Kansas, was the "principal" mentioned in the McLean messages. Senator Curtis, denying Bennett's testimony, demanded a hearing before the committee and Bennett will be recalled.

TWO INFANTS BURNED IN HOME AT BELCOVILLE, N. J.

Atlantic City, N. J., March 7—Left alone in their home at Belcoville, 25 miles from here, Jack and Raymond Price, infant sons of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Price, were burned to death tonight when flames originating from a charcoal burner destroyed their home. Mrs. Price had gone to a store near by and returned in time to see volunteers carry out the charred bodies of her babes.

Soldier Bonus of Paid-Up Insurance

Has Been Decided Upon by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Washington, March 7—A new form of soldier bonus with paid-up life insurance a as principal provision was decided upon today by the house ways and means committee. A proposal to include an option of full cash payments is under consideration.

Adoption of the insurance scheme definitely sidetracks the bill passed last session providing four options—cash payments to those not entitled to more than $50; adjusted service certificates, a form of deferred payments; vocational training and farm or home aid.

Proponents of the new bill argue it has a much better chance of presidential approval. The old measure was vetoed by President Harding has declared against a soldiers' bonus.

Considerable support was given today at the motion of Representative Oldfield, democrat, Arkansas, to make a full cash payment an alternate option of the measure.

A plan advanced by Representative Bacharach, republican, New Jersey, will be used by a sub-committee in working out the definite form of the insurance provision. It provides for 20 year endowment policies to all veterans who served more than 60 days. By a vote of the full committee all veterans up to and including the rank of captain in the army and marine corps and lieutenant in the navy would be included in the benefit of the measure. This provision is the same as in the old bill.

Mr. Bacharach's plan would allow policies with values figured on $2.65 for each day of service. This would cost not more than $2,000,000,000, he said, with a maximum of $73,000,000 for any one of the thirty years.

Mr. Bacharach also said he would favor placing the administration of the scheme in the hands of old line insurance firms. Some favor has been expressed toward giving control of it to the war risk insurance bureau. Adoption of the former plan, Mr. Bacharach argued, would relieve the government further administrative costs.

Upon appointment of a sub-committee hearings are planned at which insurance experts will be called.

The final draft of the bill then will be written.

Representatives Fish, New York, and Andrew, Massachusetts, republicans, also have proposed insurance policy plans similar to that of Mr. Bacharach. Mr. Fish proposed a 20-year endowment plan with policies valued at $400, for each six months of service and $1,600 as a maximum.

Final action on the measure by the committee is not expected before the middle of next week.

THREE PERSONS INDICTED FOR OBSTRUCTING JUSTICE

New York, March 7—A federal grand jury indicte dthree persons for obstructing justice and attempting, for a price of $65,000, to bribe United States Attorney General Daugherty and other government prosecutors to protect men who since have been sentenced for using the mails in a fraud which netted $175,000.

Those indicted were Thomas B. Felder, head of a well-known law firm, president of the Georgia society and defense counsel in several big bootleg liquor cases; Gaston B. Means a former agent of the department of justice and Elmer Jarnecke, secretary to Means.

Means, Jarnecke and nine others were indicted last October for using the mails to defraud and engaging in a conspiracy through which 512,000 cases and 12,000 barrels of whiskey were removed from licensed distilleries and diverted into bootleg channels, Felder is Means' attorney in the case.

Today's indictments charge the trio with having received $65,000 from officers of the Crager System, Inc., and the Glass Casket Company of Altoona, Pa., of whom 17 since have been sentenced for obtaining $175,000 in an allegedly fake stock promotion conducted through the mails.

Those besides Attorney General Daugherty whom the accused are alleged to have promised to bribe include United States District Attorney Hayward; and two of his assistants, John Holley Clark, Sr., and Peter J. McCoy.

Coolidge Favors Cut Of 1923 Income Tax

Recommends 25 Per Cent Reduction in Joint Resolution Before March 15.

Washington, March 7.—Endorsement by President Coolidge today of the proposal to remove the provision for a 25 per cent reduction in personal income taxes payable this year from the revenue bill and enact it in a joint resolution before March 15, when first installments are due, stirred up a new tax fight in the house.

Republican organization leaders indicated they would force action on the proposal, while opposition developed in the ranks of both parties.

Democrats characterized the move as preliminary to a presidential veto of the revenue bill itself, and many republicans expressed the fear that, with this provision out of the bill, it would be subject to delay in enactment.

Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, where the first action must be taken on such a resolution, delayed presenting the proposal to the committee today and declared he had heard so much opposition he felt there was little hope of getting it through in time for the March 15 payments.

Advocates of the Mellon rates, which were eliminated from the revenue bill by the house, made known an intention, however, to force action, some frankly expressing the hope that the reduction provision could be eliminated from the bill so that it would thus be left more open to veto.

President Coolidge supported the argument of the treasury in asking the action on the ground that it would eliminate confusion resulting from refunds which would be necessary if the reduction were approved after the first installments have been paid.

Meanwhile the senate finance committee, which yesterday approved the flat reduction proposal, got down to work on the revenue bill.

In order to permit further study of the income rate schedules which are in the first part of the measure, Chairman Smoot passed over these sections and took up the administrative features of the bill. Leaving for later consideration the house amendment to open tax returns to inspection by certain congressional committees, the committee made no important changes in other administrative provisions and study of these will be continued tomorrow.

Action by the committee on the income tax schedules is not expected before next week.

In connection with discussions in the house over the immediate reduction proposal, Representative Longworth, republican leader, said tonight he thought a rule could be passed giving a resolution with this provision right of way if the ways and means committee reported the resolution. This would permit quick action on the proposal.

MRS. INGRAHAM AWARDED $49,350 OF SEARLES ESTATE

Boston, March 7—A jury in United States district court today awarded a verdict of $49,350, to Mrs. H. Maude Ingraham of Methuen, in her suit to recover $100,000 from the estate of the late Edward F. Searles, millionaire recluse of that town.

The suit was brought originally by John M. Ingraham, for 30 years employe and companion of Searles, against Arthur T. Walker, of New York, executor under the Searles will. Ingraham died recently and his widow carried on the action which was based in alleged promises made to Ingraham by Searles during the latter's lifetime. Ingraham, an expert on the rebuilding of church organs, was employed in Searles' organ factory at Methuen. Witnesses at the trial testified that he had remained in his employ for many years, refusing offers of more lucrative employment on repeated promises by Searle "to take care of him for life." Ingraham was left $5,000 in Searles' will.

TARIFF RATE ON WHEAT INCREASED 12 CENTS BUSHEL

Washington, March 7.—An increase of 12 cents a bushel in the tariff rate on wheat was ordered by President Coolidge.

Acting under the flexible provision of the tariff act and on the basis of the tariff commission in recent inquiry; the president at the same time ordered an increase of 26 cents a hundred pounds in the duty on wheat flour and a decrease of 50 per cent. in the ad valorem rate on mill feeds.

The new rate on wheat will be 42 cents per bushel as compared with the present rate of 30 cents; the new rate on flour will be $1.01 per hundred pounds as compared with 78 cents, and the rate on mill feeds will be 7½ per cent ad valorem as against 15 per cent.

The new rates as ordered by the president and set forth in a formal proclamation will become effective in thirty days.

Can You Afford to Speculate?

Every time you buy something you are either speculating or making a definite investment.

Few people can afford to speculate. Yet many do it continually in making their every day purchases. And it is so unnecessary! The advertisements in The Bulletin make it easy for any one to avoid taking a chance.

The merchant or manufacturer who advertises, realizes that the good will of his customers means money in the bank to him. He knows that public confidence in his product and public respect for his own character are as valuable as his credit at the bank.

When you buy an advertised product, you can know in advance what to expect in return for your money. You can count on it being right. You are making an investment. But when you buy nameless, unbranded merchandise, you are taking a chance. Your are speculating.

Know what you buy. The Bulletin's advertisements will tell you.

PREMIER POINCARE'S VIEW OF REPARATIONS PROBLEM

Tells French Chamber of Deputies That There is Every Prospect of a Settlement Being Reached Before French Elections in May—Praised the Methods of Reparation Experts—Makes Categorical Declaration That the French Will Remain in the Ruhr Until the Reparations Payments Have Been Made in Full.

Paris, March 7.—(By the A. P.)—Premier Poincare in the chamber of deputies today said there was every prospect that a settlement of reparations will be reached before the French elections in May. He praised the methods of the experts, declaring they had faithfully executed the mission given to them, which was to inquire into Germany's present financial capacity and how the budget might be balanced, rather than to consider a reduction of Germany's debt.

He was speaking on internal politics, in reply to an interpellation by Deputy Mandel and in response to former Premier Briand's political campaign speech at Carcassone the other day, but found occasion to refer to reparations, and the occupation of the Ruhr. In answer to his adversaries' criticisms he stated categorically that the French would not give up the pledges seized in Germany's great industrial center until the reparations payments were made in their entirety.

Referring to talk of revision of the treaty of Versailles, the premier said: "Those who are working outside France for revision of the of the treaty of Versailles in favor of Germany hope for a chance in the French policy through the forthcoming elections. In fact, if certain compromises are made and the elections are held under equivocal conditions, it is possible that a revisionist or revolutionary majority may be elected to the next chamber."

This reference to a coalition of the radicals, republican socialists and socialists in the forthcoming campaign was greeted with jeers from the left and applause from the rest of the chamber.

The chamber itself, M. Poincare declared, must fix the limits of the majority from which the government in no case could that majority include either royalists or communists.

POINCARE CHALLENGES DEPUTY TO A DUEL

Paris, March 7.—(By the A. P.)—Premier Poincare today sent seconds to Gaston Le Provost de Launay, member of the chamber of deputies, to challenge the deputy to a duel because of a remark made by him at this afternoon's session, which the premier considered offensive.

M. Poincare's seconds are M. Maginot minister of war, and M. Sarraut, minister of colonies. M. De Launay named Deputies Lasteyrie and Soutar to represent him.

The seconds are hopeful that the affair will be cleared up without the necessity of a meeting between the premier and M. De Launay on the field of honor.

FORD'S MUSCLE SHOALS OFFER FINDS FAVOR IN THE HOUSE

Washington, March 7.—The house today voted down every effort to alter radically the McKenzie bill which would authorize acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals.

Amendments were rejected by majorities so decisive that leaders generally predicted that advocates of the Ford proposal not only would have the votes to pass the bill, probably tomorrow, but to maintain their air-tight defense against drastic changes in its provisions.

There is a probability that several important amendments will be adopted, but only those believed not to be distasteful to the Detroit manufacturer will be acceptable to supporters of the McKenzie bill.

Among the amendments thrown into the discard today was one offered by Representative Burton, republican, Ohio, which proposed to limit Ford's lease to fifty instead of one hundred years, as stipulated in the bill, and to place him under the jurisdiction of the federal water power act. This amendment was rejected, 182 to 104, democrats who lined up solidly against it had the support of about 40 republicans.

Another amendment thrown out, offered by Representative Williamson, republican, South Dakota, would have materially increased the amount of money Ford would be required to pay the government for the government properties at Muscle Shoals.

While there are indications that a number of amendments will be offered tomorrow those in charge of the McKenzie measure are determined to put it to a vote before the house adjourns for the week-end.

BROKER BURRILL RUSKAY FOUND GUILTY BY JURY

New York, March 7.—Burrill Ruskay, former head of the bankrupt brokerage firm of S. S. Ruskay and company, was found guilty of trading against a customer's account by a jury in the court of general sessions today.

Ruskay, whose attorney offered no defense, was specifically charged with trading against the account of Huldreich Brunner, of East Williston, L. I., in February, 1922, a few days before the firm failed for $5,000,000.

He was indicted with Eugene Greenhut, George D. Proctor and Joseph B. Sheiby, his former partners.

Shortly before the failure, it was alleged, the firm sold 210 shares of Mexican Petroleum at $120.75 a share, thus taking a position against Mr. Brunner, who two days before had ordered the firm to buy for him 200 shares of this stock at $123.75 a share.

The state contended that neither of these transactions represented any real buying and selling because no stock was delivered.

HARTFORD DEMOCRATS RENOMINATE KINSELLA

Hartford, March 7.—The democratic city convention at the Hotel Garde tonight renominated Mayor Richard J. Kinsella for mayor. It is his fifth mayoralty nomination. He received the news by telegram at Atlantic City, where he has been resting since Sunday. Threatened opposition to City Trasurer Charles H. Slocum and Collector Otis J. Hart republicans, who have been endorsed for many years by both parties did not materialize.

MINNESOTA DELEGATION ASSURED FOR COOLIDGE

St. Paul, Minn., March 7.—Minnesota's delegation to the republican national convention will be favorable to the nomination of Calvin Coolidge for president, with a majority of the twenty-seven delegates definitely instructed for him.

This was assured today when congressional district conventions selected sixteen delegates. Four delegates were chosen Wednesday and seven delegates at large will be named by the state convention here tomorrow.

AIRSHIPS GUIDED BY RADIO FIRST TIME IN HISTORY

Dayton, March 7.—For the first time in history airships have been guided from one point to another by means of radio. This was accomplished at Wilbur Wright Field yesterday when Captain W. H. Murphy, McCook field and Lieutenant R. E. Robillard, of the Post lighter than air section piloted the blimp C-B-1 in a straight course by means of radio signals, it became known today.

FORMALITIES PRIOR TO PRIVATE CONSISTORY

Rome, March 7. (By the A. P.)—Strenuous days lie ahead for Archbishop Hayes and Archbishop Mundelein on their arrival in Rome to be accorded the high recognition that Catholic church is to bestow upon them—elevation to the cardinalate.

Numerous formalities rae to be exchanged by the American prelates and the members of the sacred college, such as visits and receptions, prior to the secret consistory on March 24, when they will be elevated to the cardinalate, and the public consistory on March 27, when they will formally receive their red hats.

Officials of the league here would not give any indication as to who Mr. Baker's successor might be.

WOULD STOP "DRY" AGENTS PURCHASING EVIDENCE

Washington, March 7.—A provision aimed at the purchase of "evidence" by prohibition agents was inserted in the treasury appropriation bill today just before its passage by the senate.

It was offered by Senator Broussard, democrat, Louisiana, and declares that no funds shall be used for "committing a violation of the prohibition laws" or for securing their violation.

American Society Woman Off On Tiger Hunt

COPYRIGHT UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD, N. Y.

Five thrilling adventures in her life, each of which came within a hair of causing her death, have failed to dampen the enthusiasm of Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, of New York City and "De Winton," Greenwich, Ct., and she has just left London, where she has been visiting, to hunt tigers in India. Although it is a dangerous exploit, Mrs. Seton's friends feel confident she will return safe after capturing at least one royal Bengal tiger alive and killing another one second handed, as the five previous narrow escapes seem to indicate a charmed life. Mrs. Seton, who was formerly Grace Gallatin —of one of New York's oldest and most prominent families—is the wife of the well-known naturalist and writer.

WILLIMANTIC

The official board of the Methodist Episcopal church held a meeting at the church Thursday evening at which plans for the fiscal year were made. The board members and their wives, numbering 35 were served a delicious covered dish supper by the Ladies' Aid society and the the sorority of the church. W. C. Norris and the pastor, Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead, gave brief talks.

Business conditions at the Holland Silk Manufacturing company plant are improving. Following a few weeks' work on a curtailed schedule, the finishing and dyeing departments this week returned to the regular schedule, forty-eight hours a week.

A three-act farce comedy, "A Regiment of Two" was presented in the vestry of the Methodist church Friday evening before a large attendance by members of the Epworth league. The play kept the audience in laughter throughout. Two married men claim to belong to a regiment in order to deceive their wives and get two nights off a week to attend sessions of the Tigers' club. They also have two weeks each year in which to go on a fishing trip. The regiment goes to camp in the summer and later is called to war, in which all the members are killed, according to dispatches. When a later report comes to the effect that the previous ones are untrue, the men are placed in a dilemma. Many interesting and amusing situations arise until affairs are finally straightened out. The members of the cast included: Charles Meade, Claude Ide, Howard and Charles Haling, Leonard Clough, Channing Merrill, Miss Ruth M. Nue, Miss Mildred Johnson, Mrs. Alice Clough Couchon and Miss Doris Easterbrooks.

A new Cadillac motor ambulance has arrived for St. Joseph's hospital and will be operated by Nelson & Lee. The vehicle is up-to-date in every respect and is a pleasing equipment to the hospital equipment.

Ernest F. Gates, deputy collector of internal revenue, on duty at Room 1 in the town building stated Friday afternoon that in anticipation of a rush of business, the hours for next week would be increased. The office will be opened at 9 a. m. and remain so until 5 p. m. each day. It is possible that at the end of the week, the office will also be open in the evening.

Frederick H. Sirbaric, formerly of this city, now of Bridgeport, directed a minstrel show in the Park city recently, which was a great success. Mr. Birbaric is a graduate of Windham High school.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Loomis Reed were held at her home in Chaplin Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. John H. Knott, pastor of Chaplin Congregational church officiated. The bearers were Harold M. Reed, Lewellyn M. Reed, Ward L. Reed and Edward B. Wagg. Burial was in Chaplin cemetery. The J. C. Lincoln Company was in charge of the arrangements.

Announcement was made Friday of the marriage of Roderick G. Dion, son of Mayor Hormisdas Dion and Mrs. Loretta Routhier Gaucher, two well know local young people. The ceremony took place at St. Mary's church Thursday evening, February 28, at 7:30 o'clock and was performed by Rev. W. Arthur Routhier, of Putnam, brother of the bride. The witnesses were Rev. Rev. J. J. Papillon and Nazaire Routhier, another brother of the bride. The groom is proprietor of a local bakery business.

It is believed that the alterations and improvements underway at the First Baptist church since last summer, will be completed in time for the reopening of the church at Easter time. The interior of the auditorium is finished in so far as he floor, walls and ceilings are concerned. There still remains the cleaning and revarnishing of the pews and wainscotting. Considerable of the work has been done on the ground floor. The entrance to the church has been lowered to the sidewalk level and the stairs from the auditorium rearranged. The west side of the vestry has been partitioned off into church class rooms of good size, still leaving the vestry large enough for church gatherings. As it is now, there are eight separate rooms on the ground floor.

It was expected that the work would be done in time for Christmas but delays in receiving materials caused the delay. Since last September the members of the church have been holding services at the Y. M. C. A.

The March session of Willimantic Ministers' union is to be held at the South Coventry Congregational church Monday forenoon at 10.30 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. Charles G. Johnson will be the host at luncheon. Rev. Arthur W. Clifford, pastor of the Windham Center Congregational church will preside at the meeting. A report given by the advertising committee will be followed by a discussion as to the advisability of the churches in this vicinity uniting in a system of church advertising. There will also be a report on the immigration question to learn if the members favor restricted or unrestricted immigration. Rev. William Martin Brown of Windham Center will give a book review, his subject being A Rich and Varied Experience. Rev. W. C. Rainsford will deliver an address.

Lieut. Frank McLean of the local police department, who has been confined to his home on West Main street the first part of the week by illness, has made a quick recovery and will report for duty tonight.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians plans the annual entertainment on St. Patrick's day, according to an announcement made Friday by Mrs. Ellis Lynch, chairman of the committee of arrangements. The first part will be devoted to a production by local amateurs. The cast will number 25 well known local people and the program will include dancing and vocal and instrumental selections. Two big time vaudeville acts have also been engaged.

It is understood that local people have been victimized through their connections with G. F. Redmond & Company of Boston. The Boston firm has been strained from doing business in Massachusetts after an involuntary petition in bankruptcy had been filed against it by three creditors. The charge had been made that the firm was operating a bucket shop. It is understood that one local man stands to lose close to $3000.

"Good Fellowship night" as held at the First Congregational church house Thursday evening under the direction of a social committee, was a decided success. Music was furnished by the Peerless quartet, Ralph Gibson, violin; Gaylord Matteson, saxophone; E. Bullard Jones, piano and Billy Taylor, drums. Mrs. Arthur J. Dubreuil was at the piano. There were two plays presented by casts from Connecticut Agricultural college. They were: How He Lied to Her Husband, by G. Bernard Shaw, cvharacters, The Youth, F. E. Sweet; The Woman, Phyllis Smith; The Husband, H. A. Seckerson. and Suppressed Desires, the characters in which were Henrietta Stellenwerf, Mabel, Marie Bronson and Steve, Russell White.

The Temple male quartet sang, Song of the Sea, which was well received. Dancing and cards were enjoyed. About three hundred people were in attendance. Following the entertainment, ice cream and cake were served in the chapel.

AFTER BABY WAS BORN

Back Weak and Painful. Mrs. Miller Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rotan, Tex.—"I am writing to let you know how I have been benefited by taking your medicine. After my second baby was born my back was weak and hurt me continually, so I thought I'd try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I had read so much about what it had helped so many women. I had been bothered with my back for over a year, and it would hurt me until I could not do my work, which is keeping house for three and cooking and washing dishes. I tell all my friends if they have any kind of female trouble to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. You may use this testimonial if it will help any one."—Mrs. C. R. MILLER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 76, Rotan, Texas.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 121,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

WESTERLY

The twenty-ninth annual meeting of Westerly Cycle club was held in their rooms on Main street Friday evening. This social society of Westerly was founded in 1895 when bicycling was the rage and has continued to flourish even after the mode of locomotion which called it into existence has rolled on. Although appealing to social activities, nevertheless its members are inclined to charitable deeds in quiet ways, where need exists. At one time the club stood sponsor for a number of Fresh Air children from New York. It numbers today 214 active members, with thirty or thirty-five honoraries. The present of the club for the past three years has been George Elmer Leonard. John Payne presided at the election Friday night. The reports of the treasurer, secretary and committees showed the club to be in prosperous condition.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Bernard J. Christy. Vice President Frank E. Collins; Treasurer, Frank L. Friend; Secretary, Ernest N. Gully; Pool committee, Joseph Lew; Board of Directors, Alan A. Palmiter and George E. Leonard. The newly elected president, Bernard J. Christy, has been a member of the Cycle club for fifteen years and most active in its social events and entertainments.

There was no court session of the Third district court Friday morning. Clerk M. Walter Flynn read the following:

New writes, C. W. Willard Hardware Co. vs. Charles M. Saunders, alias of Richmond, R. I.; The Acorn Refining Co. of Cleveland, O., vs. Henry N. Girard, alias of Richmond, R. I.; Cases were continued one week in the following civil docket as read: Ledyard S. Anthony of North Stonington vs. Le Roy Talbot; Whiten Machine Co., of Whitinsville, Mass., vs. William McKenzie; Cornelius H. Conway of New Haven, vs. Thomas A. Buell; Antonio Panciera et al (Granite Street Garage) vs. William F. Loudon; Philip Goldberg vs. Antonio Antoch; Westerly Furniture Co. vs. Frank Chimento.

All other cases were continued. District court session are usually marked by their brevity when the superior court for Washington county is in session in the court house on Union street as most of the attorneys are engaged in cases in the higher court.

Ralph E. Steadman of Beach St., a mechanic in the employ of the Shore Line Electric Company, who was injured Tuesday night while engaged in getting a derailed electric car back on the track between Potter Hill and Ashaway, is recovering following a surgical operation. While the car was jacked up in some way the car became loosened and coming down caught Steadman's right thumb and crushed it. Dr. C. Grant Savage was called and found it necessary to amputate the member which had to be cut near the palm of the hand. He was assisted in the operation by Dr. Michael H. Scanlon

At the home of Albert B. Smith, Jr. and Mrs. Ellen W. Blake, 17 Tower street, on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Elizabeth Cook, a nurse, slipped on the floor and fell. She sustained a colles fracture, the two bones just above the wrist and a painful injury which will require some time to become well. Dr. C. Grant Savage was called and reduced the fracture.

Joseph Scott, 7, son of Robert Scott, of 12 Greenman avenue, slipped and fell as he took just two steps outside the back door of his home. An allecreson process injury was sustained, a dislocation of the ulner, at the left elbow. Dr. C. Grant Savage gave temporary medical treatment. The injured boy was taken by his father on the 4.44 express to the Rhode Island hospital, Providence, for surgical attention.

Dr. James H. Weeks of Stonington addressed the March meeting of Westerly Historical society, Thursday night, at the assembly hall in the Wilcox Memorial and Public library building. Dr. Weeks' theme was the life story of Capt. Nathaniel Palmer, a young whaling captain from Stonington, who sailed to the Antarctic waters in search of seals. While on a trip to these waters, the Antarctic continent was discovered by him, and before a Russian admiral, with a whole fleet at his command, was able to locate the land at the command of his czar. Dr. Weeks is a most interesting speaker on whaling topics and is the possessor of many whaling weapons and implements.

Friday, the fifth day of the Westerly session of the February term of superior court for Washington county, began with the case of Anna M. Ledestri et al vs. Delia Richards, alias, a case of trespass and ejectment from property before Judge Sumners. The case was appealed from the Third District court.

Mrs. Delia Richards, the defendant, who resides at 131 Canal street, testified that Nov. 7, 1923, representations were made to her by Natale Ledestri, agent for the property, that she owed five weeks rent. A notice to quit the premises was served on her by Constable Burke, Nov. 8th and she sent her daughter Eva after Myra Palazzolo, another married daughter, residing at 26 Noyes avenue.

Myra Palazzo testified that her mother gave her $10 to pay five weeks rent which she did and obtained receipt, shown in court, also made a payment of $60 of her own money for 10 weeks in advance and obtained a receipt slip for $60 also produced in court. Witness was unable to read English but readily understood and spoke English, French and Italian.

A jury was empanelled to try the case of Antamasio Grasso vs Antonio Fiore, in which suit is brought to collect $500 damages and losses sustained when two automobiles collided Dec. 14, at the junction of School street and Chestnut avenue. The jury with the court officials visited the location of the accident with attorneys Ferguson for Grasso and Gallagher for Fiore. Two witnesses were placed on the stand and testified, before court adjourned to Monday morning next. They were Arthur Grasso, plaintiff, and Police Patrolman George H. Champlin. The case is one appealed from the Third District court when a verdict was given for the plaintiff. Empire Cream Separator Co. vs C. Palmer Chapman, is the case on the Westerly trial calendar to follow the Grasso-Fiore suit.

Aldes Richards, a sister of Myra testified to accompanying her sister to the store where payment was made to Mr. Ledestri, her sister talking Italian with him which she did not understand, but knew her sister paid the money there being present at the time beside the sisters and Mr. Ledestri, Mr. Blanda, the butcher and the drummer, Mr. Brown, who had testified previously. The spare jurors were excused until 2 p. m. Mr. Gallagher made his plea for the defendant and was followed by Attorney Roche for the plaintiff. The judge charged the jury and they retired at 1.55.

At 2.25 the jury returned with a verdict for the defendant.

BREED THEATRE

The screen version of David Belasco's stage success, "The Governor's Lady," has been made into a special production for William Fox by Harry Millarde, the man who made Over the Hill, and If Winter Comes. On the stage the play was a tremendous success and enjoyed an unusually long run.

The Governor's Lady, from the pen of Alice Bradley, is a powerful story, dealing with all the romantic growth of a man who completes his education through his work and contact with big people. His wife is slow in adapting herself to his rapid development. This situation brings out a series of intensely dramatic incidents that have been presented forcefully in the picture.

The story is one that has its parallel in real life, not only in political circles but in the lives of big business executives and professional men. "Its fidelity to life is photographic," said the critics, following the Broadway production of the play. The same was said and written when the production went on the road.

The cast includes Robert T. Haines in the role of the Governor and Jane Grey in the title role. Other principals are Ann Luther, Frazer Coulter and Leslie Austen. The Governor's Lady comes to the Breed theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Other pictures on the bill include Frogland, an exquisite exemplification of the plastic art, Topics of the Day and Educational comedy.

Today's bill consists of Wallace Beery in Richard, the Lion-Hearted the fourth chapter of The Way of a Man, the Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy. Continuous show today from 1:30 to 10:15.

Palace Theatre

A photoplay which the Palace theatre management announces is out of the beaten track, dealing as it does with youthful faiths and fancies diverted by the grim touch of fate, is offered motion picture fans in "Lucretia Lombard," the screen adaptation of Kathleen Norris' "best seller," which captivated millions of readers by its unique treatment of the triangle.

The cast is headed by Irene Rich and Monte Blue, who are co-starred in this production. Both are remembered for their brilliant performances, intelligent understanding and team work in "Brass." Each is gifted with sympathetic insight into the roles they are cast for, and their work in this picture is said to be no exception to their previous achievements.

Monte Blue and Irene Rich are supported by the following cast: Marc McDermott, Alec B. Francis, John Roche, Lucy Beaumont, Otto Hoffman and Norman Shearer. The direction of this Warner Brothers classic.

The second feature, "The Clean Up" starring Herbert Rawlinson who plays the part of Monte Bixby who never had to work a day in his life. As a social butterfly he irritated his grandfather; that's why a town was wrecked, a romance broken up before it got dangerous—and out of the melee, a real man was made from a very useless sort of he-flapper.

Other short subjects will also be shown.

San Carlo Opera Company

First class grand opera, as presented in New York and other metropolitan centers, is a decided novelty for Norwich, and when such a representative company as the famous San Carlo comes this way, the efforts of those instrumental in bringing it here should be backed to the limit. The Palace theatre management showed more than just an enterprising spirit in booking the San Carlo (at great expense) for Monday night.

Remember the place, the Palace; the date, Monday evening, March 10. There will be only this one performance.

The opera to be given here will be Puccini's celebrated oriental masterpiece, "Madame Butterfly," the libretto based on John Luther Long's novel of the same name. "Madame Butterfly" is one of the recognized "great" operas, and is given many times each season in the repertoire of all the world's foremost opera companies.

A brilliant cast will be headed here by Tamaki Miura, world famous Japanese prima donna, who has sung the role nearly a thousand times. Mme. Miura is the very incarnation of winsomeness and daintiness, and her mannerisms in the Japanese style never fail to captivate her audiences.

In her support Mme. Miura will have as leading tenor the handsome young American Colin O'More, who makes a perfect stage picture as the United States naval lieutenant. His voice is rich and mellow, and projects wonderfully in the exquisite "Butterfly" music. Elvira Leveroni will be the Suzuki; Graham Marr the consul and Maestro Aldo Franchetti, the conductor. There will be the special scenery, a large orchestra and chorus.

Broadway Theatre

Cold that shrunk the mercury down to zero-minus degrees! Shrieking snow! An icy gale, terrific, bursting, laden with stinging arrows of sleet! Does that give the reader a chill and a stir of blood that recalls those record, death-dealing blizzards our North Atlantic states sometimes have in winter, worse than the terrible cold of the Arctic?

For the "real" sensation, and so many other thrills that only "seeing is believing," one must go to the Broadway theatre today and witness "Judgment of the Storm," the Palmer Photoplay Corporation's initial screen production.

The whole dramatic climax of this powerful story, written by Mrs. Ethel Styles Middleton, is staged in a terrific blizzard of the sort described. In emphasizing the thrills and realness of the storm, however, one must not overlook the fact that it is only one point of interest in a picture filled with startling contrasts, gripping situations and spectacular effects, superimposed upon the foundation of a powerfully dramatic story.

Do you like love stories? One of the most beautiful and most sweetly thrilling of them all is a vital element in "Judgment of the Storm." And does strong emotional drama fit your taste or mood? "Judgment of the Storm" is full of it. Do you like powerful, but deliciously human realism in your shadowstage bill of fare? "Judgment of the Storm" is that. And imagine for your love hero, Lloyd Hughes, the screen's newest matinee idol with charming Lucille Ricksen, another "rising star" of screendom, opposite! Add George Hackathorn, Myrtle Stedman, and Phil McCullough as principals of the supporting cast, and Bruce Gordon, Claire McDowell, little Fay McKenzie and little Frankie Darro, in important roles, and a fair idea is gained of the most important elements of the first Palmer screen play.

Powerful stories have become associated with the "homespun" variety of production of late, because of the success of several pictures of this type, but "Judgment of the Storm" with its contrasting lavishness of ultra-metropolitan life and its spectacular snowstorm balancing the farm scenes proves conclusively that a powerful story, garb it technically how you will. It was directed by Del Andrews, and photographed by Max Du Pont.

This photodrama will also be seen Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

A comedy and Kinogram will make up the short subjects.

GREAT INTEREST SHOWN IN COMING TRADE SHOW

Thus early practically all the space at the Norwich state armory has been sold for the trade show to be conducted by the United Commercial Travelers of Eastern Connecticut.

The exhibits will cover a wide variety of business. Lines already booked cover an automobile section, flower show and nursery stock, beverages, musical instruments, household appliances, food show, office equipment, photography, heating, lighting, trucking, radio, furniture, insurance, trade publication. The Norwich council, U. C. T., are a very active organization and will have space at their fair to explain the advantages of membership with them. The management will be under M. F. E. Rockwood, who was here last year with the Norwich Merchants' and Manufacturers' exhibition.

SUNDAY Y. M. C. A. SPEAKER ON RELIGION AND SCIENCE

The men and women of Norwich and vicinity have a real opportunity tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon at 4 o'clock at the local Young Men's Christian association to hear an unusual man speak on the question being discussed in many quarters at this time, namely, Science and Religion—Do They Agree? Prof. M. A. Honline of California, who is one of the most practical religious teachers of today, and who has long studied religion in its relation to science, will speak on the topic mentioned. It is unusual to hear a discussion of this topic by a man who is thoroughly competent to do so because of his close study through many years. It is expected that a large audience will greet Dr. Honline on this occasion.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SO THIS IS LONDON

So This Is London, George M. Cohan's great international comedy hit, that played twelve months at the Hudson theatre, New York City and is now the outstanding success of the season at the Prince of Wales theatre in the British metropolis, comes to Broadway theatre, Wednesday March 12, for an engagement of one night only.

Mr. Cohan has provided this laughing triumph of two continents with a superb cast of clever Cohan comedians who scored a phenomenal success in the piece last season, notably during the record-breaking run of over four solid months at the Cohan's Grand in Chicago. In this captivating comedy of international appeal, we see ourselves as others see us, and amid whirlwinds of wholesome laughter at the vageries of the Britishers, we see the always good-natured shafts of satirical humor suddenly turned upon the other fellow, and get the English view point, only to find that under the surface, there are virtually the same sterling qualities that prove the English speaking race, on both sides of the broad Atlantic, to be really very much alike. It is the continual contrast of the Briton's idea of what he thinks Americans are like, and our notion of what we have pictured the English, that provokes the endless chain of laughs. The scenes are laid in England, while the story of the play centers upon a love affair which involves the families, of an American millionaire and of a British peer. They instinctively dislike each other and when it becomes known to them that the son and daughter of their respective houses have fallen in love, there is a fine conflict until the temperamental turmoil is smoothed out by a thorough-going diplomat, in the person of a sympathetic British matron who was born in America. Finally the difficulties are all adjusted, the American eagle and the British lion shake hands and all is forgiven, when both families agree that they have been entirely in error in their mutual dislike and distrust of each other.

The March meeting of the Woman's Guild will be held at the Community House, at half past three on Friday afternoon, when the Camp-Fire girls will have charge of the program and give a Ceremonial meeting. All women of the parish and all mothers of the Camp-Fire girls are most cordially invited.

FAMILY WELFARE DEPARTMENT APPEALS FOR CLOTHING

The family welfare department of the United Workers appeals to its friends who have never failed it. It has a great need of clothing for women and children and for men especially. Now is the time to clear out closets and bureau drawers and to send a message to 879-3 to call for the package. For such response you may be sure of the gratitude of the department and its clients.

Park Congregational Church

DANIELSON

That there may be no misunderstanding on the part of the public, it may be said that the Merchants' committee of the chamber of commerce is not to be held responsible for the adverse vote of the chamber on the matter of granting a weekly half-holiday throughout the year. Members of the merchants' committee said Friday that between the time they were notified as to what was expected of them—last Saturday—and Tuesday noon, when their report was to be made at the chamber of commerce luncheon they did not have the necessary time to make a canvass of the business houses to ascertain the feeling on the half-holiday proposal and did not attempt such canvass, and the luncheon meeting was so informed, they state.

Members of this committee and other business men made it clear Friday that they are not opposed to allowing their clerks a half-holiday. The strength of the opposition is directed against closing stores a half-day each week, and that opposition is apparently very well justified and is unlikely to be overcome. Clerks in any given establishment may negotiate with the employer for the half-holiday. It is indicated that it will be granted in a very considerable number of instances.

John F. Lewis, formerly owner and manager of theaters in Danielson, Rockville and other places in Connecticut, announced Friday that he has purchased the business of the Keystone Braid company of 7 Beverly street, Providence. The concern is a going one with a well established trade. Shoestrings and corset lacings are the principal output of the concern, which is equipped, however, to turn out elastic webbing, rick-rack and other such products. Mr. Lewis will continue to make his home in Danielson, though giving his daily attention to the business. It is possible, if future circumstances warrant, that the business will be removed to Danielson. Mr. Lewis has that in mind, but for an indefinite period the plant will continue to be located in Providence, where Mr. Lewis formerly was engaged in business.

Milton Reed of Boston has been in Danielson visiting with his father, John E. Reed, who is seriously ill.

Large numbers attended the Friday evening Lenten service at St. James' church.

Philip Roberge, ill with pneumonia, was reported Friday as slightly improved, but not yet out of danger.

Miss Grace Spalding will have charge of a meeting of the W. C. T. U. to be held Tuesday afternoon next at the home of Mrs. Oliver P. Bartlett.

James Harney, who has been ill the past week, was reported Friday as improving.

Rev. E. U. Hatfield of Westerly, a former pastor here, was greeted by many old friends while he was in Danielson Friday.

These are the days when men who own horses find their revenues increased through a demand for their services in hauling stalled automobiles out of the mud on country highways.

A joint meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and the Ladies' Sewing circle of St. Alban's church was held on Friday afternoon with Mrs. John T. Ashworth.

The Federated Society of Missions in prayer for missions met Friday afternoon at the Congregational church.

Chief A. Putnam Woodward, of the Danielson fire department will be at Providence this afternoon, the guest of the chief of the East Providence fire department at an official test of a new pumper.

As examples of the types of lights that would have been installed in Danielson's business section, had a special borough meeting, called last fall, approved, the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company has installed four of these 400-candle power lights at points along Main street. The lights are being run at no additional cost over the regular 80-candle power light in so far as the borough is concerned and are in use merely for demonstration purposes. Every citizen now has the opportunity to judge for himself or herself the difference between the two types of lights. The new lights throw out a powerful white glow.

A week from today is the time limit for the use of certain types of motor vehicle headlight lenses that are to be classed thereafter by the state motor vehicle department as illegal. Lists of these condemned lenses have been furnished to all owners of motor vehicles in Connecticut and the list has previously been published in this paper. If any of these obsolete lenses are found on cars in use in the night season after March 15 the drivers will be liable to prosecution for operating cars or other motor vehicles not properly equipped. Officers at the state barracks on North Main street are prepared to furnish information relative to approved lenses as well as relative to lenses that are to be banned in this state.

Relatives and many friends, including delegations from Moriah lodge, No. 15, A. F. and A. M., The Bohemian club and Putnam lodge of Elks were at the Baptist church at 3 o'clock, Friday afternoon, to attend funeral services for Herbert E. Barber. Rev. Byron U. Hatfield of Westerly, formerly of Danielson Baptist church, conducted the funeral service. During the service the quartet of Moriah lodge sang Beautiful Isle of Somewhere and Rock of Ages. The quartet is made up of Elijah Barriman, Sidney P. Marland, Earl Winslow and John T. Ashworth.

Burial was in Evergreen cemetery, Central Village, where the Masonic burial service was conducted by Frank E. Kennedy, master of Moriah lodge, and Harry Brearly, chaplain. The bearers were Attorney E. L. Darbie, Arthur W. Williams, Judge W. Fenner Woodward, Howard Burdick, Charles E. Franklin and Alfred L. Reed.

Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

There were beautiful floral pieces, including remembrances from the Larkin Reed company, the fraternal organizations of which Mr. Barber was a member and from relatives and friends.

Of the $35,000 in back taxes due the town of Killingly when James R. Walsh took the books a few months ago, between $9,000 and $10,000 has been collected by Mr. Walsh. At present he is steadily engaged in sending out notices to delinquent taxpayers and endeavoring to reduce the amount outstanding on tax arrearages to the lowest possible figure. It may be impossible to collect some of the long overdue taxes, but there is a prospect of getting probably as much as $30,000 out of the amount due when the present collectorship started. Many who have owed taxes have responded to the request that they be paid. Others who have been sent notices have seen fit to ignore them, leaving the collector no other course than to proceed as the statutes provide for collections in such cases.

Just ahead are the caucuses at which the republicans and democrats of Killingly will name their delegations to the state conventions of their parties that will name the delegates to the national conventions, the republican national convention to be held in Cleveland and the democratic in New York.

The roll call and supper at the Baptist church is to be held on Tuesday evening next, Rev. C. S. Nightingale of the Baptist church at Moosup will be the speaker.

As soon as frost is out of the ground a project forecasted in this column last fall will be undertaken by the Eastern Connecticut Power company—the laying of a high pressure gas main between Danielson and Putnam. This will insure uniform gas pressure and allow of doing away with the gas manufacturing plant maintained by the local subsidiary of the concern.

PUTNAM

At a special sitting of the superior court, criminal side, in Putnam Friday morning, George Rondeau, 30, of Willimantic, was sentenced to one year in jail, and Homer Lavoie, also of Willimantic, 20 years of age, was sentenced to the state reformatory. Both pleaded guilty to breaking and entering on two counts.

The breaks occurred in Willimantic, the first on the night of January 13th, when they broke into the dry goods store of the H. C. Murray Company and took $120, six watches, rings a fountain pen and some small articles of jewelry, and the second at the Tubridy-Weldon store where they were discovered by one of the clerks and placed under arrest by an officer.

In imposing sentence on Lavoie, Judge Hinman said that he had learned that Lavoie had been an inmate of the reform school, that since he was discharged he had no regular occupation and had a tendency to try to get along by getting "easy money". The judge told the young man that he could not expect to get along that way and he thought that the best thing for him, Lavoie, and for society as well was that he be put in some place where he could be taught something useful and something that would enable him to get an honest living.

In taking up the case of Rondeau, Judge Hinman said the disposition of this case was a little more difficult. As far as he had learned Rondeau had never been in trouble before and has family responsibility. (The man has a wife and seven children). The unfortunate part of it was that the family would be made to suffer and, "it is only due to that", said Judge Hinman, "that I do not send you to state prison. Your family responsibility saves you and I hope when you get out you will make an honest living and take care of those dependent upon you."

Previous to the criminal session there was a short calendar session and assignment of cases. The court granted a foreclosure of mortgage to William Guss of Sag Harbor, L. I., against Anastasian Lobar of Sterling. The claim is for $3500. Defendant was allowed until the third Monday in April to redeem.

Cases were assigned as follows: Putnam, March 11, first case, Batcheider & Snyder Co., vs. Mary Jasmin; 2nd, Joseph Bednars vs. Philip Dudek; 3rd, William E. Moss vs. Fred D. Bernard; 4th, Almon C. Jackson vs. Peter A. Gardner.

Putnam, March 12th, first case, David Bassen vs. Benjamin Goodman; 2nd, George W. Hazzard vs. Mabel E. Hazzard.

Willimantic, March 18th, first case, Louis J. Coriarty vs. Ike Rosen; 2nd, Eben G. Chapell vs. Harris J. Hurlburt; 3rd, Carl A. Stahnke vs. Harriet J Stahnke.

Special Wednesday, March 19th, at Willimantic, George Gerber and Company vs. George J. Bedard.

As only one case was claimed for the jury this case was not assigned.

P. J. Ryan, of Woodstock avenue, went to New York, Wednesday, on account of the serious illness of his mother. Thursday morning Mrs. Ryan received a telegram to come on, as Mrs. Ryan was very ill. She left on the New York express at ten o'clock.

Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock has sent out invitations to a small party of friends of her husband to be present at a dinner she is giving for him at the home on Church street on the evening of St. Patrick's Day.

At a stated communication of the Quinebaug Lodge of Masons, Thursday evening, the entered apprentice degree was worked and matters relating to the new hospital at the Masonic Home in Wallingford were discussed.

A friend in Putnam has just received a post card from Andrew Hyde, at one time a well known resident of this city. Mr. Hyde has been abroad for some years in relation to patent rights he is trying to secure. The post card is dated at Biskra, Algeria, Africa, Oasis of Saharah. He speaks of barter and sale of wives among the people but personally he says that even for from $20 to $50 per wife he thinks they are expensive, for the people are a dirty set and at the public bath house, when they take their annual, they are scraped like the farmers scrape hogs in New England. Camel meat as a substitute for beefsteak is not in the same class. While not unpleasantly tough there is no taste to camel and he prefers camel cigarettes to camel steak. Mr. Hyde says nothing about when he expects to return.

It has become known that Magloire Wilmette, 68, whose funeral was held yesterday, died as the result of a dose of Paris green self administered. Not in good health Mr. Wilmette had been heard to say that he was tired of living and Tuesday night took the potion that ended his life.

When he was discovered suffering acutely he admitted what he had done to members of the family. A physician was summoned and used heroic methods to save the man's life, but he died Wednesday morning.

Mr. Wilmette was a native of Quebec. He was a mill worker and had lived in various mill towns of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. On account of ill health he came to Putnam several months ago to make his home, with his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Gorman, on Mill St., where he died.

With the closing of school, Friday afternoon, Principal John J. O'Brien ended his duties at Israel Putnam school and left Putnam for Boston. He is to become sub-master at the Thomas Gardner school in Allston. The school is a part of the Boston school system and Mr. O'Brien has been on the eligible list of the Boston schools for some time. His appointment came after a competitive examination and a personal investigation of his work by a Boston school supervisor.

Had he remained in Putnam, O'Brien would have finished four years as principal this coming June. His work was most satisfactory to the school committee and parents and he was liked, respected and obeyed by the pupils. All are sorry to see him go while realizing that his new position is one of deserved advancement.

Miss Nellis Stone of Newburyport, Mass., will substitute as principal the rest of the term of three weeks and at the beginning of the new term Owen J. White will assume his new position.

Friday afternoon the teachers in Israel Putnam school presented Mr. O'Brien a fine traveling set and the pupils gave him a gold knife. There was an interchange of best wishes between principal, teachers and pupils before Mr. O'Brien left the school house.

May Be Financial Dictator To Hungary

Reports are rife that W. P. G. Harding, former Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, of Boston, Mass., is to be chosen by the League of Nations body as the Financial Dictator, when a loan is granted to Hungary. Mr. Harding's name has been mentioned for some time, but no official proof has as yet been forthcoming.

HARTFORD TROLLEY HEARING TO BE LARGELY ATTENDED

(Special to the Bulletin)

Putnam, March 7—Business and manufacturing interests along the trolley line of the Connecticut Company from Plainfield on the south to North Grosvenordale on the north will be represented at a hearing to be held before the public utilities commission at Hartford next Tuesday.

Those who attend will drop their personal affairs to perform a public service in doing all possible to see that trolley service in this corner of the state is not discontinued. The hearing will be one of the largest ever held before the commission for nearly all of the cities and towns in the state served by the Connecticut Company, will be represented.

On the face of the situation it would appear that the hearing has to do with a five cent trolley fare on the lines of the Connecticut company but those who have studied the question feel that there is a very grave possibility at the bottom of the case and that is the possibility that if the request of the urban population for a five cent fare is granted the Connecticut Company will attempt to get an order or the permission of the public utilities commission to discontinue those suburban lines that are not being operated at a profit. The trolley line running the Quinebaug valley as far north as the Massachusetts line is one of these. It is maintained only at a considerable loss to the company. The importance of the hearing to the suburban communities is therefore vital to their welfare.

The matter has been taken up by the Putnam Chamber of Commerce and by the common council of the city. President A. Newton Vaughn of the former body has communicated with all of the towns and villages in the valley with the result that all will have delegates present at the hearing. Mayor Chapdelaine and members of the common council will attend and it is the desire of those who have the matter in charge that as large a delegation as possible be present, so that the feeling of the people of this section may be emphasized beyond a doubt. The Putnam Rotary Club has also interested itself in the matter and is back of the movement to keep the trolleys running through Putnam, one hundred per cent. strong.

PENDLETON HILL

A reception was given in grange hall at North Stonington, Tuesday night by friends of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Thompson, in honor of their tenth wedding anniversary and Mr. Thompson's birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were wholly unaware of the plan but rallied to the situation. In accordance with tradition a tin shower was given them and they received many useful utensils as gifts. Refreshments were served and all had a most enjoyable evening.

The Ladies' Aid society meeting at the home of Miss Carrie Ryder on Wednesday proved very pleasant.

The Pendleton Hill road is in bad condition and traveling is difficult.

A dance held in the Palmer Brown house Saturday night was well attended.

J. Elwood Miner and family have moved to North Stonington village.

Miss Christie Palmer has returned home after a week's visit with relatives in Webster, Mass.

MYSTIC

Robins, bluebirds and song sparrows have been heard, the grinder of scissors and other implements made his first appearance for the season on Thursday, fruit trees are being pruned and sprayed, people are having the usual spring repairing attended to, marbles are being played by the boys, housecleaning is in progress in some households, and last, but not least, a band of gypsies stopped in the village Thursday afternoon before proceeding to Poquonnoc plains where they made camp at the foot of Fort Hill. No one has been seen doing any planting as yet but those who have gardens are studying seed catalogues diligently.

A party is to be given next Tuesday evening at the Community House for the Pithecanthropuserectus club, which is composed of young men and who have set aside one night a month in which they work for the house. Last week they helped serve and clean up after the supper which the activities committee served for the Rod and Gun club. Each young man has the privilege of asking a young lady to the party Tuesday evening and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Harrison and Secretary Howard K. Willett of the Community house, are to act as patrons and patronesses.

Miss Letitia McGaughey has returned from a visit with New London relatives.

Thursday afternoon the Incognitos and Baptist women bowled at the Community house, with a score of 621 for the former and 605 for the Baptists. Mrs. Steiger was high single with 81, and Mrs. O. A. Wilcox had high total of 148. In the evening, the girls of the Robinson Silk Co. had as opponents the Rossie Velvet Co. office team and defeated them, 1633 to 1034.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Geer were business callers in Westerly Monday.

Qualities Statesmen Require.

The statesman of today requires as comprehensive a vision and as profound a wisdom as those of former times, with intenser labor, and a far wider range of knowledge; but he requires other gifts once scarcely needed; for he has not only to decide what ought to be done, and the wisest way to do it, but he has to do it or as much of it as he can, in the face of obstacles which would have baffled Maxarin, and before which Chatham and Walpole might well have stood aghast. To be useful and great he must carry the nation along with him, and be the embodiment of its soberest and maturest wisdom.—David Gregg.

WILD METHODS.

Many of the moves that have been made in connection with the oil investigation in Washington have seemed to be far fetched and needless, but none has approached in that respect the attempt that was made to bring the name of President Coolidge into it. Nothing could go further to substantiate the claim that many of the moves are being made for pure political reasons.

The attacks which have been launched upon the president by the democrats have been rightly termed when they have been branded as wild. They have thrown good judgment to one side in their endeavors to throw suspicion about everyone in the administration, but such tactics bid fair to have a boomerang effect. They in fact direct suspicion to each and every one of the moves that those same leaders are making.

There could be no desire to cover up anything that actually has a bearing upon the oil question, but the telegrams in question do not touch thereon and the explanation of them by the president makes it evident that he was in no way involved. When the telegrams were first unearthed it was considered that they were of no value to the inquiry, and it was only for the political effect that they were expected to have that they were brought to the attention of the public.

Called upon to give an explanation, which could have been obtained by the committee without making it a public affair, the president was quick to explain the reasons for sending the two telegrams, explanations which not only satisfy but which show how unjustified was the action in giving them publicity and broadcasting the inferences which may expected to be attached.

The effort to throw suspicion about routine matters connected with the head of the nation was a complete failure, and it wasn't aided in the least by the wild and loose talk on the part of some of the rabid southern senators. Tactics of that kind cannot fail to arouse resentment.

GETTING UNDER THE BARS.

Keen satisfaction must be expressed at the success which is attending the effort to smuggle aliens into this country along the southern coast. It is all the more important because of the efforts that have been put forth by the country to restrict immigration and the growing disregard which there is for law.

Not a little success has been obtained in smuggling liquor into this country. It has resulted in big profits for all those involved in the undertaking. It is not surprising therefore that there should be those who recognized the chance of smuggling aliens as an equally lucrative employment.

The discovery that aliens were being landed on a small island off the Florida coast was not the first intimation that efforts were being made to avoid our immigration laws. There have been others who have been brought to points in this country from Cuba and been put ashore or who have been caught in the attempt. But when it is stated that the latest roundup on the Florida island totalled 61 for the week, that not only must be regarded as a favorable place for such operations, but it indicates the extent of the business and the number ready to engage in such work.

The United States cannot feel flattered that such a number should be anxious to get into the country. They must be regarded as individuals who are committed to law violation by the very act in which they hope to come in, which unquestionably places them in the large class of undesirables against which the country must be a resort to such methods, but that simply means that if we are going to bring about the observance of the laws which we consider necessary for our own welfare there must be a constant vigilance that will meet the situation. There can be no toleration of such smuggling, and the quicker an example can be made of those engaged in such business, particularly those carrying on the smuggling, the better it will be.

A BETTER UNDERSTANDING.

Changes have taken place since there was the greatest danger of a split between the British and French governments. Those nations know that they must stand together for their own good. They fought for a common purpose, shoulder to shoulder, and they were in harmony for the most part during the period of peacemaking. It was only as the result of the refusal of Germany to meet its obligations, and the different interpretations that were put upon it by the respective countries that there was any danger of a break. It was then only a case where neither was able to subscribe to the attitude of the other.

France remained implacable. It insisted that Germany could pay, that it was simply endeavoring to dodge its responsibilities and that it must pay, even though it was necessary to bring pressure to bear in accord with the terms of the Versailles treaty. Great Britain was for displaying a bit more leniency. It agreed that Germany should pay what it could but it would not cooperate with France in bringing pressure to bear. It was for the idea of reaching a compromise.

France was not swerved from its determination. The commission which has been at work upon the capacity of Germany to pay has not only shown France to have been justified in its course, but that Germany had made up its mind not to pay.

These developments and the change in government in Great Britain has resulted in a communication between the premiers of France and Great Britain that seems likely to bring the two countries into that closer understanding which previously existed.

There has been an open and frank expression indicative of a better understanding on all questions. The British desire to work in accord with France should serve to relieve the tension, while the declaration by Premier Poincare that France has no idea of annexing an inch of German territory should serve to clear up any misapprehension on that score.

AN UNENVIABLE POSITION.

In these days when so much attention is being given to tax reduction and so much complaint is being heard about the burden of taxation, the situation of the city of Manchester, N. H., is a subject for careful study.

It was only a few years ago that Manchester, a city of 80,000, was proud of its low tax and its small debt. Then it owed only about a million, but within a decade as the result of large expenditures it has increased its indebtedness until now it owes five million dollars and has a heavy tax rate, and in the face of that it is being sued by large corporations for the rebate of taxes which it is claimed were paid in excess of what was justified. Should these suits go against the city it would mean another million added to the debt.

But that is not all of Manchester's troubles. While certain banks have come to its assistance in its hour of distress and others have offered to, the city has practically reached its legal borrowing limit, and it is engaged in a tilt over the appointment of the chairman of its finance commission, which adds increased embarrassment to the situation.

Many a city has found that it is easy to get heels over head into debt. There are those who are constantly advocating greater expenditures when such outlays might well be delayed. The idea of pursuing an extravagant policy instead of practicing economy and efficiency in municipal government cannot get too much emphasis in these days when there is a disposition to do little thinking over what is involved and what the outcome is going to be.

Manchester is by no means proud of its predicament, and it cannot be blamed. Perhaps the citizens of that community can now see the folly of methods employed, but not stopped, in the past.

DEADLY MOTOR FUMES.

Though many deaths have been caused thereby, the monoxide gas given off by motor exhausts constitutes a greater menace than many people realize.

In numerous instances men have been found dead in their garages where the engine has been left running and the doors closed. They were apparently overcome before they were able to get where there was fresh air, or while attempting to escape from the deadly gas, which acts quickly and without much of any warning.

From a Massachusetts town there comes a report where three men narrowly escaped such a fate while at work baling hay, and this despite the fact that they were employed in a barn the doors of which were open. The fumes from the engine used in the baling operation would have ended their lives within a short time had not one of them been able to assist the others out of the barn after the gas had begun to get in its effects in the upper part of the barn from which the fumes had apparently exhausted the oxygen.

The danger that is involved in connection with monoxide gas, whether from the exhaust of an internal combustion engine, or from other causes, cannot be too fully recognized. In the interest of safety it is always well that there should be an adequate supply of fresh air, and those who have anything to do with gasoline engines, whether in motor vehicles or not, do well to guard against the gas which is deadly poison.

THE MAN WHO TALKS.

Americans traveling abroad for the most part have gotten over that pernicious habit of extolling the size of their country, as though mere bigness in itself were an excellence. A nation that has nothing more than 3,000,000 square miles to boast of is as badly off as a man who has nothing more to commend him than his 350 lbs. avoirdupois. The intelligent people on the other side of the Atlantic were not overwhelmed with the fact that the 3,100 miles that separated Boston from San Francisco was twice the distance from London to Constantinople, or that the 2,000 miles between Minneapolis and New Orleans was as far as the southwest tip of Spain to the northeastern point of Russia. When these travelers saw the high cultivation in England, France and Belgium and compared it to the vast stretches of our swamps and swales, they began to realize that the real question was not how much is the acreage, but what is it.

Is it a creed that makes a church, or is it a church that makes a creed by giving to it the outward expression of its composite mind, and the spirit of its complex heart? A creed has value only as it is the expression of one's belief, and is never quite satisfactory because of the difficulty of formulating our belief in words. That is why councils and assemblies in the past have so largely failed in giving outward expression to what people generally believed. The writer has never seen a creed that didn't contain some truth, but never have he seen one that contained all of the truth. The mere repeating of a creed carries little weight. With patience you can teach a parrot to repeat the Apostles' creed, and it means just as much as the way they rush through in some churches. A creed has value only as it become a good working hypothesis; just as it fructifies in a world needing the divine contact.

We are not made good by merely refraining from evil, simply because goodness is a positive virtue. Keeping away from the stench of a quagmire doesn't give you the fragrance of roses. Keeping your hands from handling ice doesn't warm them. Closing your ears to the jass of a cheap dance hall doesn't open them to the harmonies of a Mozart or Beethoven. We do not offer prizes to boys for keeping out of the police court, nor give medals to men because they do not get drunk, or because they do not lie, steal, burn, swear, murder or commit treason. According to the laws of God and man they are not supposed to do these things. If they do they must suffer the consequences. Business firms, literary institutions, political parties, as well as individuals are not to be commended simply because they are not law-breakers. Remember this, that shying away from evil is not plunging towards righteousness.

We are all the time hearing of some new fads coming into vogue, and however frightful some of them are, they actually function. The professional assassin is as old as humanity. They have been known by various names from thugs to gunmen. Until recently they have not had so easy a time of it in modern life as they did in the semi-pagan days of the middle ages. Murder has become more of a fine art with the advent of the automobile because adding can easy getaway, and the gunmen seem to be using it to their advantage. To this shadowy professionalism has been added of late a new type of artist known as the professional fire-setter. As far as my knowledge goes the crime of arson in the past has not been classed with the fine arts. Usually fire-setting has been the most bungling form of wrong-doing, but now in New York, we are told, that men can be employed to do this sort of work and they exhibit a very deft hand. In the end it may not pay.

For the proper care of radio the following advice is given: "Don't let your storage battery run low, keep it as fully charged as possible." Wouldn't it be a good thing if all professional men would hang up that motto on their office walls? There may be others who work and plan, write and speak to whom this advice would not be wholly inappropriate. The writer once heard a politician present an argument when the storage battery at the beginning was nearly gone, but it didn't seem to trouble him in the least, for he went on and on until everything had given out, even the patience of the crowd. The only thing that didn't give out was his tongue which seemed to have attached to it some kind of self-charger. Ministers sometimes find that pounding the pulpit will for awhile keep the attention of the congregation from the low state of the battery. In the long run it pays to keep your eye on the battery.

Those who contend that it is impossible to enforce a given law when there is a strong opposition to it would do well to consider what Brig.-General S. D. Butler has recently done in Philadelphia. There were enough people, and I am sorry to say, a good many good people, who with the usual snap judgment were ready to say, "It can't be done!" General Butler called a certain squad of policemen and said unto them quietly; "Clean up a certain section, and do it by six o'clock!" Of course if was impossible, but as a cold matter of fact it was done, and more of such jobs would be done in a specified time if public officials were made to understand that is was a matter of bread and butter with them. Opposition to law would largely break down if public officials were made to understand that they must do their duty, and that the public will stand by them.

There are many of us who will accept Rolfe Cobleigh's interpretation of the spirit that lies back of the present investigation of the Teapot Dome oil lease scandal now pending at Washington. Mr. Cobleigh writing on the impressions at the national capital when Mr. Wilson died says: "The game in congress seemed to be not so much to serve the country as to thwart someone's political aspirations, or to make it appear that certain political groups were more or less virtuous than certain other groups." It seems to an outsider living at a distance, and keeping tabs on the trend of the controversy that these words put the whole matter in a nutshell. It is perfectly clear that the investigation committee are not for one moment losing sight of the fact that this is presidential year, and are moving heaven and earth to stir up the prejudices of the people.

It is perfectly amazing how quickly opportunities for service arise when there are eyes ready to see, and a spirit ready to use, them. You do not have to go into an adjoining town or even onto the next street to find opportunities for doing good. You will find the chance of showing what good there is in you somewhere between your front door and your business office. Peter probably did not go hunting all over Jerusalem for opportunities of service, but found them in the round of his daily duties. He found one at the gate of the Temple called Beautiful. He was on the outlook for chances to do good, and what made the gate of the temple beautiful was not its fine marble or its silver or gold but as the place where a cripple was made whole. The words he spoke have rung throughout the earth, "In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk." May we not say the same?

ENTERED BUSINESS BY COOPERATIVE ROUTE

Over 1,000,000 farmers have "gone into business," via the co-operative marketing route, and to the tune of $2,000,000,000 or more during 1923, according to latest figures at the Department of agriculture, where a survey of the co-operative associations is being made.

This exact statement, coupled with B. F. Yoakum's project for an interstate farm marketing association, heading up at Washington, as described to President Coolidge and the plans of the National Council of Co-operative Marketing Associations for their new headquarters to transfer from Chicago to Washington, gives promise that the "farm co-op" will soon become as well known about the Capitol as the "farm bloc."

Evolution in Marketing

The "co-op" is a slang phrase which has been used for many years to designate the loosely knit associations of farmers who make butter and cheese co-operatively, or bargain co-operatively for the sale of farm products. But in the last three years the introduction of the California contract plan, which guarantees the delivery of the farmers' entire crop to the association selling agents, has worked a remarkable evolution in the marketing of most farm products and the 1,000,000 co-operatives have nearly all been signed up within the last three years.

Erstwhile farmers, recently turned business men, attended in large numbers the second annual convention of the National Council of Farmers' Co-operative Marketing Associations, recently held at Washington.

Almost every co-operative who spoke described business operations running well up into the millions and showed how thousands of producing farmers are joining the movement each month, in the expectation that "co-operation" will eliminate most of the waste and losses that come from individual shipments to a strange market, where the farmer has little or no representation in the dealing.

Consumer not Hit

Former Gov. Lowden, formerly a republican presidential nominee, was asked if the net result of the co-operative movement would not be an increased price to the consumer. He replied:

"No, indeed. There's been too much talk of that from our opponents, the commission agents. Co-operative marketing will bring down food prices because it will systematize the marketing of farm products so that there will be a steadier stream of supply to every market, without the loss in perishables and the stealing that is often found. Thus the framer will get a fair profit on what he sells and he will produce more and market prices can be lowered as the system becomes more and more efficient.

"Co-operative marketing," continued Gov. Lowden, "is our new national business policy. Thirty states and the federal government have passed laws establishing it. The supreme court has approved these as constitutional. The department of agriculture, the war trade board and the farm loan board and the federal reserve board are all behind the movement, which was so badly needed to prevent farmers generally from going to the wall."

The twelve largest cotton producing states formed most of their co-operative associations in 1920, 1921 and 1922, when cotton was at low levels. It is also significant that in December, 1923, when tobacco prices had sunk to very low levels, 5,400 burley tobacco growers rushed into membership in the "co-op." The association strength thus gained, constitutes control over the majority share of the commodity and forces the buyers to bargain on fair terms, without speculative jumps or throwbacks.

Farmers Mean Business

"Do the farmers really mean business?" said one representative who was just discovering the fact that not only cotton, tobacco, rice, apples, wheat, butter and cheese were being marketed co-operatively, but also cabbage, celery, peppermint and sunflower seed.

The answer lies in the fact that about 11,000 co-operative associations have been formed and that they are doubling their business annually, and in 1923 did a combined business which outstrips the automobile industry itself for value and range.

The headquarters of the National Council of Co-operative Marketing Associations, now located in Chicago, will soon be removed to Washington and a monthly magazine devoted to the subject will be published for distribution of the agricultural data and information which always centers at Washington.

For four months a bus line has been operating between New London and Norwich that has been giving excellent service to the people living on the east side of the Thames. During all this time the owner of the line has found it impossible to furnish his passengers with a waiting room in Norwich, being restricted, I believe, to the immediate vicinity of Union square.

Shoppers usually tired and encumbered with bundles may wait on the sidewalk, or as a lady did recently, accept gratefully the offer of a box to sit on, in a corner newsstand. The gentlemen of the police station are unfailingly courteous to the wayfarer, but many hesitate to intrude where they have no business to be. There remains the hospitality of the Otis library, which ceases at 9 o'clock. And waiting about the doorway gives people an uneasy sense of being in the way of both literary workers and patrons. The obvious alternative is to shop in New London where a waiting room under excellent management is directly accessible to the passengers of all bus lines, where packages may be checked and their owners be free to attend in comfort any entertainment the city offers.

I know of no such accommodation in Norwich. If the Norwich merchants care to retain their suburban trade, this is a matter well deserving their attention.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Emile Vandervelde, who may become the next premier of Belgium as a result of the ministerial crisis and impending elections in that country, has been the recognized leader of the Belgian Socialist party for more than a quarter of a century. He is a doctor of laws, an advocate at Brussels, and in his day has been a university professor and prolific writer for the popular press. He first entered parliament in 1899, being at the time the youngest member of that body. He steadily forged to the front in public affairs, and with the increasing strength of the Socialist party he became an influential factor in Belgian politics. During the period of the late war he served as Minister of state and was a staunch supporter of the Allied cause. M. Vandervelde has been called the million aire Socialist leader. For although, as a Socialist, he advocates the repartition of wealth, he is said to possess a large personal fortune.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

No Waiting Room For Bus Patrons.

Mr. Editor: May I ask the use of your newspaper to bring before the business men of Norwich a matter that should concern them?

For four months a bus line has been operating between New London and Norwich that has been giving excellent service to the people living on the east side of the Thames. During all this time the owner of the line has found it impossible to furnish his passengers with a waiting room in Norwich, being restricted, I believe, to the immediate vicinity of Union square.

Shoppers usually tired and encumbered with bundles may wait on the sidewalk, or as a lady did recently, accept gratefully the offer of a box to sit on, in a corner newsstand. The gentlemen of the police station are unfailingly courteous to the wayfarer, but many hesitate to intrude where they have no business to be. There remains the hospitality of the Otis library, which ceases at 9 o'clock. And waiting about the doorway gives people an uneasy sense of being in the way of both literary workers and patrons. The obvious alternative is to shop in New London where a waiting room under excellent management is directly accessible to the passengers of all bus lines, where packages may be checked and their owners be free to attend in comfort any entertainment the city offers.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

The Ministry of Suffering

For our light affliction which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory.

While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen, but the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal. 2 Cor. 4:17, 18.

Marks of suffering run all through the Bible. In the very warp and woof of our lives the scarlet thread is interwoven, and we cannot escape from it if we would.

We see the crimson everywhere — the badge of suffering—and we see the blue as well; and the two colors blended together make the purple, the royal color that proves our pedigree as children of the king.

The man of Sorrows drank the bitter cup to the very dregs and bore the wrath of God for us, yet we must suffer with Him if we would reign with Him.

We see the bow of promise over the storm cloud. There must be conflict or there can be no victory. Joy and sorrow follow in quick succession.

Abraham, though the friend of God has his share of the common sorrow. Jacob is brought into a large place through suffering, and becomes a prince in the conflict.

Joseph, absolutely blameless in his life, without one cause of chastening, yet is cruelly wronged, falsely imprisoned and allowed to suffer for another's sin.

Moses' very choice is to suffer affliction with the people of God.

Is it necessary that we should suffer so much? Are all these tears part of God's plan for us? Not all, surely He hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows.

There shall be no tears in heaven, no sorrow there. The ransomed of the Lord shall return with everlasting joy upon their heads. They shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away." Paul speaks of the afflictions of the gospel, of the offence of the cross and of the reproach of Christ. All these out very deeply when we take advanced ground. If you are true to the whole testimony of Christ you may have a martyr's crown as real as any worn by Felicitas, Perpetua, Ignatius or Laurentius. You are not called to suffer much on these lines in an ordinary, fashionable Christian life, but if you are ready to go without the camp and to stand for the whole truth of God's word, you will be called to pass through the furnace; but you will come out as did the Hebrew children, without the smell of fire upon your garments. You ask: What is the good of this manifold suffering? Two good things come out of it. It prepares us for usefulness. It deepens our spiritual nature. Suffering prepares for usefulness by enabling us to sympathize with others.

Suffering brings love, without which there can be no real service. It mellows an softens us so that we can enter into the needs of others, and be a blessing to weary hearts. It takes away the smartness and self-sufficiency that so hinder God's work, checks the spirit of hasty judgment, and gives us the mastery over ourselves. We get power through suffering for patience, forbearance—all fruits of the spirit.

Stories That Recall Others

Maybe Her Feet Were Small

A well-dressed, middle aged woman boarded a street car one cold day recently. When she stepped on the platform one of her pumps fell off in the street. She exclaimed: "Oh, I've lost one of my slippers." She stepped back in the street and recovered it, and stepped on the platform again. The other one fell off and she again exclaimed: "Well, merciful heavens! I've lost the other one," and again stepped down in the street, this time with both shoes off. Turning to the conductor she said, "What shall I do."

The conductor between laughs, replied: "I believe I'd put them back on." After much scrambling around she got them on and started to go up in the car when she shrieked: "Well, if I haven't got them on the wrong feet." Just then the car stopped at her street and she got off that way.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

OBITUARY

John Richards.

John Richards died at his home in Versailles Friday morning at 3.30, after a week's illnes with pneumonia. His death removes one of the oldest residents of that village, he having been a resident there for nearly half a century. Born August 8, 1843 at Wakefield, N. H., his boyhood days were spent at that place. Entering a cotton mill in Dover, N. H., at an early age, that was the calling which he followed for 34 years. Leaving Dover he went to Holyoke, Mass., entering the plant of the Holyoke Thread company, continuing as second hand in the carding department for five years. Later he entered the employ of the Lyman Thread Mills of Holyoke as second hand in the carding department, remaining with this firm for seven years.

Coming to Occum in 1876, for the purpose of installing card room machinery in the plant of the Totokett Manufacturing company, he soon afterwards was engaged as overseer of carding, a position which he held for twenty-two years. During the past twenty years he has been in the meat and grocery business with his son in Occum.

Mr. Richards never held any public office. He was well versed in the topics of the day, being a constant reader and student, one of strong and high ideals. For years he has been identified with the Versailles M. E. church, a trustee and a teacher in the Sunday school. He was a friend to all and one of whom the children of the village were always welcomed to ask a favor. Mr. Richards' wife, who was Fannie Curtis, died nearly a quarter of a century ago, since which time he has made his home with his son, H. A. Richards. He is survived by two sons, Herbert A., of Versailles, Hyler J., of Newark, N. J.; two daughters, Mrs. W. O. Soule of Jewett City and Mrs. Charles Fiske, of Fairfield, Ala., also six grandchildren.

William S. Brown.

The death of William S. Brown, formerly of this city, occurred Wednesday evening in New York city. Mr. Brown was a nephew of the late Moses Pierce and for many years was connected with the Norwich bleachery. Later, for a period of years, he was connected with the Standard Bleaching company of Carlton Hill, N. J., founded by the late James Mackenzie, a resident of Greeneville for many years. He married Lucy Miner Rathbun, a sister of the late Mrs. Charles P. Cogswell, who died in 1908.

Mr. Brown is survived by four daughters, Mrs. William Firth of Gladstone, Mich., Mrs. Frank Hallock of Faribault, Minn., Mrs. H. Blake Fuessenich, of Torrington, Ct., Miss Dorothy V. Brown of New York City; also two sons, John Rowland Brown of Plainfield, N. J., and Leonard H. Borwn, now living in the west.

While a resident of Norwich he was a member of Christ Episcopal church and for many years before leaving Norwich was superintendent of the Sunday school.

AMERICAN WOOLEN BUYS McKINLEY AVENUE LOT

A deed recorded at the town clerk's office reveals the fact that the lot on the corner of McKinley avenue and Broad street, a part of the former Briscoe property has been bought by the American Woolen Co. It is supposed that the company may eventually erect a residence on the lot, but officials of the company here have no information on this point as negotiations were conducted through the general head offices in the big woolen concern.

This is the lot on which the proposal of the owner, Yetta Cohen, to erect a building for store purposes stirred up a strong protest in the neighborhood when visible evidence of the indicated building was given by the digging of the cellar. The protest came before the common council and a building line was established 15 feet back from the front line of the lot where it had been proposed to erect the Cohen building. The owner made a claim for damages against the city and was awarded $750 by the special committee to which the matter was referred. Nothing further was done in the building line after the cellar was begun and the unfinished cellar has remained.

REV. J. J. FITZGERALD GOING TO NAUGATUCK PARISH

Rev. John J. Fitzgerald, pastor of St. Michael's parish, Westerly, is to assume charge of St. Francis' parish, Naugatuck, March 10. Father Fitzgerald succeeds the late Rev. Thomas H. Cooney. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1896 after the completion of his theological course at Niagara University. His first assignment was as assistant to Rev. James Fagan, pastor of the Naugatuck parish, which he will now direct. After seven years in Naugatuck Father Fitzgerald was transferred to Ansonia, then to Cromwell, and finally to Greenwich as pastor. His next assignment was to the Westerly, R. I., parish, where he remained until the present promotion. Father Fitzgerald said farewell to his congregation in Westerly last Sunday, thanking them for their generous co-operation, since he has been their pastor. He requested that there be no public farewell.

"Y" Class Met at Versailles

A meeting of the Versailles "Y" class was held Thursday evening in the Sunday school room of the Methodist church at Versailles. Supper was served to the members and guests and there was an exhibition of gymnastics by several of the members. The membership of the class now numbers 27.

American Legion Post Met

The regular meeting of Robert E. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, was held Friday night at the legion rooms on Main street. Commander Herman A. Bruckner was in the chair and the usual routine of business was transacted. Plans for future events were also discussed before adjournment was taken.

BIG ACCIDENT RECORD SHOWS AUTO OPERATORS MORE CARELESS

Motor vehicle accidents in Connecticut reached a total of 969 during January, according to a compilation of reports completed, and made public at the state motor vehicle department. All of the seven largest cities in the state showed large increases in such accidents over their record for the corresponding month last yeak, and the total for the state exceeded that for January 1923 by 369 and that for January 1923 by 544.

While the increase may be attributed in part to the open winter with a resultant greater number of automobiles in use than in the initial month of the past two years, the reports to the motor vehicle department indicate a considerable letting down in careful operation, many of the accidents appearing to have been avoidable by the exercise of caution. New Haven's record was by far the worst for January of this year. Motor vehicles were involved in 171 accidents there in that month, as against 78 in the corresponding month of last year. Hartford showed an increase from 82 to 159; Bridgeport from 62 to 111; Waterbury, from 37 to 65; New Britain from 28 to 41; New London, from 32 to 34, and Meriden from 16 to 22.

These seven cities had 549 of the accidents that occurred in the entire state during the month.

Twenty-seven automobile fatalities have been reported to the department for the first two months of the year, fifteen for January and twelve for February. That is three times the number of fatal accidents reported for the corresponding period of 1924. In January of last year four persons were killed by motor vehicles and in February five met their death in such accidents.

BRILLIANT VIOLIN PROGRAM BY ERNA RUBINSTEIN

Miss Erna Rubinstein, wonderful 16-year-old violinist, gave an evening of rare pleasure to an audience of music lovers that filled Slater hall Friday evening for the final number in the Slater hall music course and it was with evident reluctance that the big crowd saw the evening draw to a close with an extra number, Garten Melodie (Schuman), that Miss Rubinstein gave for an encore. Many still remained in their seats and the violinist was obliged to come back twice to bow her acknowledgments before the audience was willing to depart.

The artist rendered the following programme, for which accompaniments that were admirable were given by Frank Sheridan:

|---|---|
| Symphony Espagnole, | Lalo |
| Allegro non troppo | |
| Andante | |
| Rondo | |
| Reverie, | Vieuxtemps |
| Mazurka de Concert, | Hubay |
| Sapphic Ode, | Brahms-Hubay |
| Valse, | Chopin-Erna Rubinstein |
| Perpetum Mobile, | Ries |
| Nocturne in A flat, | Chopin-Sarasate |
| Variations on the G string only. | Paganini. |

Two other encores of the evening were Poem (Fibich) and Serenade Espagnole (Chaminade-Kreisler) and Miss Rubinstein received a big bouquet of red roses.

Announcements for next year's course were distributed, these numbers to include Rosa Ponselle, the famous prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Co., Mario Chamlee, one of the great leading tenors of the Metropolitan, Albert Spalding, America's greatest native violinist, and the Burgin String Quartet of Boston, composed of leading artists of the Boston Symphony orchestra.

NOOSE LEADERS IN PINOCHLE WITH EAGLES

The Moose pinochle players came out with the long end of the score in the third game of a series being played between the Moose and Eagles at the Eagles club on Shetucket St. Friday evening. Scores for the evening ran comparatively low but in total the Moose led at the end of the evening by about 4000 points, scoring 119,400 as against 115,100 for the Eagles. The series will be continued.

High score for the evening went to Jean Maynard of the Moose with 8210 while low score went to E. J. Mullins of the Eagles with 5735.

The scores for the evening were as follows: Moose Club—Peter Carolina, 6155; John Mehrhoiz, 5870; Fred Mehrhols, 6510; Frank Beechman, 7065; George Heibel, 7063; William Brosopka, 6425; George Kaplan, 6445; Harry Bronson, 6220; John Landone, 6590; Ivan Maynard, 8210; Herman Bruckner, 6495; George Goepfert, 6235; Benny Wunderlick, 6745; Charles Wright, 7295; Rudolph Kirby, 7130; Henry Swatzburg, 6065; John Bowne, 6730; George Hastedt, 6860—Total 119,400.

Eagles—E. J. Mullins, 5735; E. P. Mullins, 5970; D. Farrell, 5835; Harry Folleneous, 6090; Henry Clements, 6385; Maurice Friedberg, 6390; H. Marcus, 6870; George Nadoiny, 6770; M. Leirich, 6590; H. Arendt, 6265; J. Leirich, 6280; F. Nevins, 7380; F. Hunter, 6460; William Hastedt, 6520; C. Schlins, 6375; Charles Peterson, 5990; Jack Callahan, 6445; J. Dumont, 6520—Totals 115,100.

In the three games of the series the Eagles hold a lead of 2305 points having a total of 325,043 points as against 325,740 for the Moose Club.

RECOVERING FROM INJURIES IN CRASH AT GROTON

Earl W. Phillips and his sister, Miss Lila E. Phillips, of 422 Laurel Hill avenue, are slowly but encouragingly recovering from severe injuries they received last Saturday afternoon about 5.15, when the motorcycle on which they were riding was struck at Groton by an automobile driven by a man named Marquardt, a prominent Groton resident.

Miss Phillips, who was riding on the seat behind her brother, struck on her head when she was thrown off and is slowly recovering from a paralyzed condition that has affected her entire body since the accident. Mr. Phillips was unconscious for nearly an hour after the accident.

According to a report of the accident, the crash occurred as they were riding towards this city and had just reached the intersection of the Norwich road with the Center Groton road. The Marquardt machine came from the Groton Center road, swung to the right as if to go down under the railroad overpass and then suddenly switched to the left and crashed into the front of the Phillips motorcycle, which was badly smashed. The driver of the automobile proceeded down to the ferry landing where he notified a policeman of the accident and the two Norwich people were taken to the office of Dr. Douglass and later brought home.

BOZRAH TOWN MEETING LAYS 15 MILL TAX

The annual town meeting of Bozrah for the purpose of laying a tax on the grand list was held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock P. M. the town hall, a fair representation of the voters attending. The meeting was called to order by John S. Sullivan, first selectman and a fifteen mill tax was quickly voted.

This rate is the same as that for several years past. The grand list of the town as figured by the assessors after all abatements had been made totals $732,000 a gain of about $11,000 over 1923.

"E" is the most common letter. In 1,000 letters, e occurs 127 times in English, 184 times in French, 145 in Spanish and 174 in German.

WOMEN'S PRAYER SERVICE AT METHODIST CHURCH

There was an attendance of over 100 at the union prayer meeting fostered by the Council of Women for Home Missions and the Federation of Women Boards of Foreign Missions, held Friday afternoon at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. This meeting was held in Norwich at approximately the same time as similar meetings throughout the United States and Canada by Protestant churches of the many cities and towns.

The program carried out was the Spirit of Power, the meeting being divided into five sections, a leader from some church being in charge. The meeting was opened at 3 o'clock by Mrs. William H. Bath of Trinity church, whose topic was "praise". The second section of the service, Prayer, was ably handled by Mrs. Drury of Mt. Calvary Baptist church. The third section was on Purpose and was the longest of the program, being in charge of Mrs. E. C. Dunbar of the First Baptist church.

Following the fourth section of the program, Practice, which was in charge of Miss Margaret Campbell of the United Congregational church, it was announced that a collection would be taken, the money derived from the same to be used in purchasing Bibles to be given to the Japanese Bible society to replace those lost by the society during the earthquake in Japan. The offertory was sung by Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., who was in charge of the singing during the service.

The fifth and final section of the program was in charge of Mrs. Albert Boardman of Trinity Methodist church, her subjects being, Power.

Among the congregation at the service were representatives of all Protestant churches in the city.

"DANGEROUS PEOPLE" BEEN AT BROADWAY THEATRE

A rather small sized but very appreciative audience greeted William Courtenay in his new play, Dangerous People, at the Broadway theatre Friday evening. The audience should have been much larger for the three act gentleman crook and mystery play was well worth witnessing. It was an unusual production with a decided element of mystery running through it from beginning to end. Gripping dramatic moments, love scenes and original humor coupled with the splendid acting of Mr. Courtenay and his cast of five, two women and three men, provided a delightful evening's entertainment for those in the audience. Liberal applause was showered on the well chosen cast especially at the close of the play when the players were forced to respond to several curtain calls.

Mr. Courtenay appeared in the role of the gentleman crook, upon whom love for a charming and beautiful bride (Gertrude Hits) won after a brief courtship, exerted such an influence that he decided to return $62,000 in cash stolen from a bank. His unique method of returning the loot involved the bank cashier (George Parsons) in a number of startling adventures, which resulted in the realization of the cashier's fond dream, that of convincing his wife (Virginia Hammond) that life in his attractive bungalow was much preferable to life in busy New York city.

Charles Millward as "Teasdale" the unknown partner of the gentleman crook, posing as a detective to secure possession as a detective to secure possession of the loot before it could be returned to the bank, added much to the mystery element of the play. The gowns worn by Miss Hammond and Miss Hitz were beautiful and the stage settings were attractive and most appropriate.

BIRTHDAY CLUB ATTENDS MEMBER'S ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. William A. White of Leffingwell entertained a few friends last Tuesday in observance of Mrs. White's birthday. Those present included Mrs. George A. Peck and Mrs. Wellington Miner of Norwich Town, the two other members who with Mrs. White comprise The Birthday Club; also Mrs. White's brother and sister-in-law, Mr and Mrs. Fitch A. Dolbeare, of Central avenue, Greeneville.

At noon Mrs. White served a tempting dinner of planked fish, mashed turnips, mashed potatoes, bread and butter, pickles, two kinds of pie, cake, jello with whipped cream and coffee.

Mrs. White was presented two covered vegetable dishes, one of china and one of Pyrex ware. The Norwich party were automobile guests of Mr. Dolbeare.

Killourey Brothers were in charge of the arrangements.

F. M. HOLMES FOR MAYOR OF NEW BRITAIN

Frederick M. Holmes, president of the North & Judd Manufacturing company at New Britain, has announced himself as a candidate for the mayoralty nomination there on the republican ticket. This announcement that Mr. Holmes would run, is a distinct surprise because of the fact that his name has not been mentioned before. He is president of the Third Ward Republican club and has been active in republican politics.

Mayor Paonessa is expected to be the standard bearer of the democratic party, although he has not yet announced his candidacy.

Mr. Holmes is a son of Mrs. Fannie Holmes of this city, a brother of Royal G. Holmes and spent his early life in Norwich. He has many friends here.

Sun Still a Mystery.

The sun is a hotter place than the old orthodox hereafter. Its temperature is about 3,600 degrees centigrade. In breadth Old Sol is 865,000 miles across. Compared with him, our earth is like a kernel of popcorn in the center of a dinner plate. But although Old Sol regulates our life, growth and health from a distance of 92,980,000 miles, to be exact, science as yet knows little about him, observes Capper's Weekly. People realize in their subconscious minds that the sun is closely related to the mystery of life, which is one reason they are forever talking about the weather that is regulated by the sun as completely as a furnace regulates the temperature of a house in winter. But the big day star is almost as much of a mystery to us as he was to the ancients.

Of all the family, father is apt to be the most careless of a cough or cold, and it is the duty of mother or the girls to see that he takes FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND at the first sign of a cough, cold or hoarseness. After he once tries it, finds out how effective and pleasant it is to take, he will not hesitate to use it always. Contains no opiates. Safe and sure. Has served three generations. New Method Of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh steadily and easily without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals, is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) can be obtained of any druggist the world over or from the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., for one dollar a box, which is a decidedly economical price, considering the number of tablets each case contains. They are harmless.

PRESTON CITY

Friends of H. Davis and Cas. Benjamin are glad to learn that both are convalescent.

James H. Fitch has been ill for several days.

Miss Bertha Slater is suffering from attack of grip.

Harold Robbins, one of the local teachers has been to New York, visiting schools.

The Colonial social, postponed on account of sickness, was held in the vestry of Preston City Baptist church, last Friday evening. The Congregational Sunday school members were guests.

The orchestra, with Miss Marcia Zabriskie as pianist, played the old melodies to the delight of all. There was scripture reading by Rev. Frank Robbins; prayer by Rev. W. L. Muttart; readings were given by John Howell and Misses Mildred Slater and Marion Bagley.

Rev. Mr. Robbins read The Model Church, and another poem, taken for an old scrap book which has mother had made years ago, entitled From Century to Century. The young men gave a surprise number for the program, costumed in the apparel of '76 the Spirit of '76 was real. Little Phyllis and Ellsworth Bennett represented George and Martha Washington and the primary class sang George and the Cherry Tree Story.

The children of the schools gave the salute to the flag. Mrs. Hetherington read the old poem, The New Church Organ. The best was kept 'til the last, a reading by Rev. Mr. Muttart.

Rev. Mr. Hetherington then gave the prayer of thanksgiving and the young people served the lunch. Some beautiful Colonial dresses were worn, one being nearly 200 years old.

MADE HIS LIVING BY SWINDLING MINISTERS

Chicago, March 7.—Ralph W. Howard, who admitted he made his living for fifteen years by swindling ministers and others charitably inclined, today was sentenced to prison for one to ten years.

Howard, known throughout the east as C. C. Williams, has served at least four penitentiary sentences. His scheme was to solicit funds "to remove sick friends to a more favorable climate."

MARKET WAS DULL.

New York, Mar. 7.—Except for the marked strength shown by some of the high priced specialties, particularly the chain store issues, trading in today's stock market was of a rather desultory character. The volume of business was the smallest for any full day session this year.

Bear traders, who have been meeting stubborn resistance in their efforts to depress the general list, apparently had suspended operatons, while traders on the long side showed little disposition to extend their commitments. Pools were active in a few issues. Estimates of the size of the short interest in the market placed it only ten per cent. below the record figures of October, 1923, prior to the recent extended advance. Brokers' loans were estimated at $1,875,000,000 or $475,000,000 below those of a year ago.

Standard industrial stocks, such as U. S. Steel common, Baldwin, Studebaker and American Can, moved within narrow and irregular limits today, showing only small fractional changes at the close. The combined sales of all four issues totalled less than 50,000 shares.

F. W. Woolworth was the individual feature, jumping 11 1-4 points to 321, a record top for all time, in further reflection of the recent increase in sale and earnings. This makes it the highest priced industrial on the "big board." Kresge followed in its wake, climbing 6 points to 314, also a record. Associated Dry Goods moved up 2 5-8 to 89, a new top, but Arnold Constable broke to 8 3-4, a new low, a reflection of speculative disappointment over last year's earnings.

Sugars, especially the Cuban issues, gave one of the most impressive demonstrations of group strength, Manati showing a net gain of 3 points. Restricted trading in the oil shares was again attributed tothe oil hearings in Washington. Fresh strength developed in the tobacco group on merger rumors, Schulte taking the lead with a net gain of nearly two points.

General Electric jumped about five points to 214 and then fell back about a point. Coca Cola sank to a new low at 8 on reports that the 1923 dividend on the common was earned by a scant margin. Colorado Fuel & Iron was active and strong on expectation of a substantial increase in earnings from its new mills.

A burst of buying in Lackawanna Railroad on unconfirmed rumors that an extra dividend would be declared, sent that stock up more than three points to 113 1-2. Delaware & Hudson and Chesapeake & Ohio improved in sympathy. Selling of Southern railway, which dropped below 49, was associated with reports that the stock would be placed on a $4 dividend basis and not $5, as previously reported.

The further collapse in French francs, which sent them to another record low at 2.76 3-4 cents, was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Belgian francs broke to 2.27 1-2 cents, also a new low, while demand sterling dropped about 1 1-2 cents to around $4.28 1-4.

Call money again held at 4 1-4 per cent. all day. Time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with business being done on a 4 3-4 to 5 per cent. basis.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Mar. 7. — Reactionary price tendencies prevailed in today's curb market with most of the active issues moving within rather narrow limits.

Testimony before the senate oil lease investigating committee continued to restrict the trading in oil shares, the feature of which was a 29 point jump in Chesebrough Manufacturing to 424. Borne and Scrymser climbed 2 points to 235 and Cities Service and Standard Oil of Kentucky each moved up a point.

Industrials were mixed, Durant Motor fell 1 point to 26 and then recovered half its loss. United States Distributing corporation moved up more than a point on the announcement of its acquisition of Independent Warehouses, Inc., making it the largest corporation of its kind in the world. Kresge new stock failed to improve in sympathy with the rapid rise in the old issue on the "big board."

Chief interest in the mining group centered in the activity of Hawthorne Mines which touched 5¼, a new top since trading was resumed.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Mar. 7.—Influenced by the record breaking decline of the French francs, the government's bond issues moved lower in today's market, both 7 1-2s and 8s losing about a point on heavy liquidation. The exchange situation also exerted a depressing influence on French municipal bonds bonds which yielded ground, along with Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6s.

Prices throughout the rest of the list wavered in moderate trading activity. Profit taking appeared in the St. Paul issues for the first time since the recent rally set in. Several of the road's liens closed the day the net losses, although the demand for the 4s of 1925 continued undiminished and at one time ran the price up to the year's high mark of 81 1-4, established yesterday. Mixed price movements took place in other railroad bonds, with a good demand for Norfolk & Western convertible 4s and the Missouri Pacific issues.

Further liquidation of Virginia-Carolina obligations developed following the admission by company officials that the company would show a loss from the current year's operations. Pessimistic statements on fertilizer trade conditions also contributed to fresh selling of American agricultural bonds.

Rumors of an early floatation of a $20,000,000 Swedish loan were revived, with an offering predicted before the end of the month. New railroad financing in prospect includes $12,000,000 Norfolk and Western 4 1-2 per cent. equipment notes awarded to bankers on a basis yielding over 5 per cent. and $20,000,000 "Big Four" 5 1-2 per cent. bonds.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Mar. 7.—Announcement of the purchase of two million bushels of Canadian wheat for May-July shipment to Europe led to a brisk rally in wheat prices today, and the market closed firm, a shade to 7-8c net higher, May 111 3-8 @ 1-2 to 111 1-2 and July 111 1-2 @ 5-8 to 111 5-8. Corn finished unsettled at the same as yesterday to 1-8 @ 1-4c lower, with oats varying from 1-8 @ 1-4c decline to 1-8c gain, and with provisions 3 to 12c up.

It was only near the end of the day that news got out about European buying of wheat. The two million bushel total included five hundred thousand bushels taken today, and the remainder covered amounts bought within the last few days. Great Britain and Italy were said to have been the principal buyers. In view of declines of foreign exchange, this buying for Europe was looked upon as of surprising extent, and had a corresponding decided effect as a stimulus to an upturn in values. Earlier, the market was weak in sympathy with corn and as a result of talk that the expected notice of a wheat tariff advance had already been discounted as a bullish factor. On the other hand, forecasts of bullish figures from Washington on Monday about farm reserves tended to assist the late rally.

Corn and oats declined owing to rather aggressive selling on the part of pit traders in corn. Commission houses, though, became fairly active corn buyers subsequently, and with receipts of corn here light a price recovery ensued that nearly offset the downturn. Consignments of corn to Chicago were reported diminishing, and offerings to arrive were virtually Higher quotations on hogs gave firmness to provisions.

GOSHEN

James Choquette finished sawing lumber on the York wood lot, last week.

A sign of approaching springtime was the sound of the wood pewee, heard March 1.

Mrs. B. L. Wooding of North Haven has returned, after spending several days with her daughter, Mrs. A. J. Randall, at Maple Hill Farm.

The Christian Endeavor meeting, held at the church Sunday evening was the regular consecration meeting, the subject, What Jesus Said About Happiness, brought out many helpful thoughts in the meeting. There was a social hour and sing, after the meeting.

Quite a novelty it was, on a recent evening, to send relay radio music by telephone several miles distant, which was heard very distinctly.

The following program of the institute to be held in Goshen church on March 11: Tuesday, Mr. Simms, dairy specialist, from Storrs, will speak on Feeding For Milk Production. In the afternoon Mr. Morgan, who took the soil survey in Lebanon, and Mr. Hendrickson, who took the economic survey, will talk on the results of their work. This should be exceedingly interesting to local people.

There was a good attendance at the Goshen Community club meeting, Wednesday evening. The program included the debate, Resolved, That Housework is More Important Than Farm Work. Mrs. J. A. Randall and Miss Clara Gillette were for the affirmative; J. A. Randall and W. T. Curry took the negative side. Both sides argued strongly. By a vote the question was decided in the negative. Then followed reading of the club paper, The Goshen News; dialogue, The Husking Bee. Sides were then chosen one-half of the company entertaining for fifteen minutes, then the other half. This proved especially amusing and interesting. Some fine musical selections were listened to from Providence over the club radio. Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Jones are the program committee for the next club meeting, to be held Wednesday evening, March 19th.

A woman sometimes sues a man for breach of promise merely to let the world know that she is still in the market.

NEW LONDON WOMAN TRIES SUICIDE—SENT TO NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 7.—Louise Disisido, colored, who claims to be 19, but appears to be between 35 and 40, attempted to end her life this afternoon by slashing her throat with a safety razor blade, during a fit of despondency. She was prevented from committing the rash act by fellow employes at the plant of the Kaybrook Manufacturing Co., Inc., Garfield avenue, and is now a patient for observation at the Norwich State Hospital for the Insane, at Brewster's Neck.

The woman has resided with Rev. Sinclair Grimstead, colored, former pastor of the A. M. E. Zion church, at 18 Shapley street and at the Grimstead home it was stated that she had been under the care of a physician from time to time because of apparent mental trouble.

The woman went to her work shortly after noon and had caused attention to be attracted to her by other employes because of her queer actions and a threat that she intended to end her life by throwing herself in the Thames river. About 1.30 o'clock the girl was observed to draw a safety razor blade and reach for her throat, but she was prevented from gashing herself by two other employes, near at hand. The woman was held under restraint until the police were notified and she was taken in charge by Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman Augustus Ray. She was examined at the police station and her commitment to the Norwich hospital was immediately ordered.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel has caused the operator's license of Henry Gavitt, 5 Pearl street, to be suspended. Gavitt was fined in the Danielson court on Monday of violation of the automobile law, in not providing himself with an operator's license, his arrest following the car he was operating Sunday being in collision with another machine.

The funeral of Charles W. Bolles was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. The bearers were Edward Keeney, William R. Stanton, Charles Anderson and Edward Winslow. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The New London authorities last night were requested by the New Haven police to be on the lookout for three automobiles stolen from the latter city. One of the cars was the property of a physician and contained drugs and surgical instruments.

Mrs. Domenica Capizzano of Westerly, Miss Irma Rood of Terrace avenue, Mrs. George Foote of Stonington, Mrs. Orville Allen and infant daughter of Gales Ferry, Charles Girouard and Mrs. Harry Long of Lyme, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

James F. Sullivan and Mary E. Sullivan have sold a house and lot on Warren street to James F. and Bertha M. Harrington.

Fanny O. Crocker has sold a house and lot on the east side of Howard street to Henry A. Crocker.

The Eagle Realty company has sold two building lots on the Burrows homestead plat, off Bayonet street, to Felix Mandler.

Mrs. George Sisson of Cole street is ill, threatened with pneumonia.

The voters of New London will go to the polls Monday, April 7th, and by their ballots decide when the city shall expend a huge sum for the erection of a junior high school. The action of the voters will decide a long controversy that has waged in the city council many weeks, some members of the council having the same opinion as the board of school visitors—that the school is needed, while other members of the council believe that the city is amply supplied with schools and that another high school is not required at this time. Ballots for the election were ordered of the secretary of state today.

Peter Lambrick broke his good record of staying away from the police court this morning, when he appeared on a complaint made by his wife. Peter became drunk and then he made things so hot at his home that his wife couldn't stay there and she asked the police to protect her. Peter pleaded guilty of the offense of intoxication when he had that opportunity and was fined $5. He paid rather than go to jail.

Theodore Laska will be in the police court tomorrow to answer to a complaint charging him with the theft of a gold watch and chain from the room of James Kirby, in the house of Mrs. Mary McGarry on Riley street, where Kirby was a roomer last January. Laska was arrested at New Haven, but his picture got into the newspapers and Sergeant Hammond, with the keen perception of a detective saw and recognized it. He also took the picture to Mrs. McGarry and she identified it as a likeness of a fellow who was rooming at her house when the robbery was committed. A warrant charging Laska with the New London robbery was issued and he was brought here, where Mrs. McGarry saw him and said he was the same man that was at her place when the Kirby watch was stolen. Mr. Kirby could not identify the fellow as he never to the recollection saw him. Laska was presented in court several days ago, when a bond of $2,000 was fixed to hold him. He couldn't secure that amount so is now where he will certainly appear tomorrow.

The Order of Eastern Star, auxiliary to the Masonic order, is in session this evening at Brainard lodge temple.

William Hyslop and Miss Mary Lloyd, both of New London, were married yesterday afternoon by Justice of the Peace Perry J. Hollandersky. Mr. Hyslop is employed by the Central Vermont railroad.

Miss Rita Sullivan has returned, having spent a week with friends in New York.

Beginning Monday, residents of Vauxhall street extension, Broad street extension and Phillips street will receive mail deliveries and collections. The government recently provided an appropriation whereby it is possible for the additional postal service to be had. The streets are in the corporate limits of the city, but have never been covered by mail carriers.

Adalf Tkaczynsky died last night at his home, 38 Spring street, after a brief illness.

Samuel F. Friedman, of the Columbia Leather Goods company, who was rendered unconscious at the Hotel Mohican Wednesday night, following swallowing three headache powders, is reported this evening as being vastly improved at Lawrence hospital.

A committee consisting of City Manager William A. Holt, Mayor Malcolm M. Scott and City Engineer George E. Watters visited the home of Miss Lina Beckwith on Broad street yesterday afternoon, in an endeavor to obtain an agreement with Miss Beckwith as to the amount of damages Miss Beckwith claims to her property as a result of changes made to it recently in order to make improvements to Broad street. No agreement was reached, however, the conference ending with Miss Beckwith agreeing to submit, in writing, a statement to the city council as to the amount she considers the property has been damaged, together with her reasons for arriving at her decision.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary E. Watrous, wife of John N. Watrous of Niantic, was held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Watrous' son, C. H. Watrous of Niantic. The services were conducted by Rev. George W. Potter, pastor of the Niantic Methodist church. The bearers were Harry A. Carlin, Frederick Metcalf, A. C. Saunders and Bernard Ray, all of Niantic. Burial was in Madison.

Roaming aimlessly about the woods adjacent to the former United States Housing corporation's plot on Jefferson avenue, was taken in charge by the police and returned to her home late this afternoon. She did not realize where she was nor where she resided. Shortly after 5 o'clock Dudley Donnelly and Mrs. Donohue, both residing near Jefferson avenue, telephoned to the police station, informing Desk Sergeant Samuel Hick that the woman was wandering about the woods. Patrolmen Patrick Sheahan and William Corcoran were dispatched to the place and after a brief search she was spied a considerable distance from houses. The woman could not give any intelligible information as to her identity. A young man finally identified the woman and informed the officers where she lived. Escorting the woman home the officers arrived there just as the woman's son reached home from work and the latter took charge of his mother.

TRADE OF UNITED STATES WITH THE TROPICS

Trade of the United States with the tropical world has shown a remarkable growth since the beginning of the war. Whether or not it is because of the disarrangement of trade methods resulting from the war, the opening of new steamship routes by the Panama Canal, the increased activities of the automobile for land transportation in the tropics or even the increasing use of tropical products which followed prohibition, it is at least a fact, says the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York, that our trade with the tropics has increased approximately 180 per cent. in value since 1913, while that with the non-tropical world increased but about 75 per cent. in the same period.

With the danger to sea-borne commerce which existed during the war, European countries gradually reduced their tropical imports for re-exportation purposes, and as a result the United States developed her direct purchases from the tropical countries and at the same time increased her direct sale to them.

Considering as tropical, or at least sub-tropical the American areas lying between northern Mexico and southern Brazil, the continent of Africa except the South African Union, and the countries and islands lying between northern India, the Philippine Islands and central Australia, the number of political divisions with which we inter-change merchandise — countries, colonies and islands—is 75, and our trade with them has grown from approximately $1,060,000,000 in 1913, to about $2,447,000,000 in 1923. The total value of merchandise brought direct from the tropical world (including our own tropical islands) advanced from approximately $640,000,000 in 1913 to about $1,620,000,000 in 1923, while the exports to these areas increased from about $400,000,000 in 1913 to approximately $830,000,000 in 1923.

While a part of this apparent increase, says the Trade Record, is probably due to the fact that certain tropical products prior to the war reached us from the European countries and were accredited to them in our trade statistics, it is quite apparent that our trade with the tropics has enormously increased. Practically all the tropical countries have increased the percentage which American products form of their imports. Our own official statistics show that our imports from Cuba advanced from $125,000,000 in 1913 to $376,030,000 in 1923, and the exports thereto from $73,000,000 in 1913 to $192,000,000 in 1923. Our imports from India advanced from $5,000,000 in 1913 to $55,000,000 in 1923; and from Egypt an increase from $17,000,000 to $39,000,000. Our imports from South America increased from $198,259,000 in 1913 to $466,917,000 in 1923, and our exports to that continent from $146,516,000 to $269,318,000.

The big increase in our imports from the tropics occur in rubber, fibers, and the gains in exports to that area consist chiefly of manufactures.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The Lost Letter

"Hip, hip, hurray!" shouted Little Jack Rabbit, hopping out of the Hollow Stump Telephone Booth, "I've been talking with David Cory. He's coming to Rabbitville on a visit. Hip, hurray! All the little bunny boys and girl rabbits will meet him!"

Then, away hopped the little rabbit through the Shady Forest to tell the news to his mother. Lady Love was just taking out of the oven a lovely carrot pie as her little son, all out of breath, hopped into the nice warm kitchen of her little house in the dear Old Bramble Patch.

out popped the letter from his pocket and fell into the water.

"I must post a letter to the Book Worm's Shop in Rabbitville," he shouted. "David Cory is coming!"

"Goodness gracious me!" exclaimed Lady Love, slamming shut the oven door, "where will he stay?"

"Ha, ha!" laughed her little rabbit boy, "Maybe at the Cabbage Hotel or the Apple House."

In Rabbitville, almost every house Is owned by a squirrel or meadow-mouse.

If they wish to invite Mr. David Cory Someone must add another story."

"Dearie me!" exclaimed the pretty lady bunny.

"Too bad our bungalow is so small, Is Uncle Dave Cory very tall?"

"I can't tell you from his picture," answered the bunny boy.

"You had better write to the Mayor of Rabbitville," she added as she sprinkled powdered sugar over the nicely browned carrot pie. "Maybe he'll give Uncle Dave the freedom of the city."

When the letter was finished, the little rabbit hopped down the Sunny Meadow. But, oh dear me. As he jumped over the Bubbling Brook, out popped the letter from his pocket and fell into the water. And when he reached the Old Willow Tree he couldn't find it. Wasn't that a shame. Well, I just guess it was. Although he hunted high and low, under the bushes and behind the Old Mill.

Meanwhile the letter had floated down the stream across the pond, past the big mill wheel, under the railroad bridge and then into the big river that emptied into the ocean blue.

"What are you looking for, little rabbit?" asked a kind voice, and there stood Mrs. Cow.

"Oh dear and oh dear," he answered. "I've lost my letter to the Mayor of Rabbitville.

"Write another," laughed Mrs. Cow, "that's easy," and she tinkled the little bell on her collar, and if you listen, perhaps you'll hear what it says in the next story.

He Liked to Be Kept in Mind.

The sultan of Trengganu was an adept at excusing himself for his slight deviations from the paths of righteousness. At least so it would appear from his story, which Mr. Charles Mayer, his one-time unofficial adviser and good friend, tells in his recent book on the Malay jungles. On one of my visits to Trenggand, he says, I spent several days with the sultan and discussed his problems with him. He owed a sum of money, and, knowing that he had money in the treasury, I asked him why he did not pay the debt. He was thoughtful for a time. "Well, I'll tell you," he said at last. "If I pay those people, they will forget about the sultan of Trenggana. If I don't pay them, they'll never forget me."—Youth's Companion.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Warm weather brought mud and water to Norwich fifty years ago and made it necessary for merchants to introduce novel methods in business, it being a common thing to see ladies drive up to store doors in carriages and wait for a clerk to wait on them.

Other happenings of interest taken from the files of the Bulletin of 1874 are in part as follows:

Monday, March 2, 1874—Some of the Norwich and New London ice dealers are awaiting a cold March in which to reap their annual harvest of ice. The warm weather of the past few weeks has entirely freed the streams in this section of the state, from their covering of ice. Skating is reported good however in the northern part of the state.

Daniel J. Woodward who has been superintendent of the A. H. Hubbard & Co. paper mill at Greeneville for the last forty years resigned his position Saturday.

Prof. Wiseman gave one of his skillful exhibitions of mystery and legerdemain Saturday evening at Breed Hall before a small audience. His work was worthy of praise and the well liked Japanese butterfly trick delighted the audience.

Tuesday, March 3, 1874—The question has arisen as to the origin in this country of the ox-eye daisy. It is claimed that the grandfather of General F. E. Butler propagated it in Litchfield county. A native of the good old Revolutionary town of Lebanon finds in the annals of the town a far different record of it. It is claimed by him that the daisy, a native of Europe, was first brought from thence to this country by Mrs. Trumbull, wife of the first Governor Trumbull of Connecticut, who resided in Lebanon.

Yesterday noon a delegation from the Good Intent hose company of Brookline, Mass., arrived in this city for the purpose of presenting a testimonial to, and exchanging courtesies with the Wauregan steamer company. They were received by the steamer boys and at 3 o'clock were tendered a dinner at the Wauregan house. In the evening the testimonial was presented by P. H. Cusic, foreman of the Good Intent company and received on behalf of the steamer by Col. Osgood. Tomorrow the visitors will leave for Newburg on a similar errand.

Now the fisherman lightly turns to thoughts of green pastures, trout and the fish law.

The lower streets of the city are now navigable for all crafts of light draught.

Clarence King, the famous scientist was visiting with friends in the city yesterday.

Wednesday, March 4, 1874—A new hose company was formed in Greeneville last evening and is to be called the Chelsea hose company. The organization was perfected by the election of James France, foreman; Charles Young, first assistant; Allan F. Chapman, second assistant; and David Mountain, secretary and treasurer. They are soon to have new jumpers from New York. The new company gives a ball Friday night in Owenego Hall.

A novelty in costume was observed yesterday on Main street, consisting of a white summer dress, with fur cape and ear tabs.

The pussy willow is now in bloom and numerous other shrubs are budding.

The Black Crook, by the Howard, Lingrishe & Carle company is to be presented in this city three days next week.

Thursday, March 5, 1874—James Bussey, Jr., the popular merchant tailor of Main street has taken into partnership with him, his son, Alvan Bussey, and the business will hereafter be conducted under the firm name of James Bussey & Son.

It is of interest to Norwich people to learn that three of the nine judges of the supreme court are natives of Connecticut, viz; Chief Justice Waite of Lyme; Judge Strong of Somers; Judge Field of Haddam.

Members of the Second Baptist society are to meet tonight to vote on the question of finishing the audience room of Preston chapel.

A fine testimonial from the Blackstone Hose Company to the Quinnipiac Fire Company of Fair Haven is on exhibition in Ripley's window.

A number of Norwich men sailed yesterday on the schooners which left New London for the halibut grounds.

Friday, March 6, 1874—Joseph M. Brewer, the assistant county clerk is arranging and labeling in a convenient form the ancient records of the county, at the new court house. These musty documents have hitherto lain in the dungeons dark of the Merchant's bank and this is the first effort to assort them properly.

The grand list of the town of Ledyard has just been made. There are 276 dwellings valued at $104,484.30, 276 acres of land, 1 stores, 13 manufacturies, 758 horses, 1,005 neat cattle, 940 sheep and 90 carriages. The list totals $632,630.

I. W. Carpenter with a gang of men started yesterday for Auburn, Mass., where he has purchased the harvest of an ice pond, to be shipped to the Greeneville ice-houses.

The subscribers to the new Congregational church are to meet next Tuesday at the Peck Library, Free Academy, to elect officers.

Small boys are reaping a rich harvest by ferrying people across the river at the new Greeneville bridge.

Eggs are plentiful on the market now at 26 cents a dozen.

Saturday, March 7, 1874—The Mowry Axle company like other companies cut their wages at the beginning of the panic but has now returned to the old wage schedule, advancing the pay in the plant 15 per cent.

A bovine monster, weighing 2,200 pounds was handled with cleverness yesterday by a local butcher.

Some of the new issue of the ten cent scrips are making their appearance in town.

Many local people attended the entertainment at Hyde Tavern last evening and thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Local people are interested in what is now taking place in Hartford where the matter of Sunday horse cars is being considered.

A Norwich patriot dressed up recently for the first time in seventeen years. To friends he admitted his only excuse for his present folly was that he was obliged to attend a funeral, and would not be lacking in respect for the dead.

ANDOVER

The Grange held a meeting Monday night in the town hall and served a supper. The program was furnished by North Coventry Grange, there were 32 from that number present and the same number from this grange. A fine social time was enjoyed.

Quite a number attended the funeral last Saturday of Mrs. Ellen M. French, held from her home. Rev. Mr. Williams of Hartford conducted the service. Burial was in North Coventry cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fitch of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Lois Fitch of Waterbury and Jasper Fitch of Manchester attended the funeral Saturday of Ellen French.

Miss Kate Pomeroy of Windsor, Conn., attended the funeral also.

Miss Mamie French spent a few days in town at the home of her aunt, returning Monday to her home in Bridgeport.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Thompson and little daughter and Mrs. J. C. Pelton, all of Springfield, Mass., spent Wednesday at the home of Mr. Thompson.

Little Dorothy Butler of Hartford is visiting her aunt, Mrs. William Thompson.

F. A. Sackett who has been confined to the house with a hard cold is recovering.

There is to be a dance in the town hall this week.

Miss Clara Thompson was a Hartford visitor Tuesday.

WILLINGTON

Charles and Frank Busse, who have been employed at Daleville, have gone to Staffordville to work in the button factory.

A Salvation Army man was about Tuesday, soliciting funds.

George Carter of Willimantic motored to Willington Tuesday.

Mrs. Walter Gahan's school gave an entertainment Thursday evening which was well patronized. Music, folk dancing and dramatics were pleasing features.

Miss Catherine Ricketts went to Boston Wednesday to visit her cousin, Miss Maude Ricketts.

Frank Pelikan, who has been working in Hartford, has returned home.

Miss Bessie Hock has formed a junior choir at the church.

Wilbur Waldo of Skungam, was buried in Willington Hill cemetery, last week Friday afternoon.

Miss Frances Merserean gave a party for her Sunday school class, at her home Saturday, afternoon.

Miss Jessie Bennett returned Sunday from a visit with her aunt in Pawtucket and her sisters in Pomfret and Goodyear.

Fred Bishop ran into the bridge at West Willington with his automobile, Monday morning. The car overturned smashing the top. Mr. Bishop was not injured.

Charles Lyon, with his cousin, Miss Etta Cleveland, and nephews the Keener boys, motored to Plainfield, Saturday and spent the weekend with his sister, Mrs. Robert White.

There is to be an oyster supper at the church, with social and games for the young people.

LEDYARD

One of the largest poultry plants in Ledyard is being put into operation on the Conrad Kierney farm, recently purchased by Hebrews from New York. Mr. Nelvin, the owner, purchased the farm and all the tools and livestock from Mr. Kinney. There were 200 hens in Mr. Kinney's flock. Mr. Nelvin has built a large brooder house holding 1800 buy chicks. This house is all completed, the brooder fires burning and he expects to have the first shipment of 1800 white leghorn buy chicks this week. In May he will receive 1800 more. He has already built two large henhouses and is commencing to erect the third house. He expects to devote most of his time to poultry raising.

Rev. G. F. Goodenough will preach in Bethlehem Sunday. Rev. A. E. Kinmouth will occupy the pulpit of the Congregational church.

Mrs. Isaac G. Geer entertained several of her neighbors recently. Two quilts were tied and all sat down to an appetizing dinner furnished by the hostess.

A school board meeting was held at Ledyard Center Tuesday afternoon. There were several absentees.

Mrs. Isaac G. Geer has returned home, after staying several days with Miss Emma Davis of Norwich.

Mrs. Arthur Goodenough, mother of Rev. G. F. Goodenough, who is ill, and Miss Helen Goodenough, sister of Mr. Goodenough, are visiting at the parsonage.

PAT MORAN, MANAGER OF CINCINNATI CLUB DIES AT CAMP AT ORLANDO, FLA.

Orlando, Fla., March 7.—Pat Moran, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, died here at 6.07 o'clock tonight of Bright's disease. He died fighting his last grim battle with the same determination he showed on the baseball diamond.

Mrs. Moran and their two children, hurriedly summoned to his bedside from Cincinnati, arrived a few hours before his death, but Moran had lapsed into unconsciousness and was unable to recognize them. He died in his wife's arms. An only brother, Tom Moran of Fitchburg, is en route here.

Hope for the manager's life was abandoned this morning and all efforts were directed towards keeping him alive until his family arrived. The end came peacefully. With him as life ebbed away was Jack Hendricks, life-long friend and assistant to the pilot, and Mrs. Moran, Johnny Evers, who came here to be with his friend, left the bedside a short time before he died. Attending physicians said Moran's lungs gradually filled with poison shutting off his breathing.

Moran's last words, addressed to Evers, were "Hello John, take me out of here." He then lost consciousness.

Moran's health began to fail during the winter, but he came south with the Reds in spite of his illness. On Monday the break came and he was taken to a hospital where it was believed his condition was not serious. Early last night, however, his condition became grave and today specialists said only a miracle could save him.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon a consultation was held, after which it was announced he could not live. During Moran's illness Hendricks has taken charge of the Reds training.

The Cincinnati club will go into mourning for 48 hours.

Moran's Baseball Career.

Cincinnati, O., March 7. — Patrick Joseph Moran, veteran baseball player and great manager, was a native of Fitchburg, Mass., where he was born February 7, 1876. He obtained his first professional engagement at Lyons, N. Y., twenty-seven years ago and soon graduated into fast company at Montreal.

Young Moran caught well, played a good third base and while never a heavy slugger, delivered hits when they counted. He was taken by the Boston Nationals in 1901 and soon became the leading backstop of that club.

When the Chicago Cubs began their wonderful career of triumph they bought Moran from Boston. He acted as Kling's adjutant through all the glorious campaigns of Chance's team and was chief catcher in 1910 the year Kling remained out of the game. After the Cubs ceased to dominate baseball Moran was sent to Philadelphia where he speedily became the manager and won the National league flag in 1915. Against the Boston Red Sox in the world's series of that season his team won only one game in five.

Moran left Philadelphia in 1919 and came to Cincinnati. He won the pennant that year and after the conquest of the White Sox in the world's series, was termed "the miracle man of the baseball world."

Moran maintained a residence in Fitchburg, Mass., while managing and playing in the major league. He is survived by a wife and two minor sons, Gabriel and Patrick Joseph, Jr.

PRINCETON TEAMS FACE STRENUOUS WEEK-END

Princeton, N. J., March 7.—With four major contests scheduled for tomorrow, Princeton athletes face the most important day of the late winter season. The hockey swimming and water polo teams will meet Yale while the basketball team will meet Pennsylvania in an intercollegiate contest.

The hockey team is badly crippled by the loss of several stars, Sayles, Trenholm and Stout being out of the game because of injuries, and Davis because of ineligibility. A Yale victory will mean the "Big Three" championship for the Ells while a Princeton victory will produce a triple tie, Harvard having lost to Yale and won from Princeton in the series.

If the Princeton swimming team can repeat last week's victory over Yale, when the Tigers broke Yale's string of 44 successive victories over a period of seven years, Princeton will have practically clinched the championship. Yale's water polo team which defeated Princeton, is expected to win again.

The Tiger basketball team will attempt to avenge its defeat at the hands of Pennsylvania by a one point margin in their first meeting this year. The game will be at Philadelphia.

CUBAN PLAYERS ARE BEGINNING TO REPORT

Havana, Cuba, March 7.—Mike Gonzales, catcher, will leave tomorrow for Clearwater, Florida, to join the Brooklyn National baseball team, by which he was recently purchased from the St. Paul American association club.

Adolpho Luque, the leading pitcher of the major leagues, will depart March 17 to join the Cincinnati squad.

Joe Rodrigues, infielder of the Bridgeport Eastern club, has returned unsigned his 1924 contract. Rodrigues was not satisfied with the terms offered him.

Gonsales, Luque and Rodrigues have been playing ball this winter in the Cuban National league and are said to be in good condition.

BERLENBACH IS MATCHED TO FIGHT DELANEY

New York, March 7.—Paul Berlenbach, who has won 23 knockout victories, tonight was signed to meet Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., in a 12 round decision fight March 14 at Madison Square Garden.

The bout will substitute for the Moran-Dundee battle scheduled for that date but called off today because of an injury to Moran's hand.

Delaneys most recent performance was a decision over Tommy Loughlin of Philadelphia, at Boston, two weeks ago. He is regarded as one of the four best in his class and is expected to give Berlenbach his first real test.

FAST GAMES IN N. L. MILITARY LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 7.—There were three close and hard fought games in the Military league tonight on the armory court. In the first game of the evening, which was supposed to bring together the Knights of Columbus and the Tabs was forfeited to the latter team. The Kaceys failed to put in an appearance and a pick-up team was picked up in the audience to represent the K. of C. five. The K. of C. pickups won by an 18 to 14 score. In the second game the J. N. Lapointe five surprised the fans by defeating the 26th Brigade Headquarters by a 16 to 10 score. The last game of the evening between the New London Ship and Engine and the New London Independents, found the latter five out in front by a 26 to 14 score. The line-up and summary:

OLYMPIC MARATHON TIMBER IN ACTION TODAY

Baltimore, March 7.—Olympic marathon talent will be seen in action here tomorrow in the second annual Laurel-Baltimore marathon, to be run over the full Olympic distance. Eighty-nine athletes, including the best marathon men in the country are entered in the race.

Prominent among the scheduled starters are Clarence DeMar, Boston, winner of the 1923 and 1923 Boston marathons; Frank Xuna, Millrose A. A., New York; Albert Michelson, Cygneta A. C., Port Chester, N. Y., winner of the local marathon last year; Gunnar Nilson, Finnish-American A. C., New York; William Kennedy, Cygnet A. C., Port Chester, N. Y.; Frank Wendling, Wildon A. C., Buffalo; Harvey Frick, Glencoe A. C., New York; and Charles Morris Nativity A. C., Philadelphia.

Lawson Robertson of the University of Pennsylvania, who will be head coach of the American Olympic track and field team, will referee the race, while Col. Robert M. Thompson, president of the American Olympic committee, will be present as honorary referee.

DEMPSEY CONSIDERING SEVERAL PROMISING OFFERS

New York, March 7.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, is considering a number of offers from promoters in New York and elsewhere for matches next summer with Tom Gibbons, Harry Wills and Luis Firpo, but has not signed any contracts yet, Jack Kearns, the titleholder's manager said today. It is understood, however, that Kearns practically has agreed to return matches with Gibbons and Firpo under the auspices of Tex Rickard, both contests to take place in New Jersey.

Dempsey will leave Monday for an indefinite visit to Salt Lake City, Los Angeles and San Francisco. He has recovered rapidly from the effects of an operation he underwent recently but will do nothing strenuous for several weeks. He has a vaudeville tour in prospect before training for active ring work.

INDIANS ON TRAIL FOR SOUTHERN CAMP

Cleveland, March 7.—Members of the Cleveland Indians tonight were en route to the spring training camp at Lakeland, Fla. Twenty-five players, all but eight of them pitchers, left Hot Springs. Several fielders started from here. Some players will join the groups en route, while others will go direct from their homes.

Bedgood is the only pitcher not in good condition. His sprained ankle is not sufficiently healed to enable him to walk without crutches.

Raymond Earl, 17 year old hurler from Fort Worth, who joined the squad at Hot Springs Monday, was released today.

Six Bike Teams Tied.

New York, March 7.—The six leading teams in the six-day bicycle race were tied at 2,006 miles and four laps at ten o'clock tonight, the 118th hour of the race. Georgetti-Declarck, a new combination, started a jam which resulted in their gaining one lap and which now includes three teams one pulling up into the second group lap back. Two teams are two laps back. Kopsky-Norantonio trail four laps.

Gogler Beats Spielman.

Chicago, March 7.—Louis M. Gogler, Indianapolis A. C., won today from Otto Spielman, Chicago A. A., 50 to 29 in 76 innings of the national amateur three cushion billiard championship tournament. Gogler had high run of four.

Dr. Andrew Harris, Chicago A. A., took his match with E. G. Wainwright, Pittsburgh, 50 to 43 in 46 innings. Both had high runs of five.

Gaston to Be Married.

New York, March 7.—Alexander N. Gaston, one of the few native New York sandlot products to become a member of the Giants, today obtained a license to wed Miss Virginia R. Weiss, of Ridgefield Park, N. J. They will be married here March 24. Gaston, with the Giants three years, recently was traded to Milwaukee.

MORAN-DUNDEE BOUT OFF WHEN MORAN INJURES WRIST

New York, March 7.—The 15 round return match scheduled for March 15 at Madison Square Garden between Pal Moran, New Orleans lightweight, and "Johnny" Dundee, featherweight champion, which was postponed today after Moran injured his left wrist in training, probably will be called off altogether. A date in May was offered the fighters but not accepted because of uncertainty as to Moran's condition.

Promoters are seeking to match Paul Berlenbach, middleweight knockout sensation, with Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., as a substitute card for March 14. Delaney, it is believed, would give the hard-hitting New Yorker the stiffest test he has had.

TIGER HOCKEY PLAYERS TO WEAR HEADGEAR

Princeton, N. J., March 7.—For the first time in the history of collegiate hockey the Princeton sextet will appear in the leather headguards when it meets Yale in the final game of the season in New Haven tomorrow night. The headgear was ordered by the board of athletic control as a protective measure against head injuries which have been frequent during the past season.

Tomorrow night the Princeton team will wear headgears reconstructed rom football headguards, but a specially designed helmet will be furnished the team in the future.

GIBBONS TO BOX DOWNEY AT DAYTON

Dayton, Ohio, March 7. — Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, and Joe Downey, Columbus, will meet in a 12 round contest at Lakeside park here, it was announced today, by Max Yinger, matchmaker for the North Dayton Amusement club, and representatives of the fighters. The bout will be staged March 14.

Whirlwinds Beat High "Y".

The Whirlwinds defeated the High "Y" yesterday afternoon by the score of 26 to 17. Ellie Siegel of the Whirlwinds was the star of the game, getting seven baskets. His floor work was wonderful. This makes the second time the Whirlwinds have defeated this team. The line-up:

Princeton's Protest Sustained.

New York, March 7.—(By The A. P.)—As the result of a protest by Princeton, based on an alleged erroneous ruling by an official, the Intercollegiate Basketball league game played last Saturday at Hanover, N. H., in which Dartmouth defeated the Tigers, 36 to 34, has been thrown out and ordered replayed at Hanover, March 15.

The Tiger protest was based upon a ruling by E. H. Hastings, of New York, referee, which resulted in a field goal for Dartmouth and the two points by which the game was decided.

American Bowling Tourney.

Chicago, March 7.—Urban and Sitlinger of Erie, Pa., by rolling 1278 for first place in the doubles event, featured the day at the American Bowling congress. Their team scores were 421, 438, 419.

Allen and Bauer, Detroit, also got in the standing when they hit 1262 for third position with 415, 421, 456.

Sharkey, Detroit, featured today's singles with 664, putting him in fourth place. He had games of 210, 238, 236.

Roush Signs Contract.

Cincinnati, March 7. — Ed Roush, centerfielder of the Cincinnati Reds, signed a three-year contract today. Roush arrived from his home in Oakland City, Ind., and after a brief conference with President August Herrmann, affixed his signature to the contract.

Miss Collett Wins.

Belleaire Heights, Fla., March 7.—Miss Glenna Collett of Providence won the Belleaire woman's golf championship tournament today, defeating Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of Merion Cricket, 3 and 2.

Williams Swimmers Win.

Williamstown, Mass., March 7.—Williams swimming team defeated Syracuse in a dual meet here today, 31 to 28.

R. I. FRESHMAN FIVE BEATS CHAPMAN TECH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Kingston, R. I., March 7.—Due to Braley's heavy scoring for the Rhode Island State college freshman quintet, Chapman Tech basketball tossers of New London had to accept a defeat at the hands of that team tonight, 48 to 34. Braley, playing the pivot position for the fresh five, was the big gun in that team's offensive and defensive play. It was his basket shooting that spelled defeat for the New London boys. Single-handed Braley almost accounted for enough points to win the game himself, scoring 15 baskets from the field for a total of 30 points.

It was one of the fastest basketball games played on the college court this season. Hewitt for the Tech team with seven field baskets was the best performer. The summary:

MAENNERCHOR TEAM WINS GYM MEET FROM "Y"

The athletic meet between the Taftville Maennerchor and the Y. M. C. A. senior class afforded quite a little excitement at the Y. M. C. A. last night when the visitors downed the "Yers" by the score of 19 to 28. The scores were close and both teams alternately succeeded in getting the lead at intervals throughout the meet. The Y'ers came to their defeat only through the last event, the relay race, when being in the lead, they were disqualified because of one of the runners leaving the starting line too soon.

Among the feature events were the tug of war, which called for some strenuous effort and which brought the spectators to their feet, also the chinning the bar in which Joe Savignac did 19 pull-ups. Some exciting high jumping also took place, Harris, Hargreaves, Shaw and Kundig, all Y'ers, tying for first with the bar at 4.11.

Broad jump—H. Seidel (M.), 9.8 8-6 Harris (Y), H. Krause (M.).

Tug of war—Y. M. C. A.—Two out of three pulls.

High jump—Harris, Hargreaves, Shaw, Kundig, tie, 4.11.

Parallel bar competition—Pillen, 18 points; H. Krause, Heibel (all M.).

Pull-ups—Won by M.—Joe Savignac 19, Makowski 18 (Y.), Grieco (Y.) 18.

Relay race—Lost by Y. M. C. A. by disqualification.

HENDRICKS SUCCEEDS MORAN AS MANAGER OF REDS

Cincinnati, O., March 7. — Jack Hendricks succeeds Pat Moran as manager of the Cincinnati Nationals it was announced here tonight following receipt of news of the Red leader's death.

Hendricks managed one major league club, the St. Louis Cardinals, several years ago and has piloted many pennant winners in the minors.

He joined the Cincinnati club this season as coach and assistant manager.

Mebs at Hartford.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 7.—The Mebs quintet, leaders of the Y. M. C. A. house league, will journey to Hartford Saturday night to take on the Swedish Lutheran five of that city. This game will be the toughest yet to be played by the Mebs, for although the Mebs met the Swedish Lutheran quintet in this city nearly a month ago, and were defeated by six points, yet the strange floor will be a handicap for the leaders of the house league.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

The famous Marathon of the Boston Athletic Association this year, as in other Olympic years, will serve as the Olympic tryout. For this reason the entry list is expected to be unusually large.

The construction of an eighteen hole golf course at an altitude of 7000 feet, which it is declared will be the highest in the world, is part of an extensive plan for the development of the original "Lucky" Baldwin estate in Bear Valley, California.

The Birmingham club has supplied itself with catchers. The latest acquisition, and he makes five, is Roy Spencer, transfegred from the Augusta club. The others include the two veterans, Claude Robertson and Johnny Vann, one of whom may be traded.

Chief Albert Bender has taken hold of the baseball squad at the Annapolis Naval Academy and expects to develop a winning team. He will be assisted by Eddie Milner, former captain of the Navy baseball team and famous as a college and amateur ball player.

At the meeting of the Eastern League at which the 1924 schedule finally was adopted, it was voted to rescind the rule against clubs playing exhibition games during the season. Clubs of the Eastern had fallen into the practice of postponing Sunday games to meet major league clubs in exhibitions and there was a protest that led to a rule against it. This rule was followed last year, but now the clubs seem to feel there is likely to be more money in the exhibition than in the scheduled games within the league.

Lee Fohl, now manager of the Boston Red Sox, visited old haunts in St. Louis the past week on his way to San Antonio with a batch of Red Sox battery men. Fohl visited the offices of the Browns, joshed Bill Friel and to hear him tell it to Friel the Browns won't get a foul off Boston all the coming season through. Boston's interest in the Red Sox was indicated by the fact that a half-dozen sports writers accompanied the first batch of players to San Antonio.

"JUDGMENT of the STORM"
At The Broadway Theatre, Today, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

It is now settled that the veteran pitcher, Jack Chesbro, will go to Florida with the pitchers of the Washington team as coach. Chesbro for several years has been a college coach, but he had the yearning to return to real baseball and when Clark Griffith made him an offer he grabbed it.

Few trades were made at the International League meeting in New York in one of them Baltimore traded Catcher Lena Styles to Newark for Catcher Otto Greene and Pitcher Ed TomMn. In another Newark also figured, getting Pitcher George Mohardt for Andy Anderson, utility infielder.

The Philadelphia National club has sold Pitcher Ralph Head to Fort Worth of the Texas League, and transferred Goldie Rapp, third baseman, recalled from Fort Worth, to Toledo, taking in exchange Catcher Lew Wendell and cash. Wendell is a veteran who was with Galveston last year.

The St. Louis Browns last week handed Tulsa another one when they shipped Pitcher Henry Meine to Jim Crawford's Oilers. Whether the handling was a lemon or a peach remains for Meine to demonstrate. He has been successful as a Class A pitcher in spots, but rather spotted.

Jim Elliot, big southpaw who had a trial or two with the St. Louis Browns, and was sent to Terre Haute in the Three-I league to wise himself up to how to pitch, has been shifted to Tulsa of the Western League, the Tulsa club transferring Pitchers Lou Kraft and Paul Sherman, two right-handers, to Terre Haute in exchange.

Doc Otis Crandall, who for 40-odd years has been pitching, here and there, is going to quit active mound duty and degenerate into a coach according to announcement from Los Angeles. It is not stated whether or not he will coach them in the bull pen or take them on his knee in the nursery and tell them the way they should go.

Sam Post, first baseman of the Springfield team of the Eastern League has done some scouting for the club and dug up a young semi-pro pitcher from Portsmouth who is said to be a wonder. His name is Raleigh Saunders, and he is a right-hander. He had several offers, but decided to cast his lot with Springfield on Post's advice.

At a meeting of the promoters of the Class D Dixie league, in Alabama, Florida and Georgia, four cities accepted franchises and two others announced intentions that were satisfactory. Clif Green of Montgomery was elected president of the league. The cities included are Montgomery, Selma, Dothan, in Alabama; Pensacola in Florida, and Albany and Columbus in Georgia.

An effort made last week to revive the Kitty League met with some drawbacks. Cairo and Paducah, the best bets in the league, refused to go along with the "take my check" policy of the organization and withdrew and it is reported an effort will be made to reorganize with those towns out, Milan, Paris, Dyersburg and "probably" Jackson, Mayfield and Fulton may enter. Doc Bassett was reelected president of the league.

A trophy cup—some call it a "loving cup"—will be awarded by the Western Association to the city having the largest attendance on its opening day this year. The cup, however, will not go to the baseball club of the fortunate city, but to the local Chamber of Commerce. That seems like a neat trick of President Seabough to get the Chambers of Commerce behind the boost for big opening day attendance.

The Detroit Tigers have made a delayed purchase of Jimmy Walkup, little left-hander of the Okmulgee team of the Western Association, and Jimmy has been ordered to report to the Detroit training camp in Augusta, Ga., to get his trial. The possibilities are that he will remain in Augusta as a member of that city's team in the Southern Atlantic League, or be transferred to Birmingham.

Bobby Roth, outfielder, is going to close up a more or less glorious career by playing a season or so with the shop league. News from St. Paul is that Roth signed a contract with a "welfare" club in Beloit, Wis. Roth, once a major leaguer, wasn't in right with Kansas City last year, so was released and St. Paul took him. Now he passes on. It is a matter of record that in spite of Bobby's belated efforts with the Saints the Blues won out.

Pitcher Dan Tipple of the Minneapolis team, who had signed to play with a shop team in Beloit this season, has repented and asked Mike Kelley to take him back. Carl East, who was also signed with the Beloit shoppers, also has changed his mind about jumping to the Industrials, it is reported.

The young man who thinks that his boss can't get along without him may have to get along without his boss later in the game.

FIRPO KNOCKSOUT SPALLA IN 14TH ROUND OF BOUT AT BUENOS AIRES

Buenos Aires, March 7.—(By The A. P.)—Luis Firpo tonight knocked out Erminio Spalla, the Italian heavy weight champion, in the fourteenth round of what was to have been a fifteen round bout.

The European champion's hopes to meet Jack Dempsey were dashed when Firpo put over one of his famous rights to the jaw and laid him flat upon the canvas of the ring.

Spalla put up a remarkably game fight against the Argentine. During the latter rounds, when Firpo was rushing, he successfully blocked many hard rights, any one of which would have sent him down for the fatal count.

In the in-fighting Spalla punished Firpo severely. The Argentine often was wild, so intent was he on giving his adversary the coup de grace.

During the early part of the fight Firpo used his left, but with little success. After the fifth round, when Spalla took the offensive and fought his best of the contest, Firpo used his right almost exclusively.

The knockout blow was delivered in Spalla's own corner one minute 45 seconds after the gong had started the fourteenth round.

The weights as announced were Firpo 216 1-2 pounds, Spalla 184 1-2 pounds.

FARM BUREAU HORSE SALE

AT 1:30 P. M. — WILLIMANTIC, CONN.

AT FITCH BARN

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12th

Thirty head of Horses, direct from North Dakota farmers will be sold at Auction, under positive guaranty. The horses are accustomed to all classes of farm work and are mostly of Percheron and Belgian breeding, from 5 to 9 years old, and weigh 1300 to 1900 pounds. A committee appointed by the Windham County Farmers' Association will inspect and hitch all horses prior to the sale and will report on each horse at the sale.

This is the third consecutive year that the North Dakota Farm Bureau, in co-operation with farm bureaus in New England, is holding co-operative sales of this kind. Practically every horse sold by us in the past two years has given splendid satisfaction. Ask your County Farm Bureau about our sales.

The Song of the Snow Bird

The ground was all covered with snow one day,
And two little sisters were busy at play,
When a snow-bird was sitting close by on a tree,
And merrily singing his chic-a-dee-dee.
Chick-a-dee-dee, chick-a-dee-dee.
And merrily singing his chick-a-dee-dee.

He had not been singing that tune very long,
Ere Emily heard him, so loud was his song.
"O, sister! look out of the window!" said she;
"Here's a dear little bird, singing chick-a-dee-dee.
Chick-a-dee-dee, chick-a-dee-dee.
Here's a dear little bird, singing chick-a-dee-dee."

"Poor fellow!" he walks in the snow and the sleet,
And has neither stockings nor shoes on his feet;
I pity him so! How cold he must be!
And yet he keeps singing his chick-a-dee-dee.
Chick-a-dee-dee, chick-a-dee-dee.
And yet he keeps singing his chick-a-dee-dee.

"If I were a barefooted snow-bird I know
I would not stay out in the cold and the snow.
I wonder what makes him so full of his glee:
He's all the time singing that chick-a-dee-dee.
Chick-a-dee-dee, chick-a-dee-dee.
He's all the time singing that chick-a-dee-dee.

"Oh, mother, do get him some stockings and shoes,
And a nice little frock and a hat, if he chooses.
I wish he'd come into the parlor and see
How warm we would make him, poor chick-a-dee-dee.
Chick-a-dee-dee, chick-a-dee-dee.
How warm we would make him, poor chick-a-dee-dee."

The bird had flown down for some pieces of bread,
And heard every word little Emily said.
"What a figure I'd make in that dress!" thought he;
And he laughed as he warbled his chick-a-dee-dee.
Chick-a-dee-dee, chick-a-dee-dee.
And he laughed as he warbled his chick-a-dee-dee.

"I'm grateful," he said, "for the wish you express,
But I've no occasion for such a fine dress:
I'd rather remain with my limbs all free,
Than to hobble about singing, chick-a-dee-dee.
Chick-a-dee-dee, chick-a-dee-dee.
Than to hobble about singing, chick-a-dee-dee.

"There is One, my dear child, though I cannot tell who,
Has clothed me already and warm enough too.
Good morning! Oh, who are so happy as we!"
And away he went, singing his chick-a-dee-dee.
Chick-a-dee-dee, chick-a-dee-dee.
And away he went, singing his chick-a-dee-dee.

There is no Death

There is no death, the stars go down
To rise upon some other shore
And bright in heaven's jeweled crown
They shine forever more.
There is no death the distant tread
Shall change beneath the silent showers
To golden grain and mellow fruit
And rainbow tinted flowers.

The granite rocks disorganize
To feed the hungry moss they bear
The forest leaves drink dryly life
From out the rainless air.
There is no death, an angel form
Walks over the earth with silent tread,
And bears our best loved ones away,
And then we call them dead.

It leaves our hearts all desolate
It plucks our fairest scented flowers
Transplanted upto bliss, they now
Adorn immortal bowers.
The dear loved voice whose hymns of love
Made glad this scene of sin and strife,
Sings now the everlasting song
Amid the tree of life.

And ever near us though unseen
The dear immortal spirits tread,
For all the boundless universe is life,
There is no death.
There is no death, the leaves may fall,
The flowers may fade and pass awey,
They only wait through wintry hours
The coming of the May.

GREETING FROM AN OLD WRITER

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: As the Social Corner is to have a birthday (mine comes on the same date) March 9, decided to send greetings from an old writer.

I am pleased to see many of the names which I was familiar with and the new ones receive my welcome, even if I seem slow in sending it. The Bulletin comes to me through a friend and I do not always get it so that accounts for my seeming negligence.

CENTENNIAL SQUARE

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

March 12.—Club No. 1, holds Anniversary Meeting in Franklin Hall, Willimantic.

ROLL CALL SUGGESTED

Dear Social Corner: Our anniversary month has arrived and I fear I shall not be able to attend a meeting. Was hoping to go to Willimantic with Primrose but have a nasty cold now, and while I am not "all bound round with a woolen string," I am all bound up with a good supply of lard and mustard, so expect to stay indoors for a few days.

Like Joan, I also hope some of the sisters will give us accounts of the meetings.

When nature puts on her coat of green and the blossoms come again, I hope to have another ride over the beautiful hills of Hampton and visit again with you.

The ride from here to Norwich is grand when the laurel is in bloom, so that is the time I hope to meet many of you at the Buckingham.

The Corner member who sends out all the nice little calendars is the one who draws out the writers for proof of which read all the nice letters we have had in the Corner page since the new year started.

Re all read Martha's letter in last Saturday's Bulletin, and I would add to it that it would be very interesting to all to have a roll call providing of course, that our editor approves of it, and cares to print a few names each week inviting an answer even if it is only, "Howdy, I am with you still," if no reply is given will we put the page in the column of those we know have passed on? I have no idea how many members there are in the Corner so perhaps I am getting too big a subject started. Feel sure that several have had many pen names in which case one would do and that the one used most. I can vouch for Flower Lover's cream puff recipe for I have used the same for years and never had poor luck.

I am going to tell you how I make dried apple fried pies. Think them easier to make and better than the old fashioned way.

Dried Apple Fried Pies: Stew and sift apple and season to suit, I like orange juice and caraway seed in mine. Take what self raising flour you think you will need, a little salt and wet with milk to the consistency for rolling out, roll thin, cut in rounds with small saucer, fold over just pressing the edges together and fry in smoking fat. After they are cool open up with a knife and fill with the sauce.

Bee True: I did enjoy your letter very much and hope you will write again soon.

Ino: If you visited Norwich the 5th hope you will write and tell us about it.

Rosalind: Enjoyed reading your letter, and as we have several whist players in Club No. 4 why shouldn't it be interesting to start a whist party and meet once in a while?

I wish now to thank all who so kindly remembered me with birthday cards. Some one has said, "We are no older than we feel," so see no reason why I should not continue as

TWICE TWENTY.

GREETINGS FROM ONE OF THE FIRST WRITERS

Dear Social Corner Friends: As the anniversary copy of the Social Corner will soon be in the hands of the readers we do not want to get left if we have to get on the last car. Let us hope there will be letters from nearly every member and old Social Corner and will give three cheers for the red, white and blue and the Social Corner which has done so much for you. One more with from RURAL DELIVERY.

SURPRISED AT DELINQUENCY OF WOMEN TAXPAYERS

Dear Social Corner Friends: I guess it pays to air one's troubles in the Social Corner as I did mine last week regarding the orange popcorn and the mouse. The mouse is caught, his troubles and joys ended and the goodman, fearing I had "thrown him up" rather disadvantageously, and that he might lose caste with the fair members of the Corner," got busy right away and disposed of the corn. I didn't intend to write again so soon but I have something on my mind I want to speak of. A few days ago while browsing in the Otis library I noticed three new volumes of good size and and attractive binding. To my joy they proved to be The Life and Work of Susan B. Anthony by Ida Husted Harper, a story of the evolution of the status of woman. I brought home the first volume, being the first one to have it out and now I have a feast of good things before me. I have so longed for a chance to read these books that I can hardly express my appreciation of this opportunity. It seemed almost strange that less than an hour after reaching home with this prize I picked up a newspaper and found these words confronting me, "Women do not pay their personal taxes." Killingly reports 350 women owing taxes for 1921 and 450 owing for 1922 and etc. My heart sank. I wondered how Susan B. Anthony would feel were she alive and should read that. I read the item to the goodman and said, "I feel sure no woman in the Social Corner has been so thoughtless or so neglectful of her duty as to allow her personal tax to go unpaid." That newspaper heading looked terribly bad, the men delinquents not being included in the heading, merely mentioned incidentally in the item beneath, Norwich is mentioned as having an average of two women delinquents to one man. It is, of course, something fairly new for us women to have this tax to pay and no doubt many a woman is merely thoughtless about it, but we should wake up about this matter just as much as about household affairs or matters of dress. Women like Miss Anthony almost gave their lives for the enfranchisement of women. Is this the way we show our appreciation of their efforts? Let us awaken to our duties as well as to our privileges.

I wish more women would read the story of the long struggle for woman's emancipation. It would rouse them from their lethargy and make them more alive to their civic opportunities and duties. We should never forget that with privilege goes duty. Let us bear in mind these closing words of Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman in her inspiring Chant Royal, "Women are free at last in all the land."

"Sisters, we now must charge the world we know
To one great garden where the child may grow,
New Freedom means new duty, broad and grand.
To make a better world and hold it so
Women are free at last in all the land."

Yours for growth,

EVELINE BURR.

THOSE IN CHARGE OF "THE WEDDING."

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I hope you will overlook my writing again, almost on the heels of my last letter, but I do wish to correct an error that was made at our last Corner meeting. I am afraid Neighbor Eveready handed me a number of compliments, which I must admit were very flattering, but as I am not in the habit of sailing under false colors, I am now going to explain the facts. The one who planned and "engineered" the wedding celebration was our modest little sister, Mary France. Her first lieutenant was Busy Bee; court adviser, April Flower 1580, while I was a sort of an "aide." I'll admit I doing considerable running around, but I was merely under orders, which I tried to execute without hesitation. As I have never had an original idea of my own, the whole affair would have been a hopeless mess, so doubt a divorce case in place of a wedding. But under Mary France's guiding hand I think the affair was a decided success. I noticed it caused the collapse of some at the gathering. Rose Lee, for instance, was so overcome that she fell into the arms of the only man present. Pretty soft.

Effie M.: Yes, sick from laughing. You know the old saying: "Laugh and grow fat." I must have put on about five pounds.

Well, if the weather is only as nice as it has been for the last few days, I anticipate a large gathering at our anniversary, which is next Wednesday.

Best wishes to all.

SIS HOPKINS.

KEEP THE GOOD WORK MOVING.

To Our Editor and Social Corner Friends: I am pleased to see our page so full of good helpful letters. I hope each one will try to do her share to keep the good work moving.

Neighbor Eveready: Dear daughter, I would be pleased to send you the recipes for your wedding cake and Francis' birthday cake if I could. You will have to call up Sis Hopkins and Busy Bee for them.

Olive: We miss you so much. Wish you had been with us last meeting. You would have been more tired than you were at my anniversary last June. Hope to see you this month.

Now spring is here we will be busy making over our old clothes. I have had a class in home dressmaking and one in millinery this winter. I finished hot soup with vegetables in it, and doughnuts. The rest brought goodies for the luncheon.

Dressmaking day I made over my old blue silk dress into a new blouse. Millinery day I made a handsome new hat. But as Neighbor Eveready's sister's four-year-old son thinks I would make a good grandma, I think my hat is too youthful for me. What do you think about it, Theoda?

Auguer: If we have another millinery class I will let you know.

Nemai: How is the traveling out your way? I hope you will come next Wednesday to the anniversary meeting.

With best wishes for our Corner.

MARY FRANCE.

EAST FROM FRANKLIN SQUARE

Dear Editor and Social Corner: Whirlwind seems quite interested in a part of my pen name so I am going to tell her why I took it.

I was the youngest of six children, four boys and two girls. My oldest brother being twenty years older than I, my father taught me to say, when he asked me my name, "Sweet Rose of Sharon." I dropped the "sweet." I probably am not as sweet as I was at that time. When I first told a school teacher my name I knew no better than to tell her the same.

A friend sent me The Bulletin's calendar. That corner is very familiar to me. I remember Dr. Elston even before he occupied that location. Going on towards Cliff street past what Charles Gale's candy manufactory, John Perkins learning the business there, later buying it out and extending it to its present stand.

Robert Herrick's grocery store, Isaac Roath's tin shop, William Congdon's marble works, C. W. Holden's hand made planes shop and the old Huntington house now gone to make room for the present building a part of it now occupied by R. F. Smith. An elderly man, Mr. Crocker, had a small store in the next building. Then came Joel White's residence with the lions in front on guard. We children were almost afraid of them. Then came J. B. Shaw's residence, now the Salvation Army home and George Smith's residence, later the Dawson home.

Cliff street hill was the place for coasting in those days for the old and young people. I lived on Main street near Franklin square my first 18 years. What changes have taken place!

The calendar brought many recollections to my mind.

North Dakota: Thanks for papers. Will write soon.

Best wishes to all.

ROSE OF SHARON.

ANNIVERSARY GATHERING FOR ALL MEMBERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Don't forget the anniversary gathering of Club No. 1 to be held in Willimantic, March 12th. The yellow catch string will be found on the door at Franklin Hall. In 1913 a little band of Social Corner writers met with Married and Happy at her summer home on the camp ground, and thus started the social element that has grown to such enormous proportions. Let's make this a banner day for it is the good old town where she worked so hard to make these gatherings a success. The other clubs need no invitation, for are we not all one band just divided for the convience of gathering place? So every body come. Bring plate, cup, knife, fork and spoon for you know we have no dishes, and of course something good for the inner man.

Rural Delivery and Jim: You are both "old timers," so why not join us? 'Sis Hopkin's orchestra" will furnish music.

Here's hoping for fair weather and a good crowd.

PRACTICAL POLLY.

GREETINGS FROM OWAISSA

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wrote to the Corner once or twice several years ago, but no doubt you have all forgotten me. I am writing again now to send in a poem entitled. The Song of the Snowbird" requested last week by Elizabeth Henry.

Though I have not written in such a long time, I have read and enjoyed the letters each week.

Narragansett: I was glad to see a letter from you last week. Hope you will write again soon.

Breeze: Hear you were having a bad cold. Hope you are feeling better now. We would like to have you come and see us some day. Now can you guess who's who?

Perhaps these few lines will answer for an anniversary letter, such as Martha proposed each member send to the Corner (Though I don't know as I can hardly be called a member.)

Best wishes for the success of the Corner.

OWAISSA.

SAVING HANDS SHELLING POPCORN

Dear Social Sisters: I just wanted to tell the sister that I can send her the words to the chick-a-dee-dee song if she will send her address.

Here's the way I save my hands and expedite the shelling of popcorn. Take a square of heavy cloth or bagging and put the ears of corn in, gathering up and holding firmly while beating it on the floor or any smooth surface till it is all shelled—a few seconds will do it.

A splendid filling or cake frosting is made by cooking together 1-2 cup of sour cream, 1 cup sugar and chocolate or cocoa to taste.

You, Ma of Green Gables, are in my mind every day now as I too have a cracked rib. I didn't stop to think that a tin can I was hastily opening with a butcher knife was much harder than my side when I lunged against it full force. It was very dear of the sisters to send me birthday cards, Favilla, Foxglove, True Blue, Don't Worry, Let me give thanks.

I'm losing lots of sleep now with the radio. But I'm getting darning done and rugs made at the same time. Such good things as one can just pick out of the air! And I believe there are more wonders to be found there when we have studied them out—or stumbled on to them, as we do.

BEE TRUE

WANTS HELP ON MENDING CHINA.

Social Corner Sisters: It is so seldom I write I guess you will forget me. I am interested just the same and enjoy the kindly, nice letters. I often wish I could have the pleasure of running in to have a chat with some of the writers. I do get very lonely for I am really a shut-in, in winter. I live far out in the country and see few. I try to amuse myself the best I can. One of the sisters was speaking of cobs soaked in kerosene for kindling fires. For those who do not have cobs, take old rags and tie in a hard knot and wet with kerosene. I think they will burn about as long as cobs. Try it!

Will the sisters write of a good cement to mend china or any earthen ware? I have some choice pieces I want to mend but know of nothing reliable. I wish I could say something that would help the Corner sisters. That is the aim. I will add this:

For colds in the head: As soon as you feel that you have a cold in the head, put a teaspoon of sugar in a goblet, and on it put six drops of camphor. Stir it, and fill the glass half full of water. Stir, then take a dessert spoon every twenty minutes. This is sure cure if taken as directed.

Graham Griddle Cakes: One quart graham flour, one teaspoon baking powder, three eggs and milk to make a thin batter.

Best wishes to all the sisters.

HELENA.

GREETINGS FROM ELNORA.

Dear Sisters: What a nice morning for March! Hope it will last.

Amy: Am glad you are getting better. Hope you will be able to come to the next meeting.

Rosaland: Just tried your gold and silver cake. It looked fine when it came out of the oven. After it had been out a minute it did not look so nice, for it fell. Think I did not use flour enough, but I used two cups.

Olive: Hope to see you the twelfth.

Effie M.: Did you try the yellow bell? I have apple branches all budded out.

Neighbor Eveready: Call again. Am home some of the time.

ELNORA (Aug. 31).

URGES OLD WRITERS TO GET OUT TO MEETING

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: The anniversary days are close at hand, and I presume the attendance will be more than usual which means that those who live at a distance will make a special effort to be present. Sister Primrose says, she expects to attend the meeting of Club No. 1 and also asks, "Who will go with me?" If she had said, "Whom may I expect to meet there?" I should be pleased to respond for one, by saying, "I am planning to be there, and hope to see you." I was thinking how nice it would be, if some of our former sisters, whose letters have not appeared for several years, and perhaps the writers feel they are no longer members of the Social Corner would come out to the anniversary meeting. I feel sure they would receive a hearty welcome and all enjoy a real reunion. There are several I have in mind as I suggest this. As it is not convenient for me to attend meetings very often, I do not know who are regular attendants, or what became of some of the early writers.

The first meeting I attended was April 13, 1916, held on Valley street in Willimantic. I should be pleased to see some of those at this next meeting that I met for the first time eight years ago.

Bo Peep, where are you? Surely you must wake up.

Juliet and Loretta: Come and renew a good time.

Aunt Hester from Mystic: I should love to meet you again. Why should you be so silent?

Golden Rod and Brownie: I remember you both very well.

Eloise, Elnora and Tiny: Can't you join in with us this time?

Merry Widow, from Yantic: I should like to talk it over with you about the boat trip we took around Lake Coventry. You wrote your name in my little book, while we were in the launch.

Sister L. H. K. was my partner in the grand march, which preceeded the dinner at the picnic held in the pavilion at the lake on June 21, 1917. Can't you come and be my partner again?

I hope the weather will be favorable on March 12th for those sisters who have been ill and shut in, that they may be able to enjoy this anniversary gathering.

Glad to know Amy and Brave are gaining. Only a few weeks more and we shall have warmer weather and the welcome song birds and flowers. What a wonderful consolation that nature never disappoints us with the return of beautiful spring days, after the cold and sleep of winter. Best of good wishes to all and hoping to see many of you soon.

JENNIE.

PASSING ON

Dear Social Corner: I am just home from a visit with dear friends, one of whom has passed away and left a loving family to mourn his loss, whose work in this life is finished and how sad are the hearts of those who are left and who now are the real sufferers. We can only wonder where, oh, where, they now are and if we shall meet them again and know them as in this life and who can tell us if they are near or far from us and as one after another passes on almost day after day, we wonder why we are left. But God's ways are not as ours else there would be no God. We must submit to the mysteries and our longings and questions give us no satisfactory answer. That there is no death I truly believe but what to us comes after seems to me to be beyond all human certainty try as we may to solve the problem.

I am sending in a little poem, the author of which I do not know, but I have often found comfort in reading it when deep shadows have lain heavy in my heart.

I am always glad to see the nice letters in the Social Corner and glad there are so many of late and hope to write a more cheerful letter when I come again.

I am sending in a recipe for an omelet which I think very nice but but it may not be new to you all.

Omelet: To each person take one large egg and beat white and yolk separately and thoroughly. Now to the yolk add one half cup of sweet milk one level tablespoon of flour and a pinch of salt and beat thoroughly. Turn onto a fairly hot griddle then spread the beaten white on one side of the cake and fold the other side over it and turn back and forth until nicely browned and well done. Then turn onto a warm plate. Spread with butter and eat right away. It was made for me by a friend and I asked for the recipe to send to the Corner. With love to all.

JERUSHY SPICE.

FEED THE BIRDS.

Social Corner Friends: Our last snow storm was a very hard one for the birds, as a hard crust formed on the snow and made it very hard for the birds to get food. We feed the starlings, blue jays and one pair of doves that come often for food. I remember a few years ago we carried grain into the woods for quail and partridge, snow being very deep and a crust so hard one could walk on top. A flock of starlings found shelter under a bank, through the winter, and often came into the yard for food. Feed the birds.

Three sisters of the Corner sent me postcards for November 6th. I wish to thank two that I know, Anna Mell and 1492—the other I am guessing as to who is who. I was away for a few weeks so was delayed in thanking each through the Corner.

I had a pleasant time in reading the Corner pages after I came back to Melrose.

Today is like a spring day. One year ago at this time we had our real winter. Later on it may be more like a lion than a lamb.

SATURDAY EVE.

THE WINTER WOODS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Here is another wandered returning after an absence of many months, indeed more than a year from the page some of us call "Our Page," and which they loyally wish to have filled to overflowing with friendly letters so that each last little advertisement shall be crowded out. Way down deep, I have a sneaking idea that friend editor rather thinks he is going to put one little ad on our page anyway because all editors have an eye for a snug corner for some pet ad, and he thinks our page just about right.

Ill health and lack of material suitable to appear over my chosen pen-name must excuse my long absence which would seem to indicate indifference and a falling away from friendship with those who, while strangers, are yet friends. But my friendly interest bridged the gap though somewhat flimsily.

This golden winter sunshine falling like a blessing on bare brown hills, golden, too, in the enveloping flood of light, drew me out into the keen, invigorating air of this practically scowless winter—drew me to the hills, there happily to wander, seeking, while still wishing the quietness of the winter to remain, for signs of awaking life in tree and bush and for green things peeping forth here and there, for silver pussies putting out just one silver paw to see if warm weather is here and for birds early returned from the south.

How many I wonder of this sisterhood are there, I inquire, any brothers modestly screening themselves in their fairness behind names which one would take to be feminine? I have seen masculine pen names now and then in the past but did not feel sure they represented real he men or just she women who were seeking amusement by passing themselves off as Social Corner brothers) how many of this disgerhood, I repeat, have been enjoying the delights of the winter woods and fields by actually laying to the brown green their shoe soles, not content with only a harrassing glance from a swiftly moving vehicle on the road, or loving looks cast fieldward, when passing by, too enwrapped in worldy cares and pleasures to climb the stone wall and visit with Dame Nature?

I fear the number would be small even if we should search the whole town.

But this I know: Others may forget the woods in winter, but I remember them and love them so much that, circumstances permitting, I go, and shall always go, into field and wood in dead of winter,—empty phrase though it is this year.

The above was written about two weeks ago. Since its writing, snow has fallen. Mild weather melting it, it has frozen again until I can see from my window a shining line extending from each bright light quite a way over the glare of frozen snow, making a pretty sight as there is quite a line of lights in view.

Two mornings ago I went out into the bright, icy, snowy world about nine, bound for the place I had reason to believe pussy willows could be found. I did not visit this spot last spring and possibly the willows have been cut down. I looked at a bush or two but seeing no shining gray coats peeping from brown coverings, as the ground was too rough to search long, I went further and was rewarded with a small bunch of these harbingers of spring which since have grown in water to full sized pussies.

I hope others of the nature lovers among the Social Corner sisters and shall I say brothers?—will write of their love for the winter woods.

PEDESTRIAN.

HOT CROSS BUNS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: My, but what a grand crowd we did have at our gathering this month, didn't we? We were all glad, I know, to have so many of the Willimantic sisters with us. I hope there will be as many of the Norwich crowd go up there next week.

Chelsea: Sorry your little girl was ill, so you could not attend this time. Hope she will be better so you can go to Willimantic with the corner next Wednesday.

True Blue: I am working on that pattern you loaned me. I don't know whether I'll master it or not, but am trying hard.

Calla Lily: Glad you liked the buns. As I promised to send in the recipe, here it is.

Hot Cross Buns: 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 yeast cake, 1 cup scalded milk, 1-2 cup lukewarm water, 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon, flour for a stiff dough.

Add shortening, sugar and salt to milk and scald, when lukewarm, add yeast cake, dissolved in the lukewarm water, add spice, egg well beaten, and then the flour. Mix well, cover, and let rise over night. In the morning, divide into pieces, add as many raisins or currants as desired, for each piece and form into neat buns. Let rise until light, and bake in a moderate oven 25 minutes. Cool, and with frosting, make a cross on each bun. Before frosting them, dress the tops while hot with sugar or molasses and cream, mixed if you wish to have them look nice and shiny. With best wishes to you all.

BLUEBELL.

USE OF SACCHARIN

Dear Social Corner Members: A year ago the recipe for mother's cookies was sent in but the print that day was blurred and many could not read it. I have had several requests to repeat it and here it is.

Mother's Cookies: 2 cups sugar, cup butter, 2 eggs, 2-3 cup of milk, 2 teaspoons cream tartar, 1 teaspoon saleratus, nutmeg or other flavoring, flour enough to roll. I use a plat of butter and lard, or drippings. Recipe calling for flour enough to roll means how much usually. That's a sticker for young cooks. Let's have some ideas about it please.

Photographer: Noted your query about saccharin which is much used in place of sugar. Would advise you to send for a guide to diabetic cookery by Fredrick Lepoe (M. S. Pa) Great Britain. Published by Collet & Co, 74 Regent street, London, England. This is filled with recipes for making all kinds of desserts, cakes soups, etc.

Many recipes call for glycerin in place of saccharin. Another excellent book is The Starvation Treatment of Diabetes, by Lewis Webb Hill, M. D. and Rena S. Eckman, published by W. M. Leonard, Boston, Mass. It has a series of graduated diets.

You will have little trouble in custards and puddings, by using one and one half tablets of saccharin, in place of 3 tablespoons of sugar. Cakes are apt to be made thinner and harder, than when regular recipes are used. If you will write me your questions direct may be able to assist you.

As ever, for the Corner.

NEIGHBOR EVERREADY.

GREETINGS FROM KENSEY

Dear Social Corner Members: As this is my first letter since I received my pretty calendar I will now thank the giver. I was pleased to be remembered by someone, and have often wondered if the giver lives near me, or is from afar. I am writing this to greet you all on our anniversary. May the Social Corner in the future be as good as in the past. Hope this will find all the invalids improving.

Caramel Custard: One cup of milk, three level tablespoons brown sugar, one level teaspoon of butter, two level tablespoons of corn starch, one-eighth level teaspoon of salt, one level tablespoon of chopped nut meats.

Place the milk in double boiler over hot water and when it is hot, add the sugar. Mix the corn starch with a little cold water, stirring until free from lumps, add to the hot milk and cook the mixture for 25 minutes. Remove from the fire and add the butter, salt, and nuts dipped in cold water. Place in the ice-box till chilled. Remove from the mold and serve with cream.

KENSEY.

SUGGESTION REGARDING THE GOLDEN ROW

Corner Pals and Friends: As this is to be the anniversary week, I shall not write a long letter and take up too much space, for I expect there will be many who will want to just send in a report. I have had much enjoyment since I joined the Corner and met with many very nice friends. Was at the meeting at our dear Aunt Abby's when Club No. 1 was formed on March 14th 1915. Then there were but 15 members and see what a large club we now have. There were several visitors from Club No. 1. I am wondering how many of the earlier writers have a copy of the Club song written by Married and Happy, Club, The Golden Bow. I think it would be nice for the sisters to have it and commit it to memory and sing it at the club meetings in memory of our late sister, Married and Happy. I suggest it. She composed it in 1913 and it was sung at Coventry lake.

Calla Lily: I, too, have a Social Corner register and when you pay that promised visit we will look it over. Perhaps I may have something you would like to copy. The Corner has been a great help to me in many ways. I have won many of the prizes offered at the different meetings besides many given out by the editor. Good luck to the editor and staff and long live the Social Corner is the wish of,

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

VALUE OF CHEESECLOTH IN THE GARDEN

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It has been some time since I have sent in my bit and as March is the month I tarry longest will appear again. I do enjoy reading the letters and think we get so many helpful ideas from the Corner. I am wondering if all the sisters know the value of cheese cloth in the garden.

By sowing a variety of hardy annuals and covering the seed beds at once with strips of cheesecloth held in place by slender sticks, seeds germinate and the young plants put forth leaves under the protection of the cheesecloth as readily as if they had no covering and when grown, where they are to remain, plants get as good a start before the heat of the summer that they bloom as readily as if started in gentle heat. Sisters, get your hardy annuals and try this. You will also find the cheesecloth a protection against frost. Just wrap it around your plants in frost time and see how well you are repaid by longer season blossoms.

Here is one for the farmer sister to try if she wishes early corn. Plant the seed a month in advance of the time generally considered safe. Instead of making the usual hills dig out more earth than is the custom, leaving it in mounds at the side of the depressions, and sow the seeds three inches below the general level, put in an extra allowance of seed and cover the sunken beds with cheesecloth. You will have the pleasure of seeing your blades of corn poke up through the cloth long before your neighbors plant theirs, the result will be, you will have corn a month in advance.

Here is also another suggestion for the lover of plants. If you wish satisfactory results from your geraniums in winter you must grow plants for winter blooming and in order to have them in proper condition for this we must begin with them in the spring. Take plants grown from cuttings the year before. Keep all buds picked off during the summer, keep the plant at work during the summer season getting ready for winter work. If given proper care it will begin blooming as soon as given a chance to do so.

FRECKLES.

ANSWERS SISTER EVEREADY

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Neighbor Eveready gave Club No. 4 such a bread hit that I wanted to answer her.

I had the Social Corner sisters two years ago and only the members of one club came. I have forgotten why the other club members did not find me. Where was Neighbor Eveready?

During the winter months it seems to me we could meet with just our own members as the most of us have not room for a large crowd. But if we had a few members as interested as our sister, she might find a place where we all could meet. I for one find myself too busy to go many times a year.

Aunt Jerusha: Did your have dinner with us about eight years ago when your son Harvey was living with us? Hope to meet you at the March 13th meeting in Willimantic. Glad you received a prize.

Avon: How are you since our ride in October? Why don't you call me up at the store? I have been keeping it for three weeks while my daughter has gone to Florida in a new Jewett. Will you be with us on March 12th?

Annette: How are you, and how is your sister Carrie? I would like to see her and I am sorry Agnes and Beans are gone. Do you still remember my brother Charlie? Shall I see you March 13th if I can go?

Where are the rest of our sisters that don't write?

1492: Is the hill so high and the sun too bright for you to find your pen.

Bee True: How do you find yourself this month? I can see your windows full of beautiful plants in my mind's eye.

LAST ROSE OF SUMMER (Aug. 31.)

A SUGGESTION FOR THOSE WITH AUTOS.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters and Brothers: I have been a silent sister long enough. It is about time I wrote and thanked the sisters for the many helps I received from them. Wish I knew more of you. I have in all about seventy-five names and only a few that I know "Who is Who." I wish I might hear from someone about Dark Lantern. I go by there quite often. It is a lovely some place and used to be more so before the new road was put through.

I wish I knew who Dom Pedro is for I wish so much to tell her how sorry I am for her, she has been so sick. Hope she is better.

What wonderful weather we are having! Our place is so sunny my plants are doing fine. Those of you who have cars will soon be enjoying yourselves. If those who own cars would take someone to ride who doesn't have a car how much more pleasure could be gotten from the trip! If I had a car I would take all the old ladies to church who cannot go unless taken by someone. I hope I can go to Willimantic this summer with the yellow bows. I wonder if Twice Twenty ever goes. I think Bug goes and she takes Free Air with her. They are good workers. Well, I'll ring off as it's most supper time, with best wishes for all the Cornerites, from

KINGSTON BROWN.

CHILDREN SHOULD BE HEARD AND SEEN

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I think that children should be heard as well as seen. There is an old and familiar saying, "Children should be seen and not heard," but are there any of us parents in this day of educational advancement who continue to indulge in this narrow thought. If so, oh, misguided and deceived friends, it is my theory that freedom of speech with my children is that which teaches them freedom and advancement of thought. Allowing them to express in a modest way their ideas upon interesting subjects renders them bright, clever and capable and establishes in them a self-confidence obtainable in no other way, make them feel when in presence of others, that they are expected to do their part toward the enjoyment and entertainment of the company. I do not mean that they are to do this by foolish pranks, or by oft-repeated funny sayings. Nothing is more repulsive than this in children.

Do you realize that in place of teaching children not to talk, we should teach them "how to talk" and "what to talk." Let them enter into the conversation of the home, keeping subject always bright subjects, interesting and happy. Children will do what you expect them to be. They are imitators and are clever at the art.

Let their training be such that when callers come when you are busy, that can go to the door and greet them in a cordial manner and play the part of host or hostess until you are at liberty to entertain.

Children's hours at home should be made as happy and natural as possible thereby developing in them originality, personality and character. We and we alone are responsible for the place our children are to take in the world.

My dear readers do not send your children away from home to learn manners, and the different forms of etiquette; they learn much more readily and graciously at home.

Parents oftimes blame their offspring for being slow and stupid, when they themselves are to blame. When children begin to notice, when their little ears are open to hear conversation, parents usually send them from the room or talk hog Latin or some other unknown gibberish to keep them from "knowing too much" Humans are the only animals to retard the growth (mentally) of their progeny. The more highly civilized we become, the longer we keep the young in ignorance. On the other hand we must be careful not to push forward too fast. We think the professor of the University of Chicago who taught his two year old son Latin and another who taught his two year old son to hang by his arms showed too much speed.

WISELY.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I'll try and do my little bit by writing a little to help fill the page.

There are so many nice letters and the page has been kept so full I hope it will continue to be so.

It is nearing spring again and it will only be a short time now before all traces of the ice and snow will be gone and the birds will be coming back and flowers begin to grow again. I think we all enjoy the flowers and birds.

I have had a real busy winter. I crochet a great deal and always keep some work to pick up. I do some of my own sewing and as I have a little fellow I sew quite a little for him and take him out as much as I can.

As I see quite a few are sending in recipes which we all like to try, I'll send in a couple which I use quite often.

Delicate Raisin Cake: 1-2 cup butter or shortening, 1 1-2 cups sugar, 2 eggs, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 1-2 cups flour; 2-3 cup milk; 1-2 cup raisins, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Lima Beans en Casserole: 2 cups dried lima beans, cold water, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, milk, butter.

Soak beans overnight in cold water or prepare without soaking, drain and add hot water just enough to cover and simmer until tender. Put into a casserole add seasoning, dot with butter, add milk to partially cover and bake in a moderate oven. Serve about five. When making loaf cakes instead of making one large loaf I make two small ones as there are only two of us and they always look nicer than one big one and seem to keep fresher looking. I've used Photographer's recipe for Almira's Cake and it is fine also Dear Klute's hot milk cake.

Best wishes to all.

MIDGET (Aged 16)

CAN ANYONE HELP?

Dear Social Corner: In reply to Elizabeth Henry, I am sending the Chicka-dee-dee song. There may be more verses but this is all I recall.

I am interested in the letters, and as I am a shut-in this winter can anyone give me the piece of poetry that is entitled "There is Black in the Blue of the Sky?"

E. W. L.

HAS SAVED ALL THE CORNER PAGES.

Dear Corner Members: As this is the 14th anniversary week I will send a word of greeting and hope all will respond as Martha suggested. Congratulations are due the editor for the success of this department. Its helpfulness, in many ways, is demonstrated continually. It is apparent that the majority do all in their power to make the social time a success and we all should be even more anxious to make the page a successful enterprise as was the original intention.

The first Social Corner page appeared March 8, 1910. There were just six letters and were written by Aunt Sally of Bozrah, J. I. C., L. M., Bach of Colchester, Kitty Carnip, Rural Delivery and Mrs. Cheerful Farmer of Moosup. The next week the pen names of Practical Prudence, Smiling Jennie, Rural Delivery, Mrs. F. H. W., Mother, Cousin Keturah, Job Job, Aunt Prudence and Sister Nellie appeared on the page. After this we saw the names of Aunt Keziah, Joan, Salemite, Jane Jones, Helpful, Cousin Rebecca, Wm. Henry, Domestic, etc. It was more interesting as they usually added the town in which they lived. I could show Mickety Ann the first page or any other she wished to see.

As item was omitted from the report of our last meeting about our Donation day collection which was very good and the amount was $18.35, $1 of which was sent to our shut-in sister Diana, as is our custom. The rest was equally divided between the welfare bureau and Salvation Army.

Why do we never hear from an old time writer, Polly Peppermint any more? You are not forgotten; your letters are missed. Nat and Jane Ann are other writers whose enthusiasm seems to have waned but the memory of the hearty laugh over their quaint and jolly good letters make us long for more. A glance at the first pen names shows how few have been faithful all these years to the Social Corner page.

May the page continue in its helpfulness and not only in membership but in efficient service from each to all.

THEODA.

FINE TIME AT ANNIVERSARY MEETING.

Dear Corner Folks: I went to the anniversary meeting on Wednesday and I had such a good time I must write a few lines about it. Of course in the morning it was my kind of weather—cold and foggy—but nevertheless, Free Air came along with her nice closed car and Bug with her, and we started. We were a little late owing to Free Air's better half letting someone have her car in the morning, promising to be back in time, but, man fashion, was a little late. I really don't know whether Free Air lost her temper or not, but anyway she was smiling when she came. I never saw her when she was not, so I guess she was all right. Bug was smiling and happy, but someone at the meeting asked her if her mother was there and as her mother has been dead many years, of course she was rather astonished and answered, "No! Why? They said, "Is not Ma of Greene Gables your mother?" Of course she answered no. Well, I was very pleased if someone thought I was good

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS

Richard E. Hourigan Post No. 594, Veterans of Foreign Wars held its regular meeting Tuesday evening, February 26th at the post rooms in Venice Hall. The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Commander A. J. Turner. The usual routine business was transacted after which Commander Turner spoke briefly on the membership drive which is taking place all over the country.

He mentioned the prizes being given by the National Department to posts making the best showings. The local post is steadily gaining in membership and each Saturday afternoon from now on the recruiting committee will be at the post rooms to welcome any overseas Buddy desirous of joining the organization.

Plans were discussed for the coming poppy sale. The V. F. W. poppy this year will be known as the "Buddy Poppy," made exclusively by disabled veterans, the proceeds for the relief of ex-service men.

The entertainment committee is planning a red letter [illegible] organization in the near future. The post has also received word from Senator MacLean that the bill for the Adjusted Compensation Act, now before congress, this week being in answer to a message recently sent him by the post.

Following the business meeting, "messcall" was sounded and refreshments were served. The entertainment committee was in charge of comrades Grover, Lessenden and Fitzgerald. The refreshments and treat were furnished through the generosity of the Ladies Auxiliary, for which the post gave a vote of thanks.

ODD FELLOWS

A class of candidates was put through the initiatory degree at the meeting of Uncas Lodge, No. 11, held Monday night at Odd Fellows hall on Main St. There was a large attendance when the meeting was opened by Noble Grand Herbert Spencer and considerable routine business was transacted. Following the business a social time was enjoyed in the banquet room.

The regular meeting of Shetucket Lodge, No. 27, was held Monday night at Odd Fellows hall in charge of Noble Grand Walter Kelly and after the business session a class of candidates were put through the first degree. The work of the degree was ably handled by Degree Master J. J. Parsons and staff.

Plans for the good of the order were also discussed and interesting events are scheduled for future meetings.

Members of Palmyra Encampment No. 3, are looking forward to Tuesday evening, March 11th, when over 25 Norwich men will go to Willimantic as guests of Windham Encampment, No. 10. The Windham Encampment is to work the third degree on people degree on that evening after which a social time is planned.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

The meeting of the Clara Barton Tent, No. 7, held Tuesday evening in Buckingham Memorial was one of the most interesting in some time, and had a large attendance.

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Genie Evans and the report of the chairman of the ways committee showed $14 realized through the whist held last Friday evening. It was voted that a sum of money be donated to the Boy Scout fund. Plans were also made for a rummage sale to be held in the near future, also for the serving of a baked bean supper.

At the next meeting of the Tent the seventh anniversary of the institution will be observed and invitations have been extended to the Sons of Veterans and comrades to attend the meeting.

The sewing circle will meet [illegible] on the first and third Tuesdays of each month, the same hours as the regular meetings, the first meeting to be held March 18th in charge of Mrs. Lucy McDougall, chairman of the Sewing Circle.

AMERICAN LEGION

The state department of the American Legion is working very hard to increase the membership and, also, to secure the passage by congress of the adjusted compensation bill.

State Commander F. P. Armstrong and Adjutant Parsons are visiting the posts all over the state and the veterans are responding to their efforts by enrolling in large numbers. Last Saturday night they attended a banquet of the Fairfield County Legion association at the Hotel Green, Danbury. It was the largest gathering of Legionaires ever held in that city. The speakers were County Commander Barlow, Major Tillow, State Commander Armstrong, Col. J. Moss Ives, Department Treasurer Scarborough, and State Adjutant Parsons.

This week Thursday the State Commander was in Bridgeport. Friday was spent in Boston with Gen. Clarence A. Edwards, state commander of the legion in Massachusetts. There is a contest between the two state departments to see which can secure the greater number of recruits. Friday evening there is a state conference in New Haven. Saturday night Commander Armstrong will visit Buddy Glover Post of New Britain. Sunday he will be in Norwich. Monday the North Grosvenordale Post will be visited, Tuesday the 11th he will be in Putnam, Wednesday in Danielson, Thursday in Central Village, Friday in Anston, Saturday in South Coventry, Sunday the 16th in Willimantic.

During the past month Commander Armstrong has addressed meetings of citizens all over the western part of the state six nights a week and on Sundays, talking on adjusted compensation and what the legion stands for and what it is doing for the disabled and needy comrades and for the communities that have legion posts.

General Edwards says the American Legion is the future hope of America. E. Kent Hubbard says it is the right bower of America.

The state commander hopes to visit all the posts in New London county at some later date. The big membership drive will start in April or May. The department is setting up a state service program and community service for the entire state.

REBEKAHS

There was an attendance of over 75 at the regular meeting of Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, held Wednesday night in Odd Fellows Hall. The meeting was in charge of Acting Noble Grand Bertha Collins, owing to the illness of Noble Grand Mary Adams. Two candidates were initiated into the order, following which considerable routine business was transacted.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, will have for its lecturer's hour at the meeting next Wednesday evening in Steiner Hall a discussion, opened by John Lyman, upon "Why not eliminate the fakirs at our county fair and have more agricultural exhibits?" This will be followed by a play, No Men Wanted. Mrs. Carl Geib is chairman of the committee and Miss Blanche Wheeler is in charge of the music.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

Wauregan Lodge, No. 6, holds its next regular convention Tuesday evening in its Castle Hall, Buckingham Memorial. Chancellor Commander Harry Salomon requests a large attendance as some very interesting reports are to be given. The rank of page will be conferred on a class of applicants.

ODD LADIES, M. U.

Loyal Victory Lodge, No. 4, held its regular meeting Thursday evening in Steiner's hall, which was well attended. After the business meeting a joint whist was held with H. H. Osgood lodge, nineteen tables being played. The prizes were awarded the following: Ladies—first, Mrs. J. LaValle; second, Mrs. William Davenport; consolation, Mrs. McKelvey; gentlemen's—first was a tie between Mrs. Wholey and H. Swarbrick, Mr. Swarbrick winning on the cut, Mrs. Wholey taking second; consolation went to William Liptrott.

MACCABEES.

W. B. A., No. 38, Maccabees, held its regular meeting Wednesday evening at Buckingham Memorial, Mrs. J. Eckstein, presiding. Among those present was Miss E. Hass, district deputy, of Hartford. Routine business was transacted. The W. B. A. has completed plans for a food sale at The Boston Store.

EAGLES.

The Eagles held a most interesting meeting Monday night at their rooms on Shetucket street with Worthy President Edward J. Mulling in the chair. Following the usual business meeting the committee in charge of the class initiations reported everything ready for the big initiation on Sunday, when a class of over 15 candidates will be taken into the order.

The state convention committee reported progress on the program for the state convention which is to be held in this city in June. The auditors report showed a substantial financial and membership gain thus far this year.

FORESTERS OF AMERICA.

On next Tuesday evening Court City of Norwich, No. 63, will observe its second annual past chief rangers' night. The committee appointed for the occasion has been working hard and everything points to a very successful get-together gathering. In the 33 years of Foresgry in Norwich there have been in the neighborhood of 40 chief rangers and an effort is being made to have the greater part of these men attend the meeting. Supreme Secretary Thomas M. Donnelly of Jersey City is to be the speaker and as he is an orator of known ability a rare treat is in store for all who attend the meeting. All of the offices for the evening will be occupied by the past chief rangers. The entertainment committee has stated that a plentiful supply of eats will be passed around and different forms of amusements will take up some of the time, so that there will not be any dull moments to drag along "gloom."

During the past year the following amounts have been expended by the order in this state: Doctor and medicine, $26,655.12; sick benefits, $57,167.63; management, expense, $45,001.69; miscellaneous, $5,231.23; funerals for members, $693.27; funerals for wives, $4,636; benevolence, $1,761.16; other expenses, $3,892.11; funeral fund, $36,963.79; total, $187,105.50.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY, A. L.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, Robert E. Hourigan Post, No. 594, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was held Wednesday evening at the post rooms in Venice hall. Regular routine of business was transacted and one new member taken into the organization. A social time followed the business session.

A. O. H. LADIES' AUXILIARY.

The millinery class of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Division 18, A. O. H., met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. David Dunn on Fifth street. A very enjoyable evening was spent and after the class work refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting of the class is to be held at the home of Miss Margaret Monaher of Park street.

——COMPREHENSIVE VARIETY
——THE UTMOST IN VALUE AT THE PRICE

Saturday inaugurates a pre-opening event in our Apparel Shop, which we believe will be without parallel. Prominent manufacturers of women's apparel have co-operated with us in arranging this display and sale of fashionably correct frocks, the prices of which are so low that they will fit the purses of those whose budget must be figured most carefully.

One Hundred and Fifty Frocks, At Two Wonderful Prices

SALE BEGINS TODAY

$14.75

Silk frocks in many styles—for the matron—for the flapper—and for those who wish to go to neither extreme. Each dress was selected by us with extreme care, and we can offer them with extreme pleasure and no apologies.

$22.75

Fashions which are authentic—silks which represent both quality and style—designs from those who are constantly abreast or ahead of the demand. A beautiful showing of dresses which will be appreciated by the woman who is careful and fastidious in her demands.

IN THE MEN'S SHOP

SPRING FIXINGS ARE READY FOR YOU

"YORKE" TAILORED SHIRTS FOR SPRING

You can't beat a "Yorke"—you may pay more, but for quality, style and workmanship a "Yorke" always holds its head up in the best company.

AT $2.00 Some attractive shirts at an attractively low price. Fine shirtings with well covered designs in new Spring effects. All colors are guaranteed. Try some and you'll always wear them.

"YORKE JIBTEX" SHIRTS — $3.00

"Jibtex" is a shirting—a cotton of exceptionally fine weave, with a permanent silk finish. The colors are white, tan and silver, and the shirt will launder perfectly. These collar-attached shirts are leaders for Spring.

"Yorke" Summer Flannel Shirts
$3.00
Made of a very soft, fine flannel in grays, with neat colored stripes. They are very smart, and you will find your wardrobe deficient if it does not contain some of these. The collars are attached.

Four-In-Hands of Silk and Wool
$1.00
They won't wrinkle or crush, and are so fine that they will tie as well as the purest all-silk. New patterns for Spring have been received.

EXQUISITE NEW HATS

POETRY

I'd Like to Go

"It seems to me I'd like to go
Where bells don't ring, nor whistles blow,
Nor clocks don't strike, nor gongs don't sound
And I'd have stillness all around—

"Not real stillness, but just the trees'
Low whispering, or the hum of bees,
Or brooks' faint babbling over stones
In strangely, softly tangled tones.

"Or maybe, the cricket or katydid,
Or the songs of birds in the hedges hid,
Or just some such sweet sounds as these
To fill a tired heart with ease.

"If 'tweren't for sight and sound and smell
I'd like the city pretty well;
But when it comes to getting rest,
I like the country lots the best.

"Sometimes it seems to me I must
Just quit the city's din and dust
And get out where the sky is blue—
And, say, now, how does it seem to you?"

—Eugene Field.

He's Just a Dog

Here is a friend who proves his worth
Without conceit or pride of birth;
Let want or plenty play the host,
He gets the least and gives the most—
He's just a dog.

He's ever faithful, kind and true,
He never questions what I do;
And whether I may go or stay,
He's always ready to obey—
'Cause he's a dog.

He watches me all through the day,
And nothing coaxes him away.
And through that night-long slumber deep,
He guards the home wherein I sleep—
And he's a dog.

As mortals go, how few possess
Of courage, trust and faithfulness,
Enough with which to undertake,
Without some borrowed traits, to make
A decent dog.

Joseph M. Anderson.

TAFTVILLE

Joseph Maguire of School street died Friday at the Backus hospital, Norwich, where he recently underwent an operation for appendicitis. He has resided in Taftville for many years and was employed at a Norwich lumber yard. He is survived by his sister, Mrs. Henry Sorel of School street.

The Thursday Evening Basketry class met Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah Building.

Thursday afternoon, a closed automobile owned by Louis Metivierre of Norwich, left the road, as it was proceeding south on Occum Road in front of No. 1 Mill and crashed into the mill fence. Both front wheels collapsed. It was later towed to a garage for repairs.

SIX DIVORCES GRANTED; RETRIAL OF SUIT WITH $1,800 VERDICT

Six divorces on the uncontested list in the superior court at New London Friday were granted by Judge C. L. Avery and one of the assigned cases, Florence Duffell Hunt vs. Walter S. Hunt, was postponed.

On the ground of desertion since Jan. 4, 1919, August Breuer of New London was granted divorce from Jeannette Harme Breuer of Brooklyn, N. Y. They were married Jan. 18, 1911.

Mabel Pearson Hackett of New London was granted divorce from Edward J. Hackett of parts unknown and change of name to Mabel Pearson. They were married Feb. 1, 1903, and the divorce was granted on the ground of intolerable cruelty since June 1, 1913.

Lottie Calvert Whitman of New London secured divorce on the ground of intolerable cruelty from John M. Whitman of parts unknown. She was given the custody of three children, aged 10, 8 and 4 years. The couple were married Nov. 14, 1903, and the wife alleged intolerable cruelty since Jan. 1, 1914.

Ambrose L. Osborn of New London was granted divorce from Elizabeth Corwin Osborn of Albany, N. Y., on the ground of desertion in June, 1920. They were married Feb. 10, 1918.

Kathleen O'Brien Byrne of Groton was given divorce from Peter Byrne of Chicago on the ground of desertion since Dec. 12, 1919. They were married Sept. 22, 1913.

Benjamin F. Burrows of Groton secured divorce from Annie Greene Burrows on the ground of her incurable insanity. They were married on Oct. 18, 1881, at Groton, but she has been a patient in the Middletown hospital ever since 1890. The petitioner furnished a bond of $3,000 to pay $10 a week to the department of state agencies and institutions for the support of his divorced wife as long as she remains an inmate at a state institution.

Verdict Set Aside, New Trial.

Judge Avery granted the motion of Attorney C. W. Whittlesey to set aside the jury verdict of $1,800 granted to Salvatore Sabillo of Waterford against the Connecticut Co. et al. Judgment is arrested and a new trial ordered on the attorney's motion because Sabillo saw and talked to Arthur H. Davis, one of the jurors during the trial.

The action of the judge followed the perusal of briefs submitted by Attorney Whittlesey, citing similar cases in which verdicts had been set aside, and by Attorneys Abel P. Tanner and George C. Morgan, counsel for Sabillo.

Judge Avery in rendering his decision stated that he did not think that Juror Davis had been influenced by Sabillo, but that the latter had calculated on influencing the juror, thereby appreciating the verdict rendered by the jury of which Mr. Davis was a member. Sabillo claimed that he had visited Mr. Davis, who is tax collector of the town of Waterford, to talk to him about taxes due on an automobile truck.

On Contempt Charge.

John Danko of South Windham was before Judge Avery to show cause why he should not be committed for contempt of court in not complying with an order of the court directing him to pay alimony to his divorced wife, Mary Danko. Danko was represented by Attorney Jeremiah J. Desmond of Norwich, who informed the court that his client was unwilling to accept advice, and apparently could not be made to understand the situation. Judge Avery put the case over one week to give Attorney Desmond additional time in which to enable Danko to grasp the significance of his situation.

Other motion list matters were disposed of as follows: Donohue vs Miner, motion for judgment by default, answer filed March 5th; Ziminski vs. Kelley, plaintiff's appeal from ruling of clerk on bill of costs, postponed; Hygienic Fibre Co. vs. Versailles Sanitary Fibre Mills, Inc., an order allowing and disallowing claims and accounts, order entered; Hill company vs. Sheridan, Inc., et al., judgment for want of answer, off; Niantic Lumber company vs. Harwood, motion for joinder of parties and notice, judge took papers; Gledhill vs. Mystic Manufacturing Co., approval of agreements between temporary receiver and Chautauqua Worsted Mills, dated Feb. 27, 1924, and Feb. 11, 1924, off; Gledhill vs. Mystic Manufacturing company, application of temporary receiver for authority to settle replevin suit of Chautauqua Worsted Mills against the Mystic Manufacturing company and other claims of priority of the Chautauqua Worsted Mills, in accordance with stipulation between Chautauqua Worsted Mills and the temporary receiver, dated Feb. 27, 1924, granted by order entered; Macpherson, et al. trustees vs. Ableman, judgment making temporary injunction permanent, postponed; Hillhouse, et al. vs Ducas, et al, hearing on claims of the parties with relation to the terms of the decree of foreclosure by sale, off; Andrews vs. Puritan-Maid Bread company, order to sell personal estate, order entered; Hrynko Bodnas vs. Anna Bodnas, alias——, order for payment of counsel fees and alimony pendente lite to defendant, postponed; Town of Norwich vs. Mary Donovan, et al, motion that the Norwich Savings Society be made a party defendant, postponed; Mieczada Wickowski Novak vs. Stephen Novak, alias——, that the plaintiff be granted permission to amend her complaint, granted.

MODERN WOODMEN HELD EVENING OF WHIST

After the regular meeting of Ionic Camp, No. 7694, Modern Woodmen of America, in Steiner Hall, this week, a whist was held. There were sixteen tables in play and the following were the prize winners: Ladies—first, Mrs. J. Manning; second, Mrs. H. Brown; third, Mrs. Lasch; men—first, Henry A. Condon; second, A. Furlong; third, A. Leonard.

It was announced that another whist will be held soon. At the next meeting several candidates will be initiated and it is hoped there will be a large attendance. The committee in charge of the whist comprised A. J. Turner, G. Shafer, Frank Beckman, Joseph Rogalski and William Sandberg.

HUGH OSGOOD LODGE INVITED TO BALTIC

Loyal Hugh Osgood Lodge, No. 1396 I. O. O. F., M. U., held its regular business meeting Friday evening at Steiner hall with Noble Grand Harold Tarbuck presiding. There was a large attendance at the meeting. After the routine business matters had been disposed of the committee appointed to act on the proposed changed of dues and benefits reported. They will be ready to make a final report at the next meeting when a full attendance of members is desired.

Delegates to the district meeting were named and will be voted on at the next meeting. An invitation was received from Loyal Samaritan Lodge of Baltic to attend their next meeting and the invitation was accepted.

Elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Miss Mary Marshall of New London is one of 30 in the class of 1924 at Vassar to be elected to Phi Beta Kappa. The Vassar Phi Beta list this year is the largest since 1918 and the third largest in the history of the college.

MARRIED

DION-GAUCHER—In Willimantic, Feb. 28, 1924, by Rev. W. Arthur Routhier, of Putnam, brother of the bride, Roderick G. Dion and Mrs. Loretta Routhier Gaucher, both of Willimantic.

MT. HOLYOKE WILL BROADCAST TO ALUMNAE

Mount Holyoke College alumnae in eastern Connecticut will have an opportunity of taking part in a unique "reunion" with their Alma Mater and with alumnae throughout the country on Monday March 17, when President Mary E. Woolley, members of the Mount Holyoke College Music Department and students will take part in a radio programme, probably the first communication by air between a college and its alumnae, to be broadcasted by station WBZ, Springfield, Mass., at 4.45 eastern time on the occasion of the Cornelia Clapp birthday celebration.

This celebration is a double event in the Mount Holyoke calendar, the birthday of one of our most famous alumnae and the closing of a building fund campaign for $600,000 to be expended on the erection of a new biological building to be named in her honor Cornelia M. Clapp Hall.

When completed, the Cornelia Clapp hall will be unsurpassed by the scientific laboratories of any woman's college in the east. It will probably be unrivalled by many such laboratories and hence offer unusual facilities to students who wish to become physicians, nurses, bacteriologists, psychologists, social and public health workers. It will house the departments of zoology, botany, geology, physiology and hygiene which, since the fire which destroyed the former science building, Williston Hall, in 1917, have been cramped into inadequate quarters.

Spaciousness is the keynote of the new building. Built to supply a pressing present need, it is still planned with an eye to the future and will provide accommodation for 100 students.

On the ground floor, to be occupied by the department of zoology there are not only zoological and embryological laboratories a special laboratory for medical zoology, another for comparative anatomy, yet another for the study of problems of heredity, but also various preparation rooms, class rooms, a reading room, smaller work rooms, a chart room, dark rooms and offices, in all twenty-seven different rooms. Not the least interesting of these will be a demonstration room common to all departments, which is to open onto the wide entrance hallway. In a day when the newspaper has become a kind of scientific text-book, no college can consider its work in the scientific field as entirely academic. Mt. Holyoke college, realizing its responsibility to a public interested in scientific developments, will throw its demonstration room open to the public. Here exhibitions of the work being done an opportunity of judging which the biological departments are fulfilling their aim to keep abreast of the times.

The second floor is to be devoted chiefly to botany and to contain a general library for all departments, a hygiene laboratory, and an office for the resident college physician, who will have charge of the hygiene work.

The third and fourth floors will be given up to geology and physiology, the geological sections being in the front and the physiological in the rear of the building. Here there will be dark rooms for each department and a large photographic room for all.

In the basement, besides chemical storage rooms for each of the four departments, separate animal rooms for the physiological and the zoological departments, and bacteriological rooms for the department of botany, there will be a medium-sized auditorium for general lecture purposes to accommodate an audience of from three to four hundred persons. This auditorium will be provided with a stereoptican and a motion picture booth.

Cement animal tanks built up from the floor, with flush-outs and screen covers, a huge cement basin outside the laboratory fo. field zoology, which can be filled at will with pond water for the study of tadpoles and pond life, are among the items of the modern equipment of this up-to-the-minute building.

Anticipating the additional facilities soon to be placed at their command the Department of Zoology has already announced two new advanced courses, one in Experimental Zoology and Embryology, another in Medical Zoology; the Department of Physiology new courses in Nutrition and Metabolism, while the Department of Botany is planning to extend its instruction in bacteriology from a one semester course to a year's course, and foresees the time when it will be able to offer two year's work in bacteriology and follow up its course on fungi and microbiology with advanced studies in plant pathology, a field in which there is a great and growing demand for trained women.

A new course in the Conservation of Natural Resources is offered by the Department of Geology, and the building will also provide for the development of advanced work in hygiene.

All the rooms have magnificent window space, and additional light is secured by the wide central corridor on all floors and the fact that the doors are to be glazed for two-thirds of their height.

The future efficiency of the building is thus assured; the fine scientific traditions of the past seem already built into the fabric of the building. The names of alumnae who have distinguished themselves in the biological sciences have been given to various laboratories. Two "Alumnae Laboratories" have been so named because all their equipment has been purchased with alumnae contributions.

Dr. Clapp, herself, is one of Mount Holyoke's most illustrious alumnae. Formerly professor, now professor emeritus, of zoology at Mount Holyoke, she was graduated from the college fifty-two years ago, and began teaching there in the year following her graduation. In 1874 she was one of the small group at the Penikese summer school founded the year before by Louis Agassiz.

In the earlier years of her teaching, Dr. Clapp studied under Professor Sedgwick at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and under Professor E. B. Wilson at Williams College. When the Marine Biological Laboratory at Woods Hole opened in 1898, she was the first person to be given a problem, and started her work on the toadfish, which has since become known among zoologists as "Dr. Clapp's fish". Since 1898 Dr. Clapp has been at Woods Hole every summer. She has been a member of the teaching staff in embryology, and now holds the distinction of being the only woman member of its board of trustees.

After three years graduate work at the University of Chicago she took her degree of Ph. D. there in 1896, was a fellow of the famous Naples Zoological Station in 1901, and has since been a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, of the Society of American Zoologists and of the Association of American Anatomists.

Zoologists from all over the country have contributed toward a $2000 gift, made in her honor, for the equipment of the so-called Zoologists' Laboratory in the new Mount Holyoke building which bears her name.

felt about it. I guess all right, for Bug and I have been the best of friends for years and I hope we always will be.

We certainly had a lovely time at the meeting. They were seated at the first table when we went in, but there were three chairs side by side, which seemed as if they were waiting for us. Such a nice dinner! It was enjoyed by all I know. How very true the Corner is named, "Social." Indeed they are, and you are made to feel at home right away. There are some clubs where you always feel a little out of place, but not so with the Corner. Bug and I sounded Free Air about going to Willimantic to some meeting and she was agreeable so we may go at some future time and we all hope to go to Norwich to the April meeting. May the meetings always continue and the Corner page never die is the wish of

MA OF GREENE GABLES.

DON'T WORRY'S MYSTERY

Dear Corner Sisters: From the way the ice seems to like to cling to my back yard it makes me think that though old winter was late and mild, it has no intention of making a short visit now it is here. On the 16th of January as my father was eating dinner in the woods where he had been chopping, so my mother wrote, he heard a noise behind him and turning saw a black snake that seemed considerably upset about something. He killed it and it measured four and one half feet. Only a short time before that as he finished his dinner and reached down to pick up his ax he took hold of a snake, though not as lively nor as large a one. I guess they aren't doing much sunning of themselves these days.

After that first ice storm we had this winter I conbined pleasure with work one day and took the two oldest youngsters out for a sled ride while I gathered in my washing. While we were playing around I heard a bird shrieking and looking toward the house saw a large bird pecking the life out of a sparrow. I was within a few feet of them before the large bird let go its prey. He was a butcher bird, commonly called, and he was a handsome fellow. I picked up the sparrow and carried it to an empty chicken house. Now comes the strange part of my story. As I started to put the sparrow into a nest I found a perfectly good egg. We had kept nothing but roosters in that house for two months or more. The egg hadn't been frozen. You who are smart at riddles, guess the answer. Our other fowl do not run loose.

Some may think I showed considerable sentiment over a sparrow but after seeing the blood thirsty way that butcher bird kept coming back and looking for it, I wasn't sorry I had hidden it. Another thing, the sparrows are a lot of company in the winter to me. Each morning they begin to come in onss and twos and perch on my Dorothy Perking rambler and gossip and chatter while they smooth down their feathers and seem to swap tales of the adventure of the night or make plans for the day. Sometimes I have merely to shut my eyes and I can almost imagine I am at a Social Corner gathering.

A long time ago, when I was a little girl as my girlie of five says, I chanced to be walking in our pasture at home when I saw a large and strange bird fluttering about among the bushes. I followed it and it finally flew into a bird bush where it clung as though exhausted. I grabbed it by the legs, crawled with it under a barbed wire fence and lost little time getting it home which was about half a mile away. We finally decided it was a sea gull, though why it should be so far from salt water we never could guess. I kept it and it became a regular pet with me, but finany, whether because it lacked the proper food or not, I do not know, it just up and died.

Father saw how badly I felt so he had it stuffed for me. It is looking over my shoulder from the top of my bookcase now. I had it mounted with wings half spread and it is a lovely ornament. Oh, dear, I suppose it isn't just proper to keep offering house-keeping suggestions when no one seems to care for them but seeing none of you have written that you tried my son's ways of polishing desks or bureaus, perhaps those of you who have hard luck keeping a shine on your congoleum rugs would like my little daughter's rule. Take a six quart pail of milk, a boiled ham still in its liquor, a pint of cream and a table that is easily tipped over.

Raise the leaf on one side of the table and then call in the dogs and cats. Pretty soon we are going to get used to that kitchen table. We lost all our lunch one day last week, even the dishes. I can hear some one say, "I bet that poor young one got it!" Well, she didn't. She felt bad enough and the circumstances were such that I felt equally to blame myself.

Ma of Green Gables: I loved your letter last week. Shows the real you. Winnie: Thanks for advice. Will remember it.

I tried Ever Best cookies and I think, by Lucy Acorn. They were fine.

Rural Delivery: Was pleased to note that you liked

DON'T WORRY (Sept. 20)

"LOOK OUT FOR TODAY"

Dear Social Corner: The world is the very best day of spring jubilant and sweet. The sun is climbing northward. The days are long and golden and here and there a daffodil lifts its shining head, forerunner of the beauties to follow in ever multiplying measure. Of all the year this is the season for renewing, for making all things new. It is the time for casting off old regrets and griefs, and for growing young again with nature's self. Right along this line is a bit of testimony that should be inspiring to those of us who need its uplift and there are very few who do not, for the first time in many months.

Truth to tell in days gone by we did not meet her if it were in any way to be avoided. There was always a woe to listen to, and a puckered forehead and a drooping mouth to punctuate the story; and although we have the greatest regard for a person, and the work he or she may be doing—a noble work, in the present instance—we instinctively shun the habitual pessimist. On the afternoon in question, however we met this friend face to face, and scarcely recognised her until she put out a detaining, welcoming hand. "I'm glad to see you again," said she, and she meant it. Her eyes were bright and her smile cheery. She was surely twenty years younger and we couldn't help but tell her so. She had a sincere ring in her laugh, no make believe about it.

"I am pleased to have you say so," said she because it still further strengthens my conviction that I am on the right track. However, I know I am, without being told, I am happier, oh! so much happier than I used to be, and I'm sure everyone around me is too. Yes, I know the trouble was I worried too much about things and about my growing old. I took them to bed with me and dreamed about it and got up in the morning less fitted for my duty than when I went to sleep. My friends hated to meet me. It was just before Christmas my two boys rough and ready little fellows far in advance of their years in many ways, were talking evidently of some unpleasant occurance, at least one of them was. "Aw, forget it!" said the other. "You ain't got nothing to do with what happened yesterday. All you've got to do is to look out for today." Did you ever hear anything more straight forward or to the point? It came right home to me—perhaps I was ready for it. All day long it rang in my ears "Forget it." "You've nothing to do with yesterday, all you have got is to look out for today." Looking into the bright face to which the smiles come so naturally now, listening to the cherry, courageous voice, the idea did not prove a bit difficult to grasp.

We are passing on this special message just as we promised to do. It is for us all and there could not be a wiser one.

Probably there are a great many men and women, who having passed the half-century mark, find their thoughts wandering as do those of the friend who has written, conclude this is a consequence of accumulating years, and so say nothing about it and make no effort to stem the tide, that is setting strongly toward conditions they do not want, yet see no way of escaping. This is all wrong; the condition is an unnatural one even though acknowledged to be "the way of the world." If it were right and normal for the usefulness and strength and wisdom and happiness of manking to decrease as their years increase we should not abhor these old age conditions. The fact we do not like them, even while tacitly their unevitableness proves that they are of our own making, and not from the great giver of all good. Whence come age? Certainly the body of itself does not grow old, scientific men everywhere agree that every atom of it is replaced at least once a year, and that the brain cells may be rebuilt within thirty days. Isn't it just possible the secret may lie in one of those wondrous old sayings, which we are given to quote in parrot-fashion, and appreciate very little—"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he?" If that be true we can't begin to change the dominant quality of our thoughts" we cannot put off any longer the renewing of our minds, turning from unhappy immaginations of what the coming years might bring and demanding life and yet more life in the present.

FICTION AND REAL LIFE

Dear Corner Sisters: It does not happen that way in real life—I have just finished reading a story in one of the more pretentious magazines. The hero is a clean manly young fellow, working for an insurance company. The heroine is a beautiful self-possessed maiden of 18 working for a department store. They both work in New York city and live in the Jersey section, coming to town by the way of the same ferry and railroad. Hence they meet quite frequently. Naturally they fall in love and aim to get married.

This is all right in the main, as far as it goes save the hero is 20 years old and draws $20 a week for doing bookkeeping work; and the maiden gets $18 a week from a department store. It does not imply that she was a first class stenographer or a dress model, or that he was an expert accountant, or had a pull as a dummy director. Those are the only persons who are paid such high wages in those two branches of business. But it does imply that he thought his salary was too small to get married on, which is no objection to a young man who is really in love.

This is what I could not understand: To make more money he sets out to write a story—and he writes it and sells it and says he only received $40 when he expected $75 for it which is going some for the first story.

In the same magazine also appears a story of the heroine who also realizes that she has got to earn more money to get married on, and goes into literature to get it. She also sells her first story—that's the very beautiful part of it. They sell other stories at varying prices. Then comes a time when the fickle editor turns down a few effusions. They come to the conclusion they are devoid of heart sentiment—the stories I mean. They wander out in the woods hand in hand. But so far they have kept their literary secret to themselves. Just think of it!! They spy a man in overalls working over a cement sidewalk gazing intently at the handprints of a baby in the yielding cement.

This little incident inspires both to write a story filled with heart throbs and sentiment. The man after writing his shows the manuscript to his sweetheart. She thinks it just grand, does not intimate that it can be improved at all, and congratulates him on his former successes. His story brings $100. Well, they marry. The manager of the insurance company reads the story in the magazine; calls the young man into his office; fires him—then hires him back at an increased salary to go out on the road as a salesman! Now isn't that nice? That proves beyond a shadow of doubt that the whole world loves a lover, and the one way to get a raise in salary and a changed position is to become a successful writer.

Then the climax—while sitting together in the parlor of their pretty home, bought with the proceds of their writing, he picks out of the fireplace the charred remains of her story. He reads the version of the baby handprint incident and confesses that her story is much better than his. He realizes just how much his sweetheart and wife must have loved him to perform such an heroic sacrifice.

The story is well-written, no doubt about that. But it is a fairy story pure and simple. It may be sentiment, but it is far from being true to life. It creates false impressions of life as it is. It may teach optimism, but it teaches a false optimism, which in the end breeds the worst kind of discontent in the minds of struggling humanity, makes a poor writer out of what might be a first class bookkeeper and through failure creates the impression that the world is not giving all a fair and square chance.

An author seldom sells his first story if it is sold at all. It seldom brings the sum of $40. What do you think of a poet who has written a classic set to music, offering his poem for $3? Or a writer having a limited market for material at a cent a word, selling his surplus at a cent for 10 words? The chances are, too that their works are truer to life than the one which was supposed to bring $40 in the story.

Literature does not pay. Ability along that line is a very poor asset to get married on.

The reason I thing I know something about it is I have written about 200 stories myself and I never even sold my first story. My husband who worked on a paper said, "That it was quite a compliment that he returned it as I did not send a self addressed stamped envelope, that it was a miracle it escaped being devored by the hungry waste basket. My first story that I sold brought $3 and I was told and several stories were written before my skeletons weren't properly clothed I caught on to the real knack of writing.

No girls and boys don't wait until you sell your story for $40 before getting married because if you do I'm afraid the world will wait a long time before the great event will come-off.

KIDNEY TROUBLES GONE SAYS PERLEY BENSON

Well-Known Portland Man Tells of Recovery After He Had Almost Given Up Hope—Gives Tanlac Credit

"Tanlac has snowed my troubles under and if they ever bother me again I'll just take more Tanlac," is the unique statement of Perley Benson, well-known transfer man, 146 Lancaster St., Portland, Me.

"For three years past my kidneys worried me so I never knew what a good night's sleep was. At times my back hurt so bad I couldn't stoop over, and I was up and down so often at night that I seldom had my bedroom slippers off. My appetite was poor and my nerves undone. I was tired all the time and looked as worn and weary as I felt.

"I spent enough money trying to get relief to buy a good home, but only got worse, and when I began taking Tanlac I was almost desperately miserable. However, Tanlac was more than a match for my troubles and I am now feeling like a man made over."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

FRENCH GOV'T RESORTING TO DRASTIC ECONOMICS

Making an Effort to Save a Billion Francs Yearly in Order to Restore Confidence in French Finances—Is to Close Consulate in Hamburg, Where Officials Are About to Be Evicted For Non-Payment of Rent — Political and Economic Commissions in Berlin Have Been Abolished.

Paris, March 9.—The discussion of governmental economies as part of the financial house cleaning has brought a lot of interesting incidents out of the seemingly dry subject. The ancient custom of taking a yearly inventory of horses fit for military service, which also has been applied to automobiles, has aroused protests because parliament voted 800,000 francs to have the army list horses which farmers are obliged to present during the month of May at various points, often at great distances. Farmers thus lose a day's work in the busiest season. Automobile owners generally solve the problem by ignoring the law.

Economies already effected without waiting for the adoption of Premier Poincare's measures in parliament, the opposition newspapers say, include the closing of the French consulate at Hamburg, where the officials are about to be evicted for failure to pay rent four months' overdue. The political and economic commissions in Berlin also have been abolished because they are too expensive, and the consulate there closed afternoons as the funds allowed are insufficient to pay for full time heating and lighting.

These incidents, however, are said by government supporters to be inevitable evils in the drastic curtailment required to save a billion francs yearly under the premier's program to restore confidence in French finances.

FRENCH PREMIER TO FACE NEW CRISIS THIS WEEK

Paris, March 9—(By the A. P.)—The Poincare government faces another crisis in the senate this week when the fiscal measures and increased taxation come up in the upper house for discussion and a vote. The fight will come on the first article, granting the government power to enact certain measures by decree. The senate committee strongly opposes giving the government such authority and Premier Poincare will insist upon it and make the question of confidence in the government on the vote.

The premier and M. De Lasteyrie and high officials of the bank of France met at Elysee Palace today under the presidency of M. Millerand, president of the republic, for the purpose of studying the exchange situation and a cabinet council will be held tomorrow morning to decide upon the government's final attitude before the senate, which, according to the official utterances of M. Poincare will be one of uncompromising insistence that the senate vote the bill as passed by the chamber without change.

The entire radical socialist party and 140 senators are solidly lined up against the government and it appears that the premier is in for a duel for his political life.

On Saturday the premier had definitely decided to place before President Millerand the resignation of his entire cabinet, had not the senate yielded to the ultimatum that the bill must come up for discussion Tuesday. But he accepted Thursday as the ultimate concession of the senate. He will not accept further postponement, however, placing the senate squarely before the alternative of voting the fiscal measures or overthrowing the government.

It is expected that the radical party will abstain and that the bill will be voted by from 140 to 145 senators with about the same number of opponents abstaining, as was the case in the electoral reform bill.

FORMER COMMANDER OF GREEK ARMY IS DEAD

Athens, March 9.—General Panyotis Danglis, former commander-in-chief of the Greek forces died today. He was a member of the Saloniki triumvirate with Venizelos and Admiral Coundouriotis, regent of Greece.

General Danglis was president of the Venizelos league and also president of the executive committee of the liberal party. He was minister of war in the Venizelos cabinet and later was sent to confer with Venizelos in Paris to urge the former premier to return to Athens.

TWO BOYS DROWNED IN THE CHARLES RIVER

Boston, March 9—While five state police officers tried in vain to save them two Cambridge boys, Bertram Willis and Paul Boudreau, 7 and 6 years old, broke through the crumbling ice on the charles river today and were drowned. Two police officers dived repeatedly in attempts to recover the bodies, until one of the rescuers was sent to a hospital, exhausted and chilled. Later the two bodies were raised by means of long boat hooks.

SEVEN ELDERLY WOMEN NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH

Cortland, N. Y., March 9—Seven elderly women one seriously ill, narrowly escaped death tonight when fire destroyed the Albright home for aged women, located one mile north of Dryden. All were rescued with difficulty. One of the inmates suffered a shock prior to the fire and was in a critical condition when carried to a nearby residence.

OBITUARY.

John P. Green.

Philadelphia, March 9.—John P. Green, retired vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, died suddenly today at his home of heart disease. Mr. Green was 85 years old.

Mr. Green entered the service of the Pennsylvania railroad in 1869 as secretary to the first vice president. In 1874 he became assistant to the president and eight years later was made fourth vice president. He was elected first vice president in 1907. He served as captain in the Union army throughout the Civil war.

Theodore Ferguson

Bridgeport, March 9—Theodore Ferguson, former manager of the H. J. Lewis Oyster company, of this city and South Norwalk, died at his home late today, at the age of 75 years. The body will be taken to North Branch, N. J., for burial.

Miss Lucretia P. Lathrop

Wallingford, Conn., March 9—Miss Lucretia P Lathrop, who would have been 95 had she lived until next June died today at the home of her cousin Mrs. J T Barker, with whom she had made her home for the past 14 years. Miss Lathrop, who was born in Fulton, N. Y., was the daughter of a Methodist minister, Rev. O. C. Lathrop. She is believed to have been the oldest person in Wallingford.

COAST ARTILLERY CORPS IS TO BE REORGANIZED

Washington, March 9—Reorganization of the coast artillery corps to provide for the creation of sixteen regiments in the United States and two in the Philippines was announced today at the war department.

The present numbered companies will be renamed as lettered batteries to form these new regimental units. Existing battalions assigned to mobile army artillery work will be expanded into full regiments and retain their present designations.

Under the new plan the sixteen regiments will be numbered from one to sixteen inclusive and the two Philippine scout regiments will be known as the 91st and 92nd, Philippine scouts. Some of the regiments will be composed of 7 lettered batteries, and some of ten. Flexibility as to the size and number of specialists in each battery will be retained to permit men of the proper training and skill to be assigned to the respective coast defenses. Geographically the new regiments will be distributed as follows:

First, second and fourth, to be located in the Panama Canal Zone, where the 65th is already stationed; third, headquarters Los Angeles, Cal., and distributed in the Los Angeles, San Diego and Columbia river defenses; fifth, to the southern New York defenses with headquarters at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., sixth, to the defenses about San Francsco, with headquarters at Fort Winfield Scott; seventh, Sandy Hook defenses, headquarters at Fort Hancock N. J.; and the command including the Delaware defenses; eighth, Portland, Maine headquarters at Fort Preble, and including Portsmouth defenses; ninth, to the Boston area, headquarters Fort Banks; tenth, Narragansett Bay, Headquarters, Fort Adams, R. I.; eleventh, Long Island sound, headquarters, Fort H. G. Wright, New York; twelfth, Chesapeake Bay, headquarters Fort Monroe, Va.; thirteenth, distributed through the defenses along the Florida coast, at Galveston, Texas, and Charleston, S. C., with headquarters at Pensacola; fourteenth, Puget Suodn, headquarters Fort Worden; fifteenth and sixteenth, Hawaii-andepartment.

No transfer of troops from present posts is contemplated. The purpose of the new organization is to make it possible to use the coast artillery troops without confusion either as field units for work with mobile guns or railway mounts, or in the coast defenses.

THREE WOMEN WERE KILLED OUTRIGHT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

New York, March 9—Three women were killed outright two men probably fatally injured and two others, a man and a woman were less seriously injured early today when the automobile in which they were returning from a wedding celebration swerved from the Bronx post road skirting the Bronx zoological gardens and crashed into a telegraph pole.

Joseph Curry, owner of the car, suffered a fracture of the skull. He was held on a technical charge of homicide. According to Assistant District Attorney Dixon of the Bronx Curry had been drinking at the celebration and was not in a condition to drive the car. The other men probably fatally injured was Carnae Egan, 38 years old, whose left leg was amputated.

NEW YORK TAVERN KEEPER COMMITS SUICIDE

New York, March 9.—Emil Westerburg, owner of Fraunce's tavern in Pearl street, one of New York's oldest restaurants, committed suicide today in his suite in the Sherman Square hotel. He shot himself with a pistol which still was grasped in his hand when his body was found several hours after the shooting ill health is ascribed as the reason.

Fraunce's Tavern was a historic inn as it was there that Washington said farewell to the generals of his army after the Revolutionary war. Mr. Westerburg probably was the best known restaurateur in downtown New York, as tourists from all parts of the country visited the tavern because of its associations.

ACTORS TO SUSTAIN "EQUITY SHOP" DEMANDS

New York, March 9—Twelve hundred members of the Actors' Equity association today voted to sustain the organization's demand for the "equity shop" after June 1, when its contract with the Producing Managers' association expires. Only two dissenting votes were cast.

Hugh Frayne pledged the complete support of the American Federation of Labor if a strike follows refusal of the managers to meet the demand. The final attitude of the managers, however, as last week the Shuberts, who control seventy per cent. of the city's theatres, served notice they would accept the "equity shop."

The "equity shop" provides that casts must either be wholly composed of equity members or wholly non-equity actors as its members refuse to work in "mixed" casts

Killed Man Who was About to Mutilate Him.

Strange Confession of Slayer Who Says He Had Been Bound and Handcuffed For Two Days.

Louisville, Ky., March 9. — An old fashioned .41 calibre revolver derringer, forgotten for two days during which he lay bound and handcuffed while Richard Heaton, 32 years old, his friend and former business associate, methodically prepared to perform an operation on him, saved William Gates, 31, from being the victim of a mutilation or death, according to gates' confession to the police today.

Gates surrendered to county police early today and tonight was being held on a charge of murder growing out of the shooting to death early last night of Heaton.

In his confession, police say Gates unfolded an amazing drama of revenge, secret plotting and stark terror. For two days—from Thursday night until the time of the slaying of Heaton—Gates said he was held a prisoner and was aware of what he thought his captor intended to do to him.

His ultimate escape, he told the authorities, was due to the old double barrelled derringer which his captors overlooked when they kidnapped him and which, in the excitement, he had forgotten about having with him. It was with this pistol, he said, that he shot Heaton and escaped.

Gates told the police that, at Heaton's request he had gone to the office of Heaton and Fisher, merchandise brokers, Thursday night and that Heaton and a "mysterious stranger" held him up with pistols and handcuffed him, about ten minutes later, he stated, he was taken in an automobile to a house in Thirty-Fourth street and immediately to a room on the second floor that had been fitted up like an operating room where he was tied to a mattress which was pegged to the floor.

When he was seized he was relieved of a pistol he was carrying in his coat pocket, he declared.

Heaton, according to Gates' story as related by the police, immediately began to prepare for an operation. He poured some chloroform into a funnel filled with cotton. Gates feigned delirium when the anaesthetic was administered, he told the police, and began muttering. His mutterings, he said, attracted Heaton, who got down close to him and in a cajoling voice urged him to talk. He said that he then mumbled something about some letters he had written to an aunt in Logansport, Ind., telling her, in effect, that if anything happened to him Heaton would be the responsible person.

This ruse, he declared he confidently believed, saved him, as Heaton abandoned his plans and left the room.

Friday at noon he said he was taken, handcuffed, to Heaton's office and made to telephone his aunt in Logansport and tell here to mail the letters to him in Louisville. He then was returned to the house and tied on a bed. During the day he said some other person came into the room but that he was afraid to say anything for fear Heaton might also be at hand.

About 6 o'clock Saturday night some one—it later developed that it was Mrs. Heaton—came to the house. Shortly thereafter, he declared Heaton entered the room and at his (Gates') request, released him and led him to the bathroom. Upon arising he said the derringer in his vest pocket moved and he realized what it was, as he turned to leave the bathroom, he stated he drew the derringer and ordered Heaton to put up his hands. Instead, he declared Heaton reached for a pistol he had laid aside while he had unlocked the handcuffs and then he fired two shots, both of which hit Heaton.

Coatless, Gates stated that he fled downstairs and told Mrs. Heaton he had shot her husband, he then rushed to an adjoining house and told what he had done. Returning, he was told by a physician, who had been attracted to the scene by the shots, that Heaton was dead. He got a coat, he stated, and departed. Finally he said he went to the home of relatives at Anchorage, a suburb, where he was found this morning after police had been notified of his whereabouts.

The police questioned him as to the important phases of the case, but, because of his nervous condition, postponed questioning him further, they said.

FATALLY STRICKEN WHILE PREACHING TO CHILDREN

Altoona, Pa., March 9.—The Rev. James Bernard Egan, rector of St. Mark's Catholic parish here, was fatally stricken with heart failure while preaching to the children of the parish today. He fell at the altar and was carried to his rooms, where he was pronounced dead. He was born in Ireland 55 years ago and was located at Wilmore, Pa., before his assignment to St. Mark's parish as irremovable rector twelve years ago.

NEW ORGAN PRESENTED CHURCH IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, March 9—Announcement was made at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church here this morning that Rt. Rev. John G. Murray, auxiliary bishop of the Hartford diocese, has presented a new organ with a second console to the church. The total value is about $30,000 and the cost of installation will be about $10,000. The latter cost will be borne by the parish. Bishop Murray was an altar boy at St. Patrick's 10 years ago.

PRIVATE DETECTIVE IS CHARGED WITH KIDNAPPING

Louisville, Ky., March 9.—Frank Cordell, a private detective, of Indianapolis, was arrested there late today on a charge of kidnapping in connection with the seizure Thursday night of William Gates.

Cordell will be brought to Louisville for questioning.

EXPLOSION IN WELLSVILLE, O., INJURED FIVE PERSONS

Wellsville, Ohio, March 9.—Five persons were injured, none seriously, three buildings demolished, three partially wrecked and nearly a score of homes damaged early today by high explosives in the store of Charles Prezzia. Prezzia is being held for investigation. The cause of the explosion which entailed damage estimated at $20,000, is unknown, police said.

Denby to Retire Today As Secretary of Navy

Assistant Secretary [illegible] Will Become Acting Secretary, to Serve Until New Secretary [illegible] Named.

Washington, March 9.—Edwin Denby will retire tomorrow as secretary of the navy, and so far as could be learned tonight his successor has not been selected by President Coolidge.

The president, however, has been giving much thought the past few days to filling the first cabinet vacancy of his administration, and indications were given today that he had narrowed down considerably the field of those under consideration, and that a decision may be announced any time.

The elimination of a large proportion of those mentioned has left among those known to be still on the list Governor Dixon, on Montana; James E. Davidson, republican national committeeman from Michigan, and former Representative Foss, of Illinois.

Secretary Denby will spent tomorrow winding up pending business at the navy department and receiving the farewell calls of those who have served under him for three years. He will be sworn in again as a major in marine corps reserves and receive the commission he surrendered when he became secretary of the navy.

Plans for the future have not been decided upon by Mr. Denby. He will return to his home in Detroit within a few days and probably then will make a statement relative to reports that he may become a candidate for the republican nomination for United States senator.

When Mr. Denby lays down his duties tomorrow, Theodore Roosevelt, the assistant secretary will become acting secretary to serve until a new department head is installed.

Secretary Denby said farewell to two hundred navy and marine officers at a dinner given in his honor last night.

"I am trying to die with my face toward the enemy," he said. "I am trying to be brave and go through with this. I am leaving in body but my spirit will always be with the navy."

Mr. Denby said he had been through three wars—the war with Spain, the World war, and the war revolving about the oil investigation "This third war," he said, "has been more bitter than any."

Tribute was paid to the secretary by Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, Admiral Coontz, Major General Lejeune, of the marines, Rear-Admiral Hilary P. Jones, and others.

"White, clean and pure, inside and out," was the characterization of Mr. Denby by General LeJeune. "Upright, fair and everlasting honest," was the tribute of Admiral Coontz. Mr. Roosevelt said his chief was "courageous and his integrity unswerving."

FOUND GUILTY OF THE IMPROPER USE OF FUNDS

Moscow, March 9.—(By the A. P.)—Alexander Krasnotchekoff, one-time Chicago lawyer and former premier of the far eastern republic, and four other persons, charged with improper use of the funds of the Industrial and Colonercial Bank were found guilty today by the five judges who presided at the trial.

Krasnotchekoff, was sentenced to six years' solitary confinement, his brother Jacob to three years' imprisonment and the other defendants to one and two years imprisonment.

The indictment against Krasnotchekoff, who was known in Chicago as Alexander Tobinson charged that he loaned funds to his brother, or his brother's building concern, at the low rate of from ½ to 1 1-2 per cent. monthly. Instead of at from 2 to 3 1-2 per cent. monthly, as charged by other banks. The prosecution contended that the Commercial and industrial bank lost more than 12,000 gold rubles through the transaction. It was asserted further that the Russian-American Industrial corporation still owes the bank $24,000 through Krasnotchekoff's liberality in financing it.

In addition to the charge of misuse of funds, Krasnotchekoff was accused of conduct unbecoming a communist.

Gandhi Seriously Ill, Released From Prison

Photo—taken a few weeks prior to his imprisonment—of "Mahatma" (Wonder Worker). Mohandas K. Gandhi, leader of the "Non-Co-operation" movement for Indian independence, who was recently released from prison unconditionally by the order of the Government. Gandhi, sentenced March 18, 1922, to six years imprisonment for sedition, has been seriously ill lately and the action of the Government was taken on word of attending physicians that six months at the seaside was necessary to his convalescence.

175 MINERS ARE ENTOMBED IN MINE OF THE UTAH FUEL CO.

Seven Charred and Mutilated Bodies Have Been Recovered—It is Generally Believed That All of the Miners Have Perished—Gas in the Mine is Retarding Rescue Work—Government Officials Are Aiding in Work of Rescue.

Castle Gate, Utah, March 9—(By the A. P.)—Seven charred and mutilated bodies had been removed today from mine no 2 of the Utah Fuel Company in which 175 miners were entombed yesterday as the result of an explosion. Two other bodies had been located but had not been removed from the mine. Gas in the inner recesses of the mine is hampering the work of rescuers, it is understood. It is generally believed all of the miners perished.

Five of the bodies have been identified as George Harrison, William Pollock, W. A. Berg, George Fillstead, and Jack Thorpe. Two bodies, headless and badly blackened and burned, have not been identified.

Just how long it will be before all of the mine can be explored is uncertain. As the rescue crews are getting better organized the work is going ahead faster but the carbon monoxide gas is a serious hazard. This morning several of the helmet men were overcome and late yesterday George Wilson, head of a crew which hurried from Standardville, Utah, died from asphyxiation when the nose-piece of his helmet became detached when he was several hundred feet in the main portal.

The Knights of Pythias hall here is being used as a morgue and the bodies taken from the mine have been brought there. The hall is the gathering place of relatives and friends of the entombed miners, as as no one is allowed up the mine canyon except mine officials, rescue or relief workers, and newspapermen.

A United States Bureau of Mines rescue car reached here from Wyoming today and government officials are lending all aid possible.

The interior recesses of the mine are filled with poisonous gas, according to helmet men and these workers have to proceed cautiously lest they themselves fall victims. A few weeks ago mine No. 1 of the Utah Fuel Company was closed down and the married men employed in it were transferred to mine No. 2 in place of the single men who were let out. This accounts for the greater portion of the entombed men having families.

The company has the rescue work well in hand and there is an abundance of supplies, despite the great danger there is no shortage of men willing to risk their all to get at their comrades within the mine.

The fans are working now and although there is reported to be a small fire in one of the off shoots, there is said to be little or no danger because of it.

Mine number 2 is located on Castle Gate Creek canyon and yesterday last night an dtoday a bitter cold wind swept down from the north, causing great inconvenience to those laboring at the portals.

Rescue work is in charge of mine officials and the Red Cross is extending its efforts among the families of the men entombed.

Two officers of the national guard reached here today and conferred with mine company officials as to what if anything they could do to help.

Last night huge fires were built at many places and around these men women and children huddled anxious for news of their missing.

TWENTY BODIES ARE ON ONE OF THE SLOPES

Castle Gate, Utah, March 9.—(By the A. P.—6 p. m.)—Approximately twenty bodies are on one of the slopes in the Utah Fuel company mine, but it is impossible to reach them because of obstructions, according to two helmet men whom came out of the workings at this hour.

MUTINY REPORTED IN IRISH NATIONALIST ARMY

Dublin, March—(By the A. P.)—Excitement is growing in Dublin in connection with the mutiny in the ranks of the natialist army as was disclosed in the official communication, issued Saturday night saying that orders for the arrest of major General Liam Tobin and Colonel Charles Dalton had been issued. Minister of Defence Mulcahy last night issued the following order to the army:

"Two army officers have attempted to involve the army in a challenge to the authority of the government. This is an outrageous departure from the spirit of the army which will not be tolerated by the officers and men of the army who cherish its honor."

Major General Tobin, who has evaded arrest, managed to see representatives of the press on Saturday to whom he declared he spoke for and acted on behalf of old comrades in the Anglo-Irish war. He confessed the mutiny was a consequence of the compulsory demobilization of more than 900 officers last week. Tobin himself was among those demobilized. He complained that there were too many officers who participated in the Anglo-Irish struggle included in the list.

General Tobin was one of the lieutenants of the late Michael Collins.

Precautions have been taken for any eventuality. The guards have been doubled at all the Dublin barracks and leves of absence have been cancelled.

In addition to the trouble at Templemore, where the commandant and other officers vacated the barracks and retired to the hills with machine guns, rifles and ammunition, there are reports of difficulties with the demobilized officers at Cormanstown, Claremorris and other places.

What is supposed to have an indirect effect of the mutiny was expressed today at a political meeting held here in connection with the by-election for a Dail seat to be held next Tuesday. President Cosgrave, and other members of the government attended. It was expected Mr. Cosgrave would refer to the mutiny, but he refrained from doing so.

About ten thousand persons attended the meeting which was characterized throughout by extreme disorder.

Attempts to eject the disturbers only aggravated matters. There were frequent shouts of "Up, De Valera."

$50,000 FIRE IN TWINE AND CORD MILLS, MOODUS

Moodus, Conn., March 9—Fire late this afternoon destroyed the two story frame building of the Neptune Twine and Cord Mills, Inc., in the Johnsonville section of the town, causing a loss estimated at $50,000 partly covered by insurance. A large quantity of finished goods was also destroyed. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Elsie H. Johnson, one of the owners, who saw the blaze and gave the alarm. A chemical engine and a hand brigade kept the flames from spreading to other buildings. The origin of the blaze is unknown, but is is believed to have been started from grass which it is thought may have been ignited by a match or cigarette carelessly thrown as men and boys were seen in the vicinity during the afternoon.

The building was built in 1862 and had the distinction of being the only mill in operation here during the entire period of the Civil War.

ONE PERSON KILLED IN PANIC ON TROLLEY CAR

Syracuse, N. Y., March 9.—It is reported one person was killed and many injured in a panic following outbreak of fire on a crowded trolley car in the eastern section of the city late tonight. According to the police reports, the passengers became panic-stricken when flames suddenly appeared, fighting their way out of windows and through the doors. First reports stated the man killed had been trampled in the frenzied rush to get out of the burning car. Ambulances and the morgue auto have been rushed to the scene.

TREASURY TO ISSUE $400,000,000 ONE-YEAR CERTIFICATES

Washington, March 9,—The treasury today announced an issue of four hundred million dollars in one-year, four per cent certificates of indebtedness for re-financing the government in the second quarter of this year.

The certificates will be issued as of March 15 at which time the government must meet $650,000,000 in matured certificates and pay $143,000,000 in interest on the public debt and when it will receive at least the full first quarterly payments on income and profits taxes.

A statement by Secretary Mellon said further interest payments on the public debt were due April 15 and May 15 totaling $217,000,000, but that no further financial operations would be necessary short of June 15, the next paying date.

Treasury officials said they were pleased at conditions in the market at this time which enabled them to offer the securities at a slightly lower rate than heretofore. The last issue a combined offering of six months and one year maturities, carried a four per cent rate for the six months paper and four and one-quarter per cent for the obligations maturing in one year.

DENIAL BY COUNSEL OF THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

Washington, March 9—A denial of charges brought against it recently by the joint legislative committee of organizations favoring modification of the Volstead act was issued today by the Anti-Saloon League, through its general counsel, Wayne B. Wheeler.

"The anti-saloon league does not control congress," declares Mr. Wheeler's statement. "We all know there has been corruption in enforcing prohibition. The wets are responsible for it. Men have been appointed to prohibition positions through their political influence and encouraged by wet propogandists who mock at law.

"The source of the funds of the anti-saloon league is the free-will gift of the members of the churches of America. Patriotic citizens, Christian men and women, finance this organization which is created, directed, financed, supervised, and wholly controlled by representatives appointed or elected by the churches of America."

POINCARE EXPLAINS WHY FRANC WAS DEPRECIATED

New York, March 9.—Responsibility for the downward course of the French franc is laid to the machinations of Germans and German banking institutions, by Premier Poincare in a special cabled interview, which will appear in the March 15 issue of The Outlook.

"Certain Germans estimate that the decline in the French franc's value may cause gentler treatment of Germany by France," Premier Poincare declared. "Having directly contributed to the fall of the franc German banks now reveal their aim. But they do not reckon right. France will show herself as firm as ever, insisting on reparations as they have been established. This principle once settled, France will, on the other hand, cooperate in methods of payment, as in general economic restoration, by conciliatory measures."

VENIZELOS TO LEAVE ATHENS AND RETURN TO PARIS

Athens, March 9—(By the A. P.)—Eleutherios Venizelos, former premier, who came to Greece a short time ago in an endeavor to straighten out the tangled political situation, will leave tomorrow for Paris.

M. Papanastasion, the republican leader, who yesterday was offered the premiership by the regent, was trying today to form a cabinet which would embrace all the political parties. His programme as announced provides for the overthrow of the dynasty without a plebescite and the postponement of a plebiscite on changes in the constitution until a more opportune time.

WILLIMANTIC

The work of cleaning up bootlegging establishments in this city is being carried on by the local police department, slowly but surely. The second moonshine joint to be successfully raided by the police was that of Samuel Goldstein, of 49 Jackson Place. Chief MacArthur, Captain Grady and Patrolmen Bombria and A. Hurley were armed with a search warrant and conducted the raid about 5.45 o'clock Saturday afternoon. A small quantity of homemade liquor was discovered in a cleverly arranged hiding place in a box under a bed. Goldstein was notified to appear in the police court this (Monday) morning when he will be charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell and it is thought probable that one or two actual sales will be brought against him.

James (Huesy) Donohue carried his Saturday night drunk over into the Sabbath day and as a result got into trouble. He was placed under arrest Sunday morning and locked up at the station house to await trial in court this (Monday) morning on a charge of intoxication.

In the opinion of local police court officials William (Fishhook) Casey, of this city, is "poor pay." Casey was fined a total of $16.25 in court last July when he was found guilty of an intoxication charge. He was placed on probation for three months to allow him time to pay the fine and costs, but during that time he left town and was not seen for some time. Casey had the good will of the officials in that he is an ex-service man of the Mexican and World wars and a regular army man for many years. Sunday morning about 11 o'clock he was located by Chief Allan MacArthur who notified him to present himself in the police court Monday.

Deputy Commissioner of Domestic Animals —— extended his investigations of unlicensed dog cases to the town of Ashford last week an effort which culminated in the trying of four cases for violation of the law before Justice of the Peace Edward O. Zeller with Grand Juror Otto B. Hattin prosecuting.

Edwin A. Buck of Westford, a poultry fancier was charged with having in his possession two unlicensed female dogs. He pleaded guilty and was fined $3 and costs amounting to $15.58 which was paid, in addition to the overdue license fee.

Clarence Toris and Lewellyn Wilson of West Ashford and Rev. William J. Dunn of Warrenville were charged with possession of roaming dogs, also unlicensed. Certain parties brought evidence to bear that the dogs owned by the three last named had been chasing deer in that vicinity. In reply to the statement the accused parties admitted that they owned the dogs, but said that they had no knowledge that the animals had been causing any damage. They were found technically guilty. Clarence Toris and Rev. W. J. Dunn were each fined $5 and costs amounting to $21.58 which they paid and Wilson was fined $1 and costs amounting to $16.58.

Melissa Goyette, 81, widow of Albert Patnode, for many years a resident of Willimantic, died Friday at the home of her son, George H. Patnode, in New Bedford, Mass. She is survived by six daughters, Mrs. James S. Hughes, of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Joseph Brown, rMs. Nelson Adams, Mrs. Mary Regan, Mrs. George A. Bowen and Mrs. John J. Hoey, all of this city and by a son, George H. Patnode of New Bedford. Two sisters, Mrs. Mary Pierce of Providence, R. I., and Miss Marcella Goyette of Jewett City. She also leaves several grandchildren. The body arrived in this city Saturday night and was taken in charge by a local undertaking firm.

The death of Mrs. Maria M. Doubleday Clark, 85, occurred at her home, Richmond Hill, N. Y., Friday night. rMs. Clark was the widow of Edward M. Clark and was a former Willimantic resident. She leaves one son, William D. Clark, with whom she made her home, a daughter, Mrs. Mary C. Rohan, of South Manchester, a sister, Miss Lucie Doubleday of Chestnut Hill and a granddaughter, Mrs. J. Raymond Smith of this city.

Funeral services for Miss Edith O. Turner were held at the grave in the North cemetery, Coventry, Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. E. G. Richter officiated. A service had also been conducted in Portland, Maine, where death occurred. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the local arrangements.

For the benefit of the children's amusement fund of St. Mary's parish, Garde Sacred Heart will hold its fourth annual exhibition drill and dance in May, and the affair promises to surpass any of its predecessors. The general boys' committee recently met with garde committee and the subcommittees were appointed as follows:

Drill—Captaine Arthur Vertefeuille, Edmond Sylvester, Joseph Vincelette, Arthur Cartier, Edward Grenier, Joseph F. Aubin, Lucien Vertefeuille and Walter Lafountaine. Radio drawing, F. J. Bergeron, Joseph Paulhus, Alfred Vertefeuille and Edmond Dupont.

Supper, Joseph Paulhus, Edmond Sylvestre, Joseph F. Aubin, Ovilla Garceau, Edmond Dupont and Ulric Hercieux.

The best drill teams from New England, including the Sharp Shooters of New Bedford, Mass., will take part in the exhibition drill and it is hoped to have a contest between girls' teams. Silver loving cups and gold medals will be awarded the winners. The women members of the Federation of French societies will serve a supper at which visiting teams will be guests. One of the awards will be a complete radio outfit. The boys' amusement committee includes: Edmond Sylvestre, chairman; Arthur Lacasse, secretary; F. J. Bergeron, treasurer; Joseph Paulhus, Joseph F. Aubin, Frank Caisse, Edward Grenier and Joseph Vincelette. The committee from the garde comprises, Arthur Cartier, Edmond Dupont, Alfred Vertefeuille, Ovilla Garceau, Lucien Vertefeuille, Ulric Hervieux, Harry Dumas, Walter Lafountaine and Emile Daxy.

It was made known Saturday by Charles W. Hill, chairman of the entertainment committee for the sting party to be held at the local Y. M. C. A., this week that the services of Professor Clements, sleight of hand performer had been secured.

Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue Leon T. Wilson will most likely be back on the job today (Monday). Mr. Wilson was called to Troy, N. Y., some days ago by the sudden illness of his son, a student at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. The young man was suffering from a nervous break-down brought on by overstudy and he will recuperate at his home in Putnam. Deputy Collecty Ernest P. Gates of New London has been handling the business at the local office in the absence of Mr. Wilson. In anticipation of an increase in the number of daily callers the hours will be from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. with an hour and a quarter for lunch at noon, this Monday and tomorrow ((Tuesday.)

The second and last day of a rummage sale conducted under the auspices of the Windham Girls club at the Martineau-Bacon Co., Inc., store Saturday, attracted a large number of customers. The members of the special committee of which Mrs. James M. Aspinwall is chairman, alternated in having charge of the sale.

Engine Company No. 1 was called out for a chimney fire at noon Saturday at the home of Fred Clough at 58 Lebanon avenue. Three gallons of chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze.

It was announced at the last regular meeting of Mary Todd Lincoln Tent, No. 15, Daughters of Veterans which was held in the G. A. R. rooms that the tent would celebrate its first anniversary April 4th. Mrs. Minnie Mathieu was in charge of the session. The mystery box was postponed until the next meeting.

A number of Willimantic people were entertained recently at the home of Mrs. Harry C. Smith of North Windham. Auction was played and followed by a delicious turkey dinner. The guests included, Mrs. Ashton C. Persons, Mrs. John Loomis, Mrs. Henry R. Lincoln, Miss May Tryon, Mrs. Arthur W. Gates, Mrs. E. J. Tryon of this city and Mrs. Wilbur Cross of New Haven.

Miss Delphine Foti of 21 High street has resigned from the staff of stenographers at the state motor vehicle department in Hartford. She was presented a beautiful platinum watch and pearl rosary beads by her associates. Miss Foti will have a vacation at home before taking up work again.

Mrs. Helen Bosa Cummings of Walnut street attended the Eastern Connecticut-Smith College club meeting in Norwich Saturday. She read the report of the alumni meeting held at Smith college last month.

Mrs. Owen O'Neill of Prospect street and Miss Elizabeth Hardman of Windham road spend the week end in New York.

Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Williams of St. Paul's church entertained Rev. Mr. Mattison of Clinton, who was the speaker at the church services at Storrs Sunday morning.

John Harvey of the Yale Law school was a week-end visitor with his parents, Attorney and Mrs. Samuel B. Harvey of Walnut street.

Jan Susdic of Warrenville was before Justice of the Peace Edward O. Zeller Saturday night at the home of Grand Juror Otto B. Hattin, who acted as prosecutor, on a charge of violation of the dog law. It was alleged that Susdic owned two male dogs which were over six months old and were unlicensed. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed that the dogs were less than six months old. The dog warden was of the opinion that they were older and had been for some time, but as it was impossible to introduce any direct evidence against Susdic the case was nolled.

Josephine M. Freeman, wife of Lewis S. Freeman, died at her home, 847 Main street, Saturday night. She was born August 25, 1850, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hines, in Norfolk, Conn. Besides her husband she is survived by a sister, rMs. Ida Crosier of Pittsfield, Mass. Mrs. Freeman was a member of the A. M. E. Zion church of this city.

Nine teams have entered in the basketball tournament to be held at the Connecticut Agricultural college in Storrs next Friday and Saturday. Windham High school appears to have an excellent change to capture the first honors. R. J. Guyer, director of athletics at the college announced Saturday that Manchester High is not to participate in the contest. The Silktown lads have a game scheduled for Friday evening with Meriden and arrangements could not be completed for its postponement. Rockville High has decided not to enter the competition, probably downhearted after its defeat by a score of 31 to 11 at the hands of the local lads last Friday afternoon. One dangerous source of competition for Windham is eliminated by the announcement of Manchester's decision.

Mr. Guyer has been notified that the Putnam-Killingly game which would conflict with the tournament has been postponed. However, no acceptance has been received from the Danielson institution. It seems more than likely that Killingly will be one of the participants. There is also a possibility that Portland High may be one of the entrants.

Schools which have definitely accepted and will take part in the tournament are: Windham, Putnam, Tourtelotte, Glastonbury, Stafford, East Hartford, Woodstock, Stonington, and Chapman Tech of New London.

From a comparison of the records of the various quintets this season, it is evident that the Crimson and Blue has a fine chance of plucking out the first honors. Should Killingly decide to participate it will give the Windham boys another crack at that aggregation to take revenge for the one-point defeat handed them by Killingly earlier in the season, at Danielson, after Windham had routed her rivals on the home floor.

Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, in a statement issued in Boston expressed the hope that Massachusetts would retain its law compelling a 48-hour week in the textile industry.

JEWETT CITY

Sunday in the borough was almost like a day in apple blossom time. The mercury stood at well over 50 degrees all the afternoon. Walks along the highway, or in the woods and fields, were a pleasure that hundreds of local people enjoyed. There seemed to be a general search in the vicinity of Tadpole for early pussy willows and many returned with handsome silvery branches.

At the Baptist church, Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. Elmer E. Scates, extended the right hand of fellowship to Rev. John W. Payne, who unites by letter from the Sterling Hill Baptist church. Mr. Payne was at one time the minister at the local church, having held one of the pastorates in its history longest.

Deputy Sheriff John Dolan, State Policeman Arthur Williams and Railroad Detective John McGrath returned from Cambridge, Mass., Sunday bringing Frank Livingstone, Fred Clark and John Othmer under arrest in connection with stealing a team which was brought to Jewett City and sold. Livingstone and Clark are in the local jail, and Othmer is in the Danielson court awaiting trial.

John Cohen, who stole the team has surrendered himself as a deserter from the navy yard in Charleston rather than stand the arrest for the stolen team. On his person were found pawn tickets for $1000 worth of goods which were probably stolen around Boston.

Mrs John Perkins left Saturday accompanied by Miss Alice Blair, R. N., for New Haven hospital, where she is to undergo a major surgical operation of a very serious nature today (Monday).

James Dolan spent the week end in Boston with Leslie Carroll, a student in Boston University.

Paul Anthony has sold out his business to Fred Racine of Danielson.

James Duggan, superintendent of Lefavor Mfg. Co., of Long Island City spent Sunday at his home in Jewett City.

Mrs F. L. Kanehan is at home after spending several weeks in Peter Bent Brigham hospital, Boston.

Mrs. W. O. Sabin has been called to Versailles by the death of her father, John H. Richards, whose funeral was held Sunday.

Sunday evening the two weeks' series of Gospel meetings opened at the Baptist church, the pastor spoke from the topic, A Parallel for Church Growth. William Dealtrey was the soloist. The other meetings for the week are March 11, Tuesday 7.30 p. m., Topic "Thou Are the Christ"; March 12, Wednesday 7.00 p. m. School of Missions until 8 p. m. followed by gospel meeting, Topic "Christ's Blood the Token of Salvation"; March 13, Thursday 7.30 p. m. Topic "Steps Toward God"; March 14, Friday 7.30 p. m., Topic, "The Master's Awl".

At the evening meetings, Rev. Elmer E Scates will preach and Mr. Dealtrey will sing. In addition to these meetings there will be three afternoon services, Wednesday and Thursday at 3 o'clock and Friday at 3.30 for the boys and girls.

Following are the bowling scores for March 7:

Among the several people living in this section who have come from the Pine Tree state, there is a man and his wife who lived for several years in the city of Lewiston. The Mrs. of this family has told Old Ciney Watson about being well acquainted with many of the "Old Sabattus" localities in Maine. There is a story, that in years gone by, there lived a catamount down in the section where Old Ciney has set his trap lines a regular old hermit, that had a reign of terror all one winter in that region, until one day he got too familiar with one of the Stanton boys, who was in charge of a saw mill gang down below Mt. Misery, and he knocked him over with a well directed blow from a heavy steel-bound cant hook. Old Ciney has been induced to tell the story of Old Sabattus' catamount adventure.

The day, long years ago when we boys visited the old Indian wigwam, I remember just what a beautiful situation it was. The leaves were turning yellow and red, and the squirrels were running and chattering in every direction. We came out on the shore at the lower end of the pond. The water was very low, with pebbly bars showing here and there above the surface smooth as glass. We found an old man sitting in the door cleaning his old long barrelled gun. Sabattus with his dogs, three in number, had been hunting along the banks of the Androscoggin, when one day, just after having brought down a moose, and while he was skinning it, with his dogs looking on, a catamount sprang down from a tree top, and seizing one of the dogs leaped back with it into the tree. All dogs have a instinctive dread of a cougar, and instead of shooting at the creature, Sabattus made off with his remaining dogs and went a day's journey up the river before venturing to stop or hunt again. But the panther had followed him, and a few evenings later, as he was sitting by his fire, with his dogs lying by his side down came the fierce beast and, with a horrible growl, pounced upon another of his dogs. In the dim light of the darkening forest, the trembling hunter could discern its glaring eyes flashing from the tree top as it tore and devoured the dog. Again Sabattus fled and this time put a two-days' journey behind him. But he had scarcely begun cooking his supper, on the evening of the second day, when for the third time, the catamount came springing down, and catching up poor Grip, his last dog, ran up the trunk of a large rock maple.

This was coming pretty close. There were no more dogs to stand between him and the monster. "Sabattus no run this time," as he used to tell it. No good run. Sabattus' turn next. He must either kill the catamount or the catamount would kill him.

He raised his gun, but for a long time his shaking hands refused to aim.

At last, resting it across the upturned root of a fallen tree, he got it a little steadier, still muttering as he glanced along the wavering barrel. The old chap's hands must have been tolerable steady, after all; for he wounded the creature, fatally too, with the first shot, and after watching his dying agonies for a long time, at length had the satisfaction of seeing him stiff in death.

APPRECIATION BY RADIO FROM ARCHBISHOP HAYES

New York, March 9—An appreciation of "sincerity and cordiality" with which the crowds at the pier bid him godspeed on his visit to Rome were he will be made a cardinal was received from Archbishop Hayes today in a wireless message sent from the Steamer Berengaria to Bishop John Dunn of New York.

"Delighted and grateful," said the message, "beyond words at wonderful demonstration. The note of sincerity, cordiality and affection could not be questioned."

17 MEN RESCUED BY A SWEDISH-AMERICAN LINER

New York, March 9—Seventeen members of the crew of the wooden steamship Obernal, which is believed to have sunk yesterday, have been rescued by the Swedish-American liner Kongsholm, a radio message received at the line's offices today said. It was not known whether the men rescued comprised the entire crew of the vessel.

Calls for help from the Obernal were received yesterday, giving her position as about 200 miles east of Halifax. Soon after, Captain Guhde, of the Kungsholm, replied that he was steaming to her assistance.

BOY IN NEW HAVEN WAS FATALLY INJURED BY AUTO

New Haven, March 9—George Valdino, aged three, was struck and killed this afternoon by an automobile owned and driven by James Guilfoil, a taxicab driver. The child with others was playing in the street when he was hit. Guilfoil immediately took the child to a hospital but he died before reaching there. Guilfoil is being held on a reckless driving charge and failure to endorse operator's license.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

San Carlo Grand Opera Company Coming in Special Train.

Fortune Gallo's famous de luxe special San Carlo Grand Opera company arrives in Norwich today and during its fleeting visit here will be presented at the Palace theatre tonight in a magnificent production of the celebrated operatic masterpiece, Madame Butterfly.

The company numbers over one hundred people and requires five cars to move it and its effects from the picayune piccola to the big bass viol.

One of the greatest worries of the company manager of the San Carlo cohorts, is to keep the baggage of the prima donnas within bounds. In every city these singers accumulate new clothes, books, souvenirs, presents of every description.

In Waco, Texas, where the company played a record breaking engagement at the Cotton Palace Exposition, not long ago, they were showered with flowers and other gifts at every performance. One enthusiastic ranchman roped a pet deer and dragged it down to the train as the company departed. He insisted on presenting it to Mme. Tamaki Miura, celebrated Japanese soprano. Her eyes glowed as brightly as the deer's when she saw him, but the company manager made a noise like a wounded stag. He was willing to find room for three trunks full of Mme. Miura's hats. But to take on a deer—not a chance! "If you begin to carry a menagerie," he spluttered, "we will soon be a circus."

"Good!" answered Mme. Miura. "I will sell the peanuts and the red lemonade."

The deer was left behind in Waco, but the train-load of temperamental stars is lively enough without him. There are Mesdames Anna Fitziu, the beautiful American prima donna, Elda Vettori, who recently scored such a brilliant success in her New York debut with the San Carlo at the magnificent Century Opera House, Elvira Leveroni, Sofia Maslova, Sofia Charlebois, not to mention a score of budding prima donnas, and American and Italian tenors, baritones and bassos. To get all these people, many of whom speak no English, assembled at the right railroad station, put them on the right train, distribute them among their hotels when they reach their destination and give car and assistance to them in all their individual troubles—this is the life of an operatic manager.

The Palace Theatre.

Owing to the San Carlo Grand Opera company requiring all the stage, there will be a double feature picture program on Monday matinee.

Following the opera, Mr. Harding has gathered together an array of marvelous attractions, headed by an incomparable vaudeville headliner presented by Mde. Dores, the famous singing producer, who has offered to the American public the finest novelties on the American stage. Mde. Dores entitled this act Flashes From Songland. The act is replete with beautiful scenic effects elaborately gowned and artistically presented. In the fifteen minutes that the act takes up they offer a revue of melodies that are particularly pleasing to the average theatregoer inasmuch as they have perfected the art of introducing semi-classical numbers so that they sound popular rather than classic. The act is one no music lover should miss for they are past masters in their chosen art, each of the members of the company being a former concert star and together they make a splendid singing aggregation. An old time favorite is on the same bill, one that every one in Norwich has been anxious to see, Pat White, the famous comedian for many years a headliner star in Columbia burlesque and in musical comedy. This is Mr. White's first season in vaudeville but he brings to the vaudeville stage all his funny eccentricities and odd tricks of delineation. Undoubtedly every one in Norwich will wish to see Pat for the probabilities are that next season he will be with a Broadway musical show for so fast and far has his fame reached that even the most blase New York theatregoers flock to any theatre in which he appears.

The three Rossiter girls, a trio of comely maidens offer a refreshingly different vaudeville revue. The girls are well gowned and present their offering in a scenic setting that much enhances its value. The Great Howard is an entertainer that is welcome on any vaudeville bill. He and his little wooden assistant create a fund of merry laughter and his every word seems to bring a fresh roar of joy. Burton and Foley present an intimate comedy skit entitled All in Fun. This clever duo are making their first Norwich appearance since their New York successes and top off a splendid bill of worthwhile vaudeville.

As a novelty offering Pat White will put on a real clown night Tuesday night which will contain more real laughs than a barrel of monkeys.

Lucretia Lombard is the feature picture, the ninth round of Fighting Blood and a Pathe News complete the bill.

BREED THEATRE

The screen version of the Belasco stage hit, The Governor's Lady, which William Fox has produced under the direction of Harry Millarde, is said to out-Belasco Belasco in its dramatic intensity. This dynamic story of life behind the scenes in politics will be shown at the Breed theatre today and Tuesday.

The play was written by Alice Bradley, enjoyed a successful run at the Republic theatre in New York in 1912 and later played in all the principal cities from coast to coast. It took Mr. Belasco but a few hours after receiving the play to decide that it would be a great popular hit and to close with the author. The action which delighted the thousands who saw the play on the stage has been intensified in the screen version, which has been declared to be one of the best pictures of the year.

No detail has been omitted in translating the play to the screen.

In addition to a story with a vital, American theme, accurate and superb settings, the photoplay has a brilliant cast to fittingly portray this story. Robert T. Haines plays the role of the ex-miner who advances to the governorship of his state and then tires of the wife who helped him to climb, because she has not kept up with his advancement. Jane Grey plays the Governor's Lady. The supporting players include Ann Luther, Frazer Coulter and Leslie Austen.

Frogland, an exquisite exemplification of the plastic art, the Pathe news and an Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Darwinism.

Darwinism is the doctrine that later species or forms of animals and plants have been developed out of earlier ones by a process of natural selection, supplemented in some cases by sexual selection. It was advocated by Charles Darwin (1809-1882), especially in his "Origin of Species," and "The Descent of Man."

Perhaps no man is as big a coward as his wife imagines he is.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At the Broadway.

Judgment of the Storm, now showing at the Broadway theatre, is a photodrama that will hold the interest of the spectator from the first title to the end.

To begin with the picture is excellently cast. All the players are real artists and well known in all parts of the country. Lloyd Hughes is an ideal selection for the role of John Trevor and gives a fine portrayal of a strong character.

Lucille Ricksen, sweet and winsome, plays her role in a delightfully unaffected manner. George Hackathorn gives his usual brilliant performance. Myrtle Stedman, Philo McCullough, Claire McDowell and Bruce Gordon contribute effective roles.

There are any number of big scenes including the most spectacular snow storm scenes seen on the screen since the filming of Way Down East. These snow scenes were actually filmed in the blizzards and snowstorms of the high Sierras.

The theme of the story is that of a man who sentences himself to fill the place of his sweetheart's brother, for whose death his mother is responsible.

This picture is the first Palmer Photoplay Corporation release to be distributed by the Film Booking Offices. Mrs. Ethel Styles Middleton, a Pittsburgh housewife, wrote the story while the direction was in the capable hands of Del Andrews, responsible for The Tottentot and other big

Here is a picture that should be seen by every man, woman and child and we earnestly ask you to try and see it for you will not regret it.

Short subjects include a comedy and news weekly.

"So This is London"

In the course of each theatrical season there are perhaps a half dozen attractions that stand out in relief from the others possessing merit that places them above the average run of visiting companies. "So This is London" can easily lay claim to being one of the favored few. This cleverly contrived comedy, which has contributed so materially to the gaiety and good feeling of Great Britain and America has been eagerly awaited by playgoers who appreciate the worth-while offerings of the theatre. It will be the attraction at the Broadway Theatre, Wednesday night, March 12 and is certain to prove one of the season's artistic treats and a genuine success that has not been equalled in recent years. It is a play that can truthfully be classified "The Outstanding Comedy Success of the Season." It rounded out a full year at the Hudson Theatre, New York, where more than half a million people laughed at its delightful satire.

It bears the Cohan stamp of merry touches and humor that is always bright and never bitter. The company that will be seen here is a specially organized city cast and the production artistically beautiful.

Seats are now on sale at box office.

Keith Vaudeville at the Strand.

Once again the Strand management has shown good judgment in presenting another fine program of vaudeville with as fine an assortment as could be wanted.

Just Four Girls is the feature attraction. They present a song, dance and piano revue.

The Famous Pickfords in Fun in a Restaurant will keep you thrilled and amused.

Bound For Nowhere with Lester & Stuart shows you that they really were bound for somewhere when they finish their offering. That somewhere is keeping you amused.

Stevens and Brunelle in exclusive songs and sayings is a bright repartee.

Marie & Ann Clark in What, a vaudeville's very latest novelty embellished with comedy talking, songs and dance.

Broadway Broke, the Saturday Evening Post classic by Earl Derr Biggers, has been picturized by J. Searle Dawley and which started a three day engagement at the Strand theatre today has something new in the line of plots. It has been said that there are thirty-seven basic plots on which a production can be based. Some of these have been worked to death on both the stage and screen. Whether Broadway Broke was based on one of these plots we do not know, but if it was, the details have certainly been worked out in a way that makes it seem distinctly novel.

Mary Carr has the leading role and is supported by a most capable cast, Percy Marmont, Gladys Leslie, Dore Davidson, Maclyn Arbuckle, Mossy Harlan, Henrietta Crosman, Sally Crute and many others.

Real Estate Sold.

Through the Norwich Land Title and Insurance company office the title to property at 10 Church street has been transferred from D. J. Kerr to J. S. and Mary A. Johnson of this city. This property is one of the best located on Church street and the new owners take over this property as an investment and are to conduct same as an exclusive rooming house.

From A. Crochran to Joe T. Manning, title to house and lot at 66 School street. This property consists of a two-tenement house and extensive grounds and new owner buys same as an investment.

Title to No. 54 Washington street from B. Smith to Captain George C. Crocker. Captain Crocker has lived for over fifty years over the city line in Thamesville and has disposed of his property in that section through this office, and is to take up his residence in his new home April 1.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Now here is a chance for some jobs for someone. Qualified persons who get appointments and live long enough may earn as high as $5,000 a year. The government—the federal government—is going to increase the personnel of its patents department. In order that speed in handling applications for patents may be gained, 100 additional people are to be added to the department. Going in, a successful applicant will get at least $1,860 a year. That's something. All one has to do is pass an examination—providing he is interested in getting an appointment—in mathematics, technics, physics, interpretation of mechanical drawings, French and German and some branch of engineering. Just that—nothing more. Of course, if he can do all these things sufficiently well to satisfy the government he may decide after taking the examination and passing it that he—or she—is prtty good, and having proved it, may take a copy of his examination papers and use them in the course of getting a real job. There are a great many people in this territory who couldn't pass any such an examination as is herein outlined and yet are making more than $1860 a year. Government service in subordinate positions today seems to be predicated on the proposition that those who enter it must make some personal sacrifice. Not all are permitted to enter the magic circle where oil wells are the pawns in the game.

Saturday morning, from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Koskoszka, in Goodyear, the funeral of Joseph Koskoszka was held, with services at St. Joseph's church in Dayville. Rev. Ignatius Kost, the pastor, was celebrant of the requiem mass. The body was placed in the vault at St. Joseph's cemetery. The boy, who was four years of age, leaves besides his parents, three sisters and two brothers.

It was apparent at the week end that clerks in Danielson's stores are in a number of instances, at least, going to accept the suggestion coming from various quarters that they take up the matter of a half-holiday with their employers direct.

This has come to be regarded here as the better way to handle the matter of a recess season for the clerks. Economically, and from many other viewpoints, closing the stores on any afternoon of the week is generally regarded as a very poor business policy. It is not likely to be adopted here. Nevertheless, many business men are not opposed to granting clerks a half-holiday, and this can be done without interrupting business.

The proposal is now regarded as a matter to be decided between the clerks in any particular store and the owner thereof. It is largely a personal matter. Few clerks will contend that they must have a holiday on the same afternoon as a clerk in another store. And few are so contending.

Conferences between clerks and employers appears at the present time to offer the most hopeful possibility of solving the half-holiday question.

Several letters dealing with hours and conditions of employment in the cotton textile industry a half century back have come to hand, following the publication in this column of comment relative to that particular subject. These letters dwell on the point that in the old days such employment represented an all work and no play program, unless one was willing to stay up all night and go to work the next day without sleep. Saturday nights excepted. It was a hard drill, all who experienced it agree, and there are no unsatisfied longings to try it over again.

The Danielson Chamber of Commerce will be represented Tuesday at Hartford when the public utilities commission hears a petition, having the support of interests in some of the larger centers of population of the state, for a reduction in trolley fares. The demand that is being made is that the Connecticut company sell tokens at two for 15 cents instead of three for 25 cents, the present rate. If the Connecticut company is forced to grant this reduction, it may mean abandonment of service on such of its lines as are unprofitable on such a fare basis—the one through Danielson, for instance.

This hearing is really a very important one, though there appears to be little interest generally in the matter hereabouts.

Al Saunders, one of the best known converts of Rev. Billy Sunday, closed a series of revival meetings at the Congregational church in Wauregan Sunday evening. Meetings were conducted Friday and Saturday evenings.

Mr. Saunders, then engaged in business in Scranton, Pa., was converted when Billy Sunday conducted an evangelistic campaign in that city, in 1914. Since then he has been actively interested in evangelical work and has conducted services in many of the larger cities of the country.

No real dyed-in-the-wool trout fisherman has to be told that three weeks from tomorrow (Tuesday) morning he will be allowed by the law to go out along the brooks and engage in his favorite pastime—nothing excepted. Every such fisherman has been thumbing a calendar for weeks—counting the days until the magic first of April arrives.

The fishing hereabouts should be good this year. Thousands of fingerlings were distributed last year by the Danielson Rod and Gun club, and while many of these will not be large enough this spring to be interesting to the fishermen some of them will, and they all add to the prospect of good sport—and to many a fishing addict the prospect is as joyous as the actual realization. It is the winding brooks, the sweet scented woods and the peaceful roaming that is the real attraction, after all. If a trout bites, all well and good; if there is no bite the world is just as beautiful. Fishing's the thing! Getting the fish is merely incidental.

PUTNAM

The adjourned annual town meeting to lay a tax for the year is to be held in the municipal building this (Monday) morning at 10 o'clock. On account of an increase of $6000 in the appropriation for schools, an increase in the interest account of $1800 due to the new $3500 addition to the Israel Putnam school, a number of citizens in close touch with town affairs predict that it will be necessary to materially increase the present tax rate rate of 20 mills, as the grand list does not show a substantial increase over a year ago. Other citizens believe that the town can get by with the present 20 mill rate and it is anticipated that the situation will be thoroughly discussed at the meeting this morning.

Friday night Albert LaJoie of Middle street, after taking several drinks of some kind of liquor with a kick in it, went to his home threatened his wife and children with bodily harm broke down a bedroom door, took the family savings of $400 and left the house. Soon afterwards he appeared at the railroad station where he displayed the roll of $400 to a taxi driver and asked to be taken to Montreal, Canada. The taximan was not prepared to make an international trip on such short notice, so a compromise was effected and Albert was taken to Fall River. According to the police LaJoie, when he went to his home so frightened his wife that she took the children into the bedroom and locked the door. She then crawled out of a window taking the children with her and sought refuge at the home of a neighbor. The drunken husband shouted to his wife to unlock the door and when he received no response he smashed the door down and then took the money from a bureau drawer. The police were called but when they arrived LaJoie had left. The officers found a large calibre rifle fully loaded, which they took away with them. LaJoie has lived in Putnam for over a year and has never given the police any trouble. The family is left without any money as the husband took all that was in the house.

Richard Gilpatrick entertained 13 friends at the home of his parents, State Treasurer and Mrs. G. Harold Gilpatrick, Saturday afternoon, in celebration of his twelfth birthday. As Mrs. Gilpatrick is in New York the party was arranged and supper was served by Miss Edna Hall, who took all present to the theatre, after supper.

Principal John J. O'Brien of the Israel Putnam school left Saturday afternoon for Reston and this (Monday) morning will begin his new duties as sub master in a school at Allston, Mass.

State Bank Commissioner John B. Byrne, who returned recently from a trip to New Orleans spent Sunday at his home in Putnam.

PLAINFIELD

Elmer Hopkins, one of the children of Leroy Hopkins, who was so ill with pneumonia in the winter, is suffering with the same disease. His condition is reported as slightly improved.

All the basketball fans are on tiptoe over the announcement that the Whirlwinds of Boston are to make a second trip to Plainfield, venturing another game this week. The local team will be in the best of form and are planning to give the team from the Hub a hot fight and win the laurels if possible. It is bound to be a great night for basketball.

Everything is set for a big night at the vestry of the Congregational church this (Monday) evening when Lincoln club is to hold the March meeting. An excellent program is planned and a good supper will be furnished by the men. The club is also entertaining at this time the local troop of Boy Scouts who are expected to be on hand for the supper, and in uniform.

The Girls' Friendly society is to meet in St. Paul's church hall for a regular meeting and to further plan for their coming entertainment.

Mrs. Winifred Gardiner and her daughter Gertrude spent the week-end in Westerly visiting friends and relatives.

Elwood Biles has purchased a building site on Gallup street on the north side, opposite Roy H. Barstow's. He has cleared up the lot and commenced to dig a cellar upon which he will erect a five-room bungalow.

The following young men from Plainfield High school attended the basketball game at Storrs Saturday evening: Samuel Dorrance, Stuart Williams, Ralph West and Ralph Tyler. Henry Dorrance accompanied the boys on their trip. The Storrs team played the Rhode Island State Agricultural team and won by a good score.

Mrs. Charles Jerome, who was taken ill last week with grip, is confined to her bed.

The O. J. S. put on an exceedingly interesting program last week, consisting of a piano solo by Mrs. Clarence Jeffers, a reading by Mrs. Carl Mathewson and a vocal solo by Mrs. Cecil Butler. New members were received into the club. Refreshments were served.

Miss Vivian Cleland spent the week end in Hartford visiting her sister, Miss Marion Cleland. Miss Ruth Cleland and Milton Windsor were also guests of Miss Cleland Sunday.

The state highway is being repaired through Plainfield street where the roadbed is breaking down during the spring weather, under the strain of heavy traffic.

The Late Miss Sarah M. Averill

(Contributed)

On the morning of February 26 one of the most beautiful days of this year, came the peaceful end of life to Miss Sarah M. Averill, at Black Hill, in the town of Plainfield the beauty of the day was a symbol of the beauty of her life, a life of helpful activity, of happy service.

As a school teacher for forty years she exerted a helpful influence on the minds of thousands of students, which will be an enduring monument to her memory.

Miss Averill was born in the adjoining town of Griswold, but at an early age moved with her parents, George and Lucretia Averill to the town of Plainfield where most of her childhood and youth was passed. She was a student at Plainfield Academy, after which she was graduated at the Normal School at Worcester, Mass. This was followed by study at Oberlin and Cornell. She taught in the English and Classical High school, Worcester, and at the high school of Commerce, from its organization until her retirement, about five years ago, in all about 30 years.

In her early life she joined the Congregational church of Plainfield and after moving to Worcester, transferred her membership to Central church of Worcester, of which she was a member at her death. She was a former resident of the Lovana Club of Worcester and for years filled important offices of the Woman's Club. She was an active member of the Twentieth Century club and other associations working for the improvements in her city. She was a woman of charming personality, happy, sunny disposition and broad sympathies. She was noted among her friends for her rich sense of humor, and had a quick wit, but it was never of the kind that left a sting, or hurt anyone's feelings. She had read widely and was an earnest student. She greatly enjoyed the beautiful in nature in its varied forms of charming landscapes of different seasons, with the ever changing pictures of birds and flowers.

One of the special delights of her last months was to watch for the winter birds that would alight daily on the sill, for the grain placed there for them.

She had a keen interest in all movements pertaining to community betterment. About five years ago she retired from teaching and has lived at the birthplace home of a lifelong school mate-teacher friend with Miss Anna P. Smith of Black Hill with whom she has lived for forty years.

She leaves a sister, Miss Mary E. Averill of Worcester, Mass., who is well known in different parts of New England.

Her friends were countless and everyone who knew her loved her.

She will ever be remembered for her pleasant smile, her encouraging words, her genial personality and the principles by which she lived. The last few weeks will never be forgotten by those who were privileged to see how faith and courage and constant cheerfulness can overcome all dread and make the darkest moments beautiful and glad.

To her friends her life was a blessing; her memory is a benediction.

MYSTIC

Church Home Night at the Methodist church, Friday evening, brought out an attendance of about 150 and was a most successful affair. Rev. J. Francis Cooper, D. D., principal of East Greenwich, R. I., academy, spoke on "The Present Day Challenge of the Gospel," and various prominent laymen of the Church made brief remarks. Mrs. Rachel Edgecomb Berry and Miss Constance Fort furnished the musical program, which was much enjoyed. This gathering was held in the chapel and began with a roast beef supper at 6.30. Great satisfaction was expressed on all sides that, after holding these church home night gatherings for the past eight years in other places or in the small vestry room formerly available the church now has a room that is large enough to accommodate such a company with convenience and comfort.

Four special meetings are to be held this week in the Union Baptist church, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, with a special preacher for each evening, in preparation for the coming of Rev. John Morgan Currie of Melrose Highlands, Mass., Baptist church, who is soon to conduct a series of revival services in this church.

Mrs. W. N. Harris is the guest of relatives in Norwich.

Mrs. Henrietta Stanton was a caller in New London Saturday.

John F. Meyer, superintendent of Elm Grove cemetery, was called to New York last week by the sudden death of his father.

A. C. Latham Camp No. 19, Sons of Veterans, is to meet Tuesday evening and will take action on several applications for membership. The camp is getting a class of candidates ready for a visit March 25th from a degree team composed of state officers; plans are under way for a big meeting at this time.

Charity Chapter, No. 81, O. E. S., is to meet Tuesday evening.

Miss Joyce Boland of Trenton, N. J., is the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Wilfred E. Brown.

Miss Elizabeth Burrows entertained a company of friends at dinner Friday, at her home on West Mystic avenue.

Amos G. Hewitt is visiting his sister, Mrs. Fanny D. Sinclair, at Woodhaven, Long Island.

CHAPLIN

The Charles E. Ross house is now occupied by Mr. Garrison and family, who have lived in town before.

Clifton Wright's steam mill is sawing timber from the George Babcock and A. B. Shippee wood lots. William Sprague is the experienced sawyer on the job.

Mrs. Nellie Loomis Reed, 84, wife of John F. Reed, died at her home Tuesday morning at 5.30 o'clock after a lingering illness. She was born in Coventry, Oct. 5, 1839 a daughter of Erastus and Cornelia Sill Loomis, coming to Chaplin with her parents many years ago, and spending a number of years of her life in town.

The funeral of Mrs. Reed was attended by a large number of relatives and townspeople, at the house Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. John H. Knott, pastor of the Congregational church conducting the service. The tribute of flowers were beautiful. The Ladies' Aid society gave a pillow of choice flowers. The bearers were Harold M. Reed, Ward L. Reed, Llewellyn M. Reed and Edward Blagg. Burial was in the center cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Knott conducted the committal service.

Mrs. Reed was a worthy Christian, uniting with the Congregational church in 1884. She had many friends and was of a sunny nature spirit.

Besides her husband she leaves two sons, Harold M. of West Hartford and Ward L. Reed of West Haven and a daughter, Mrs. Edward B. Flagg of West Hartford.

STAFFORD

Rev. George Thompson of Whitman, Mass., has been the guest of his mother, Mrs. Emily Thompson.

Charles Holden of Palmer has been visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bray.

E. Whiton of Springfield has been the guest of his sister, Mrs. J. Depeau.

The Tolland County Y. M. C. A. held a father and son banquet Monday evening at the Methodist church, Rev. John L. Davis will be the speaker. He is pastor of Trinity Methodist church of New Britain and leader of the famous "Everyman's Bible Class" which has a membership of over two thousand men. He is state chaplain of the American Legion.

DAUGHERTY DECLINES TO CONSIDER RESIGNING

Washington, March 9—Whether the senate investigation of Attorney General Daugherty will begin this week with Mr. Daugherty in or out of office appeared tonight as uncertain as ever.

Today there was quiet in the situation preceding the new storm expected to break over the question of Mr. Daugherty's future service when the committee opens hearings.

The attorney general apparently continues in the position that he will not consider resigning until the conclusion of the inquiry, notwithstanding that many administration leaders are making slight effort to conceal their belief that his retirement would remove much embarrassment. Those in charge of the investigation also are known to prefer proceeding without Mr. Daugherty at the helm of the department of justice.

It now appears that the first line of inquiry in the investigation will relate to the charges that Former Secretary Fall and the Doheny and Sinclair oil interests aided in furthering the present Mexican revolution through the shipment of arms and ammunition to the revolutionists. Special attention is to be given to the department of justice agents engaged in preventing neutrality violations on the Mexican border were "called off by Washington."

The Mexican revolutionary angle, Chairman Brookhart and Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, said today, probably will be given precedence because of its present importance and be substituted for the original plan to open the inquiry on the charges of alleged failure of the department of justice to prosecute anti-trust cases recommended by the federal trade commission.

Plans for the hearings still are in the formative stage and the day for opening the inquiry has not yet been definitely fixed.

Senator Brookhart said tonight it might be on Tuesday but more likely a day or two later. Some of the witnesses already are in Washington and others are due here tomorrow.

Examination into political angles in connection with the 1920 republican pre-convention campaign were broached by the reports of an offer to General Leonard Wood, of the presidential nomination contingent upon his selection of the late Jake Hamon, Oklahoma oil millionaire, as secretary of the interior, is to be left to the oil investigators, it was indicated by Chairman Brookhart, who made it clear the committee expects to confine its efforts to subjects in which Mr. Daugherty or his principal aides or associates have been actively concerned.

BOOK TO CONTAIN 18 PLANS FOR THE PEACE AWARD

New York, March 9.—A book containing eighteen of the representative plans submitted in the contest for the American peace award will be published March 31, it was announced today by the committee in charge of the award.

It was explained that the principle of selection of the plans for the book was to illustrate as many as possible of the different approaches to the problem of peace. Various types of proposals are included.

The authors, who will divide royalties on the book, come from different sections of the country and some of them are young men who saw service in the World war. One is a woman. The list of occupations includes a research chemist, a mining engineer, a churchman, professors of international law, former college presidents, lawyers and journalists.

The woman who has a good figure is always willing to admit it.

AN IMMEDIATE TAX CUT.

The plan for action that will bring about an immediate reduction in the income tax so that payments due this week will be favorably affected is one that ought not to suffer from dilly-dally practices. This will mean an immediate benefit to the taxpayers, and therefore to the entire country, and if the cut is made before the payments are made it will save much confusion and work for the revenue department by making it unnecessary to return part of the year's tax. Many have paid but many more will pay this week, and pay for the entire year. A tax reduction can be made that will be retroactive, but there will be overcome the need of much of this extra work if that 25 per cent cut can be taken out of the year's payment as made this week.

Endorsement of the cut has been given by both President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon of the treasury department. The merits of it are such that they ought not to fail to appeal to those in whose hands the necessary legislation rests. There are those who have endeavored to throw a monkey wrench into the plan for cutting the taxes on a scientific basis. They have insisted even upon forcing the country into a large deficit simply for the sake of claiming a political advantage out of a tax cut that would be greater than the one recommended by the administration.

This fails to give due recognition to the facts in the case. It even attempts to disregard the nation's welfare. At the present time a compromise plan has passed the house, with the prospects that the senate will remodel it considerably. But there is nothing that ought to stand in the way of providing for the immediate reduction that is possible and still adhere to the other features of the administration's tax reduction plan. Those who stand in the way of such a reduction of the public's tax burden are giving more thought to politics than they are to the interests of their constituents.

MINE LOSSES.

Regardless of the efforts that have been put forth for the protection of those who work underground, as well as for the protection of the investment involved in mining operations, there continue to be those very disasters against which there should be a general cooperative effort.

It is no secret that the open light and gas constitute a vicious hazard. This is true above ground as well as under, but with the coal dust added to the situation in the mines the danger is greatly increased.

The surprising part of it is that either the coal miners, or the operators of the mines, should be willing to encourage the inevitable by using or tolerating the open lights in the hands of the miners. Flame safety lamps have been known and used for a century, but there is now available an electric lamp which adds even greater safety and is in every way as efficient.

One might suspect that the availability of such a safety provision would result in a general substitution of the safest lamp, but it takes time, as is shown by the recent survey made by the federal bureau of mines which shows that in the past 17 years the use of open lights caused seven fires and 103 explosions in coal mines and four fires in metal mines in this country. The extent of such disasters might be regarded as bad enough when it is realized that some of the mines were wrecked and others so badly damaged that much unemployment followed, but in addition thereto there were 2341 men killed and 876 injured.

Figured on the basis that these lives might have been saved and the property damage avoided, it becomes evident that there was a huge and needless waste which might have been prevented through responding to the known need of doing away with the open light in mines. The opportunity to make a large saving in the lives of those who work underground would seem worth improving, and especially by those who are likely to become the victims.

ALIEN REGISTRATION.

Strict as we are in our immigration regulations there are those who are constantly figuring how they can be circumvented. It is much like the efforts of those who begin to study the ways of crawling through laws about as soon as a new one is proposed.

Smuggling is not the only way of escaping the immigration restrictions, though there may be thousands who get into the country by such a method each year. Under the provision of the law which permits alien seamen to come into the country and then desert their ships, and of course avoid any test before the immigration authorities, many are able to crawl under the bars. Without a doubt many hire out as seamen in the ports of other countries for the purpose of getting a chance to escape the immigration laws of this country. And they do it to an extent which can be more than estimated, for when over 13,000 alien seamen deserted their ships in American ports last year it tells its own story.

As a means of preventing such violations of the law it is proposed that all aliens should be registered. It isn't a happy thought to them, but it holds no terrors for those who have complied with the law, but those who haven't, or those who contemplate dodging the law, may well dislike the thought of such a means of detecting the law breakers.

It would probably be a revelation to the country to learn how many come in, or how many are here, who crawl under the fence. It would amply be a measure of self protection, or an announcement to the world that we require respect for our laws by all who seek admittance quite the same as we do after they are permitted to land on these shores and enjoy the benefits of the country.

Having learned of the various means by which the existing immigration laws are beaten, good and sufficient ground exists for taking the necessary steps that will at least endeavor to put an immediate and effective stop thereto. The need for a remedy ought to encourage its application.

COMPULSORY INSURANCE.

Favorably reported to the Massachusetts legislature is a bill which would require every automobile owner to take out liability insurance to the extent of $5,000 for the protection of persons who may be injured by their machines. The measure hasn't as yet become law and would not become operative until next year, but there would be a fine of $100 for not complying with it and the rates would be fixed by the insurance commissioner of the state.

Many owners protect themselves at the present time by carrying just such insurance, thus guarding against the damages that they might cause to others. There are those who protect themselves against the harm that may be done to them by others, though there is a disposition to rely upon the bringing of suit against the other fellow in such cases. If the one who does the damage has nothing, is driving a car that is mortgaged to the bumpers and has no insurance there is a hard outlook for the fellow that is smashed up. But with all owners required to take out insurance such a situation would be overcome.

The large number of automobiles and the uncertainty as to what the other fellow is going to do has furnished the right kind of backing for the law which has been favorably reported to the Massachusetts legislature. It means that those who drive cars must pay for their accidents and the damages and injuries they cause and the chance to recover cannot be denied a pedestrian or another owner simply by putting forth the claim that the responsible person has nothing with which to settle. It may not serve to decrease accidents but it aims to give protection which has not heretofore been assured. It is in keeping with the requirements imposed on public conveyances for the same reason.

THE WEAKENED FRANC.

Just at the present time France is engaged in a hard struggle to increase the value of the franc. It has now reached the point where it is but about a half of what it was a year ago. Only recently it was figured that the taxation plan would give it strength but the benefit which the added taxes will furnish is practically wiped out by the slump that has since been experienced.

The franc is being driven down by various influences. There has been a small issue of paper francs but there is a limit to which such can be issued while there is also a limit to which advances can be made to the various states, and even though those points are being approached they have not been reached and of course not exceeded.

France is feeling the effect of failure to obtain the reparations that it expected from Germany. There are good hopes that the commission now engaged in an effort to bring about an adjustment of conditions will succeed. Much hinges on the report that will be made by the Dawes commission, which is expected within a period of three weeks.

In the meantime France is taking measures to insure greater economy which cannot fail to have their good effect. While the war has been over for years France has realized that the financial struggle was not at an end and even though it is a thrifty nation there can be no thought of any relaxation in this respect. France has never disguised the fact that it was depending heavily upon the meeting of its obligations by Germany.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Such a blizzard as we had last week is acceptable most any time.

It is too early certainly to accuse March 1924 of being a rowdy month.

Those who are certain Germany will pay probably would not care to go on its note.

The man on the corner says: When it comes to being stubborn it is always the other fellow.

Lloyd George may insist that the war's biggest prize was prohibition, but not all in this country will agree with him.

The former kaiser is reported as trimming the rose bushes. Probably he has got the deadwood all out of his grape vines before this.

Now that thought waves can be transmitted by radio, an explanation of any unusual and surprising statements will be forthcoming.

The British are said to be anxious for the reopening of an American consulate at Newcastle. They know what will speed such a move.

[illegible] stop to think what [illegible] of getting into a [illegible] to Honduras should they [illegible] Independence now?

There's no denying the assertion of the old timer who delights in pointing out that having lived through each February he had thus far managed to live through the rest of the year.

Senator Heflin wonders if the one who approved the Doheny refund is on the magnate's payroll. Probably he'd have the refund refused and then insist that Doheny had been making gifts to the treasury department.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

The flavor of cocoa is improved by a little cinnamon sprinkled over the top just before serving.

When parsley is not obtainable for garnishing use the tips from celery or finely sliced leaves from brussels sprouts.

Whip cream in a pitcher. It whips more quickly than in an open bowl and much less spatter.

Too much salt will keep bread from rising.

When using drippings or lard for shortening in cake add a little lemon juice or extract after creaming with sugar and you will not notice the taste as you would otherwise.

A good-sized cork is a splendid dabber for scouring knives. Dip one end of the cork in the cleanser and rub briskly over the knife blade.

A cloth dipped in linseed oil and wiped over polished furniture will greatly improve its appearance.

Gasoline is good to cleanse combs and brushes. Beware of fire when using the gasoline.

Never wash fine china with scouring soap, soap powder or with yellow resin soap.

In poaching eggs stir the water, when it boils, till it is whirling rapidly. Then drop the eggs in quickly and the edges will be round and smooth.

If you are dyeing lace tack it to strips of cloth and leave them there until you are through washing and pressing.

Protect your best clothes with light washable covers while they are hanging in the closet and they will not need to go to the dry cleaner so often.

If you use a wooden spoon instead of a metal one, when beating your cake dough, you will find it less tiring and it will leave no black marks on your hand.

You can mend thin china with white of egg and quicklime. Beat the egg stiff, coat the clean edges thickly with it and dust with powdered unslaked lime, then press together at once and fasten firmly.

Cut glass may be much improved in appearance if it is given an occasional wash in soft soapy water to which a little ammonia has been added. It should then be dried with a piece of soft linen and polished with fresh tissue paper.

KEEP THEM COLD

You can prepare for baking most two-crust pies of fruit and mincemeat and then set them where they will keep very cold. They will keep for a week (freezing won't hurt the mince pies) and when you want a pie it is ready for the oven. The flavor is improved and the crust much flakier.

FOR KEEPING CHEESE

Always keep cheese in a well-covered dish or it will become dry and tasteless. If cheese is wrapped in a cloth moistened with vinegar it will remain moist and retain its flavor longer.

TURNS OUT EASILY

To turn a cake out of its pan easily stand the tin, directly you take it from the oven, on a cloth which has been wrung out in hot water. Leave it there for about five minutes. The cake will come out without any trouble.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Cracked and split nails are often a sign of ill health. A nightly application of cold cream or vaseline, however, often helps to overcome this condition.

The hands should be immersed in warm, soapy water for a few moments. Then with a soft piece of old linen or silk press back the cuticle of each nail, separately.

Every one knows the importance of brushing the hair every day with a clean brush. The value of air baths for the hair and scalp is not so well understood. The hair should be shaken out and allowed to hang loosely for about a half hour, or as long as convenient after the brushing.

For fifteen minutes soak tips of the fingers in soapy water. After taking care of the cuticle apply the polish, paste or powder. Powder should be moistened with eau de cologne before applying. Next, take a piece of coarse linen cloth and before the polish has a chance to dry rub the nails well. Then finish by about a ten minutes' rubbing with a chamois buffer. This will give a brilliant polish.

CASTOR OIL

The very words "castor oil" have a dreadful sound. The following method of taking this most helpful drug, however, is absolutely free from unpleasantness and prevents the nausea that so frequently follows the dose: Squeeze the juice of half a lemon into a glass, then pour in the dose of oil. Add the juice of the other half-lemon and a few grains of ground ginger. Rub the lemon around the top of the glass. Then drop in a quarter teaspoon of bicarbonate of soda, stir quickly and drink immediately while it is effervescing. The soda will separate the oil so that it cannot be noticed.

PRETTY NEW FRABICS

To mothers who take pride and pleasure in fashioning adorable frocks for the tiny daughter the new cotton fabrics suggest innumerable possibilities. There are smart little plain and checked ginghams guaranteed not to fade so that they are excellent for practical play dresses. English prints have a charming quaintness that makes them especially suitable for children's clothes, while the latest version of dress sateen shows a wide crinkly stripe and scattered motifs of gay flowers in a formal arrangement.

For little afternoon dresses one may choose embroidered grass cloth that has small conventional designs formed by dots embroidered in color. The range of embroidered cottons is exceptionally wide this spring and the loveliest show formal motifs in the brightest colors at widely spaced intervals.

LATEST DESIGN SHAWLS IN CHIFFON OR BROCADE

Woman's first wrap was a rectangular shawl, the skin of an animal fastened around her shoulders with a slender hide thong. The centuries have wrought a subduing change in the prehistoric garment, which has developed into a safe and yielding thing of delicate textures and exquisite colors, worn purely for its ornamental grace. Styles and designs in shawls have been rather standardized and limited in the past, but this season there are many kinds in addition to the regulation Chinese, India and Spanish ones. French and American designers are running a race to see who can made the most artistic variants of the ancient garment. Fabrics range from chiffon to metallic brocades that can stand alone. One of the smartest new versions is a square of six-inch taffeta ribbon in Fragonard rose, with alternating strips of apple green and silver brocade ribbon, the ends being pleated.

Another unusual shawl is made of a rich Japanese brocade panel in red and gold, lined with Georgette in cloudy tints. The lining is bound with gold ribbon, and has a ribbon strap at each end for the hands to slip through.

A delicate lovely one is a large square of pale pink chiffon, bordered with two rows of loops of blue and silver changeable metallic ribbon.

CHILDREN'S HATS

The leghorn hats for children are particularly attractive this spring. A smart little mushroom shape is narrower in back than in front and has a box pleating of navy blue grosgrain ribbon around the edge of the brim. A band of the ribbon encircles the crown and is finished at the back with an ornament and long ends. Another leghorn is trimmed with a wreath of field flowers placed very close to the crown.

WAY TO COOK HAM

To cook a ham so that it will retain all its flavor incase it with a paste made of common flour and water, taking care that the steam cannot escape. Bake in a hot oven, allowing a quarter of an hour for every pound. When cooked the paste can be easily removed and it takes all the rind with it.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Some of the latest kid gauntlets have the cuffs lined with velvet.

Fringe is sponsored by the most exclusive designers for the spring and summer fashions.

Jackets of bolero length, with round or Eton collars, are very youthful and are exceedingly smart.

On all the simpler street dresses or sport frocks the vestee and pleated bosom effects are seen.

Embroidery batiste and eyelet embroidery is combined most charmingly this season with crepe de chine.

A very new blouse is made of white crepe de chine with a waistcoat and collar and cuffs of white flannel with a hairline stripe in green.

Spotted fur is being used today in noticeable quantities on spring frocks and wraps. Not all of it is real leopard, though bits of this are highly fashionable.

New guantlets, beige colored, have white kid or mocha cuffs, in which designs have been cut to show a contrasting leather underneath, accenting the motif.

The newest of frocks for spring wear are of black satin, with capes of the same material. The capes are finished with small fur collars.

The little hat is the thing for tailored costumes, of course. But the favorite little hat today is likely to be the one of black straw with huge bow ends sticking out one way or another.

Beige mocha, with embroidery to match or in a slightly darker brown shade, constitutes an important part of the metropolitan woman's wardrobe this winter.

Fashion authorities report that gloves of white glace kid are being worn in rapidly increasing numbers where modish women congregate. Unsullied white is the order of the day, with no contrasting embroidery or stitching.

For the very young person, rompers deluxe are made of light blue crepe de chine smocked in the same youthful shade. A tiny collar and narrow cuffs complete the picture.

VOGUE OF LACE

The all-lace frock and the dress that is trimmed with lace are to play an important part in the coming season. An attractive model that has much to commend it is made of delicate gray chiffon and lace dyed the exact shade. The dress is sleeveless and the lace outlines the long armhole from neck to waist. There are two wide bands of the lace upon the skirt.

CHIC BATHING SUIT

A bathing suit that would be sure to cause a sensation has a long tunic of black satin embroidered down the front in cross-stitch in colors. This tunic is worn over knickers of brilliant red satin and a sash of the same defines the waist line. The cap is a combination of the red and black and there is a black cape of rubberized silk.

FABRICS IN TOPCOATS

Very soft and snuggly are the materials of which topcoats and frocks are being made today. Mafalda cloth is as suave as its name, and various other fabrics have a velvety softness combined with almost the lightness of cashmere.

LAUNDRY HINTS

If you have no clothes pole in your closets on which to hang your frocks you can have an acceptable substitute if you will screw a long nickle-plated towel rack to the under side of the closet shelf.

A spoonful of ammonia, in which enough salt has been placed to make a mushy mixture, will remove all stains from coat collars and take away that hardened, shiny appearance.

To wash delicate ginghams without fading them add a tablespoon of turpentine to a gallon of lukewarm water and soak the garment in this for an hour. Afterward wash clean in warm suds. Rinse them quickly through several waters and hang in the shade to dry.

To remove grease or oil spots from clothing, especially light suits, mix a little fuller's earth into a paste, spread it over the affected part and allow the mixture to dry thoroughly. In doing so it draws and absorbs the grease. Then take a stiff brush, which will quickly remove the dried earth. The result will be pleasing and far more satisfactory than most other methods.

REMOVES THE SHINE

When a suit or dress of dark serge become shiny with wear, sponge it with hot vinegar and press it in the usual way. No oder of vinegar will remain, the shine will disappear and the material will be much improved in appearance. The vinegar will leave no stain.

WITHOUT WAISTLINE

Nothing is smarter today than the gown without a waist-line which falls from shoulder almost to the ankle in straight, night-robe folds. If of crepe de chine, the gown often is embroidered from shoulder to knee, and finished with a broad footing of velvet.

CONCERNING WOMEN

The Duchess of York has been selected as president of the Royal school for needle work in London.

The National Council of Women includes in its membership 11,000,000 women and 36 women's organizations.

In Burma women merchants have captured most of the retail trade and are strenuously demanding the vote.

In Madras and Bombay Indian women of good position have their own clubs where men are admitted on guest nights.

Miss Adele Bridges is England's only postwoman. She wears an official coat and skirt and makes her rounds on a bicycle.

The first woman mercantile appraiser in Pennsylvania is Mrs. M. A. Beaser, recently appointed to that position for Potter County.

The increased consumption by women is claimed to be responsible for the manufacture of 7,000,000,000 more cigarettes in 1923 than in 1922.

Miss Viola Smith, assistant trade commissioner at Shanghai, China, is the only woman to hold such a position in the Department of Commerce.

ZINC CONTAINERS

Zinc cans and bath tubs take on a very silvery appearance when cleaned with kerosene.

SPOTS ON IVORY

Spots on ivory ornaments or picture frames may be removed if they are rubbed with fine sandpaper or emery.

RECIPES

Wedding Cake: Cream one pound of butter and add gradually one pound of sugar, beating thoroughly. Beat the yolks of twelve eggs until lemon colored and thick and add, then beat the whites until stiff and dry and also add to first mixture. Next sift one pound of flour with two teaspoons of cinnamon, half a teaspoon of ground cloves, three-quarters teaspoon each of allspice, mace and nutmeg and add to the above mixture. Then add two tablespoons of lemon juice, and the following fruit dredged with less than a half cup of flour: Three pounds of raisins, seeded and cut; one pound of currants, one pound of figs chopped fine. Just before putting into the cake pan dredge one pound of thinly cut citron with flour, and put in layers between the cake mixture when turning into the pan. Steam for three hours and bake one and a half hours in a slow oven.

Chicken Continental Style: Cut one good sized chicken up as for frying, dredge with flour and braise in hot fat. Cover with water, add one onion shredded and two tablespoons of pimentos. Cook slowly for one hour, covered. Add more water and seasoning and cook for another hour if necessary. Just before serving put three cups of steamed rice into a dish to heat. Serve the chicken with a green salad.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Good Work Done by Deputy Game Warden

Mrs. Editor: The New London county game warden and his deputies are deserving of much commendation for their activity in having the state laws upheld in the territory under their supervision. Within the last few days a number of arrests have been made for violations by aliens having guns in their possession, and in each instance convictions have been secured.

William R. Palmer, the efficient deputy warden located in Griswold, has four convictions to his credit as follows: Stephen Stavenwics was tried before Judge Quinn in the Preston court and was fined $5 and costs; Joseph Selock, John Soboski and Andrew Duttoni were tried in the Griswold court before Judge Harry and each was fined $1 and costs.

The guns were confiscated by Deputy Palmer and will be forwarded to the state board of fisheries and game to be disposed of later.

It is worthy of note that since Robert Chappell of New London received the appointment as county warden there has been more good work done in the county than in all the previous years. Both he and his deputies are on the job all the time and are getting results. And the county sportsmen are behind him to a man.

SPORTSMAN.

Lincoln and Lee

Mr. Editor: I have been greatly interested in the discussion by different writers in regard to Abraham Lincoln and Robert E. Lee. Perhaps it is not generally known that the last duty that R. E. Lee did for the U. S. A. was to guard the life of Abraham Lincoln at his inauguration. General Lee was called from his post in Texas for that duty. Trusty soldiers were placed on the housetops of Washington along the whole line of march with directions to shoot to kill if any attempt was made on the life of Abraham Lincoln.

After General Lee had resigned his command, if he had been offered the post of commander in chief of the northern army he would have taken it. When it was offered to him the state of Virginia had withdrawn from the U. S. A.

One of the noblest acts of President Lincoln was when he ordered the release of each of Robert E. Lee's sons from the prison at Fortress Monroe over the order of Secretary Stanton. I have been in the south and I have interviewed many who were acquainted with the facts. The state of Virginia has named one of the best highways in his honor. Some of the pleasantest stories of the late unpleasantness are those of Abraham Lincoln and Robert E. Lee.

Not Very Thorough Investigation.

Mr. Editor: My attention has just been called to the following clipping which appeared in "Various Matters" in yesterday's Bulletin:

"A Norwich woman who tried recently to get some weaving done was unable to find anybody in town who is keeping up that ancient industry."

The woman in question could not have investigated to any great extent as I know several people in Norwich who are doing the old-fashioned hand weaving. I am among the number and also have taught weaving in summer school for six years besides giving some private instruction here during the winter. Moreover, I have about a dozen looms which I have built and advertised for sale in educational magazines. At present I am contemplating offering here in Norwich, a six weeks' term of instruction in weaving for the coming summer.

Very sincerely,

LOUIS H. WALDEN.

Norwich, March 8, 1924.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Clarence C. Dill, who is one of the leading interrogators in the senatorial investigation of the oil lease cases, has been a Democratic senator from the state of Washington since 1923, when he defeated the veteran Miles Poindexter. Born on an Ohio farm and tilling the soil until he was 17, the future senator attended Ohio Wesleyan University and after his graduation in 1907 entered upon his career as a teacher, selecting the city of Spokane as the scene of his activities. Later he became a newspaper reporter and at the same time took up the study of law. On the election of Ernest Lister to the governorship of Washington, Mr. Dill became his private secretary. Later he became a candidate for Congress and was elected two successive terms, being the first Democrat sent to Congress from Washington since 1896 and the youngest man ever accorded the honor in his state. His successful campaign against Senator Poindexter two years ago was based largely on the issue of "Newberryism."

Stories That Recall Others

A Different Proposition.

The father of two small boys was very lenient with them and they knew they could "work" him for almost anything they desired.

One day Robert, the elder, attempted to make his brother do something, but without success. Finally he seized him by the shoulder and, shaking him, said:

"See here, young man, you haven't got your father to deal with."

The Day Was Ruined.

Really she felt as if she were "an old married woman," by this time—almost three months since the honeymoon. The rice, shower, wedding parties, and all, belonged to memories of the dim past.

And here she was, back again, having a reunion with her school mates. Most certainly she wore her traveling suit of the honeymoon, and all its accessories, including the green silk parasol, which she hated to use.

Unfortunately, rain had to interfere with the reunion. But imagine how vivid the remote marriage day was recalled to the embarrassment of the "married woman," when she found that the shower had turned to rice instead of rain as she opened the umbrella.

BAPTISTS WORKING TO COMPLETE $1,007,000 FUND

The Baptists of Connecticut are making special efforts to complete by April 30 of this year the fund of $1,007,000 which was pledged by the churches of this state to the New World Movement, to be used on a four-year program of missionary and educational work at home and abroad. The denomination under the leadership of the Rev. Horace B. Sloat, the state director of promotion, has made its payments on pledges with commendable regularity and to date a total of $895,455.75 has been paid in. This includes payments on pledges and new money received through the Women's Continuation Campaign. The new money raised not applying on pledges amounts to a little more than $120,000. There remains to be paid on pledges within the remaining two months practically $230,000.

To stimulate an interest in this effort the Rev. Dr. W. E. Witter of Assam and Miss Dorothy Dowell of the Philippine Islands have been in Connecticut for several weeks telling of the work in foreign lands. Dr. Witter's work has been among the Abors and Miris in Assam, while Miss Dowell has been a teacher at the Bible Women's Training School at Iloilo, Island of Panay, in the Philippines. These speakers have addressed large meetings at convenient centers in Hartford, Bristol, Southington, Wallingford, Torrington, Waterbury, Bridgeport, Stamford, Norwich, New London, New Haven, Willimantic, Ansonia, Waterford, Putnam, Noank and Montville. Much interest has been aroused wherever they have appeared.

The amount which the Baptists of the state have raised for missionary and educational work in their four-year program is practically $12 a year for each member. This is the record for per capita giving for missions in this state. The denomination has pride in completing the funds and is bending every effort to do so.

Many a poor man doesn't get half a chance after acquiring a better half.

SAYS RELIGION AND SCIENCE IN AGREEMENT

Sunday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., Professor M. A. Honline of Pasadena, Calif., gave a most interesting talk on Science and Religion. In his address Prof. Honline said that everybody believed in the evolution of man but they did not agree upon the method. There are too many missing links in the world today, to allow man to believe that he was a descendant from lower animals.

In closing Prof. Honline said that science and religion agree on the belief that the birth of Christ was divine and that His resurrection from the dead was a fact that cannot be denied.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. James Service.

(Contributed.)

Isabella Torrance Service, widow of James Service, entered into the higher life on March 4. She was the last member of the older generation of the Torrance family, at one time well known in this city.

Although a resident of Norwich for over seventy years, she always cherished a deep affection for her old home near Edinburgh, Scotland, and was exceptionally well read in both the romance and history of her native land. Until within the past year—the 91st of her life—she took also a keen interest in the events of the day and spent much of her time in reading. During her long life the study of the Bible was always her great pleasure, and in her last years the chapters that she had committed to memory were a never-failing solace to her.

Hers was a Christianity that lived, as well as professed, and her teachings and counsel are a wonderful heritage to her children and grandchildren. While they will miss her cheerful, loving presence, they have the assurance that she is one of those "who through faith and patience inherit the promise."

Mrs. James Goodwill.

Mrs. Mary J. Goodwill, widow of James Goodwill, died at the home of her sister-in-law, Miss Carrie A. Goodwill, No. 53 Kenwood Park, Springfield, Mass., Wednesday night, aged 68 years. She was born in Stafford Springs and removed to Worcester, Mass., after her marriage. Later she lived in Watsonville, Col., going to Springfield, after her husband's death, five years ago.

NORWICH IS THE HIGHEST IN PER CAPITA SAVINGS

In per capita savings in Connecticut, Norwich ranks first, according to statistics just made public by the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut. This city with a per capita savings of $1,195 is followed by New London with $249. Middletown is third with $891. These three boast of deposits proportionally much in advance of other Connecticut towns.

The two largest cities in the state, New Haven and Bridgeport, have per capita savings of $409 and $415 respectively, with Torrington and Greenwich bringing up the bottom of the list with $296 and $265 respectively.

CHIMNEY FIRE STARTS BLAZE ON ROOF

Sparks from a chimney fire Sunday afternoon at the home of Peter Waters, 124 Otrobando avenue, set fire to the roof. This was held in check by friends and neighbors until the arrival of the Yantic pumper. The crew completed extinguishing the fire by the use of chemical and water. The damage was slight.

Arthus Winship Returned to Hospital

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 9—The police received information this morning that a man was acting strangely on Williams street, near Grove street and that it was believed that he had escaped from the Norwich State hospital. Captain Charles A. Pinney and Patrolmen Augustus Ray and Edward Daniels soon located the man and it then developed that he was Arthur Winship. Letters addressed to him in care of the hospital made it appear that Winship had escaped from the institution and a telephone message to the hospital revealed the fact. Later in the day James Averill, supervisor at the hospital, came here and took charge of Winship.

Germany's Biggest Woman Industrialist

Baroness Katherina von Oheimb, a member of the Reichstag (People's Party) who is said to be Germany's biggest woman industrialist. She is a leader with tremendous power, and her influence in the Reichstag is far reaching. Add to this the fact that she is one of the best dressed women in the country, and you have a complexity of character that is bewildering. She seems to be a combination of the best of both sexes.

POINTS OUT INFLUENCE OF BIBLE UPON PROGRESS OF CIVILIZATION

No man on earth has a right to call himself an educated man who is ignorant of his Bible, declared Professor M. A. Honline of Pasadena Calif., in his forceful talk on The Influence of the Bible upon Civilization, delivered Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church before members of that church and other Protestant churches of the city.

In making such a statement, I must prove its truth, said Prof. Honline, and in the statements to follow I will do so clearly.

When Jesus Christ was born into this world the Roman empire comprised all the civilized word. Christ from the outset preached a revolutionary doctrine and soon had the following of the people in all the lower walks of life. This class increased slowly but steadily and finally had many followers.

The Christian church was founded in the fourth century and for political reasons Constantine came to the head of the Roman Empire and had many rivals. In order to make himself secure he legalized Christianity, this being in 313 A. D., placing Christianity on a footing equal to other religions. In the year 376 Christianity became the religion of the empire. This year, 376, is therefore an important date in the history of the world.

To go back further in history we remember that north of the Roman Empire were hordes of warlike, barbarous people, the Germanic tribes. To keep these people out of the empire Roman soldiers were stationed along the Rhine and Danube rivers. In the year 250 the people known as the Goths began to move south through their country, finally reaching the mouth of the Danube after 100 years of travelling. Here they were attacked by the Huns and appealed to the Roman emperor to allow them to cross the Danube. The Romans allowed them to do so after giving up their weapons and children. This event took place in the year 376 and marks the second important step in history. They had trouble with the Romans and later bought back their children and weapons.

In the year 395 the Roman Empire was divided into two parts, one with the headquarters at Constantinople, the other with headquarters at Rome. The Goths then moved up and around and swarmed down upon Rome and sacked the city.

In the year 410 the Romans needing every soldier called their soldiers back from England and away from the Rhine and Danube rivers and the Germanic hordes swinging down through France and Spain went into the country, once Carthaginia and in the year 455 they sacked the city of Rome. A people then lower in civilization than the American Indian then took possession and in the year 476 just 100 years after Christianity was established the Roman empire in the west failed.

But here a wonderful thing happened. The Germanic hordes sacked Rome and controlled the country, but they in turn took the religion of the Roman Empire. From these people we get the names of the days of our week, from these people who worshipped trees, stones and nature, and who later took up Christianity. No wonder that the next 1,000 years became known to us as the Dark Ages.

Because of this change the Germanic nation owed allegiance to the religion of Rome. Later a bishop seeing two fair headed, blue eyed boys in the slave market asked them from whence they came and they replied Angeland. No, he said, you come from Angelland. He then resolved to carry the religion to England, but instead, he became pope. Later he asked Augustine if he would take 40 monks and go to England and Augustine accepted. In the year 597 Augustine and the monks landed in Kent, England and built their chapel, in Canterbury, which today is the religious center of England. Thus England became possessed of the Roman religion.

Now we see that in the year 1,000 all Europe from the Elb to the Danube, excepting Spain, which was Mohammed, was nominally Christian, but they had no Bible. All this spread, mind you, without the Bible. In 1492 when Columbus came to America the English speaking race had no Bible there was none except in the Latin a translation from the 5th century.

In 1383, John Wycliffe translated the Bible, from a translation, writing it in longhand. This was too expensive for common people, costing what would be $200 in our money to own. Two loads of hay were paid by a servant of his master for 24 hours use of a Bible. I wonder if the people of today would pay to read it. History of Europe and the world would be different if this were so.

In 1452 Constantinople was captured by the Turks and the scholars of that country fled westward bringing their science and knowledge with them. Gutenberg invented the printing press and the press came into England.

At this time a young man said to a priest, "If I live I'll give the people more than you have ever taught them." This boy was William Tyndall who translated the new testament, but not in England.

At this time, Henry the Eighth, Defender of the Faith, was on the throne and Charles V, emperor of the Holy Roman Empire. Neither wanted the Bible translated and Tyndall went into seclusion, strange to say, went to live with Martin Luther who was then working on his Bible. Tyndall then using the printing press and on newly invented paper printed his Bibles and smuggled them into England. In 1525 it was a capital offense to own or read the Bible, but if bootlegging in anything new it could not compare with the way those people in England bootlegged the Bible.

The Bishop of London bought bought them up and burned them, but strange to say the money came to Tyndall and more Bibles were printed and soon everyone had them. In 1530 came the Pentatuch translation. Tyndall was at this time caught, given a mock trial, strangled to death and his body burned, all for having translated the Bible. Just before dying he prayed that God might open the eyes of the king of England and his prayer was answered.

Henry Eighth had a change of heart when he divorced his wife and married a woman not of the Roman church. Now in 1535 came Coverdale's Bible, in 1539 John Rogers and in 1539 the Big Bible or Chained Bible, chained because people stole it from the church to read it.

In 1557 Bloody Mary persecuted the Puritans in England and they went to Geneva, Switzerland, where we find John Calvin, also John Knox a Presbyterian. Then came the Geneva New Testament and when Good Queen Elizabeth came to the throne in 1562 we find the complete Bible, 1568 the Bishop's and in 1611 King James the First's.

Thus we see that for 1,000 years after the people of England had been converted there was no Bible in England.

From 1525 to 1611 has been called by England's greatest historian the most important period in the history of that country.

But again loo to the continent of of Europe. In 1517 Martin Luther started his Bible followed in 1532 and 1529 by Luthers and the Zurich Bible and in 1535 Luther's Bible complete. Look further, in 1524 came the Scotch Bible, 1526 the Dutch Bible and in 1527 the French Bible.

Now see what came out of all this. From 1522 to 1527, five years, the big nations of Europe came to possess Bibles found that the Bible taught religious liberty. They wanted it and the crowned heads said no, then followed the period of the Reformation. People began then to turn to America, the Hugenot came to the Carolinas, Lutherans to Delaware; Dutch to New Amsterdam, English Quakers to Philadelphia, English Baptists and Methodists to Pennsylvania, Baptists to Rhode Island, and Scotch Presbyterians to New Jersey and Puritans to New England.

They came to America to escape political dominance, religious persecution. They sought social equality and escape from industrial oppression.

Thus we see that the Bible in western civilization has played the following vital parts, first, intellectual, revival of learning; second, religious freedom; third, political liberty and revolution; fourth, the present day problem, social revolution. This last which we in America must solve today can only be solved as were the other three in past years—through the teachings of Jesus of Nazareth, by the Bible.

Let us look at the influence of the Bible on men. I speak only now of Abraham Lincoln, one of the greatest if not the greatest character of history. Son of common people he learned as a child from three books, Pilgrim's Progress, Shakespeare and the Bible. The first came only because the Bible existed, Shaespeare quoted the Bible over 600 times.

Thus we see that the Bible was really what made Lincoln what he became to the world. We grow upon what we feed and it is the same with reading. we become what our environment maes us.

Let France stand for culture, England for industrial success, Italy for her art, but let America stand for the Bible and be always The Land of the free and the Home of the Brave.

DANCING RECEPTION BY MRS. ANDREWS' CLASSES

Mrs. Edward Andrews held her annual dancing class reception Saturday afternoon at the Wauregan house where the ballroom was tastefully decorated with southern smilax.

The beginniners' class was at 2 o'clock when the ball room was filled with relatives and friends and the entrance march was led by Huntington Worth and Elmire Bullard. The following numbers were gracefully and correctly danced, waltz, The Girl Are You Going, My Pretty Maid, Rye waltz, and the minuet. The closing number for the class was Comin' Through the Rye, in costume, the girls in aprons and sunbonnets, and the boys in overalls and hats. Little Betty McKeag in butterfly costume of orange and brown with gold wings, stencilled in lavender, interpreted Le Mort de Papillon. The closing march was led by Master David Brewer and Florence Smith.

The gift of the class to Mrs. Andrews was an arm bouquet of red carnations and a purse of gold pieces. The gift to the pianist, Miss Gertrude Platt, was a bouquet of red sweet peas and a gold piece, and Mrs. Andrews presented the pianist a gold piece, and to each of her assistants, Miss Lois Latimer and Miss Rosamond Chapman sweet peas.

The reception for the advanced class was from 4 to 6 o'clock and the entrance march was led by Eleanor Brown and Agnes Greenman. The following ballroom dances were given with Mrs. Augustine and Mrs. Andrews, fox trot, Ritz Brush waltz, Mah Jong, slow fox trot, Bambalina, the new French tango and the Portland fancy. The music for these numbers was furnished by an orchestra under the direction of Miss Platt, the class pianist. The most beautiful number for the afternoon was Chopin's Russian polonaise. There were nearly 80 children in this stately dance which closed the programme and was decorately and gracefully led by Sherrod Ingalls, and Miss Elisabeth Hodge with Mrs. Mary D. Hodge at the piano.

The gift of the class to Mrs. Andrews was a large basket filled with potted spring flowers and a purse of gold. Mrs. Andrews' gift to her assistant, Miss Ruth Brown, was a bouquet of sweet peas.

Announcement was made and invitation given for the interpretive dances by both classes which will be given at the Palace theater.

ADMONISHES CONGREGATION TO THINK OF LIFE ETERNAL

Live a life that will be for you eternal happiness and joy, was the admonition given the large congregation at St. Patrick's church, Sunday evening by Rev. Charles A. Kirby of La Salette college, Hartford, who was the preacher at the first of the Sunday evening services to be held at St. Patrick's church during Lent. Father Kirby spoke on the importance of living a righteous life. He pointed out that punishment for our sins on earth lasts for eternity and that eternity means forever. There is no end to the tortures of the flames of hell. The preacher impressed on the congregation the wisdom of sacrificing transient earthly pleasures to gain eternal joy in the life beyond the grave.

We must call to mind the eternal years that we must face, said Rev. Father Kirby. Man chooses his eternity by his life, by his works and his desires. As he sows, so shall he reap. We should think often of the law of eternity. We think of the joys and pleasures of life. Do you think of eternity or do you forget? Live a life that will be for you eternal joy and happiness.

The musical part of the service was in charge of Prof. Frank L. Farrell, the organist, and a feature was the singing by the choir. The service closed with benediction in which the organ chimes added to the beauty of the impressive service.

APPEALS FINES IMPOSED FOR MOTOR LAW VIOLATION

In the city court Saturday morning the automobile accident case against William R. McPherson, superintendent at a Versailles mill, arising from the striking of Joseph Tetreault as he was about to board a trolley car at Occum, came up for settlement. As judge Arthur F. Libby had talked with McPherson he was disqualified to sit on the bench and gave way to Deputy Judge Henry H. Pettis.

After considerable questioning between City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins and Attorney Charles V. James for McPherson, the charge of reckless driving was dropped and the accused was fined $25 for having improper headlights and $35 and costs for passing a standing trolley car. The total was $75.13 and an appeal was taken. George Tetreault, son of the man struck, furnished bonds for Mr. McPherson.

Toni Siragusa was presented on the charge of not having his children attend school according to law. His case was continued until July 2.

UNITED CHURCH VOTES TO SECURE ASSOCIATE MINISTER

A plan for an enlarged programme of religious education was strongly endorsed by vote of the United Congregational church at a business meeting held after the regular church service Sunday morning, one factor in which is securing an associate minister of religious education. It is expected that this new work can be inaugurated by September 1st by which time the new worker will have been secured by the committee to be appointed by the executive council.

The proposition has been before the congregation for over a wee in printed form which was amplified by the pastor, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, when he spoke to the meeting of the congregation Sunday. Eight or ten of the leaders in the church work also spoke before a vote was taken that gave very positive endorsement of the plan, which will augment the present work of the church under the pastor and the church assistant, Miss Elizabeth Pullen.

The function of the associate minister will be along the lines of directing the church school, visiting an denlarging its constituency, and arranging teacher training courses. The scope of his work is further outlined as follows: To develop a curriculum of studies, which shall adequately meet the needs of the various pupils in the church constituency; to develop a plan of religious education which shall challenge the cooperation of the entire church, from the youngest to the oldest members in the parish.

To institute clubs and societies among the young people, and to direct their purposes and activities.

To consider the possibilities of week-day sessions, as well as Sunday sessions, of the church school; and to develop these sessions along the lines which experience shall deem advisable.

To be associated with the present minister, especially in the function of enlarging the educational element of the church life.

The church parsonage on Union street, now occupied by Rev. Mr. Abbott, will be available for the occupancy of the associate minister as Mr. Abbott has bought a house at Norwich Town which is to be his residence.

DROVE WESTERLY CAR WITHOUT OWNER'S PERMISSION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, March 9.—Nicholas Dotolo, 18, of the Potter Hill road, was arraigned before Judge Turano in a special session of third district court on Sunday night on two complaints sworn out by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, one charging Dotolo with driving an automobile without the owner's consent and the other with operating an automobile without an operator's license.

Dotolo had been engaged by Louis Alberts to drive him in his Ford Sedan from Westerly to his store in Norwich daily. On Thursday night the auto was alleged to have been taken from the Rossi garage on Railroad avenue by Dotolo without the knowledge of the owner. Friday morning the chauffeur not reporting early enough, Mr. Alberts took the bus for Norwich. Later Dotolo went to the Rossi garage and he is said to have represented that the owner had sent him after the car. Procuring the car he is reported to have driven it to New Haven and returning to Westerly and during the day the car was damaged so that it was necessary to tow it to the garage. Mr. Alberts later in the day found young Dotolo and his arrest by Deputy Sheriff Mitchell on Friday night followed and he was placed in the lockup. Sunday night at the hearing Dotolo admitted sufficient evidence and was bound over to the April session of the superior court under bonds of $2,000 in default of which he was to be committed to the county jail at Kingston. On the other complaint the case was continued until May 2nd for sentence.

Running Bowling Alleys on Sunday

The arrest of Peter Guastamachi Sunday afternoon in the bowling alley in the Thayer building basement on the charge of operating a bowling alley on Sunday was followed by the arrest of Benjamin Budnick at the bowling alleys in the Majestic building, where the owner had left him in charge. Nine patrons found in one place and fifteen in the other were not placed under arrest but their names were taken as witnesses.

EFFORT TO REORGANIZE FORMER MORSE PROPERTIES

Initial steps toward the reorganization of the numerous properties once controlled by C. W. Morse were taken Saturday in the United States district court for Connecticut when, on petition of the stockholders' committee, Federal Judge Martin appointed Burleigh Martin and William Tudor Gardiner of Augusta, Me., and Oscar B. Cobiants of Baltimore, Md., receivers for the United States Steamship company. The petition was presented by a Washington attorney, representing the committee.

Through the appointment of receivers the stockholder's committee hope to conserve and salvage enough funds to reorganize the company and its subsidiaries. The United States Steamship company, it was pointed out in a letter to the stockholders, owns outright or has the controlling interest in the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation of Alexandria, Va.; the Minneapolis Steamship company, the Binghamton Steamship company, the Huron Steamship company, the Owego Steamship company, the Groton Iron Works, the Hudson Navigation company, the St. Paul Steamship company and the Newport Steamship Co., Ltd.

Most of these companies were organized through the efforts of C. W. Morse during the war, and some of them suffered reverses after the war that placed them in receivership. Included in these latter are the Virginia Shipbuilding corporation, the Groton Iron Works and the Hudson Navigation company.

Among the hopes for funds for the reorganization are claims held against the Emergency Fleet corporation. In the case of the Groton Iron Works these claims aggregate $10,000,000; while those of the Virginia Shipbuilding corporation total $2,000,000.

Recent report of the Stockholder's Committee also cites the fact that the assets of the Hudson Navigation Company are between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000 exclusive of the claims against the United States amounting to several hundred thousand dollars. This subsidiary, which operates a steamship line between Albany and New York, owns five steamers as well as pier 22, North River, and leases piers at Troy and Albany. There is outstanding against this company $1,400,000 in first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds, $2,000,000 in 6 per cent. second mortgage bonds and approximately $20,000 in collateral bonds the report says.

Besides these assets, it is pointed out, the subsidiary companies have claims against the United States, foreign shippers, and foreign governments aggregating $6,000,000.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

SUB BASE QUINTET TAKES CLOSE GAME FROM PLAINFIELD, 28 TO 24

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 9.—For the second time in almost successive days the Submarine Base basketball team was returned the victor. But in Saturday night's contest on the state armory floor, against Plainfield, the sailors did not have an easy time of it as they did against Stonington on Thursday. For fully forty minutes, the Base found Plainfield a persistent team and not to be subdued easily. Only a whirlwind finish found the Sub Base out in front by a 28 to 24 score.

The game throughout was fast and hadly contested. It was the third contest between both these teams, and with this game the rubber of the three, as both teams had won one game and lost one game, the members of both teams put forth extra effort to put their team in front. Both teams played about an even game, except for the first seven minutes, when the Base got the jump on Plainfield, scoring six points while Plainfield had yet to score.

Belair, a forward of the dexterious type, immediately got into action. For the remaining minutes of the game what Belair did not do does not have to be mentioned. He was the entire Plainfield team, both on the offensive and defensive play. A streak of lightning on the floor, receiving the ball on the tap-off it was in his possession until he saw an opportunity to pass it to a teammate who was standing under the basket. Playing in this manner, almost every score made by Plainfield came directly or indirectly through his efforts. He proved to be the most pernicious member of the entire Plainfield crew.

On the whole, the Submarine Base employed better defense methods than did Plainfield. Time and again Plainfield's defense was easily penetrated allowing the Base forwards to score baskets within the foul zone area. The five-man defense employed by the gobs worked perfectly at times and prevented Plainfield men to work the ball within shooting distance of the basket. Long trys for the basket were then tried by Plainfield, with Mills finding the draperies for several long shots that threatened to put the Plainfield team in the front. But no matter how many times Plainfield tied the score they were never able to go on to the lead, although they threatened to do so on numerous occasions.

After the Base scored three field baskets in almost rapid succession, Plainfield with Belair playing the leading role of redeemer, tied the score at 6-all after some hot playing under the Base basket. Harris for the Base and Belair for the mill city boys were the next in order to score, and again the score was deadlocked. The Plainfield defense was beginning to weaken and three scores for the Sub Base were registered. Mills found the basket twice from the center of the floor, Harris got one of these double deckers back just as the half ended.

Compton shot two good baskets when the teams were deadlocked at 26-all near the end of the game. These four points proved to be the margin by which the Base won.

Compton again continued his good play, and was a prominent factor in the Sub Base victory. He scored baskets when Plainfield was threatening, next to forge ahead. Barts, although diminutive in size, proved to be a good running mate for the speedy Compton.

For Plainfield, Mills in scoring his six baskets from the field gave a good exhibition of long distance shooting.

In the second game on the card at the state armory Saturday night, Headquarters Battery found Company A of Meriden easy opponents and scored a 33 to 13 victory over that team. Boyle for the New London guardsmen was too much for the visiting team, accounting for 16 points himself. Not being able to hold this fast forward in check, it was an easy matter for Headquarters battery to gain a victory.

The visitors showed some signs of speed at times, but were handicapped in their play because professional rules were used and not amateur rules under which they are accustomed to play. In the first half the Headquarters company scored 15 points while the Meriden scored 10. In the last half but one field goal was scored by the visitors while the locals scored 7.

LARGE SCORES FEATURE INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE GAMES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 9.—Large scores were registered in the scheduled games of the Industrial league Saturday night on the Y. M. C. A. basketball court. In defeating Palmer Brothers, the New London Ship and Engine five hung up a new total record by scoring 58 to the quiltmakers' 17 points. In this game an individual scorer of the "Dusty" league, Risch of the Ship and Engine five scored 18 field baskets. By scoring 40 points Risch overhauled the high individual scorer of the "Dusty" league. In the second game in the Industrial league, the Connecticut Power five won over the J. N. Lapointe team by a 47 to 32 margin. The toolmakers gave a good account of themselves, although they were defeated, for they played with but four men to the Power company's five, throughout the entire contest.

The third game of the evening, which was played after the termination of the Industrial league games saw the U. S. Alexander Hamilton opposing the Cosmopolitans, a team composed of Bulkeley players. This contest turned out to be the best contest of the entire evening and after a hard fight the Cosmopolitans managed to win by a 17 to 15 score. At half time the cadets were leading by a scant margin of one point. Taylor, MacMahon and Silva for the Cosmopolitans were the best players, for the losers, Coughlin gave a good account of himself.

BATTERY E BEATS SILENT FIVE AT HARTFORD

(Special to The ——)

Westerly, March 9.—A fast, but one-sided basketball game in the state armory on Dixon street, Saturday night between the Battery E, 243rd Artillery team and the Connecticut Silent Five of Hartford and resulted in the Battery boys winning 48 to 14. At the end of the first half the score stood, Battery E, 24; Silent Five 12.

The game was featured by fast pass work and good goal shooting, with the ball in the possession of the army players most of the time. The game started with the armory boys in the lead which they continued as the game proceeded. The game was free from mixups as the silent manager insisted that Referee Rogers blow his whistle when the ball was held or when the ball touched any of the spectators on the side lines, it being then a jumping ball for the players. But three fouls were called on the entire game. Torrey and Stenhouse starred for the home team and Eberle for the visitors. Dancing followed the game until midnight.

Next Saturday evening the Madison Square Garden Whirlwinds will be the opponents of the Battery boys at the Dixon street armory as announced by Referee Rogers between the halves. The summary:

| Battery E | | Conn. Silent Five |

PRINCETON TEAM HAS FIGHTING CHANCE FOR BASKETBALL TITLE

New York, March 9.—Princeton remains in the intercollegiate basketball league race by its defeat of Pennsylvania last night in an overtime game at Philadelphia, 35 to 31, while Cornell lost to Columbia at New York, 24 to 19. The Tigers may face a crucial test of the season next Saturday night when Cornell comes to Tigertown, but this bag of game will do the Tigers no good unless they defeat Dartmouth at Princeton on Tuesday night. One victory for Cornell or one defea. Princeton and the race is over.

The decision of the executive committee for the league to sustain the protest made by Princeton following its defeat at Hanover by Dartmouth gave the Tigers a new lease on life and a mathematical chance to break into a tie with Cornell as the season terminates; but to bring about such a condition Princeton faces the task of defeating Cornell and Dartmouth at Princeton and Dartmouth at Hanover.

Pennsylvania, whose reign as champion has been broken in recent years, is definitely relegated to the cellar, its only consolation being that Yale may be down to keep it company. The Elis must defeat Columbia at New Haven on Saturday night or share the cellar with the Quakers.

Cornell's defeat by Columbia, while not unexpected, kept the Ithacans from cinching the title.

Sammy Pite, Yale forward, was completely smothered by Dartmouth and failed to score a single point from the field but he took advantage of this close guarding to slip in 10 out of 11 tries from the 15 foot marker and ran his season's total up to 97 points which appears now to be beyond the reach of any rival.

The standing of the teams to date and the scoring records follow:

Standing of Teams

COACH SUSPENDS STAR MAN OF SYRACUSE FIVE

Syracuse, N. Y., March 9.—Henry Greve, high scorer and star guard of the Syracuse university basketball team, was suspended from the squad by Coach Eddie Dollard following the annual Syracuse-Colgate court classic here Saturday night, it became known here today. Colgate won the game, 22 to 19.

Coach Dollard, according to the Syracuse Post Standard, gave his reason for ruling Greve off the squad as "indifferent playing for some time." Other members of the squad and friends of Greve tell a different story. They say Greve aroused Dollard's ire by humming to himself while on his way to the Syracuse dressing room between the halves of the game Saturday night. Syracuse at that time was trailing, 11 to 6.

"No man who sings when we're behind can play on my squad," they quote Dollard as having told Greve.

Greve explained he was humming in an effort to take his mind off the game during the intermission.

When the teams lined up for the second, the Post Standard story says, Greve sat in bench, and, although Syracuse partisans shouted continuously during the later period, "We want Greve," Coach Dollard made no move to send him in the contest.

Greve is popular with other members of the squad and the entire student body, and is leading candidate for captaincy of the Syracuse basketball team for next season.

Syracuse's court campaign closes next Saturday night against Pennsylvania State at State College, Pa., Coach Dollard tonight admitted Greve probably will be reinstated and will play against Pennsylvania State.

MELLEN TO ROW AGAIN AS STROKE OF OXFORD CREW

London, March 9.—Oxford's crew will again be stroked by the American, W. P. Mellen, in the race with Cambridge on the Thames this year. There will be no other Yankee in either shell, R. K. Kane, who was No. 4 for Oxford in 1923, having given up rowing after several years of it at Harvard and Oxford.

His crew at present is the favorite for the race, most of the men behind him being the heroes of last year's victory over Cambridge. On the other hand Cambridge has several new men in its shell, which is manned by a very light crew.

The race will be rowed as usual over the course from Putney to Mortlake on April 5.

SEVENTEEN NATIONS HAVE FILED CUP ENTRYS

New York, March 9.—Seventeen nations filed official challenges for the Davis cup, symbolic of the international team tennis championship. The three latest entries include Denmark and Italy, which cabled their desires to be drawn in the European zone, and Canada which has not yet determined the zone its team will enter. This equals the field which competed in the international event last year.

The three latest entries all competed in the 1923 play. Denmark drew France in the opening round in the European zone and was defeated 4 to 1. Italy which drew a bye in the first round, was eliminated by Holland in the second, while Canada playing through the American zone lost to Japan in Montreal.

It is expected one or two additional entries will be received by the United States Lawn Tennis association before President Coolidge makes the draw at the White House on Monday, March 17, entries close officially on March 15.

HAUGDAHL SETS NEW DIRT TRACK RECORD

Los Angeles, March 9.—Sig Haugdahl, Norwegian automobile race driver, set a new track record at Ascot speedway here today when he toured the five-eighths mile dirt oval in 30 seconds flat. This clipped two-fifths of a second from the previous one lap record established by Haugdahl two weeks ago. Haugdahl also won the feature automobile event of the day, a 10-lap affair in five minutes 24 seconds. Fred Lickleider of Dayton, O., finished second, and Eddie Meyers, Jr., of Redlands, Cal., took third. Leon Duray, the French driver, was forced out of the seventh lap because of engine trouble.

Gene Walkers won the Paul Derkum stake race for motorcycles. John Krieger and Ralph Hepburn taking second and third, respectively. Time for the five laps was 2.43.

GERMAN BOXERS MAY FIGHT IN FRENCH RINGS

Paris, March 9.—The French Boxing Federation has lifted the ban on German boxers, who now will be permitted to engage in bouts in French rings, providing there is a demand for their services. French boxers under the ruling are free to meet German, allied or neutral fighters in rings in Germany.

This is the second sporting federation to resume relations with the Germans. The French Cycling Federation was the first of these. It has permitted Karl Wittig, the German pace follower, to compete in the Paris velodrome March 23 and Jules Miquel the French rider to participate in a meet in Berlin on the same date.

WHIRLWINDS TO PLAY RETURN GAME AT PLAINFIELD

Final arrangements have been completed for a return game with the Boston Whirlwinds at the Plainfield Community House next Friday night March 14th.

Since the appearance here of the Whirlwinds last Monday night, in what proved to be the fastest and most exciting game of basketball ever staged in this section of the state, the fans of Plainfield and vicinity have been clamoring for another contest between these two teams.

Manager Snyder of the Whirlwinds and the Plainfield Management have agreed to use exactly the same lineup that opposed each other in their last met-to.

Further particulars will be announced in this paper at a later date.

In a scheduled game of the International church league, Groton defeated the three man First Baptist team by the overwhelming score of 75 to 5 on the Y. M. C. A. floor Saturday. The First Baptist boys were minus two of their team members and were compelled to play with three men. This victory for Groton gives them a tie for first place with the First Congregational five.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Paul Steward, an infielder last year and captain of the University of Illinois baseball team, and who had a trial with the St. Louis Cardinals, has been signed by the Bloomington Three-I club.

The Kansas City Club has offered the veteran outfielder, Beals Becker, to several clubs in the Coast League in exchange for a second baseman, but at last accounts had not been able to make an exchange.

The Virginia League voted at its recent schedule meeting that all clubs should install automatic ticket-selling machines of approved design. The Virginia League season is to open April 17 and close September 20.

Charley Dressen of the St. Paul Association club has had so much boosting that his head is a bit turned. Report has it that he is about to jump to the shop league, because the St. Paul club hasn't told him to the majors Expert scouts say Dressen still needs a bit of schooling, that another year will fit him.

Old newspaper clippings show that there was once a day when Harvard baseball fans cheered the umpire as well as the opposing team at the end of the annual Yale-Harvard game but them days is gone forever.

The Salt Lake Club has pruchased C. R. Clark, a right-handed pitcher, from the Rockford Club (that was) of the Three-I League. Clark has been on the suspended list, but his reinstatement has been arranged for.

President Harry Williams of the Pacific Coast League last week announced completion of his umpire staff as follows: Perle Casey, Ed Finney, Jack Reardon, Billy Phyle, Jack Carroll, E. J. Daly, Walter Schaller and Joe Becker.

The transfer by Oakland of Second Baseman Marty McGanigan to Columbus recalls the trade of last year, in which Oakland gave Catcher Art Koehler to Sagramento for McGanigan. Koehler had a big year with Sacramento, while McGanigan, because of an injured shoulder, was of little use to Oakland.

FARM BUREAU HORSE SALE

AT 1:30 P. M. — WILLIMANTIC, CONN.

AT FITCH BARN

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12th

Thirty head of Horses, direct from North Dakota farmers will be sold at Auction, under positive guaranty. The horses are accustomed to all classes of farm work and are mostly of Percheron and Belgian breeding, from 5 to 9 years old, and weigh 1600 to 1800 pounds. A committee appointed by the Windham County Farmers' Association will inspect and hitch all horses prior to the sale and will report on each horse at the sale.

This is the third consecutive year that the North Dakota Farm Bureau, in co-operation with farm bureaus in New England, is holding co-operative sales of this kind. Practically every horse sold by us in the past two years has given splendid satisfaction. Ask your County Farm Bureau about our sales.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Mountain and the Squirrel

The mountain and the squirrel
Had a quarrel,
And the former called the latter "Little prig:"
Bun replied,
"You are doubtless very big,
But all sorts of things and weather
Must be taken in together
To make up a year,
And a sphere;
And I think it no disgrace
To occupy my place.
If I'm not as large as you,
You are not as small as I,
And not half so spry;
I'll not deny you make
A very pretty squirrel track.
Talents differ, all is well and wisely put;
If I cannot carry forests on my back,
Neither can you crack a nut."

Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Winter

Old Winter is a sturdy one,
And lasting stuff he's made of;
His flesh is firm as ironstone,
There's nothing he's afraid of.

He spreads his coat upon the heart,
Nor yet to warm it lingers;
He scouts the thought of aching teeth,
Oh chuckles on his fingers.

Of flowers that bloom or birds that sing,
Full little cares or knows he;
He hates the fire and hates the Spring,
And all that's warm and cosy

But when the foxes bark aloud
On frozen lake and river—
When round the fire the people crowd,
And rub their hands and shiver—

When frost is splitting stone and wall,
And trees come crashing after,
That hates he not, he loves it all—
Then bursts he out in laughter.

His home is by the North Pole's strand,
Where earth and sea are frozen;
His Summer-house, we understand,
In Switzerland he's chosen.

Now from the North he's hither hied,
To show his strength and power;
And when he comes we stand aside,
And look at him and cower.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

No doubt it will interest the members of the Wide-Awake Circle to know that one of Uncle Sam's heroes of the world war bears the name, "President Wilson." This "hero" is a pigeon which served as a regular with the American Expeditionary Forces in France during the great world war. "President Wilson" got his name in recognition of his splendid war record. He is a real "hero" of the Argonne for he flew some twenty miles through a drizzling rain, with one of his legs shot away by shrapnel and delivered a message of great importance. The message was fastened to his body and he carried it from the trenches to headquarters. It contained information that the army officers in headquarters were anxiously waiting for and had it not been for the gallant flight of this brave bird the message would probably not have been delivered and very serious results might have followed.

"President Wilson" is now quartered with some 2,000 other army pigeons at one of Uncle Sam's reservations in California. Among these bird "soldiers" is another famous pigeon called The Mocker. He carried a message from Beaumont battle front with information that saved the lives of thousands of our soldiers. During his heroic flight from the front lines to headquarters The Mocker lost one of his eyes by shrapnel.

"Spike" is another of the famous bird "soldiers." Spike carried 52 messages from the trenches to headquarters, thus performing very valuable service for Uncle Sam. There are also at this bird camp many pigeons captured from the enemy during the war. One of these is a very valuable "homer" called The Kaiser. He was captured in the battlefields from retreating German soldiers and added to the list of American "prisoners of war." All of the birds, "veterans" they are called by their guardians are kindly treated and are well fed.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

LAFAYETTE

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to you before, but I thought I would write to you and tell you about a man I have been studying in history. Lafayette was born in France in 1757. He had noble parents. He loved liberty and wanted to help the United States by giving his services in her fight for independence. After he had come to America he was made a general by an act of congress. After he had joined Washington's army he was wounded at Valley Forge.

He used his influence to secure more troops from France, and aided Washington in the capture of Cornwallis.

He was a true friend of the United States and died in 1834.

GERALDINE BUSHNELL, Age 8.
North Franklin.

TELL THE TRUTH.

Dear Uncle Jed: Last month John and James were playing ball in the school room. John threw the ball and it hit the window and broke it.

The teacher came into the room and asked who had broken the window. John said, "James broke it." James looked at John and said nothing.

In the afternoon James and John were severely punished. The next morning John went to the teacher's desk and said, it was I who broke the window yesterday.

REGINA DUPHILY, Age 10.
Natwich.

WENT THROUGH THE ICE

Dear Uncle Jed: There was some ice over the fence from our school. The teacher let us go over. I was on the ice and was going to jump over and the first thing I knew I was in the water. I went home and changed my clothes and went back to school.

ARTHUR E. BENNETT, Age 10.
Norwich.

A SAD SCARE

Dear Uncle Jed: One day in summer I went to the barn to help my mother milk the cows. I milked one. It was dark so my mother told me to go to the house for a lantern. I started back to the barn with the lighted lantern. When I was near the barn I heard a noise. I saw a big snake looking at me and making a noise the way a goose hisses. I was very frightened and ran into the barn. My mother ran to the shed for a hoe and went to kill the snake. From that time I have been afraid to go to the barn at night.

MARGARET MIKLOJCIK, Age 11
Colchester.

THE BIRDS

Dear Uncle Jed: When the winter has passed, and spring begins, you hear the birds singing and chirping.

Sometimes you wonder what makes them so busy in the month of March. They are beginnig to build their nests. All day they pick bits of wool and straw to weave their little nests.

When the nest is finished the female sits on it to lay eggs. In a few weeks there are some of the prettiest babies that ever was seen. When the mother goes in search of food the little ones lay close to each other.

RENA RAYMOND, Age 11.
Norwich.

SHEEP AND WOOL

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write again and tell you and the Wide Awakes about sheep and wool. Sheep can find food among the bushes and rocks on stony ground. They can be raised on almost any steep, rocky pastureland. This kind of land isn't good pasture for cattles It doesn't given as good crops of corn, wheat or oats. Sheep are raised mostly for meat in the east.

Sheep are raised for wool more than meat in the west. Among the mountains far to the west are broad plains. In the spring the grass on these plains is green so the herder takes his flock of sheep upon the plains to fatten. In the summer the grass becomes brown, parched and dry. Then all the sheep are driven to the mountains. Here the frocks can find food. Herders are sent to look after the block. They keep the sheep from getting into danger. The herder has two dogs.

In the winter the sheep are driven to sheep folds where they are protected from snow and rain. In the spring the sheep are sheared. The lambs and sheep are separated. The wool is very dirty when it is cut from the sheep. The men tie it in large bales or bundles. These bales of wool are shipped to mills. At the mills it is put into boiling soapsuds. Then it is stirred until it is clean. The wool is then put through great rollers and dried. Then the wool is fluffy and white. It is made into yarns. Some is made into soft white blankets. Some of it is dyed and stamped. Sweaters and caps and stockings are knit of woolen yarn.

SARAH AVERY WILLIAMS.
Lebanon.

LIFE STORY OF A SHOE

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to you about a shoe. I am a shoe. I was made in Boston. I was sent to Norwich. A man bought me and put me in his window. A girl came in and bought me. She wore me about a year. After I became old she threw me in the fire and that was the end of me.

POMPELIA LEONE, Age 10.
Norwich.

A QUEER DREAM

Dear Uncle Jed: I had a very strange dream the other night. I dreamt that I was in school and that we were reading of a second moon that would come and would be the sign of bad luck. That same night (I am still dreaming) my sister and I were out sliding and we saw this strange moon rising. It rose in the west in the shape of a half moon, and was twice as large as the real moon. We rushed into the house and told my mother about the strange moon. She fainted immediately and my father had to pour some cold water on her face before she was conscious of anything. Just then I awoke and all I could see was one nice bright moon shining in through my window. Do you think there is anything in my dream?

GEORGE ABRAHAMSON, Age 12.
Preston.

A TRAITOR TO HIS COUNTRY

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write about a Connecticut man who turned traitor to his country. His name was Benedict Arnold. Benedict Arnold was born in New London, Connecticut, in 1741. During the Revolutionary war a terrible thing happened in the state of New York. General Benedict Arnold, one of the bravest men in the American army tried bring his country to ruin.

Arnold had done wonders at Quebec and he had done more than any of the other men, toward the victory over Burgoyne at the battle of Saratoga.

He had been so badly wounded in that battle that he was no longer able to fight. As a reward for his service Washington gave him the command of the fort at West Point on the Hudson river.

Instead of doing everything he could to strengthen the fort so that the British could not take it, Arnold turned traitor and secretly offered to give up the fort to the enemy.

He employed an English spy, named Andre to carry letters to the British general in New York city. Andre was stopped by some of our men. They searched him and found secret papers in one of his stockings. He was then tried as a spy, found guilty and was hanged.

Washington visited the fort at West Point before that General Arnold had taken a boat and escaped to a British warship which was on the river not far away.

Arnold was never caught. The British paid him a large sum of money for what he had tried to do, and then put him in command of some English soldiers and he fought against his own country, and against Washington who had always been his friend. He did even worse than that for he attacked and tried to destroy the very state he was born in.

After the War of Independence was over, Arnold went to London to live. He was the only American in that great city that no other American there would look at or speak to.

He lived a year afterward, in England praying to God to forgive him for, deserting his country.

FRANCES LAMB, Age 11.
No. Franklin.

LOVED HIS MOTHER

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to the Wide Awakes and hope you will like my story. Late one afternoon as I was leisurely strolling along the street, I noticed an elderly lady sitting on the porch of her neat, cozy comfortable cottage. Her hair was silvery white and she looked like sweet fragrant lilies that bloom in autumn.

My attention was attracted by a merry laugh. As I turned to look behind me, there was a boyish face with glistening eyes and a manly look wearing an expression indicative of future happiness for others.

Up the pathway, in a lighthearted manner, he went. The elderly lady was so glad to see him, that she could not utter a word; but her eyes spoke the wordless welcome. He knelt down before her and tenderly kissed he hand, then he murmured, "Back again sweetheart mother."

This is just an insignificant act, but means volumes to me. Our greatest heroes were noted for their love for their mother.

The boy that kisses his mother shows that he is every inch a man.

CLAIRE BOUSQUET, Age 14.
Danielson.

WHY SAVE MONEY

Dear Uncle Jed: I have money in the Savings Bank of New London. Our school is one hundred percent. We got a banner in school from the bank. They have given me many books for being a regular depositor. I have $55 in the bank. Last fall I drew $50. I don't intend to draw any more until I graduate. At present I am in the fifth grade. We are very proud of our banner, and hope that the hundred per cent will hold out.

BESSIE YESELEVSKY, Age 11.

A VISIT TO A FRIEND'S HOUSE

Dear Uncle Jed: I am real glad to have joined the Wide Awake Circle, and to see that my story was in the paper. I am going to tell you another story. One day last week I was going for a walk after breakfast and I passed a friend's house and she asked me to have dinner with her. I went in and she took me in her playroom until her mother got the dinner and then we had our dinner. Then we washed the dishes and her mother gave us some money to go to the pictures.

ELIZABETH RAYNSFORD
Pomfret.

IS SEVEN YEARS OLD

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a little girl of seven and I want to send a letter to Uncle Jed about a soldier's picture that I cut out of a book and hung in the kitchen. I like soldiers because my brother wa as soldier in the World war and I like to get pictures of soldiers in uniforms.

DORIS NEWMAN.
Franklin.

MY FAITHFUL DOG

Dear Uncle Jed: One day I was fishing in a pond. After I was fishing a little while, I saw a man coming toward me with something in his hands. When he got a little nearer to me, I saw a little dog in his hands. He tied a rope around the dog's neck and tied a stone on to the rope. He was just going to throw the little dog in the pond. I asked him if he would give it to me instead of throwing it in the pond. He said I could have it. So I took it and raised it to be a big dog. One day I went out into the river in a boat. When I got out in the middle of the river the boat tipped over. I couldn't swim. I thought I was going to drown. My faithful dog came out and saved me.

GEORGE KELLEY, Age 13
Norwich.

A WONDERFUL INVENTION

Dear Uncle Jed: I think the radio is the most wonderful thing ever invented. The waves pass through the air and the radio gives you the exact occurrence which is going on at the station to which you are listening. It also transmits speeches and music.

SARAH ROMAINE, Age 10.
Jewett City.

WHAT I WANT TO BE

Dear Uncle Jed: When I grow up I would like to be a nurse. I would like to be a school nurse. I should have the children keep clean. I would have them take a bath twice a week and have them brush their teeth every day.

BLANCHE HILL, Age 12.
Norwich.

A RAINY DAY

Dear Uncle Jed: I have never written to you before but I thought I would write to you and tell you about a rainy day.

It was raining. Alice and Mary went to the playroom. Soon they heard someone else coming. This time it was their mother coming to tell them that dinner was ready. As soon as they were through their dinner they went back to play again. They played house until one of them happened to look out of the window and saw that it had stopped raining. Then they all ran out and began to play outdoors.

WINIFRED BUSHNELL, Age 9.
North Franklin.

A TRUE STORY

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write about the fox that was here Saturday, Feb. 23rd. My mother said, "Oh look at the fox down in the meadow." We all looked and there was one. It was a young one. So my brother telephoned to my uncle, but he said that he could not come down that night but he came down the next day. But did not get him. One day he came allmost up to the house and a cat went down where it was and the fox chased it up to the barn. It came for several days in the morning and at night.

BEATRICE COFFEY, Age 11.
Danielson.

MY FIRST VISIT TO ATLANTIC BEACH

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you. One Sunday afternoon my uncle and aunt invited my sister and I to go to Atlantic Beach with them. They told us to be ready about 2 o'clock. The way we came was [illegible] through Norwich and Westerly. When we got down there it was lovely. We sat down on the shore and watched the breakers. They were very large and many people were in bathing.

OLIVE FLETCHER, Age 9.
Voluntown.

A VALENTINE DAY SOCIAL

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write and tell you about Valentine day. The teachers down stairs made a valentine box, and after they made it they brought it upstairs in the grammar room.

On Valentine day which came on the 14th day of February the children downstairs came up in the grammar romm and we all had a valentine social together.

The teacher chose a boy to be the postmaster and he selected three pupils to help him pass out the valentines for two minutes. After the two minutes were up the teacher did the same thing over until every one of the valentines was passed out. You just bet Uncle Jed I had many valentines and I was thankful for them. I hope that the Wide Awakes had a valentine social.

IDA ROODE, Age 14.
Voluntown.

THE LIFE OF NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE

Dear Uncle Jed: Hawthorne was born in Salem in 1804, before that city was outrivaled by the city of Boston. His father, a sea captain, was lost at sea while Nathaniel and his two sisters were still small. The family then went to live in Maine with Mr. Manning, Mrs. Hawthorne's brother.

Hawthorne and Longfellow were in the same class at Bowdoin college, while Franklin Pierce was only one class ahead of them.

After 12 years of diligent research, Twice Told-wiTGEJaM bm rf bmr Twice-told Tales, appeared, and soon afterward Grandfather's Chair, from which The Pine Tree Shillings is selected. In the meantime Hawthorne served as weigher for the customs house at Brook Farm, where a colony of writers resided.

He had been appointed surveyor of the Port of Salem and when his term expired he took his family out to the Berkshire Hills. Out there among the mountains Hawthorne wrote, The House of Seven Gables. He wrote a book about England which he called Our Old Home.

His last years were spent in Concord at The Wayside, which he had bought from Mr. Alcott. The Alcotts, Emerson, Thoreau, Holmes, Whittier, Longfellow and Lowell were all his neighbors in and near Concord. He died in May, 1864, while on a trip to the White Mountains with his friend Pierce.

EMMA ROODE, Age 13.
Voluntown.

MY WEEK'S VACATION

Dear Uncle Jed: As it has been a long time since I wrote to the Wide Awake Circle, I thought I would write and tell how I am spending my week's vacation from school. I get up early every morning and help my mother with the work in the house. I take my turn in feeding the chickens, geese, cats, and dog and bringing wood and water. I have also had a very good time sliding and skating with my brothers and sisters. I also gave my baby brother his first sleigh ride and you should have seen how happy he was, as he does not get out much this cold weather.

My sister and I went to see the men cutting ice on the river and putting it in the ice house. It was something we had never seen before and it was interesting watching them. I also helped pile wood in the wood house. I hope to be able to fill in the remainder of the week as useful as the days past. I hope all the Wide Awakes are enjoying this nice winter weather in sliding and skating. I enjoy reading all the Wide Awake letters.

THE ANIMALS ON OUR FARM

Dear Uncle Jed: Iam going to tell you about our farm. We have 18 cattle, two dogs, and two cats, six sheep, forty hens and four horses. We had a billy goat. We make pets of all our animals. I like to play with pets very much. Every day I bring in the eggs from the chicken coop.

A BIRTHDAY GIFT

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my dog, Barney Google. Last September the seventeenth was my eighth birthday and mother let me have a party. Eight of my little friends were invited. To my surprise one of them brought to me as a present the cutest little, fluffy, white dog. He had a big pink bow on him almost as large as himself. First of all he had to have a name. So we all tried to find a name for him, some suggested naming him Fluff, others Beauty, but mother said let us name him Barney Google. So we all agreed Barney Google was his name. I have enjoyed him every day I have had him. He grew a little every day until now he is a big, beautiful dog. He plays with me and all I have to do is sing the song Barney Google and he appears no matter where he is. He is all white except his ears and both of them are brown. My cousin has Barney's sister and her name is Spark Plug. I bet every Wide Awake would like a dog like mine.

MY CAT BRUIN

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written. I am going to tell you about my cat Bruin. He is five years old soon. He catches rats every day. He caught two rats under a little shed by father made this winter. He sleeps in the house nights.

When he catches anything he brings it home and tells us by mewing. His birthday is April sixteenth. There were three kittens besides him I will tell you their names; Spottie, Grey Lady, and Snowball.

GLAD SPRING IS COMING

Dear Uncle Jed: d am so glad Spring is to be here soon, because that means that the flowers will begin to grow again. I love flowers. I have my own patches in the woods where the different flowers grow. It is fun to cook for trailing arbutus, because you have to brush the dead leaves away, and there are the pretty flowers.

I never get very many lady's slippers because they are so hard to find. Last year I only found three

There is a swamp a short way from my house where there are a lot of large purple violets. I hope that this year I will be able to find as many as last year.

DISCOVERY OF GOLD IN CALIFORNIA

Dear Uncle Jed: James Marshall, a millwright, working for Col. Sutter, found some metal about the size of grains of wheat. When the metal was tested it proved to be solid gold. He tried to keep it a secret but it was announced in a San Francisco paper and people from all parts of the country went to look for the gold in California.

San Francisco grew up like magic. The large population included all sorts of people. They were at first governed by the lynch laws but before long they organized themselves into a state.

MY VISIT TO BUSHY POINT

Dear Uncle Jed: Last summer I spent a few days at Bushy Point. On a clear day you can see Fishers Island and Ocean Beach. There is a sand bar over a mile long. I spent many happy hours there bathing. I am anlously waiting for summer to come as I hope to spend a few days there again.

POLITENESS

Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to the Wide Awake Circle. I hope you will like my story. I am writing to you about politeness. You should always be polite. When you pass in front of anyone you should say "excuse me." When you talk to someone you should not say yes and no but yes Ma'am and no ma'am. In school you should be polite to your teacher and principal. Work while you work, and play while you play.

MY DOG

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awakes. I am going to tell you about my dog. My dog's name is Laddie. He is an intelligent dog. He plays with sticks and bones that I give him. He likes to chase squirrels and bark at them. He plays with me quite often. He is eight months old, and I'm very fond of him.

SAVED A CHIPMUNK

Dear Uncle Jed: I have seen many weasels. One day I was walking along the road when I saw two small animals one chasing the other. The first one was a chipmunk and the second a weasel. The chipmunk came up close to me and stopped by my feet as though he wanted me to save him from danger. I picked him up and drove the weasel away. As soon as the weasel was gone I set the chipmunk free.

OUR FIRST PRESIDENT

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about George Washington. George Washington the first president of the United States was born February 22, 1732. When he was only eleven years old his father died leaving five children of whom George was the oldest. He was an affectionate and obedient son and he never told a lie. In school George was studious and respectful to his teachers.

When the Revolutionary war began congress appointed him commander-in-chief of the American Armies Washington conducted the long war to a successful issue.

He died at Mt. Vernon, his home on December 14, 1799.

Washington was first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen.

WAS TOO LATE

Dear Uncle Jed: I have never written to you before. I thought I would write and tell you about this story. One Saturday afternoon my mother told me to get some groceries at the store in the village. She told me to hurry up before the store would be closed. It was then four o'clock and the stores are closed at five.

I hurried up, took my bicycle and off I went. When I reached the village, I met my friend Jack. I had a conversation with him about going to a game. Forgetting all about the grocery goods, we soon decided to go to the game.

As the game was over about five o'clock, I hurried to see whether the stores were closed. Seeing that the stores were closed I started home.

EX-PRESIDENT WILSON

Dear Uncle Jed: Ex-President Woodrow Wilson, 28th president of the United States died at his home in Washington, D. C., after a protracted illness, Sunday Feb. 3rd. In his passing the country has lost a distinguished citizen. He was born Dec. 28, 1856, in Stanton, Va., of Scotch Presbyterian parents. In 1881 he graduated in law at the University of Virginia, and practiced law until 1885, when he was married and took a professorship at Bryn Mawr college for three years, then successfully taught at Wesleyan University and Princeton, being president of the latter institution from 1902 to 1910. In 1911 he was elected governor of New Jersey and in 1912 president of the United States. During the World war he took a most prominent part in directing the destinies of the United States. On August 4, 1914 he proclaimed the neutrality of the United States and sent several notes to the German government, warning them. After re-elections at VeVrsailles in France on March 4, 1917, he caused congress to declare war on Germany, April 6th, 1917. He appointed himself as member of the American peace commission and took an active part in the peace deliberations at Versailles in Paris on March 4th, 1921, he turned over the presidency to his successor, Warren G. Harding and retired to private life completely broken in health.

THE STOLEN MILK

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I am going to telephone you about the stolen milk. The farmer kept a lot of cows. So he built a small shed where he kept pans of milk. One day the farmer went into this shed to get some milk. He was surprised to find some of the pans turned over and others half empty. Day after day this happened. The farmer grew angry and tried to catch this thief.

One day he just came out of the barn and saw his cat coming out of the old stove pipe which was in the milk shed. His face was still white from the milk. The farmer had caught the thief! After that day he kept the stove pipe and all the other small holes blocked.

MONTVILLE

Although the 600 Roman Catholics composing St. John's parish, Montville, regret that their pastor, Rev. F. X. Quinn has been transferred by Bishop Nilan to St. Michael's church, Westerly, as pastor, yet they rejoice in his well learned promotion to a more important and larger charge. Likewise they are greatly pleased that the Bishop has assigned as Father Quinn's successor a learned and able priest so well thought of that the South Manchester correspondent of The Hartford Courant has written of him as follows:

Rev. James A. O'Meara, for several years curate at St. James' church, South Manchester, but for the last two years assistant at St. Peter's church, New Haven, has been appointed pastor of St. John's church, Montville, and will preach his first sermon in that church as pastor Sunday the 16th.

Father O'Meara, while connected with St. James' church in this place made many friends because of his exceptionally pleasant disposition. As assistant to Rev. William J. McGurk, then pastor of St. James' church, he was in charge of the children's instruction and seemed to have a way of drawing children to him as well as the older members of the parish that cemented a friendship that was lasting. His pleasant smile and friendly greeting was always welcomed at the sick bed, especially during the "flu" epidemic in Manchester when it became necessary to open a temporary hospital in Cheney Hall. His visits to the sick and the dying made hours of the day and the night won for him many friends in Manchester who are now pleased to learn that he is to become pastor of the church in Montville.

LEONARD BRIDGE

The community club held its meeting Wednesday evening. Mr. W. T. Curry and Ralph Kenyon were the committee in charge of the program which was opened by the singing of America, following which a discussion took place in regard to the Farm Bureau institute meeting to be held at the Goshen church Tuesday, March 11th. The club decided to serve a dinner that day. A debate on the subject "Resolved that woman's work in the home is more important than a man's work on the farm" then took place, Mrs. J. A. Randall and Miss Clara Gillett taking the affirmative while F. A. Randall and W. T. Curry took the negative side. At the conclusion the judges decided it was a draw and that each was equally important. A mock corn husking between W. T. Curry, E. W. Jones, J. A. Randall and Ralph Kenyon then took place, after which the company chose sides and each side entertained for ten minutes. A musical program from Providence and other places was listened to over the club's new radio. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. There was a good attendance.

Miss Emily Watrous is visiting her cousin Mrs. George Beckwith, at Uncasville.

Mr. and Mrs. David Welch and S. Nadel, also Carlton Cummings were Willimantic visitors recently.

Mrs. Ida Hill, Leslie Hill and Mrs. Robert Goodrich were in Willimantic Tuesday.

H Theodore Bland entertained over the week end, Myron H. Giddings of Niantic.

Rev. (Miss) Lydia Hartig, Mrs. Edward W. Jones and Miss Annie Gillett attended the recention given Mrs. Littlefield, wife of the new Baptist minister, Tuesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Ida Abell at Lebanon Center.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

DAVID CORY

Grandmother Magpie
"I'm a little silver bell
With a happy song,
Tinkle, tinkle, through the dell
All the hours long.

Mrs. Cow would never know
Where the sweetest grasses grow
If I did not tinkle-tink
Where the red-top clovers wink."
sang the little silver bell on Mrs.

Cow's collar as she tossed her head till her pink sunbonnet almost fell off.

Just then, all of a sudden, who should come by on the wing but Grandmother Magpie, the most mischievous bird in all the Shady Forest.

"Well, well," she exclaimed, pulling off her black silk mits as she perched on the Old Rail Fence, "Where is our little rabbit boy going?"

"To write a letter," answered the bunny boy, just like that, not the least bit afraid of that old meddlesome blackbird.

"Does your mother know about it?" she asked, wrinkling up her little black eye.

"Oh, dear, Oh, dear!" thought the little rabbit. "Now she'll go and bother mother!" And that's just what Old Mother Magpie intended doing for away she flew straight for the Old Bramble Patch.

"There she goes, the mean old thing," Cried Dickey Meadowmouse. She'll have your mother nearly crazed Before she leaves the house."

"Oh dear and Oh dear," sighed the little rabbit boy, "Will troubles never end?"

"They've only begun!" shouted a deep, growly voice, and out jumped Old Man Weasel from behind a bush.

"Look out!" shouted the little meadowmouse. "Look out!" screamed Bobbie Redvest. "Look out!" cried Mrs. Cow. But that didn't do any good. Not a bit. What's the use of looking out unless you're safe in something or other. There was no nice hollow stump nearby, nor a deep burrow nor a bramble patch. No sir. There was nothing but the wide Sunny Meadow.

"Oh, please, Mr. Weasel," begged the little rabbit, I've invited Uncle Dave Cory to visit Rabbitville. Please don't eat me up till he comes."

"When does he arrive?" asked Old Man Weasel.

"Pretty soon," answered the little rabbit.

"Very well, I'll let you off this time," replied the old weasel and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

POETRY

Upon the Cross of Jesus

Upon the Cross of Jesus
Myself by faith I see
Dying to sin a certain death
In Him who died for me.
Oh, wonder of God's purpose deep,
That not alone Christ died,
But that the "flesh" of all His saints
With Him was crucified.

Within the tomb of Jesus
Where Roman guard does mind,
Wherein was never man yet laid,
His body, mine I find.
"Buried with Him," the sacred rite
Well signifies the fact,
That death to sin and self in us
God did in Christ enact.

Though dark, mine eyes see Jesus
Now rising from the dead.
The risen Lord of endless life
Becomes the Church's head.
And as I gaze, oh, joy! myself
Complete in Him I see:
I crucified, buried with Him,
Christ living now in me.

'Tis by the faith of Jesus
His risen life I live.
The Spirit that raised up my Lord
The victory does give.
Faithful the promise to His own—
'Twill end all fleshly strife:
Sin shall no more dominant have,
But ye shall reign in life.

—T. Webster Smith in Sunday School Times.

The Ruffian

North Wind strode over the hills and downs
Where Summer, forsaken, dies;
His forehead furrowed fierce with frown
Above his terrible eyes.

For he was lord of the cringing vales.
There could be found none bolder;
So whistled he, as he trod the gales
That wilder grew, and colder.

The writhing arms of the creaking trees
Raised for his rough caress;
The brambles' fingers reached to seize
His whirling, swirling dress.

The temptress, Sky, flung a fleecy cloud
Her curving breast to cover;
Unseeing, rushed he by, storm-browed,—
Ah, what a terrible lover!

But over beyond the pallid hill
Where blood-dripped barberry died,
He crushed to his heart, its tumult still,
Proud Autumn, his haughty bride!

WESTERLY

The official visitation of Right Excellent Companion William Bowers, Grand King of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of Connecticut, will be made this (Monday) evening to Palmer Chapter, No. 28, Royal Arch Masons of Pawcatuck. A special convocation of Palmer chapter has been called by Excelsior Bourdon A. Babcock; high priest, with work in the Royal Arch degree on the occasion of this, the first visit to Westerly of Rt. Ex. Com. Bowers, who is a past high priest of Franklin chapter, No. 2, of New Haven. He will be accompanied on his visitation by Most Excellent Companion Arthur N. Nash of Pawcatuck, and a past grand high priest of the grand chapter, R. A. M., of Connecticut. Refreshments will be served in the banquet hall at the close of the meeting. The officers of Palmer chapter are: Ex. Bourdon A. Babcock, high priest; Arthur L. Thompson, king; John A. Hogg, scribe; Ex. Walter G. Hiscox, treasurer; Ex. Albert E. Barber, secretary; William M. Sp[illegible], captain of the host; J. Ernest Coons, principal sojourner; George Smith, royal arch captain; Robinson Hindle, master of the third veil; Paul H. Rietzel, master of the second veil; Robert Vannard, master of the first veil and William A. Stilwell, sentinel.

A false alarm at 12:15 Sunday morning on the whistle of the Pawcatuck Fire department was sounded from Box 65, Stillman avenue, near the Brick Mill. The truck of the P. S. Barber Hose company responded with fifteen or twenty men. Night Patrolman Charles W. Connors and Day Patrolman and Engineer of the P. S. B.'s Francis J. McMahon, Jr., the truck's arrival at the brick mill no fire was found, but it was discovered that the box had been opened and the door of the box left unclosed by parties unknown, who had evidently considered the sounding of the alarm a joke. In New London recently numerous false alarms had been sounded until finally the offending parties were apprehended and it will go equally hard with local parties if false alarms are turned in and the perpetrators are detected.

Arthur Remblad, 18, known as the "barefoot bandit," passed Thursday night in Westerly, having driven here in the sport model roadster, stolen from Herman Baker, of Providence street, Woonsocket, in an account of his activities for the past month Remblad is reported to have told the Woonsocket police that after escaping from a Blackstone street house, Woonsocket, Thursday morning he broke into a cobbler's shop where he stole a pair of shoes. His own shoes and stockings he left in his own room at the Franklyn house, when he slid out of the window on a rope of sheets. Obtaining the shoes he went to Pawtucket, found a companion, a young man, whose description was given the police, and in his company return was made from Pawtucket to Woonsocket and in the stolen automobile the two came to Westerly.

Friday afternoon the return trip was made from Westerly to Woonsocket and the bandit was seen on the Greenville road. Pursuit was started which ended with his capture at point of a riot gun in the hand of a Woonsocket policeman, Sergeant Adams, who shouted: "Surrender, or I'll blow the top of your head off!" He was frisked and a 25 calibre automatic was found in his pocket. His capture took place at the Friends' Meeting House on the outskirts of Woonsocket, where he had made his headquarters; according to his statement his companion had just left him. The speedometer showed that the stolen Baker automobile had been driven 179 miles since Thursday night.

In the Twelfth district court, in Woonsocket, this (Monday) morning, Remblad will be called on to answer to five charges of breaking and entering in the night time, two charges of driving off automobiles and one of carrying a concealed weapon as well as other charges which may be added to the list later.

The Westerly fire alarm bell was sounded from Box 41, Main and School streets, Saturday noon at 12.15, for a chimney fire in one of the George C. Moore company's houses, No. 141, Main street. The house is occupied by Jesse Barber, who had recently moved there. A wodo fire was burning, which undoubtedly was aided by the high wind in setting fire to the chimney. The R. I. No. 1 truck went down Union and Main streets, the hook and ladder truck by way of Dixon House square and the Ahrens-Fox by Elm and Cross streets. Ladders were soon placed on the roof and the contents of several extinguishers were poured into the chimney through the smoke which poured from the top. The flames were soon extinguished and no loss reported.

In Wakefield, R. I., late Saturday afternoon, Alvin Clarke, 53, committed suicide by shooting himself in the mouth. About 4 o'clock he was discovered by his son, Alvin Jr., in his room over the Wakefield auto station. Medical Examiner Dr. John P. Jones pronounced death caused by suicide with firearms. Examination was made by Patrolman William R. Dillman, who found that there was apparently no reason for the suicide. Mr. Clarke was a teamster, who had enjoyed good health and his act was attributed to sudden despondency. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Rhedonsol, of East Greenwich, besides his son, Alvin, Jr.

This (Monday) morning, sessions of the Washington county superior court will be resumed in the court room on Union street, before Associate Justice Sumner. ## DIFFICULTIES IN SETTLING DISPUTE OVER MEMEL

Geneva, March 8 (By the A. P.)—The commission headed by John W. Davis still is encountering grave difficulties in settling the dispute over Memel, which threatens the peace in the Baltic region. The commission, however, will continue its efforts working night and day, until Wednesday, when it has been decided to make a report to the council of the league of nations as to whether or not an agreement has been reached by all the parties to the controversy.

Both the Lithuanians and the Poles object to several clauses of the report as already framed by the commission for the administration of the former German territory, M. Galvanauskas, premier of Lithuania, insists that if he accepted all the conditions laid down it will mean his immediate repudiation by the Lithuanian people.

The failure of the Germans and Poles to reach an accord on the question of acquisition of Polish nationality, notwithstanding the conciliatory efforts of Dr. Souza Dantas, Brazil, who presided, has added another dramatic note to the March meeting of the council, which opens tomorrow under the presidency of Laberto N. Guani, Uruguay, and is expected to last ten days. Lord Parmoor, Great Britain, Dr. Eduard Benes, Czechn-Slovakia; Hjalmar Branting, Swedan, and Signor Salandra, Italy, arrived today for the sessions. Henry Morgenthau, United States, is expected to reach GeGneva Tuesday.

BONUS BILL TO COME UP THIS WEEK IN THE HOUSE

Washington, March 9.—Plans to bring the soldiers bonus bill immediately before the house upon its report this week by the ways and means committee were announced today by Chairman Green, who said he would ask for a special rule to give the measure right of way.

The finishing touches on the bill, providing for paid-up life insurance policies with an option of $50 in cash for those veterans not entitled to more than that amount, will be made by a sub-committee, which will start work tomorrow. Mr. Green said, adding he believed the draft could be whipped into shape and reported by Wednesday.

Chairman Green, Representatives Hawley, Oregon, and Bacharach, New Jersey, republicans, and Garner, Texas, and Oldfield, Arkansas, democrats, make up the sub-committee.

Mr. Green today expressed regret that the committee had voted down the farm and home aid option which was in the measure passed last session, declaring he desired "to adhere to the bill accepted by the American Legion as far as possible."

Advocates of the proposal to make full cash payments an option of the bill prepared today to make a fight to have this provision written in by the house. It lost in committee by a vote of 13 to 12.

NORWICH TOWN

At the Sunday worship of the First Episcopal church the pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich chose for his text John 12:21, with special reference to the last half of the verse, We Would See Jesus.

In the course of his sermon, Rev. Mr. Aldrich said: We cannot see Him as the Greeks saw Him in the flesh; we must see Him in the life of people and communities, and the works of mercy and love.

The pastor and the choir of the Methodist church conducted the Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms. The hour was devoted mostly to a song service, by the following: Misses Fannie Edminson, Hazel Cruthers, Blanche Wheeler, Florence Brown, Lewis Adrich and Lewis Irish. Besides several hymns given Lewis Aldrich gave a vocal solo. Miss Brown accompanying at the piano, and Miss Wheeler and Mr. Irish were heard in a vocal duet, with Miss Cruthers at the piano, she also played for the hymns.

Rev. Mr. Aldrich spoke from Nehemiah 2:6. Life Is A Journey. Edward Howe was the leader of the Methodist Young Peoples' Christian Endeavor service in the evening, treating the topic, Dangers of Trifling With Life, God, and the Soul, with several Scripture references.

In the First Congregational church Sunday morning, Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey preached from Psalms 103:7. He made known His Way unto Moses, His acts unto the children of Isreal.

The main thought implied was that Moses followed the lead of the Divine Spirit at every step. The reason that you and I never go farther, the preacher said, is, because we do not follow all the steps of God's leading.

Miss Mabel Corrigeux was the leader chosen for the Young Peoples' Christian Endeavor service in the evening. The topic assigned was Dangers of Trifling With Life, God, and the Soul.

The meeting of the Lathrop Memorial Foreign Missionary society, is to be held in the chapel, Wednesday afternoon at 3:30.

Mrs. Charles P. Learned of 76 West Town street, is to be the hostess Wednesday evening, to Ever Ready Circle of the King's Daughters.

For a more particular description of the property to be sold, intending purchasers are hereby referred (1) to said Connecticut order and said Massachusetts decree; (2) to the Receivers, and (3) to the circular hereinafter mentioned.

Opportunity for inspection will be given before each sale, and all purchases shall be deemed to be made in reliance upon the purchaser's own knowledge or information as to the property purchased; all property being offered as it is at the time of sale without warranty, express or implied; and no guaranty or warranty attaching to any statement herein contained or made at such sale of weights, measurements or counts or any description of property, either real or personal, and neither the Receivers nor the auctioneers assuming any responsibility for the condition of any article sold.

I.

The property directed to be sold by said Connecticut order and the property directed to be sold by said Massachusetts decree will, in each case, be sold at separate sales, one to be held at Putnam, Connecticut, and the other at Taunton, Massachusetts, as hereinafter specified. In the case of each sale the method of sale will be as follows:—

The auctioneer, in each case, will first offer for sale separately and as an entirety all and singular the property directed to be sold by the Court having jurisdiction of the same and will note the highest bid therefor. The auctioneer will next offer said property (both real and personal) for sale in separate lots or parcels. The bids made under the alternative methods of sale to be employed as aforesaid, will then be compared and the Receivers will determine and accept the highest bid or combination of bids made for said property in the manner authorized and directed by the order or decree of sale of the Court ordering said sale, and the Receiver will, subject to confirmation of the sale or sales by such Court, strike off said property to the person or persons making such highest bid or combination of bids.

The individual lots or parcels of real estate, equipment and machinery to be offered as aforesaid, both with respect to the property directed to be sold by said Connecticut order and with respect to the property directed to be sold by said Massachusetts decree, are suitably set forth, listed and described in detail in a certain circular, reference to which is hereby expressly made, which may be obtained upon application either to the Receivers or to the auctioneers, G. L. & H. J. Gross, 170 Westminster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, and detailed information as to these matters is contained therein.

With respect to the sale directed by said Connecticut order, the same will commence at the front door of the office building of the plant of Manhasset Manufacturing Company in Putnam, Connecticut, on Tuesday, March 18, 1924, at 10 o'clock A. M., and will be continued, commencing each day at 10 o'clock A. M., on the premises on Wednesday, March 19, 1924, Thursday, March 20, 1924, and Friday, March 21, 1924.

With respect to the sale directed by said Massachusetts decree, the same will commence at the front door of the office building of the plant of Manhasset Manufacturing Company in Taunton, Massachusetts, on Monday, March 24, 1924, at 10 o'clock A. M., and will be continued, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M. on the premises on Tuesday, March 25, 1924.

The Receivers may adjourn or continue either sale from time to time by announcement by the Receivers or the auctioneers for adjournment or continuance made at the time and place appointed for the original sale or any adjourned sale or during the progress of any such sale and without further notice or publication may proceed with the same on any day to which the same may have been adjourned or continued.

II.

In the case both of the property directed by said Connecticut order and by said Massachusetts decree to be sold, the real estate will be sold subject to all rights, public or private, in, over, under or to said real estate and all streets and ways included in or adjacent to any part or parcel thereof; to all payments for flowage rights and liability for maintaining or contributing to the maintenance of dams or reservoirs, and to all easements, exceptions, restrictions, reservations, burdens, covenants, obligations and conditions of record; except, in the case of the real estate directed to be sold by said Connecticut order, a certain mortgage covering part of said real estate by and between The Putnam Land Company and the trustees under the will of Thomas Harris, dated August 8, 1919, and recorded in Putnam Land Records in Volume 32, at pages 1-2; excepting, however, from the premises in said last named deed described the property described in a deed by The Putnam Land Company to Richmond B. Harris et al. dated November 13, 1923, and recorded in said Putnam Land Records in Volume 36, at pages 264-265.

III.

If either the property directed to be sold by said Connecticut order or the property directed to be sold by said Massachusetts decree is sold as an entirety, it will be sold subject to all taxes and assessments in the nature of taxes upon or with respect to the real estate, equipment and machinery payable at any time during the current calendar year, whether due before or after the sale or confirmation of sale or the delivery of instruments of transfer, and the purchase will be required to assume such taxes and assessments.

If the property directed to be sold by said Connecticut order, either real or personal, is sold in lots or parcels, it will be sold free and clear of taxes.

If the property directed to be sold by said Massachusetts decree is sold in lots or parcels, the machinery and equipment will be sold free and clear of taxes. If the real estate included in said property is sold in lots or parcels, it will be sold subject to all taxes and assessments in the nature of taxes upon or with respect to such real estate payable at any time during the current calendar year, whether due before or after the sale or confirmation of sale or the delivery of instruments of transfer; and purchasers will be required to assume the same. The apportionment of such taxes, as between said parcels of real estate, will be determined by the taxing authority or authorities in the City of Taunton, Massachusetts. In the event of the failure or refusal by said taxing authority or authorities to make such apportionment, it will be determined equitably by the Receivers.

Water rates will be adjusted as of the date of delivery of instruments of transfer.

IV.

In making the sales directed by said Connecticut order and said Massachusetts decree, the Receivers will accept no bid as final from any bidder who shall not, at the conclusion of the bidding under each method of sale adopted as aforesaid or within such reasonable time thereafter as may be fixed by the Receivers, deposit with said autioneer as a pledge that he will make good his bid, in the event of its acceptance, an amount equivalent to not less than (1) 5% of the amount of his said bid, if made for either property directed to be sold as aforesaid, as an entirety, and (2) 25% of the amount of his said bid if for a lot or parcel of said property, either in cash or by certified check upon some national bank or trust company; or, at the option of the bidder, (3) 30% of his said bid in principal amount either of claims against, or notes of Manhasset Manufacturing Company properly assigned or accompanied by proper assignments thereof. Such deposits may be made partly in cash or certified check and partly in said claims and notes but in the same relative proportion.

Any lot or parcel struck off for $500 or less must be paid for in full at the time; provided, that if several lots or parcels are struck off to the same bidder for an aggregate amount in excess of $500, he will be required to make only a deposit of $500 plus 25% of the amount by which his total purchase exceeds $500.

Such deposits and all payments shall be made to the autioneers, G. L. & H. J. Gross, 170 Westminster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, agents for the Receivers.

All lots or parcels with respect to which deposits and payments are not made as herein required will be resold before the auctioneer leaves the premises, and the first purchasers will be held responsible for any loss.

The deposit made by any bidder for a separate lot or parcel may, so far as applicable, be applied on account of the deposit required on any bid by him for the same property when offerred for sale with other property as an entirety. Any deposit received on a bid not finally accepted will be returned when the property shall have been struck off. The deposit received from a successful bidder or bidders shall be applied on account of the purchase price of the property.

In case any bidder, upon the acceptance of his bid by the Receivers, shall fail, within the period of 20 days after the acceptance thereof, to comply (1) with any order of said Superior Court of Connecticut requiring or relating to the payment of the balance of the purchase price for any property sold under said Connecticut order; or (2) with any order or decree of said Superior Court of Massachusetts requiring or relating to the payment of the balance of the purchase price for any property sold under said Massachusetts decree, then and in each such case moneys, claims or notes deposited by such accepted bidder or bidders shall be forfeited as a penalty for such failures and shall be applied to the payment of the expenses of a resale and toward making good any deficiency or loss in case the property in respect to which such accepted bidder shall make default shall be sold at a less price on such resale and to such other purposes as may be directed by court, order or decree.

In case an application to confirm any sale is denied, a deposit made by an accepted bidder at such sale will thereupon be returned to such bidder.

No minimum price is fixed either by Connecticut order or by said Massachusetts decree for the respective properties to be sold thereunder, but each Court reserves full power and discretion to reject any and all bids for the property directed by it to be sold as aforesaid. Every sale under said Connecticut order or said Massachusetts decree will be subject to court confirmation.

Bids, (either for the property by said Connecticut order or the property by said Massachusetts decree directed to be sold) if made for such property as an entirety, must, (and no combination of bids for either property as lots or parcels will be accepted which does not aggregate a sufficient amount to) provide, (a) in the case of said property directed to be sold by said Connecticut order, for the payment in cash to the Receivers of such sum as the Receivers may deem sufficient to meet the two classes in clauses (a) and (b) of Article IX in said Connecticut order enumerated of charges upon the proceeds of sale; and (b) in the case of said Massachusetts decree, for the payment in cash to the Receivers of such sum as the Receivers may deem sufficient to meet the class in clause (a) of Article VIII of said Massachusetts decree enumerated of charges upon the proceeds of sale.

Any creditor, officer, director or stockholder of Manhasset Manufacturing Company may bid at the sale and, if a successful bidder, may purchase in his, its or their own right.

Purchasers of real estate must allow purchasers of machinery and equipment access to the property to remove purchases until the expiration of 60 days from the delivery of instruments of transfer.

V.

Upon the confirmation of any sale, the purchaser shall make to the auctioneers such payment or payments in cash on account of the purchase price of the property sold as the Court confirming such sale may direct and shall pay the balance of such purchase price to said auctioneers not later than 60 days after the entry of the order or decree of confirmation, unless otherwise ordered therein.

So much of the purchase price for the property sold as may not be required by the Court confirming the same to be paid in cash may be paid in cash, or the purchaser may satisfy and make good the balance of his bid in whole or in part by delivering to the Receivers to be cancelled or to have payment credited thereon claims filed with the Receivers against, or notes of Manhasset Manufacturing Company entitled to be paid out of the proceeds of said on distribution thereof (as provided in said Connecticut order and said Massachusetts decree) to the extent that such proceeds are available for such purpose. Said claims and notes shall be properly assigned or accompanied by proper assignments and shall be received subject to court allowance thereof or to allowance by a master or committee duly appointed.

A purchaser shall be credited on account of the purchase price of property sold to such purchaser, as and when claims and notes so delivered shall be allowed as valid indebtedness of said Manhasset Manufacturing Company as aforesaid, for all such claims and notes so delivered by such purchaser with such sums as would be payable in respect to such claims or notes out of the proceeds of sale if the whole amount of the said purchase price were paid in cash. No claim which shall not have been filed in accordance with the respective orders or decrees of the Courts aforesaid will, unless otherwise ordered, be enforceable or entitled to share in the distribution of any proceeds of sale.

VI.

Each of the Courts aforesaid respectively retains jurisdiction as to the property directed by it to be sold as aforesaid for the purpose, among others, of enforcing the foregoing provisions, and the exclusive power and jurisdiction to deliver to the purchaser or purchasers or his or their assigns titles to, and possession of, said property and to determine any and all controversies as to the character, extent and validity of title or possession of such purchaser or his assigns acquired through the execution of its order or decree of sale; and to retake and resell said property in case the purchaser thereof shall fail to comply with any judgment, decree or order in respect to the payment of any indebtedness, obligation or liability required to be paid by such purchaser under the provisions of said order or decree of sale within 30 days after service of a certified copy of a judgment, decree or order specifically requiring such payment, or within such further time as may be ordered; subject, however, to any rights of appeal or stay of proceedings provided by law.

VII.

Each of said Courts also reserves for its future adjudication all questions not disposed of by its said order or decree of sale.

For further particulars, reference is hereby made (1) to said Connecticut order of sale, (2) to said Massachusetts decree of sale, and (3) to the respective records in the aforesaid cases.

For information setting forth further details as to the terms of sale and also showing in detail a listing and description of the properties herein referred to, to be sold as aforesaid, as the same will be offered in lots or parcels, reference is hereby made to said circular, which may be obtained upon application to the Receivers or to the auctioneers, G. L. & H. J. Gross, 170 Westminster Street, Providence, Rhode Island.

The terms of sale as herein and in said circular stated may be amended or added to at the time of each sale referred to herein, and the official terms of sale will be those read at such time—all such terms, however, being subject to the terms and provisions of said Connecticut order and said Massachusetts decree.

FORMER RESIDENTS OF NORWICH BRING TROUBLES TO NEW LONDON COURT

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 9—Samuel Brenner and his wife, Henrietta, evidently have made up their minds that they will not consort as husband and wife hereafter. They are estranged so that there seems no possible chance of reconciliation. Mrs. Brenner has sued her husband, alleging that he is cruel to her and that he denied her the comfort and the affection that a wife should have. He is charged with having struck her—with having slapped her in the face when she demanded that his habits and his conduct should be such as those of a faithful husband and father should be. In the police court Saturday, Mrs. Brenner accused her husband in the most positive testimony ever put on record there. She charged that he stays away from home, till the early morning hours and that when he appears and she remonstrates with him only abuse and cruelty is her portion of the argument. Brenner did not deny that he remained away from home at night, and set up that he was at clubs, etc., for recreation. He made no defense except that he could not be heckled for that sort of conduct. He did deny that he struck his wife. The couple resided in Norwich before they came to New London to make their home. At Norwich, as in New London, Brenner was in the pawn brokerage business. From there the couple went south and then returned. They have two children, and have never lived in peace since they were married, six years ago. Mrs. Brenner declared that her husband was mean with her and that she had no money from him with which she could get the many little things a wife is in need of. To this Branner replied that he gave his wife $2 a day for spending money and in almost the same breath claimed that he was not masking any money in his business. The two statements did not appear to be such as checked up as the truth. Mrs. Brenner was persistent in her declaration that she would not live with him hereafter. She prosecuted him for a breach of the peace, but said she did not want to see him put into jail, though she did want him to support her and the two children, who are about 3 and 4 years of age. She said she would seek divorce from him, for she was determined that she would not live with a man of his character and habits. Mrs. Brenner called her brother, Arthur Bruckner, of Norwich, to tell of what he saw and heard when he visited the Brenner home, a fortnight ago. Mr. Bruckner said he saw acts of brutality when he was called to come here by his sister. He said Mrs. Brenner has sued her husband for non-support at Norwich, but he was of the opinion that the matter was adjusted there. Brenner replied to this by saying that his wife's folks were at the bottom of the prosecution now, and urged that if his wife would talk matters over with him instead of going to her brother there would be no trouble. It was declared by Mrs. Brenner that her husband told her he had another woman who would come in and attend to the duties of the home if she would get out, but he denied this and declared he was not interested in any other woman. Judge Hollandersky, who was on the bench in the absence of Judge Prince, had no sympathy with Brenner. He said so. He fined him $100 in view of the fact that the wife did not desire he should go to jail and then suspended the payment of $75 of the fine, placing Brenner in the custody of the probation officer. So the Brenners are to live apart.

Brenner complained to the police Saturday that during his absence from his home, 16 Pearl street Friday some one entered the place by using a duplicate key and removed a pair of bronze statues, electric flat-iron, electric toaster and a pair of salt and pepper shakers.

Dependent upon whether Mrs. Mary McGarry, who maintains a rooming house in Tilley street, will be able to identify Theodore Lusta in the police court Tuesday will decide whether Lusta will be held for the theft of a watch from a room in the McGarry house last January. Mrs. McGarry identified Lusta when he was brought face to face with her in the police station after Lusta was brought here from New Haven. He declares that he never was in New London until now and adds that Mrs. McGarry has accused him wrongfully, while she asserts that she is positive as to his identity, having his features and manner thoroughly fixed in her mind and in her vision. She says he roomed at her house and that there is no chance for her to be mistaken. Lusta is charged with the theft of a watch valued at $200 from a roomer, James Kirby in the house. He has been before the police court twice since he was brought here and there represented that he had engaged an attorney at New Haven who is to defend him, but the attorney has not yet put in an appearance, leading to the belief that he has no counsel to look after his interests. For the last time the case is now continued till Tuesday when some disposition of it will be made. Inquiry was made at the police station Saturday from New York as to when the case was to come to trial, so that it is indicated that he has friends there who are interested. How they are concerned remains to be seen. That, too, is anticipated to develop Tuesday.

Robert D. Burns, who has been for three years connected with the local office of the S. N. E. T. Company, is to be transferred to Waterbury and to be advanced. So his friends in the New London office tendered him a farewell Friday evening and presented him a leather suitcase. R. D. Gray the district commercial superintendent, was selected to make the presentation speech and speaking of the pleasant relations that existed in the office during the period of Mr. Burns' stay here. While the party was assembled there was dancing and refreshments, all declaring the affair a most enjoyable one. Happier relations have never existed among the employes of the S. N. E. T. company than exist at present.

The high winds of Saturday evening blew a plate glass window from the market of Clark and Smith on Bank street.

Charles S. Gardner entertained a party of friends at his home at the Golden Spur Saturday evening. Cards and refreshments were the order of the evening.

Mrs. Edward Keefe and family will vacate their home on Bank street at Tilley street Wednesday. They have purchased a home on Faire Harbour Place and will occupy it after a residence of more than 30 years at Bank and Tilley streets. The Atlantic Refining company has purchased the Bank street property and will establish a gasoline station there. The street is also to be widened there.

Arthur Hatfield of Uncasville, Mrs. Braxton Hill, wife of Patrolman Hill, of Ocean avenue and Mrs. Alturo Facot and infant daughter of Goshen street, were patients discharged Saturday at Lawrence hospital.

John F. Silliker, 72, of Lee avenue, died Friday night at Home Memorial hospital, where he had been a ship carpenter and for many years was employed at the plant of the Thames Towboat company's marine railways. Mr. Silliker is survived by a sister, Mrs. Edward Winslow of Lewiston, Me., and by a brother, Jacob Silliker, of Noank.

Morris Rifkin, proprietor of a store at 102 North Bank street complained to the police late Saturday afternoon that the padlock securing the cellar entrance had been smashed and that entrance was effected. He declared that he used the cellar for storage purposes and that two dozen washboards, agate ware washbowls and aluminum pots had been stolen. Rifkin did not know when the break occurred, but stated that entrance was gained sometime during the past two weeks.

The automobile owned and operated by Lester C. Fowler of 12 Fowler court and machine owned and driven by John Turello of Orchard street were in collision this afternoon at the corner of Ocean avenue and Orchard streets. Both cars were damaged.

The automobile owned and driven by Mrs. Bessie I. Creswell of 923 Bank street and a commercial car bearing Connecticut registration, 33-403, the driver of which is unknown, were in collision late Saturday afternoon on Truman street, near the corner of Bank street. The car, which was operated by Mrs. Creswell and which contained women friends as passengers, was damaged, the rear mudguard on the right side being bent and the luggage carrier being damaged. Mrs. Creswell stated that she was operating her car in a southerly direction and when approaching Bank street the commercial car was being turned around. In his endeavor to turn the driver of the latter machine backed against the touring car, forcing the latter machine to the sidewalk. Mrs. Creswell declared that the driver of the colliding machine attempted to evade responsibility by driving away, but when she called to him he stopped and then placed responsibility for the accident upon her. Mrs. Creswell stated that she was too frightened to inquire for the license of the operator of the commercial car.

Peter Lambrick of Clement street, Waterford, was in the police court Friday, charged with intoxication. He was fined $5 and costs and paid. During the evening he was interviewed by State Policeman Fred Caron and Frank Malberisson, of the Groton barracks, and to the officers Lambrick furnished information as to where he procured the liquor. Saturday forenoon by arrangement Officer Malberisson accompanied Lambrick to the residence of Joseph Carrollo, 29 Shaw street, and the latter declared that Carrollo furnished him with the liquor. Going inside the place Malberisson purchased a soda water bottle containing moonh, tendering Carrollo a marked bill of $1 in payment for the liquor. Accompanied by State Policeman Caron and Police Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman Augustus Ray and after having procured a search warrant from Acting Prosecuting Attorney Frank Cronin, the officers raided the Carrollo residence. The marked bill was found as was a quart bottle which contained about two ounces of hooch, also a whiskey glass. These were taken as evidence against Carrollo, who was unable to furnished a surety on his bond of $1000 and was locked up.

Lambrick was later taken into custody charged with intoxication and breach of the peace in Waterford. He was presented before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton and his case was continued until Monday noon. Lambrick furnished a surety on his bond of $200 for his appearance.

Miss Mary Newman, 66 West street complained to the police, Saturday, morning that a man was at her residence intoxicated and making a disturbance, requesting that the offender be taken away. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman George Laboue went to the place, but when they arrived there the officers were informed that the man, a lodger, had quieted down and that she did not desire to press the complaint against him.

Nathan Wein of Westerly and Miss Florence Euss of Colver street, are patients discharged Saturday at the Home Memorial hospital.

The funeral of Adolf Tkaczynski of 18 Spring street was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at Our Lady of Perpetual Help church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Joseph Raniszewski, the pastor. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of William A. Graham, of Poquonnoc Bridge, was held this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at the Poquonnoc Bridge church. Services were conducted by Rev. Edward E. Knapp. Burial was at Smith Lake cemetery, where the committal was in charge of Union lodge, F. and A. M., of New London.

Dr. Stuart J. Lawson has returned to his home on Federal street, having spent several weeks in the south.

E. Gordon has sold two double dwelling houses on Steward street to Joseph Cosimono.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leonard of New Haven, the latter being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Z. Poli, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John N. Lovarone, of Tilley street.

Douglas Marston, a youth residing at 16 Amity street, reported to the police a few days ago that his bicycle had been stolen from the yard of his home. This afternoon Patrolman Clarence Wells discovered the wheel abandoned at the rear of the Armstrong building on Bank street. The cycle was taken to the police station and later was taken away by the owner.

A clash appears imminent between sailors stationed at the United States Coast Guard academy and a gang of youths that loiter about a pool room in the Armstrong building, on Bank street. Saturday afternoon a sailor communicated with the police and supplied the information that during the week three or four of their number had been laid low by the gang as the sailors passed through Sparyard street, which is at the approach to the Shaw's Cove bridge and which leads to the naval reservation. The informant also declared that if further assaults were made upon the sailors the latter would proceed in a body to the pool room and make a general cleanup of those that they found there, also wreck the place.

A petition for a referendum vote on the junior high school project has been presented to the city council and that body has authorized a vote to be taken on at the polls on the 7th of April. The machinery is in preparation now for taking the vote. This action has aroused the advocates of the measure, backed by the board of school visitors and a committee of 100 is being organized, to create sympathy with the purpose of the board of school visitors, that as large a vote as possible may be gotten out in favor of the project. But this very act has aroused the opponents of the plan and they will work with determination to defeat the objects of the school board. A very large number of citizens believe the junior high school is not needed, and they point to the claim that the city had better results from its schools in the years that are long past than are being experienced now. They declare that very few pupils graduate from the schools of the city to the colleges without taking a post-graduate course. The advocates of the school have not as yet expressed their arguments other than to claim that the city needs more school accommodations. If that can be shown the opponents of the junior high school declare that more schools should be erected, but they do not want a junior high school

WEEKLY BUSINESS REVIEW

New York, March 9.—(By the A. P.)—Notwithstanding the cautious attitude existing in business circles and the irregularity of the markets, reports during the past week indicated that the volume of production continued high.

Figures on the pig iron output during February showed a sharp increase over January. The daily rate of 106,000 tons was the largest since last August. Steel production during February also showed a substantial increase. The industry as a whole was said to be working at 85 per cent. capacity.

This heavy output by the steel factories reflected strong buying by railroads, automobile manufacturers and builders. The carriers have placed large orders for rails and materials used in improving and maintaining rights of wy. They also have reentered the market for cars and locomotives.

Car loading statistics continued to substantiate other evidence of industrial activity. Although the figures for the week ending February 23 were smaller than those of the previous week, because of the holiday, they set a new high record as compared with the same week in previous years.

The cotton market showed a better tone after a decline to a fresh low of about 27 1-2 cents. Reports on British Textile labor troubles resulted in price fluctuations here. At the low, however, the market appeared to be fairly well sold out and short covering with a moderate amount of trade buying brought rather good recoveries. May closed at 28.33 cents.

The indices of commodity prices revealed a slight decline during February, which represented in part a reaction from the January advance. There was considerable irregularity as between different groups of commodities and textiles were weak in sympathy with cotton in general, however. Commodity prices continued to show stability. The general averages are at about the level of last June.

The break in French francs was the most striking financial event of the week. Heavy selling in the chief moneys center of Europe carried the quotation at New York off to a new low of 3.45 cents, or about 2-3 of a cent below that of a week ago, 3 1-2 cents below that of a year ago and 5 1-2 cents below that of two years ago.

On the other hand, considerable attention was given to an increase of about one billion francs in the circulation of the Bank of France and to the debates in the French chamber over the proposals to increase taxxation. Uneasiness over the large floating debt also was

SPENT VALENTINE'S DAY AT MONTE CARLO

R. C. Plaut of this city, who is on a tour around the world, spent Valentine's day at Monte Carlo and writes an interesting sketch of the place which is world famous for its gambling casino. His letter follows:

Monaco—Monte Carlo,
FEBRUARY 14, 1924.
St. Valentine's Day

My dear Ed and all:

Well, here we are at Monte Carlo. The mail and Bulletins and Records that Miss Reed and Miss Coughlin sent are being digested eagerly. We also have a nice letter from Herman, I suppose at the next port, which is Naples, we should receive a respectable assortment.

They woke us all up at seven o'clock, so that we would be ready to take our breakfast and catch the nine o'clock boat for the shore.

The famous cliff of Monaco, a small peninsula of solid rock, rises out of the sea a short distance to the east of Nice. The little capital, with its miniature castles and gardens, is a small kingdom in itself. Descendants of the ancient house of Gremaldi have furnished the rulers of this little state, which issues its own coinage and postage, and has a standing army of 125 men, but you have no trouble in finding them all eager to take bank notes of France. The exchange today was 23 francs for a dollar. You see a francs was worth about four cents and a fraction, so that when a thing was priced a hundred francs, in reality it was less than five dollars in our money. The population is estimated at about 15,000 people—permanent residents—altho, in a single season, from one to two million people enjoy Monaco's continous sunshine. However, we were told that it had rained for four days continously before we arrived, but we had a gloriously sunshiny day. Cadden tried to cast a gloom over us. He could see thunder clouds forming and he was sure we would get wet, but he was mistaken.

The legend of Monaco, the way I get it, in reference to the gambling, is that in 1860 the noted M. Blanc was driven from Hamburg with his gaming tables. He came to Monaco, built his gambling palace and converted the section into a veritable paradise. Desiring the concession, Blanc agreed to lend financial support to the Prince of Monaco. With the revenue from this source, the Prince restored the palace, built the cathedral and other wonderful buildings, until today the city is a continous succession of magnificent hotels, restaurants, clubs, and beautiful villas. The late Prince was a great student of submarine life and went on frequent expeditions to various parts of the world, for that purpose of studying marine life. He also built a fine museum on the cliff facing the sea.

Monte Carlo was named for Prince Charles III, who, for many years before his death, was blind, and lived in the principality as a recluse. The gaming establishment, with gardens and terraces, is magnificent, and is set high in the rock, overlooking the blue Mediterranean. Permanent residents of Monte Carlo are not allowed in the Casino, and we were forced to display our passports and pay our entrance fee of three francs each before we could cross the threshold of the monopoly which keeps the entire government together. The town is tax free. The game played is roulette. In the larger salons, the stakes range from 5,000 to 6,000 francs and in the private salons from 20 to 12,000 francs. Despite the great expense of maintenance, the game is very profitable. The profits have been known to exceed six millions of dollars in a single year.

After we had been riding all day to Nice and various places, we were returned to the boat and we were a tired crowd. I threw myself on the bed and said, "Don't wake me for dinner," and they didn't. After the rest, I felt better and began to dress for the Casino. Everyone wears evening clothes and I understand one will be refused admittance unless he conforms to the custom. The Misses Cadden, as usual, were the last ones to be ready. The boat that was to take us across was far from steady and would bob up and down like a cork in the water. M. C. and I were on the boat, the last person had crossed the gangplank, when suddenly Cadden ran across the gangplank to the "Empress" again. He had gone to locate his coat and he was successful. Then came a grand rush to cross over to the small tender once more. Mumsie, in her eagerness to cross over, threw a beautiful white mantilla into the sea. The said mantilla was purchased in Ostende and would not be duplicated. Then it was like a Quaker meeting until the boat docked at Monte Carlo, where some one was heard to cry, "Where is the lady who lost the scarf?" Minnye at once said, "I am here." Then a stewardess appeared and said the scarf had blown to the lower deck. Mr. C. rewarded her with 50 francs, which to her was a small fortune, and which in U. S. bank notes would be two dollars and fifty cents.

Autos were at the pier or quay, as it is termed here, to transport us to the Casino. Now we are all in the Casino, we buy our admission cards, we check our coats and wraps and enter the large salon. There we see endless tables. Where will we play? First we go to the "casse" or bank and change our money for French francs and in turn convert this into chips—not the kind we use to play poker with, but metal chips—Monte Carlo money. I bought a fifty dollar stack and began playing. A column of 12 figures, or to be more explicit, 36 numbers, is used—from one to thirty-six. These are placed vertical in a column of twelve numbers, making, if you have 36 numbers, 12 in each row of three rows. They pay you for two for one, if you have a column where the number that the ball stop on is. You do not have to have the identical number. You must have the row that the said number is in. Should you be able by good fortune to pick out a number and cover it, and have it come that number, then they pay you thirty-five for one. And that is just what your Uncle Dudley Cadden did. Not once but four times during the night. Here he was playing for a small pittance, and you might say, and picking the winning numbers. If Cadden had been a plunger, but that he is not, but, if he was, last night he could have cleaned up ten thousand dollars. As it was, he took home several hundred dollars. One number netted him over a thousand francs. I played and won and lost and finally quit a good loser. Carrie tried her luck, selected number 14, and sure enough, number 14 was the number. It's funny, but if some people fell into the river they would emerge smelling like Cologne. Now I can see how the Casino corporation pays all the expenses of the government. It furnishes the police and fire departments, court, light, water, schools, etc. and a substantial sum to the Prince for rent. In addition, the press is subsidized to some extent to prevent the stirring up of public sentiment, or the giving of great publicity to suicides, which occur all too frequently for those who work out a system to "break the bank," and, who stake their entire savings on a single turn of the wheel, and then lose.

We took a drive above the town to La Turbie, an ancient town, clustered about a Roman Tower built by Augustus in 6 B. C. to mark the boundary between Italy and Gaul. The view where we alighted to gaze upon it is one of the most magnificent along the Mediterranean. Tonnyson, in the story of his wedding tour, mentions this feature of LaTurbie. Now we are on our way to Nice on the upper Cormiche Road, which climbs rapidly to a great height along the steep cliffs lining the shore in this region. We arrived in Nice just at noon and partook of a wonderful lunch at the Hotel Negrasco. I will never forget the first that I ate there. It was served with a cockel or mussel and snail dressing, but I would not dare to tell you, Ed, how it was prepared. It tasted great, though. Nice is the greatest resort of the Rivera. It is ordinarily a city with a population of over 100,000, but this number is tremendously increased by the tourists and health seekers, who go there during the winter season to escape the bad weather elsewhere. The season begins in January and lasts until after the Easter festivities. It was a beautiful ride home from Nice to our steamer, and, as I said before, we arrived about six in the evening, giving us just time to rest and dress for the Casino and return to our ship which was to leave at midnight.

My one regret was that I was unable to accept an invitation from Mrs. Thomas Shields who is at San Remo, a resort only a short ways from Monaco. Mrs. Shields invited us all over for a few days. The letter was awaiting us on our arrival, but as we only had "hours" here, we had to forego the pleasure. I know Mrs. Shields would have been pleased to have seen some one from home. She wrote me that they were all well and were anxiously awaiting our arrival. We wired her from Nice just how we were fixed. Will you please tell Tom?

Among the distinguished guests at the Casino there numbered the Duke of Connaught, the Grand Duke and Duchess Cyril of Russia, Princess Helena of Serbia, Don Jaime of Bourbon, the Spanish pretender, and General French.

In Nice we saw the finest display in the shop windows that one could possibly imagine. Mr. Cadden said the pear shaped one and the cameo ones were the finest he had ever seen. They are also dear.

Tomorrow we take a bus ride, leaving Saturday and Sunday more and we will visit Pompeii.

Regards to all. Pass this letter along and write often as you have all the addresses.

I am, as ever,

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALES GREATER THAN EVER

Practically complete returns from the Christmas Seal Sale received at the office of the State Tuberculosis Commission have established the total as about $93,000, an increase of more than $6,000 over last year's amount. The final reports have changed the earlier estimates which indicated that, because the sales in several post offices were stopped by the National Treasury Department, a slight falling off would be recorded. Instead, the statement was made Friday that, because of the loss of several thousand dollars by this cause, a generous response has been made by the people of Connecticut who, on learning that it had occurred rallied to the support of the work, increased their seal purchases and made certain not only the continuance of tuberculosis work but also its expansion and development through out the state. The increased total will allow the appointment of several additional public health nurses, especially in the tuberculosis field, the maintenance of the 25 tuberculosis clinics which the tuberculosis commission started several years ago in the Connecticut cities and towns; maintaining nourishing lunches for underweight children, especially in the open air schools, and incidental relief in needy cases where other provision is not otherwise possible.

The increase in the seal sale total was general in the state, about 40 of the 65 local tuberculosis units recording a larger amount than last year.

Three of the four cities in which the Treasury Department stopped the sales, Hartford, Middletown and Rockville, finally showed increased returns, Middletown being one of the greatest per cent. advances in the state.

The cities and towns which showed the greatest increase and the highest per capita sales were: Branford from $380 to $477; Bridgeport, $7631 to $8500; Bristol, $698 to $1480; Darien, $271 to $371; Essex, $278 to $330; Fairfield, $883 to $1309; Greenwich $1466 to $1691; Groton, $71 to $154; Guilford, $399 to $396; Hamden, $785 to $1000; Hartford, $13872 to $14168; Danielson, $286 to $482; Madison, $141 to $183; South Manchester, $1128 to $1273; Meriden $3098 to $4062; Middletown, $1795 to $2838; New London, $1594 to $2052; North Haven $242 to $362; North Norwalk, $1164 to $1279; Norwich $2130 to $2295; Plainville, $226 to $440; Simsbury, $335 to $437; Southington, $352 to $419; Sprague $168 to $267; Stafford $174 to $351; Stamford $2440 to $2813; Stratford $457 to $539; Springfield $446 to $538; Torrington $1119 to $1346; Vernon $419 to $534; Waterbury $4697 to $4793 Waterford, $68 to $127; Watertown $636 to $1130.

Two new units were added during the year, East Hartford raising $272 and East Haven $345.

Hartford's total of $14158 has led the state, as last year. It is the largest sum ever raised by a Connecticut City in a tuberculosis campaign. New Haven is second again with $11,072 and Bridgeport third. The $8500 secured in Bridgeport is the largest amount recorded there.

Hartford's per capita sale is 8.7 against 8.5 last year. New Haven's 6.5 against 6.6 last year and Bridgeport's 5.5 against 4.9 a year ago.

Meriden led the cities of the state with a per capita of 11.1.

Several of the smaller towns which conducted a spirited personal canvass to raise their tuberculosis fund for the year headed the state in per capita sales, Beacon Falls leading for the fifth year with 19. North Haven standing second with 18.2, while the other leaders were:

Canton 16.4; New Cannan 15; Simsbury 14.5; Guilford 13.2; Wallingford; 13; Suffield 12.8; Meriden 11.1; Essex 11; Hamden 10.8; and Cheshire 10.

THIS SHOULD BE A WEEK OF ACTIVITY IN CONGRESS

Washington, March 9.—Caught in a swirl of sensations that have enveloped both wings of the capitol, congress faces a week which in the opinion of leaders may hold more action than any since the beginning of the present session.

Investigations into a wide range of subjects will continue to divert attention from legislation, with the senate oil inquiry resuming Tuesday and the investigation of Attorney General Daugherty's administration getting under way before the end of the week. On the house side, the committee which will go into shipping board affairs will meet during the week to organize and chart its program.

Action will be taken by the house, perhaps tomorrow, with regard to charges that two of its members have received money for improper use of official influence. Unable to obtain from the department of justice the names of the two members mentioned in the Chicago grand jury's report, the judiciary committee has been instructed to recommend a course of procedure.

As for legislation, an effort will be made in the house to dispose of the Muscle Shoals problem tomorrow, as soon as the McKenzie bill, which would authorize acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for the properties is out of the way, the house will get back to consideration of annual supplies bills, with the deficiency and naval bills having right of way. The army bill probably will be reported during the week.

The senate will act, probably tomorrow, on the Norbeck-Burtness bill for the relief of wheat farmers of the northwest and cotton growers of the south.

The senate finance committee will continue to work over provisions of the revenue bill in executive session during the week, while the house ways and means committee is expected to decide what kind of a soldiers' bonus bill should be passed.

Efforts will be made to give the bonus right of way as soon as bill is reported.

American soda straws are now popular in Great Britain. Last year 50,000,000 straws were consumed by patrons of British fountains and tearooms, and most of them came from America. Japanese straws are on the market, but are of inferior quality. The soda fountain trade has developed by leaps and bounds, the consumption of ice cream having increased 1,000 per cent during the last years.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC
TALKING ABOUT REGULAR THEATRES:
The Broadway and Strand Theatres are the only theatres in this city which hold the exclusive franchise for B. F. Keith World's Best Vaudeville—the best that money can buy.
Regarding the Big One-Night Attractions, we also hold exclusive franchise for Norwich from the Shubert's and Erlanger, world's best and largest booking offices. No others.
It is a handicap to anyone who is in a theatre and cannot hear the entire show. We wish to call your special attention to the fact that when you are in the Broadway and Strand Theatres you can hear and see from any part of the house without straining.
The Broadway and Strand Theatres do not have to divide one floor into several prices—for these are regular theatres, being divided themselves for the convenience of their many patrons. First we have a gallery, then a balcony, and an orchestra; we also have box seats for exclusive patrons.
We also have the world's best known Pictures, the Paramount, the best money can buy.
The seating of the Broadway and Strand Theatres is divided so as to fit everybody's pocketbook.
When we offer a Dollar Show for Fifty Cents we do not misrepresent or mislead—You have tried everything—"This is Norwich"—"Think it over."

NATIVE OF CANTERBURY DIES IN RHODE ISLAND

Charles D. Park, or "Charlie," as he was familiarly called, died at his home on Harrison avenue, Pawtuxet, Friday morning at 4:15 o'clock in his 74th year. He had been in poor health for a long time.

Last Sunday he suffered two or three shocks.

Mr. Park was born in Canterbury, Conn., Jan. 24 ,1851. He was a farmer and did considerable work in the village. He was twice married, his first wife dying 28 or 30 years ago. Aug. 6, 1900, he married Mary Hart, who survives him, as does one sister, Mrs. Andrew B. Stone of West Greenwich.

A man never borrows the scales of justice for the purpose of weighing the shortcomings of his neighbor.

ABOUT $7,728,000 DAMAGE IN STATE BY 17,000 AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Motor vehicles did damage estimated at $7,728,000 in Connecticut during the past calendar year, according to figures made public by the state motor vehicle department. Approximately 17,000 accidents of all kinds were reported to the department of which over 15,000 have already been analyzed.

Property damage amounted to approximately $1,654,000, personal injury to 4879 persons to about $1,872,000 and financial losses due to 280 fatalities to about $4,200,000. The figures were arrived at with the assistance of actuaries of large Hartford insurance companies.

The average amount of claims for personal injuries due to automobile accidents was found by the standard insurance companies licensed to do business in Connecticut to be $360. The average property damage claim was about $64 for each car in an accident. The loss by death was computed on the basis of what the income of the victims would have been had they lived the natural span of life.

Out of 15 170 accidents analyzed to date, the department has ascribed 10,945 to bad driving, 697 to defective equipment, 35 to horse-drawn vehicles and bicycles, 2,231 to carelessness of persons other than the operators, 167 to carelessness of pedestrians, 29 to persons jumping on and off motor vehicles, and 37 to miscellaneous and undetermined causes.

Operators licensed in Connecticut figured in 267 of the fatal accidents, and ten of these occurred outside the state. Improper driving resulted in 183 of the deaths and carelessness of the victims in the deaths of 114 cases. The ten accidents which did not happen in Connecticut but involved Connecticut operators, have not been analyzed, and the remaining automobile fatalities are attributed to miscellaneous causes.

There were 3,242 accidents involving one or more cars in which there was personal injury, this figure being included in the 15,170 cited above. Slight injuries were reported in 1883 cases and serious injury in 285 accidents caused by carelessness of others than the operators. Slight injury resulted in 134 cases and serious injury in 16 cases due to defective equipment. Slight injury in 1088 cases and serious injury in 306 cases were due to recklessness of operators. Slight injury in 12 cases and serious injury in 1 case were due to horse-drawn vehicles and bicycles. Analysis of the reports in the balance of the cases shows many specific cases of carelessness on the part of others than the operators.

The classifications are made on the basis of approximate cause, and they will be made subjects of investigation and study in connection with the motor vehicle department's arrangement with Yale University by which a scientific system of accident prevention is expected to be evolved by the application of statistics at hand.

HOLDING INSTITUTE TO INSTRUCT TREE WORKERS

An institute for the instruction of tree workers will be held at the agricultural experiment station at New Haven Tuesday, March 11. The programme will be as follows:

Nichols, assistant professor of botany, Yale University, New Haven; discussion; 11.15 a. m., Some Fungus Diseases of Trees (illustrated) by Dr. A. H. Graves, curator of public instruction, Brooklyn Botanic Garden, Brooklyn, N. Y.; discussion; 12.15 p. m., recess for luncheon.

Afternoon Session.

2 p. m., Some Insects Attacking the Shade Trees (illustrated), by Prof. W. C. O'Kane, professor of economic entomology, University of New Hampshire; discussion; 3 p. m., Some Insects Requiring Special Attention the Coming Season (illustrated), by Dr. W. E. Britton, state entomologist, New Haven, Conn.; discussion; 3.30 p. m., Cavity Work, Pruning, and Spraying (illustrated) by George A. Cromie, superintendent of trees, New Haven; discussion.

CATHOLIC WOMAN'S CLUB INVITED TO WHIST PARTY

The March business meeting of the Catholic Women's club was held on Thursday, in the Ladies of Columbus rooms at 3 p. m., the president, Mrs. James J. Dutton presiding.

Reports of committees were given and the chairman of the sewing committee, Mrs. D. J. Hayes reported that splendid progress had been made already, but that many more garments were to be made. There are four sewing machines in the sewing room and members were asked to try to arrange to give Thursday afternoons to assist with the work. Members who cannot give the afternoon were asked to assist by taking work home.

An invitation to be present at a St. Patrick's Day card-party at her home on Broadway was extended the club by the honorary president, Mrs. Nelson H. Disco. The invitation was accepted with appreciation and thanks by the club and members who expect to attend were asked to telephone the hostess on or before Wednesday.

Much interest and enthusiasm was shown in the work as planned for the coming months. After business was finished the meeting adjourned to April 3.

FAREWELL BEFORE THEIR DEPARTURE FOR ROCKVILLE

On Saturday night about 40 relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Vars gathered at their home on Huntington avenue, Bean Hill, for a farewell party to Mr. Vars to whom it was a complete surprise. They enjoyed music and games and during the evening ice cream, cake and coffee and fruit punch were served by Mrs. Vars assisted by her sister in law, Mrs. George Ayer. Good wishes for the prosperity of his new business were expressed for their host, who with his brother Harold A. Vars go to Rockville, Ct., where they are to start a foundry business of their own. Both men learned their trade in the A. W. Vaughn Foundry Co., in this city. During the past few years they have had experience in other foundries as well. At the present time Harold Vars is leaving the Vaughn Foundry and John Vars is leaving the Richmond Radiator Foundry of this city. Both men were born in this city, sons of the late Edgar I. Vars and have always made their home here.

Their families will go later as soon as they find accommodations in Rockville. They will be missed by a large number of friends who all wish them success.

CONGREGATIONAL MINISTERS TO MEET HERE TUESDAY

On Tuesday morning at 10.30 o'clock at Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial Parish house the New London Association of Congregational Ministers will open their meeting, the devotional service to be led by Rev. W. J. Reynolds of Lisbon, who will be moderator.

Following the business session a paper on, "A Vital Church Year", will be read by Rev. Henry W. Hulbert D. D. of Groton. Luncheon will be served at noon, this to be followed by a discussion of, "The Doctrine of Retribution in the Preaching of Yesterday and Today", led by Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis, of Taftville. It is expected that a large number of members of the association will attend the sessions.

ELECTED SPORTS EDITOR AT RENSSELAER POLYTECHNIC

John Henry Lee of this city has recently been elected minor sports editor of "The Rensselaer Polytechnic" the weekly publication of the students of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y. This position is awarded each year to the most successful apprentice of the preceding year. Lee is a sophomore in the department of electrical engineering.

MOTOR VEHICLE TRAFFIC LEAST IN FEBRUARY

Connecticut motor truck and passenger traffic varies greatly in volume according to the season, according to facts shown in the motor transportation survey recently completed by the State Highway Department and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

While passenger travel was shown to have declined approximately 70 per cent from October to February, motor truck traffic was 40 per cent lower.

A preliminary report of the traffic survey submitted to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads by J. Gordon McKay, highway economist of the bureau, says that the traffic during the winter months operated under favorable conditions due to the Connecticut Highway Department's policy of keeping the highways free of snow.

Beginning in November, however, a steady decrease in traffic is apparent, reaching a minimum of decline in February. The decline in motor truck net tonnage during this period is explained by a decrease in the volume of during the same period.

perishable and seasonable commodities shipped by truck during the winter months, the report observes. Motor truck transportation on secondary highways decreased more rapidly than on the New York City, Springfield route, the main inter-state highway through Connecticut.

Motor truck traffic, the survey shows, begins to increase in volume at 4 a. m., reaching the first traffic peak between 10 a. m. and 12 a. m., and the second peak between 2 p. m. and 4 p. m. Motor truck traffic decreases rapidly after 5 p. m. The night movement between 8 p. m. to 4 a. m. is largely the long distance truck operators transporting special commodities in large capacity trucks with heavy net loads. The per cent of overloads is greater at night than during the daylight hours.

The survey also brought to light an increased use of smaller capacity trucks as compared to those of heavy type.

FORMING TRI-STATE UNION OF FARM BUREAUS

Plans for a union of the farm bureau federation of Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island were announced in Boston at the office of the Massachusetts and Connecticut federation here. Massachusetts and Connecticut already have voted to join forces and Rhode Island has the question under consideration, it was announced.

Under the proposed union each federation would retain its identity but would establish a joint office and engage a joint manager. Fred D. Griggs, who has been secretary of the Massachusetts federation, since its organization, with the exception of one year, will be manager of the united organizations. He will open an office in Springfield, April 1.

In matters of legislation, the announcement said, each farm bureau federation would work independently, but on some other issues would join forces. Plans for the next few months include an organization program to form units in town not at present organized. There are at present 6,000 members in the three states.

The tri-state union, it was said, was regarded as a possible forerunner of a union of all New England farm bureaus.

AVERAGE COLLEGE WOMAN SPENDS $646 YEARLY

Increases in tuition, board, room and fees, rather than in the amount spent by students for books, dues, contributions and incidentals, are responsible for the rising in the cost of attending college according to a survey made by the St. Louis branch of the American Association of University Women.

A study of "catalog expense" covering the fixed charges as set by the college authorities and of "extra-catalog expense," which included all other expenses of the school year excepting clothing and railroad fare, was made in 114 colleges and universities.

The average catalog expenses for the institutions studied was $486.04 The average extra-catalog expense was $160.25, which means that the average college woman spends $646.29 every school year according to the report.

The committee made the investigation as an aid to parents, to educational and vocational counselors, to administrators of scholarship and loan funds and to others who need to budget the expense attending a co-ed while she is in school.

Given Surprise Party

A delightful surprise party was given to Beatrice Marcus, at her home 93 School street Sunday afternoon from 3 to 6.

Before and after refreshments, games were enjoyed. The prize for pinning the tail to donkey, was given to Margaret Delaney and for the peanut hunt, to Madeline Kearney. Consolation awards went to Clara Tomaina.

The guests were Margaret Delaney, Ruth and Lydia Harris, Madeline Kearney, Clara Tomaina, Alice Matthews and Eva Morin.

It sometimes happens that a woman is almost as sorry she married a certain man as she is glad that she kept some other woman from getting him.

HUMANE AGENT FINDS FEBRUARY BUSY MONTH

F. H. Wyant of this city, agent of the Connecticut Humane Society, reported to headquarters in Hartford that during February he made sixty visits among seventeen different families where the welfare of sixty-two children and two old persons was in some way involved. For the present Mr. Wyant is confining his operations to Norwich and New London.

While traveling about the district Mr. Wyant ordered five horses to the blacksmith and harness repairs for an equal number—also provided blankets for twenty more horses—thirteen stables were inspected and two horses found working in an unfit condition were returned to the stable. Altogether sixty-seven horses and sixty-one head of live stock besides two crates of live poultry were examined and advice given to twenty-six persons concerning the care of animals.

BIRD HARBINGERS OF SPRING APPEARING HERE

The song sparrow which is called the true harbinger of spring, is here now. The purple finch has been seen. This bird sings its sweetest song in early spring when snow is just disappearing. We are told that though it is a common bird it is not as well known as it should be, one reason is that it takes to tree tops, especially elms. The item in the Bulletin recently about a house wren coming to a feeding place here, was noted in Hanover, where in a shed adjoining the house a pair of wrens have this winter made their home. The red-breasted nuthatch has been seen recently. It is out quite as large as the more common white-breasted nuthatch. Bird books tell us these birds get their names from their habit of wedging nuts especially beechnuts in crevices of bark and breaking them open by blows from their sharp strong bills. Robins in large numbers have been seen in deep woods on Wauwecus Hill winters by wood-choppers, but they do not appear about homes there until spring. For two weeks flocks of blackbirds have several times come near to homes on roads just off the trolley. They are hungry eating everything possible to pick up.

RAN INTO SIDEWALK ON WEST MAIN STREET

After the automobile he was operating ran up on the sidewalk on West Main street near the corner of Maple and Ann streets early Sunday evening, Frank Ceccolini was arrested by Officer Charles Perry on the charge of reckless driving. It was said that Sunday was the first day he had operated this car and it apparently got beyond his control, jumped the curb and landed full length on the sidewalk.

Officer P. Murphy towed the car into a side street with the police patrol and left it there as it seemed to be out of order.

The most beautiful shoulders in the world are possessed by Mme. Marcell Pledy, of Paris, according to a decision rendered by the judges in the recent international beauty contest at Monte Carlo.

TORE COLLAR FROM COAT OF POLICEMAN

When Peter Balaski was arrested Sunday afternoon in the Thames Sq., neighborhood by Officer Daniel O'Neil for intoxication and breach of the peace, he put up a battle against the policeman, and in the struggle tore the collar off the officer's overcoat. The man was brought to police headquarters by Officers O'Neil and Myron Morgan who were assisted by a man named Hamilton. A charge of resisting an officer was lodged against Balaski in addition to the other two.

Traveling in the South

DENBY PLEDGES LOYALTY TO FLAG AS HE LEAVES OFFICE

As He Retired as Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Denby Resumed Rank of a Major, Fourth Class, Marine Corps Reserve—Retiring Secretary Paid a Gracious Tribute to the Press and Men of the Press—His Desk Was Laden With Flowers on Behalf of "Comrades of the Navy and Marine Corps on Duty in Washington."

Washington, March 10.—Edwin Denby, surrendered his navy portfolio today but retained a connection with the naval establishment of which he has been the chief for three years. When he left the secretary's office late in the day, he was again Major Denby, fourth class, marine corps reserve, with a renewed pledge of loyalty to the flag on his lips.

"You see they cannot force me entirely out of the navy," Mr. Denby said smilingly. "I am still on the payroll. I draw $1 a month."

Departmental affairs were turned over to Acting Secretary Roosevelt until such time as Mr. Denby's successor is nominated and confirmed. There was nothing to indicate that President Coolidge has as yet determined definitely upon a man for the post.

The former secretary will leave for his home in Detroit Wednesday afternoon, returning to Washington about March 20. A home-coming reception awaits him as evidence of the confidence of his fellow townsmen. Detroit will be put to it, however, to make that home-coming more striking than was the farewell extended to him today by the commissioned and civil personnel of the navy department.

Mr. Denby began his last day as office with flags draped about the big room, his desk laden with flowers wishing him bon voyage on behalf of "comrades of the navy and marine corps on duty in Washington," and with high officers of the department gathered to witness his re-commissioning in the marine corps reserve. He held the rank of major when selected by President Harding to fill the cabinet post.

Standing beside his desk, Mr. Denby repeated in solemn tones the oath administered by Major LeJeune, commandant of the marine corps, and which re-united him with the service in which he had spent the war years.

As the general and the re-commissioned reserve officer shook hands, the marine band in the street outside played "Semper Fidelis," the always faithful march of the marine corps.

After that came the seemingly endless round of handshaking. Officers and clerks by the hundred passed through the secretary's office to shake hands with the departing chief. Members of the marine band also were greeted and Captain Santlemann, director of the band, exclaimed as he grasped Mr. Denby's hand:

"Once a marine, always a marine."

At his last conference with the newspapermen who had been daily in touch with him during his cabinet years, Mr. Denby took occasion to express his feeling as to that relationship.

"I would like to express by personal feeling about the press and the men of the press," he said. "I just want to say that during my three years as secretary of the navy I have not at any time had the slightest suspicion of betrayal of confidence. I have nothing but deepest appreciation and friendship for the men of the press."

Asked for some final statement, Mr. Denby said:

"After three years at the very nerve center of the navy and after some 39 years of more or less union with the navy, my respect, my confidence, and my admiration are greater than ever before. I have been where all the meanness all the self-seeking would have been apparent, but I can say that I have never seen a body of men more wholly devoted to the country."

Mr. Denby called on President Coolidge during the day to take his official leave. He spent the afternoon in his office, however, winding up the last affairs that needed his signature as secretary and it was after 5 o'clock before he left the department with his work as secretary of the navy at an end.

COURTS ARE SATISFACTORY BUT LAWYERS ARE NOT

Boston, March 10—The people of his country are dissatisfied with the courts not because of what the courts have done, but because of what lawyers have done, Thomas R. Marshall, former vice-president of the United States, said in an address tonight at a dinner of the Boston university law school association. He advised the listening alumni to "hold the law up to a profession, not make it a trade."

"People in general are not aware that the practice of law means the practice of law and nothing else," Mr. Marshall said. "If a lawyer engages in activities outside his profession he is not acting as a lawyer. The practice of lobbying may be legitimate enough, but the lawyer who undertakes it may cause the general public to get the impression that it is part of the pursuits of a lawyer."

Other speakers at the dinner included Chief Justice Rugg of the supreme judicial court, President Marshall of Boston University; Thomas W. Proctor, president of the Massachusetts Bar association and Mayor Curley.

FOUR CARDINALS LIMIT FOR THE UNITED STATES

Rome, March 10 (By the A. P.)—Four cardinals will probably be the limit for the United States for some time. The next cardinal for the Western Hemisphere will be named for Latin America, and the next archbishop of Buenos Aires will be raised to the cardinalate, according to authoritative vatican opinion. At the present time the archbishopric of Buenos Aires is vacant and the question of filling this high post has not yet been settled.

The coming consistory may be definitely considered as "all American," with but two red hats, for Archbishop Hayes and Archbishop Mundelein. The planning for South America, somewhat vague just how, includes cardinals for both Brazil and Argentina, providing there are available places in the sacred college.

The college of cardinals at the present time numbers sixty-four. The two latest American appointments will bring the number up to 66, four less than the full quota.

WENT TO WASHINGTON TO TELL SENATE ABOUT DADDY

Chicago, March 10—Olive Belle Hamon, 16, daughter of the late "Jake" Hamon, wealthy oil man and republican leader, ran away to Washington today to persuade the United States senate to allow her to enter a denial to charges that her father had attempted a political deal with Major General Leonard Wood.

The girl boarded a train bound east with no baggage except a violin which she said her father had given her. She left a note for mother, saying:

"Mother dear, I've gone to tell the senate about daddy. I think he'd like me to. Don't worry. I'll be a good girl.

OLIVE BELLE."

CECIL-VANDERBILT MARRIAGE WILL TAKE PLACE MARCH 29

New York, March 10.—The marriage of Miss Cornelia Vanderbilt, only child of the late George W. Vanderbilt, to John F. A. Cecil, first secretary of the British embassy at Washington, will take place March 29. Their engagement was announced Saturday, but no date was set. Mr. Cecil will have for his best man, H. V. Tennant, attache and private secretary to the ambassador.

ONE KILLED, NINE INJURED IN PENNSYLVANIA WRECK

Elkton, Md., March 10.—One man was killed and nine others injured when a Pennsylvania railroad wrecking train crashed into two derailed freight cars at Red Mill crossing near here today.

LIP STICK POISONING PROBABLE CAUSE OF DEATH

Atlantic City, March 10.—Florence Emily Dickerson, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dickerson of this city, who died in the Atlantic City hospital yesterday is believed to have been a victom of lipstick poisoning, it was learned today.

The girl was taken to the hospital on Thursday with her face swollen to almost double its normal size. An operation was performed the following day but the poison had spread through her body and she died last night. The girl's parents stated today that she had been suffering from chapped lips for the last several weeks. The lip stick she used is believed to have caused blood poisoning to set in. Chemists are examining the cosmetic with a view to determining whether it contained any poison ingredients.

UNDESIRABLE ALIENS AWAITING DECORATION

New York, March 10.—Two groups of undesirable aliens, number 160 in all, were taken to Ellis Island today to await deportation. One hundred and ten men charged with various crimes came from New Orleans, padlocked below decks on the steamship Comus. Fifty men, women and children were mentally defective or others awaiting deportation.

The New Orleans group consists principally of men from the west and southwest, many of whom entered the country from Mexico. Others had become public charges, were convicted of crimes or found to be political agitators.

The prisoners will be deported as fast as individual orders are made out.

A. F. OF L. WILL SUPPORT THE JOHNSON IMMIGRATION BILL

New York, March 10.—The American Federation of Labor will support the Johnson immigration bill now before congress only because at this time no better measure has been presented to clarify the immigration muddle, Hugh Frayne, general organizer for the American Federation of Labor told members of the tenth assembly district republican club in Brooklyn tonight.

"There are two elements in this country that desire unrestricted immigration," he said. "One is big business, which has an eye for cheap labor, the other the foreign language press."

30 RAIDS IN JERSEY CITY AND 16 IN BAYONNE, N. J.

Newark, March 10.—In the midst of Hudson county's controversy over the observance of the "blue laws" and the collection of the names of more than 10,000 alleged violators of the Sabbath laws, prohibition agents from this city descended on the county and made 46 raids in Jersey City and Bayonne. Thirty places were raided in Jersey City and 16 in Bayonne.

Secret service agents in New Haven issued a warning against a spurious $10 bill.

Washington Wettest City in United States

Rear Admiral Plunkett So Declares in Pronouncing Prohibition a Failure—Says So in Court.

New York, March 10.—Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, declared today at the police trial of Deputy Inspector George R. Wakefield that prohibition was a failure. He characterized Washington, D. C., as the wettest city in the United States.

Inspector Wakefield, who has charge of the district, which includes the navy yard, is charged by Police Commissioner Enright, with failure to enforce the Volstead act.

Admiral Plunkett said he had no complaint to make on the way police worked in the yard, and added that he believed the officers were doing everything in their power to clean up. He testified to having seen 20 federal injunctions to padlock places asked for by the police pigeon holed by the federal authorities.

"Where did you come from before taking charge of the navy yard?" the witness was asked.

"Washington, D. C.—the wettest city in the United States," was the reply.

"Wetter than New York city?"

"Yes," answered the admiral.

The witness testified that if "all the lawyers and all the judges in the country were to give up their entire time for a year and devote it to checking the sale of liquor, they would not make a dent in prohibition."

He told of application by the police for permission to wear regulation naval uniforms in the hope of cleaning up places in the district, but said their application had been refused at Washington.

The admiral quoted the police captains as saying: "There isn't any prohibition. Every house in the area is making liquor. We are after the men who sell liquor to the sailors."

VAST AMOUNTS OF EXPLOSIVES STORED IN NEW JERSEY

New York, March 10.—There are 35,000,000 pounds of explosives stored throughout New Jersey, about half of it in Middlesex county in which occurred the explosion 10 days ago in the Ammonite Nitration Works which killed 18 and injured scores, the New York World will say tomorrow.

The newspaper investigated the situation in New Jersey to present their findings at a public hearing tomorrow night at New Brunswick, N. J., when the Middlesex board of freeholders considers removal of all explosives from the county.

It was learned that in the state are 11,286,079 pounds of powder, largely of the "black" variety; 3,920,000 pounds of picric acid, the most explosive of all acids; 54,983,000 caps of electric exploders for detonating; 6,200 gross of torpedoes for blasting and approximately 20,000,000 pounds of army munitions.

FORMER KLAN WIZARD VIOLATED MANN ACT

Houston, Tex., March 10.—E. Y. Clarke, former imperial wizard potentem of the Ku Klux Klan, was fined $5,000 in federal court here today for violation of the Mann act. He was accused of transporting a woman from Houston, to New Orleans in February, 1923, and entered a plea of guilty to the indictment.

Testimony was introduced to show that Colonel Joseph Simmons, organizer of the klan, was indirectly the cause of Clarke's troubles, since he had gone to a disorderly house in Houston at Simmons' suggestion and there met the girl to whom he later sent money to go to New Orleans.

A THIRD DIVORCE SUIT AGAINST COMEDIAN MOULAN

New York, March 10.—Frank Moulan, well known comedian, has been a defendant in a divorce action for the third time, it was learned today. Testimony in the suit brought by his wife, known on the stage as Bernice Mershon, until recently a member of De Wolfe Hopper's company, was heard last Friday and the case adjourned.

Moulan was divorced from his first wife in 1901. One week later he married Maud Lillian Berri, a musical comedy actress, who started suit nine years after their marriage. The decree was not granted until one year later when he married Miss Mershon.

ESTIMATED REVENUE OF NEW YORK STATE $194,533,302

Albany, N. Y., March 10.—Imposition of a direct state tax of two mills, a rate equal to that of last year, will give New York state an estimated revenue of $32,739,137 during the coming fiscal year, which sum combined with revenue from other sources, would bring the state's total estimated resources of $194,533,302, according to figures presented in connection with the annual appropriation bill introduced in both houses of the legislature tonight.

COLORADO DELEGATES PLEDGED FOR COOLIDGE

Brighton, Colo., March 10.—Delegates to the national republican convention elected here today by the second congressional district convention were instructed to "vote for Calvin Coolidge for president so long as he is a candidate before the convention."

French and Belgian Francs Fluctuate

France is Struggling to Sustain Its Currency in the Face of a Continued "Foreign Offensive."

New York, March 10—Erratic fluctuations in French and Belgian francs and in demand sterling, which rallied briskly today, then lost their gains and later resumed their advances, today reflected the struggle of the French government to defend its currency in the face of a continued "foreign offensive."

Heavy buying from Paris brought about a rally of almost 30 points at the opening of the market, but the gain virtually was cancelled when speculative selling was renewed from other continental capitals. Late in the day the quotations worked back to around the early level. Determined to halt the decline, French bankers increased their purchases of the franc and began to dump sterling on the market, forcing the British demand rate down 2 cents to 4.36.

Speculative selling of the Belgian francs meanwhile drove the rate down from 3.80 cents to a new low record of 3.06¼, from where it rallied at the close to 3.18 cents.

Unconfirmed reports were circulated in Wall street that the French government, despite its opposition to further loans, might attempt to sell $50,000,000 treasury bills in this country, using the proceeds to stabilize the market.

FRANCE HAS ONE FIRM FRIEND IN SOUTH AFRICA

Paris, March 10.—(By The A. P.)—Premier Poincare has learned that France has one firm friend who is willing to pay for the privilege. The premier today received a letter from J. H. Astrop of Capetown, South Africa, dated January 23, which was shortly after the franc began to tumble.

The letter notified M. Poincare that Mr. Astrop had instructed his London bankers to cancel 47,000 francs' worth of French bonds and said he was making the French government a present of that sum as a protest against "speculators." Mr. Astrop added that he hoped others would follow his example.

The South African told M. Poincare that his wife was drowned when a German submarine torpedoed the vessel on which she was returning home.

CONFLICT OVER SUNDAY LAWS IN NEW JERSEY

Jersey City, N. J., March 10—Controversy over the observance of the Sunday laws in Hudson county which led to the compilation of a list of more than 10,000 persons and industries which violated the law in the county on the past Sabbath, is expected to come to a climax tomorrow when the grand jury will be received by Supreme Court Justice James M. Minturn. Just what the purpose of this conference is, has not been made known but it is understood that the "blue law" question will be considered.

When the present jury was charged, Justice Minturn directed that all violators of the Sunday laws, some of them passed in 1798 be indicted. In his list of alleged violators Justice Minturn included grocery stores, drug stores, confectionery stores, gasoline stations as well as motion picture and vaudeville theatres. "Indict them all," he said, "and your duty will be done."

PUBLIC EXCLUDED FROM TRIAL OF GEN. LUDENDORFF

Munich, Bavaria, March 10—(By the A. P.)—The public was excluded from this afternoon's session of the court which is trying General Ludendorff and others for treason in connection with the "putsch" of last September. General Von Lossow, commander of the Bavarian reishwehr, was on the witness stand the greater part of the day. Doctor Von Kahr, the former Bavarian dictator will be heart tomorrow. The precautionary measures, both inside and outside the court today, were stricter than ever. Detectives carefully examined all persons entering the court room in search of hidden weapons.

General Von Lossow's testimony showed that he was extremely bitter against Adolph Hitler, whose accounts of the events in the beer cellar revolt he declared were untrue in almost every respect. He also had very little good to say of General Ludendorff.

CELEBRATE APPROVAL OF OFFER OF HENRY FORD

Birmingham, Ala., March 10.—Cities of Tennessee valley reported their greatest celebration since the armistice on receipt of news that the house passed the McKenzie bill, providing for leasing of Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford. At Sheffield, Florence, Decatur and Huntsville, and other points citizens gathered for celebrations. Bonfires, ringing of bells and blowing of automobile horns signified the elation over passage of the bill.

Remembering Ford's promise to build an industrial city several miles long, citizens expect a boom provided he is finally given the right to develop the shoals property.

SEALING FLEET BREAKS THROUGH ICE FIELDS

St. John's, N. F., March 10—The Newfoundland Sealing Fleet which had been blockaded in this port since last Friday escaped through the ice fields encircling the harbor today.

Three men lost their lives while the sealing steamers won their way to freedom. The Terranova, flagship of the fleet, sent word by radio tonight that three members of her crew were drowned while out on the ice assisting to make way for the vessel through the floes.

SITUATION IN THE BALKANS WORRYING KING BORIS

Sofia, Bulgaria, March 10 (By the A. P.)—King Boris is greatly concerned over the disturbing situation in the Balkans. The relations between Bulgaria and Jugo-Slavia are badly strained, the trouble between the two countries being of long standing, but accentuated recently by border clashes.

The Bulgarian government is endeavoring to suppress the Macedonian insurgents, who have been causing the Serbs, now incorporated in the Jugo Slavia state, much trouble by incursions.

NO IMMEDIATE ACTION FOR REDUCTION OF INCOME TAX

Republican Leaders in the House Have Decided That Action Could Not Be Obtained on a Resolution Before March 15—Have Decided to Make an Effort to Have the Proposed 25 Per Cent. Cut Become Effective Before June 15.

Washington, March 10.—The movement to obtain immediate action on the proposed 25 per cent. reduction in income taxes payable this year, was revived in the house today but as quickly turned down. Republican leaders decided that action could not be obtained on a resolution before March 15, when first installments are due.

Republican members of the ways and means committee, meeting with Representative Longworth, party leader, agreed, however, that if the revenue bill, already passed by the house and containing this provision, meets with any delay in enactment, a separate resolution to make the cut effective before June 15 would be pressed.

The action again places in the hands of the senate the problem of tax reduction, and the senate finance committee in its consideration of the revenue bill will tomorrow take up the section which provides for the cut in 1923 income taxes.

Most of the administrative sections of the bill were gone over today without change by the committee. Upon winding up these details of the measure the various tax schedules will be taken up. Secretary Mellon will be asked to present estimates on the amount of revenue necessary to be raised and his opinion on the rates required to obtain such revenue. Chairman Smoot has expressed the opinion that the bill as passed by the house fails by $100,000,000 of raising sufficient revenue and has declared many of the tax rates will have to be raised.

Representative Chindblom of Illinois a republican member of the ways and means committee, introduced a resolution today to make the 25 per cent. reduction on 1923 taxes effective immediately. Representative Mills of New York, and Tilson of Connecticut republicans on the committee, again urged action on the proposal but the meeting of the majority members of the committee decided the legislative jam in the house would not permit action in time to allow taxpayers to make the cuts in the first installments. If the provision is finally agreed to as carried in the revenue bill, deductions in taxes due in the other three initial installments will be allowed to make up for the full payments made at this time.

SEPIOR CHARGE AGAINST REPRESENTATIVE KNUTSON

Washington, March 10—Representative Harold Knutson, of Minnesota, made bond of $5,000 today on serious charges entered against him by the Virginia liquor police. He was released from jail at Arlington, Va., where he had been held since his arrest last night on the outskirts of Washington.

Bail in the same amount was furnished by Leroy M. Hull, 29 years old an employe of the department of labor, who was arrested with Representative Knutson. Police who made the arrests said they found the two men in a parked automobile.

The case will be heard March 8, a continuance having been granted when the two were arraigned today and asked that they be permitted to employ counsel before pleading to the charge against them.

Representative Knutson, who is serving his fourth term in the house, was republican whip during the last session.

In a statement tonight Mr. Knutson said in part:

"I am the innocent victim of a terrible mistake. The facts are these:

"On Sunday evening I left the Willard hotel and met L. M. Hull whom I had known quite well during 1917 and whom I had seen but once since he returned from France, after the armistice. I invited him to take a drive and we drove over to Virginia in my car.

"Shortly after passing Arlington Mr. Hull found it necessary to leave the car and I drove into the first side road where I stopped and as Mr. Hull stepped out of the car I turned out the lights. In a minute or so I got out and stood on the other side of the car. Suddenly I saw another car approaching. I hurriedly got in my own car and called to Hull to do likewise, which he did.

"The oncoming car was brought to a stop beside my car. Two men, whom I later learned to be deputy sheriffs, jumped out. One, flashing a light into my car, demanded to know if I did not know that it was against the law to park alongside the road. I replied that I did not but that if I was violating the law I would move on.

"At this point the officers said we were under arrest. One of the officers got in my car and the other took Mr. Hull in his car. On the way to the county jail I had my first intimation of the heinous and revolting charge that was to be preferred against us.

"Upon my arrival at the jail my request to call up my aged mother and some of my colleagues was denied and we were kept in a crowded cell for fifteen hours during every moment of which I suffered the most indescribable mental agony but throughout the long night, though half dazed at the enormity of my situation, I was sustained by a consciousness of my complete innocence.

"I shall not rest until I receive a complete vindication and if there is still such a thing as justice in this world that vindication will be speedily forthcoming."

WARRANTS FOR OFFICERS OF BROKERAGE COMPANY

Boston, Mass., March 10—George F. Redmond and James S. Lamont, treasurer and president of G. F. Redmond Company, Inc., investment brokers, whose offices in New England and elsewhere were closed last week by federal injunction, will surrender tomorrow to federal officers on warrants charging use of the mails to defraud, it became known tonight. The warrants were issued today and later it was said at the federal building the officers of the company had agreed to be present in court voluntarily.

YOUNG WOMAN REVERSES CHARGE OF ABDUCTION

Yonkers, N. Y., March 10—When police called to arrest Nicholas Crocon on a charge of abducting an attractive young married woman whose seven months old baby he was holding, the young women asserted she had abducted him.

She is Mrs. Maria Greco, wife of Patrick Greco, of Philadelphia; Crocon lived at the same address. Police Captain Charles O'Mara said Mrs. Greco declared she preferred death to returning to her husband.

She was held as a material witness and Crocon was held for a hearing.

42 BODIES RECOVERED FROM FUEL MINE IN UTAH

Castle Gate, Utah, March 10—At 9 o'clock tonight 42 bodies had been recovered from mine No. 2 of the Utah Fuel Company where 175 men were entombed Saturday.

MURDERED AT MIDNIGHT WHILE DIGGING GRAVE

Stony Point, N. Y., March 10.—Murdered at midnight while digging a grave in a cemetery, was believed tonight to have been the fate of Norman McElroy, 54 years old, cemetery employe, whose body was found this morning. Four empty whiskey bottles about the body and the absence of $150 he was known to have had, led police to suspect four strange men who were carousing here last night.

McElroy was married and had two children. His wife explained that the $150 had been taken from the bank to pay bills. At about the time McElroy left home to dig the grave, the four men left town in a taxi, police said. The whiskey bottles found in and about the grave was identified as being sold at a "speak easy" which the men had visited. A description of the suspects thought to be from New York, was furnished the police.

Under Sheriff Robert Woods of Rocklands county is of the opinion that the men murdered McElroy and caroused over his body, or that he drank with them and died from the effects of the liquor. Bruises were found on the dead body.

BETHLEHEM IS HAVING A POLITICAL TEMPEST

Bethlehem, March 10—A hearing was held in Memorial Hall this afternoon for the purpose of deciding if Representative Arthur V. Bloss, Dr. E. P. Osborn and Edward J. Crane should be read out of the republican party because of their election to town offices on the democratic tickets at last fall's election. After an all afternoon session marked by clashes between John N. Buckley, former leader of the house of representatives and E. G. Daniels, chairman of the republican town committee, decision was reserved. The republican officials attempted to prevent a throng of townspeople who had gathered from entering the hall but they rushed the door as it was unlocked and despite threats to summon the constable they remained throughout the hearing. The three accused claimed they had been nominated on the democratic ticket against their will and had not worked against the republican party as was claimed.

THEUNIS REORGANIZES HIS BELGIAN CABINET

Brussels, March 10 (By the A. P.)—M. Theunis today at the request of King Albert, reorganized his cabinet, the resignation of which was tendered recently when it met with defeat in the chamber of deputies. The new ministry will be as follows:

Premier and Minister of Finance—M. Theunis.

Minister of Justice—M. Masson.

Minister of Foreign Affairs—M. Hymans.

Minister of Education—M. Nolf.

Minister of National Defense—M. Forthomme.

Minister of Railroads—M. Neujean.

Minister of the Interior—M. Poulet.

Minister of Economics—M. Van De Vyvere.

Ministers of Agriculture—M. Runette.

Minister of Industry and Labor—M. Tschoffer.

Minister for the Colonies—Senator Garton.

7,000 JEWS A MONTH ARE ARRIVING IN PALESTINE

New York, March 10—One hundred thousand Jews are now located in Palestine and others are arriving at the rate of about 1,000 a month, said Dr. Chaim Weizmann, head of the Zionist organization, at a luncheon given in his honor today by the Jewish Tribune.

Before the movement to Palestine began there were approximately 65,000 Jews in Palestine, Dr. Weizmann said, were former war workers. They came to establish homes, and not more than ten per cent. left the country. They had built more than 1,000 houses, he continued, planted 2,500,000 trees, built roads and terraces, planted orange and olive groves and had converted arid and marshy regions into productive areas.

NEWFOUNDLAND VESSEL LOST WITH ALL ON BOARD

St. Johns, N. F., March 10.—The loss of a Newfoundland sailing vessel, probably with all on board, became known today when a radio message from the steamer Huronia reported that wreckage of the schooner Roy Bruce of St. Johns had been sighted in mid-ocean February 27. The schooner's hull had been cut in two, apparently in collision with another vessel, and no survivors were found.

WILLIMANTIC

It became known Monday that the democrats of this district are united in the opinion that Frank P. Fenton of this city will be selected as delegate to the democratic national convention to be called in New York city in June. This announcement followed a canvass of the district. Mr. Fenton made an enviable reputation as leader of the minority in the state legislature and it is likely that he will be the unanimous choice as delegate.

Mr. Fenton has all the qualifications for the office and his name is endorsed by the rank and file of the democrats of the Second district. As a well known local democrat put it, his honesty of purpose and consistent adherence to democratic principles as a delegate to the Denver convention made him prominent among his associate delegates.

Mr. Fenton has not announced his candidacy but it is the opinion of the party leaders in the district that he is the most acceptable candidate that the voters could nominate under conditions that prevail at present. It is believed that the local delegation to the state convention should go uninstructed.

Samuel Goldstein of Jackson place was in the local police court Monday morning, charged with having liquor in his possession with intent to sell. Attorney Gaucher, who appeared for the accused, asked that the court grant a continuance of the case until this (Tuesday) morning. The court gave this permission and Goldstein was given his freedom, under binds of $200.

James ("Huzzy") Donohue entered a plea of guilty to a charge of intoxication. It was pointed out that Donohue has steered clear of the police court for some two years. Judge Foss imposed a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $12.15, which was paid.

William F. Casey, who was arrested Sunday forenoon by Chief MacArthur for violating his probation and failure to pay up an old fine, was given a chance to get a job and earn enough money to pay the fine. Judge Foss ordered the man to report to the probation officer in the meantime.

Every man interested in "Y" work has been invited to attend the stag party at the Y. M. C. A. this (Tuesday) evening. Leroy Dissinger, the new physical instructor, who arrived in this city Monday, will be tendered an informal reception, between 7.30 and 8 o'clock. An entertainment will start at 8.45 o'clock with Professor Clements of Hartford, a sleight-of-hand expert, as the feature performer.

Young Sweet and "Kid Kaplan" Rothlai will go a number of rounds in the ring and two Connecticut Agricultural college students will dust the mat in a wrestling match.

Four events will be conducted simultaneously, beginning at 9.15. The business men will engage in a volley ball tussle in the gymnasium. The All-Stars, captained by "Farmer" Clouthier, will meet the "Y" bowlers on the alleys, the "Y" swimming team, led by Ellis Cohen, will give an exhibition and two well known cue artists will be the contestants in a pocket billiards match. Refreshments will be served later. Harry W. Standish is general chairman and C. C. Case is in charge of the reception sub-committee.

In a Winter Haven, Florida, publication, the following article of local interest appeared: Dr. Laura H. Hills of Willimantic, Conn., is erecting a fine residence on her property on the north shore of Lake Lulu, two miles southeast of the city. The residence will be of Colonial type, will be built of stucco and will have eight rooms. It will command a fine view of the lake and its surroundings. Dr. Hills is also planting a large acreage in citrus trees adjoining the residence and will eventually have one of the most desirable properties in the suburban section of Winter Haven. Dr. Hills is well known in this city where she spent several years. In addition to the Lake Lulu property the doctor owns several desirable lots adjoining the Erwin Smith property, on the Villa road.

The West Ends of this city organized a makeshift squad last week and traveled to Scotland, where they took the measure of the natives, 46 to 34. The local boys led at the conclusion of the first half, 24 to 20. "Paddy" Haggerty and Frink featured. The lineups were: West Ends, P. Haggerty, McCarthy, L. Mandell, S. Wawer and A. Sweet. Scotland: Hanna, Frink, Clark, Brown and Gauthier.

The session of Willimantic Ministers' union was held Monday in the South Coventry Congregational church. The members went on record as favoring the adoption of the Johnson Bill, No. 6540, which is before the house of representatives, advocating restricted immigration by selection in Europe. Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones of Mansfield Center, vice president, was in charge of the meeting, in the absence of Rev. Arthur W. Clifford, of Windham Center, the president.

At the last session a committee, including Rev. W. C. Norris, chairman, Rev. F. F. Foshay and Rev. William Martin Brown, was selected to bring in a report on the important immigration question. The resolution favoring the Johnson bill was read by Rev. Mr. Norris. Seventy members of the union attended the meeting.

After the session has been called to order at 10.45 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Brown of Windham gave a review of his book, Autobiography of William Rainford. This book has been published for some time and is a great favorite.

The discussion of the immigration question was lengthy. The session was adjourned at 12.45 o'clock. The next meeting, April 2, will be held in Windham Center. It had been expected that something would be done or said with regard to the prohibition enforcement question, but for some reason the matter was left untouched.

Margaret Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas H. and Margaret J. Hughes Kilkourey, died at the home of her parents, Sunday evening. Besides her parents, she leaves a sister, Eleanor May Kilkourey.

The funeral of Mrs. Melissa Goyette Patnode was held Monday morning from the funeral parlors of The Martineau-Bacon company, 31 Union street, at 8.45 o'clock. Requiem high mass at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock was sung by Rev. J. J. Papillon, the pastor. The singing was by the church choir, with Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau at the organ. There were beautiful tributes. The bearers were Harold Bowen, Arnold Bowen, Charles Brown, Harry Patnode, Leo Patnode and Russell Hoey. Albert Bowen was flower bearer. The body was placed in the receiving vault at St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Papillon conducted a committal service.

Andover tax rate has been reduced from 23 mills to 16 mills, this action being taken at the adjourned town meeting held recently in the town hall of that place. C. L. Backus was moderator and F. A. Sackett clerk.

The report of the town school committee, read by Herbert Thompson, was voted accepted. The report explained the crowded condition of the present school building and brought out the need of another school room and another teacher. It was pointed out that the coming of large families of foreign birth to reside in the town caused the school, which has only one room, to be overcrowded.

School Supervisor W. S. Dakin was present at the meeting and he also spoke on the school condition. Upon a motion it was voted to remodel the building formerly known as the Baptist church to use temporarily for school purposes. The old church property was purchased by the town last fall. An appropriation of $600 was made for making the alterations.

The report of the board of finance was submitted by A. H. Benton. By the revaluation of the town property during the past year an increase of $135,000 has resulted, the grand list of the town's taxable property now amounting to $447,063, according to the figures compiled by the assessors. The 16-mill tax rate was then voted.

The resignation of Walter S. Tripp as a supernumerary member of the Willimantic police department was presented at the meeting of the board of aldermen Monday evening and was accepted. Since the resignation of Charles Parker as assistant jailer at the county jail at Brooklyn Mr. Tripp has been doing his work. Tripp has been on a three months' leave of absence, which expired Monday.

The 1924 supply of dog licenses for the town of Windham was received Monday by Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton at his office in the town building. The new tags are in the shape of a shield. All dogs must be licensed during April and as many have learned to their sorrow during the past few months, failure to comply with the law will mean court proceedings. The dog population has shown an increase in this town during the past two years. An even seven hundred dog licenses were issued last year by Clerk Fenton.

The Willimantic cemetery committee is about to take steps to collect from delinquents who have not settled for the care of burial lots in the old cemetery. The committee found that a number had not paid a nickel for the care of the graves for the past ten years. A number who have paid sums for the perpetual care of burial plots, are not included in the list.

The committee has not received any financial returns for its action two years ago, when employes were ordered to beautify many graves which had been neglected for some time.

Mrs. Susan Harrington has returned home to Windham Center, after visiting in Norwich and Willimantic.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Champlin and son Harold, of Windham road, were recent guests of Mrs. Champlin's mother in Lebanon.

Principal Egbert A. Case has resumed his duties at Windham High school after a week's illness with tonsilitis.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Latham entertained Mr. and Mrs. Leffingwell of Norwich at dinner Sunday.

Miss Frances Farrel of the training staff of nurses at the New Haven City hospital spent the week-end at the home of her father, J. F. Farrell, here.

Following a long illness, Miss Juanita Jackson, daughter of County Detective and Mrs. William E. Jackson, resumed her duties Monday as stenographer in the costing department of the American Thread company.

Mrs. Mary Brayman of Hampton has gone to New Haven where she is visiting her niece, Mrs. A. A. Thompson, who is seriously ill.

John R. Pickett and Louis J. Corlaty, local theatre men, were in Norwich Monday afternoon attending a luncheon and meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Motion Picture Owners' association.

Three men received fractured skulls and were taken to a hospital, dying, when a horse and buggy in which they were riding plunged over a forty foot embankment in Bronx park.

A Raw, Sore Throat

Eases Quickly When You Apply a Little Musterole

And Musterole won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Just spread it on with your fingers. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain.

JEWETT CITY

The term of Daniel F. Finn as postmaster at Jewett City will expire on the fifth of June. The local office pays an annual salary of $2,300, and the occurring vacancy will be filled under the civil service rules of the government. Applications must be properly executed and filed with the commissioner at Washington, D. C., prior to the hour of closing business April 5, 1924.

Candidates for the Jewett City post office will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on the two subjects of, first, educational training, which will carry a weight of 50, and business experience and fitness, which will carry a weight of 50.

When the examination papers are rated in Washington, any ex-service man or woman of the Spanish or World war, will have five points added to his or her earned ratings. The time of service during the wars, will be reckoned by the commission in making up the required length of business experience.

Except in the case of veterans, Jewett City now having been advanced to the second class, no person under 35 or over 65 is eligible to compete for this office. In the application there must be no reference to religion, politics, change of administration, or membership in fraternal orders.

The official application blanks are in the hands of Postmaster Finn, and a copy will be furnished to all who wish to enter the competition.

Mr. Finn stated Monday evening to The Bulletin reporter, that he would make no attempt to secure the appointment again, although he has been asked by many to do so.

It is believed, without much doubt, that William T. Crumb, the present assistant postmaster, will lead the line of future applicants. His post-office training has been long and complete, while his business and educational qualifications are of the very best.

The following scores were shot on the Voluntown Rifle club range. Geo. Sheldon put up the high score for the Edmond medal, 99 out of a possible 100.

50 shots possible 500—John Kaufmann 495, George Sheldon 494, Gerald Wolf 488, Clarence Gaudette 480, Ernest Dupont 477, Joseph Herbert 476, John Hall 475, Rudolph Magroy 460, Jim Hopkins 456, Floyd Magroy 455, Arthur Burlingame 454, James Davis 451, J. E. Wyatt 449, Mitchell Violette 428, William Dealtrey 415, George Davis 403.

10 shots possible 100 (Edmond medal)—George Sheldon 99, John Kaufmann 98, John Bradford 93, Ernest Dupont 93, Clarence Gaudette 92, John Hall 92, Jim Hopkins 86.

At the residence of Wallace H. Payne, on South Main street, Monday afternoon, Leland M. Burdick of Griswold and Annie M. Willis of Canterbury were united in marriage by Rev. J. W. Payne. The groom is the son of Irving O. Burdick, a well known citizen of Griswold, and is chairman of the board of assessors. For the last ten years Leland Burdick has been employed as a plumber at the state hospital. Miss Annie M. Willis of Canterbury is a graduate nurse of the same institution. The bride was gowned in a traveling suit of brown silk with hat to match. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Burdick left for a honeymoon trip to Providence and other cities.

Dorcas circle of The King's Daughters meets at Mrs. Charles E. Spicer's home this (Tuesday) evening.

The Congregational Women's Missionary society is to meet at Mrs. F. E. Robinson's on Thursday afternoon, and will have a Japanese tea. The third chapter of Leaven in Japan is to be read.

When Judge John T. Berry's town court opens this (Tuesday) morning, there will be considerable interest, as Frank Livingstone, Fred Clark and John Althuer, all of the vicinity of Boston, are presented for a hearing. These men are under arrest in connection with the stealing of a horse and wagon. Within a few months the railroad station here has been entered during the night season by persons as yet unknown. When the boat train arrives here at 3.26 in the evening, the local postoffice is closed. The mail bags are locked in the station over night in charge of the railroad company. On the night of the first of the depot robberies the locked pouch was cut open, and a quantity of mail was stolen. Ever since then the federal, state and local officers have been working on the case. It is the belief of the police that possibly one or more of the four men arrested Sunday may be linked up with the station robbery. John Cohen, an admitted deserter, now being held in Charlestown navy yard, has been hanging around Jewett City of late, and it is believed that he knows something of the mail bag robbery.

Mrs. Irene Ford will take light washings at home.—adv.

Thomas Barnett was in Norwich Monday to attend the meeting of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Eastern Connecticut. Mr. Barnett was there to officially tender the resignation of his elder brother John, who last month was unanimously elected secretary of this organization. The latter was obliged to give up the office, on account of new business interests in Worcester, Mass., for the N. Y., N. H. & Hartford railroad. Thomas Barnett was pressed by the meeting Monday to succeed his brother in the office of secretary but his duties here as mailing clerk in the Jewett City postoffice forbade his acceptance.

Chief Wakely and his men were called out by a still alarm at 9.30 on Sunday evening. The blaze was in the chimney of the home of Adelaird Bryant, in the Aspinook village. The firemen found a roaring flue when they arrived, and were obliged to use 50 gallons of chemical from the roof.

Maxey Seymour, first selectman of Griswold has been seriously ill at his home for the past week. His physicians were able to report marked improvement in his condition Monday evening.

George H. Thornton has bought of Otis Littlefield the plot of land situated between his line and that of Ernest French. Mr. Thornton does not contemplate building at once, but this summer he proposes to have a prize winning garden.

Mr. Thornton and E. M. Gray both have residences on the brow of Taylor, 250 feet above the level of the Quinebaug, and by many feet they own the highest property within the borough limits. There is much of interest in Mr. Thornton's temperature deductions. With the wind blowing from the points included from northeast to southwest, he says. The top of Taylor hill gets it good, for nothing in the town lying far below is high enough to offer any resistance to gales from these quarters. Conversely; on still cold days, with all draughts of air absent, it is from four to six degrees warmer on the last rise of Taylor hill, than on South Main street at the Quinebaug level far below.

10 YEARS SUFFERING GONE SAYS MRS. WHEATON

"Tanlac Brought Me Better Health Than I Ever Hoped to Enjoy.

"Once a user of Tanlac, always a friend of Tanlac" is a truth convincingly demonstrated in the case of Mrs. Hattie Wheaton, 7 Stipp's Court, Willimantic, Conn. Early in September, 1921, Mrs. Wheaton made a statement regarding Tanlac, saying: "For ten years I suffered from indigestion and many ills that go with it. Then came a great sorrow and, being already terribly nervous and run down, I got worse until I almost despaired.

"Tanlac has brought me better health than I ever hoped to enjoy again. I eat everything, my nerves are perfectly calm, and I sleep like a child. My gratitude to Tanlac is inexpressible."

A few days ago, over three years later, Mrs. Wheaton addressed a communication to the makers of Tanlac, in which she said: "I am still in good health, thanks to Tanlac. A number of people have written to me asking about Tanlac and I have told them how much good it has done me."

Mrs. Wheaton is only one of many thousands who have publicly praised Tanlac, not only once but time and again.

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

BOLTON

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Pinney and daughter Miss Dora Pinney, who spent the past winter in Florida, have returned to Bolton.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Levey of Indianapolis who have a summer home in town, are now in Bermuda.

Mrs. Charles N. Loomis is in Cromwell, visiting her daughter, Mrs. William E. Stetson.

W. L. Phelps of Longmeadow has been spending a few days with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Weston Phelps.

Miss Elizabeth Rose of Hartford spent the week end with her mother Mrs. Cora V. Rose.

Mrs. John Toomey and son David Toomey of Hartford were at the latter's Bolton farm over the week end.

W. B. Loomis, Denison H. Loomis and son Donald Loomis of Westfield, Mass., were guests of W. B. and D. H. Loomis' mother, Mrs. William H. Loomis, Sunday.

The selectmen held their March meeting Monday afternoon.

HOPKINTON

At the session of the town council held at the town hall March 3rd the sum of $500 was allotted to each highway district for repairs on the highways and bridges.

Bills to the amount of $353.23 were ordered paid.

At the same date in the probate court, the first and final accounts of Adelbert R. Clark, administrator of the estate of Mary E. W. Clark, and of the Washington Trust Co., administrator of the estate of Sarah Champlin, were received and referred to April 7th with order of notice.

The petition of Clarence E. Roche, administrator of the estate of Elizabeth A. Gardiner, for authority to sell real estate was referred to April 7th with order of notice.

The community was shocked to learn of the sudden death Saturday morning of Mrs. Flora G. Burdick, 59, wife of Rev. William L. Burdick, D. D., at her home in Broad street, Ashaway, Mrs. Burdick had been somewhat out of health for some time but felt as well as usual that morning. After breakfast she requested Miss Gladys Baker, a member of the household to play a hymn before attending church. The latter was playing "Nearer, My God, to Thee," when she heard a slight noise and turned in time to save Mrs Burdick from falling. Death was almost instantaneous. Dr. Burdick is in South America on a missionary tour as he is corresponding secretary of the Seventh Day Baptist Missionary Society. Besides her husband Mrs. Burdick leaves two daughters, Mrs. Paul Saunders of Ashaway and Miss Edith Burdick of New York city, and a son, Lewis Burdick of Essington, Pa. She leaves three grand daughters. Mrs. Saunders is at a hospital in New York with her little daughter who has been operated on for mastoiditis.

George B. Langworthy has returned from Daytona, Florida.

Mrs. G. Arthur Mills is ill with tonsilitis.

COMMITTEE WORK ON SOLDIER BONUS BILL

Washington, March 10.—The same definition of a veteran entitled to a bonus as was carried in the bill passed last session was agreed upon today by a sub-committee in drafting the new measure. Work will be started tomorrow on framing the paid up life insurance policy provision which forms the basis of the new bill. Under the definitions agreed upon men and women who served in either the military of naval forces at any time after April 5, 1917 and before November 12, 1918, would be eligible to the bonus. The committee previously had agreed to exclude from the benefits of the bill officials who ranked above captain in the army and marine corps and senior lieutenant in the navy.

Framing of the insurance provision of the bill is expected to entail considerable study by the sub-committee. Several propositions have been presented, including proposals for endowment policies running from twenty to thirty years. The basis on which their value would be figured, however, is problematical, the oil bill provided for an adjusted service credit of $1 for each day of home service and $1.25 for overseas service.

QUIET ON BRIBERY OF MEMBERS OF HOUSE

Washington, March 10.—The house was advised today by its judiciary committee to make no further effort, at least for the present, to ascertain from the department of justice the names of the two representatives against whom criminal evidence is said to have been developed before a Chicago grand jury.

A report from the committee, containing this recommendation, was submitted, but action by the house on it was deferred. It was indicated that when the committee report comes up for approval some of the democratic members may urge that the house insist on having Attorney General Daugherty disclose the names.

The judiciary committee was instructed to determine on a course of procedure when the house was notified Saturday by Mr. Daugherty, in response to a resolution, directing him to make public the names, that he was unwilling to do so until convinced of the guilt of the accused.

Keep Prettier Teeth

When your dentist brings them to you

After a dental cleaning, you marvel at the pearliness of your teeth. Yet the dentist just removes the dingy film and tartar.

Learn what it means to daily combat that film. To keep teeth whiter, cleaner, safer all the time. This free test shows the method which millions now employ.

Film is the problem

Film is the great tooth enemy—that viscous film you feel. Much clings and stays, despite the old-way brushing.

Food stains, etc., discolor the film, then it forms dingy coats.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Brush teeth daily in the old ways, yet these film-caused troubles, as you know, come to nearly all.

That is why dental science fought for film combatants, and two were found. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities have proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

No possible doubt

Pepsodent leaves no possible doubt. It does other things which research proved essential. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also its starch digestant. Thus it gives increased power to the tooth-protecting factors in the mouth.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

A few days will convince you that this method is essential in your home. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

STRAND THEATRE

Once again the Strand Theatre B. F. Keith vaudeville proved to bear out the fact the Norwich public were getting the world's best vaudeville at the Strand.

Just Four Girls, the feature attraction on the vaudeville program was a syncopation of song, dance and piano playing.

The Pickfords in "Fun in a Restaurant" in which they offered an unusual routine of acrobatics mixed with comedy.

Lester & Stuart in "Bound For Nowhere" were well liked in their offering of melody and comedy.

Stevens & Brunelle in exclusive songs and sayings. It is a very bright repartee.

Marie & Ann Clark in "In What" is vaudeville's latest novelty, embellished with comedy, talking, singing and dancing.

Lovers of the silent drama who have grown tired of society dramas and sex problems, have a real treat in store for them at the Strand Theatre this week, in the presentation of "Broadway Broke" the Earl Derr Biggers' Saturday Evening Post story, which was transferred to the screen by J. Searle Dawley.

Mary Carr, "the mother of the screen" has the leading role and has a supporting cast which includes, Percy Marmont, Dore Davidson, Macklyn Arbuckle, Macey Harlan, Henrietta Crosman, Sally Crute and many others of equal popularity.

It is a story of the theatrical life of New York's Broadway, dealing with a grandmother who was once the idol of fickle Broadway, but who is now financially distressed and without friends. How she comes back into her own will be a revelation to anyone who has ever had the unpleasant experience of being broke on the street called by some "the most wicked in the world."

BROADWAY THEATRE

Under the direction of James Cruze, who produced "The Covered Wagon", "Hollywood" and "Ruggles of Red Gap", it is predicted that the screen version of "To the Ladies," a Paramount picture coming to the Broadway theatre next Thursday will surpass in popularity the stage presentation of the three-act domestic comedy which New York critics acclaimed one of the best human interest stories theatre-goers had seen in many seasons.

The photoplay is built on a theme rather than a plot. This emphasizes to what extent a clever wife can prove an important factor in her husband's success. Edward Horton as "Leonard Beebe" becomes manager of the Kincaid Piano Factory through activities of his wife, "Elsie Beebe," portrayed by Helen Jerome Eddy, after "Elsie" discovers that "John Kincaid," the factory owner, enacted by Theodore Roberts, owes his success to his wife, a part taken by Louise Dresser, the aforementioned all appearing in featured roles.

Other characters are "Chester Mullin," aspirant for the managership, played by E. Wall Covington; "Mary Mullin," "Chester's" wife, "Tom Baker," an unctious "yes man," who thought he had an inside track on the coveted job of manager, a role assigned to Arthur Hoyt, and "Bob Cutter," a traveling salesman portrayed by Jack Gardner.

"HIDDEN IDOL" PLOT IN NORTHERN INDIA

The action of "The Hidden Idol" which is to be given at the Palace Theatre, Friday evening by the undergraduates of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, under the auspices of the Norwich Rotary Club, takes place in Kookoostan, a little principality in the mountains of northern India. Professor Summerwell, a distinguished ethnologist, is backing the production of a moving picture, although his chief interest is the search for a certain hidden idol. Phillip Wainwright, the fiance of Minerva Summerwell, the professor's daughter, is directing the picture as well as playing the hero. Both Minerva and her mother have parts in the production although neither can act they have gotten parts due to their relation to the professor. Grinding merrily at the camera is Buster Brown, Phil's devil-may-care chum.

The first act opens in the middle pass of the Karakorum Mountains where the picture company is shooting a scene for their picture. The work is over for the day and during the evening the party has become quite worked up over the unaccountable beating of tom-toms heard faintly in the distance. In the midst of the suspense Buster brings a little native girl into camp and tries to get her to dance for him with sundry and humorous complications. As soon as Phil appears however, the girl quickly consents to dance for him. Later in the evening she manages to save the girl from the wrath of the priests, from the temple at which the girl dances, Minerva breaks in on the scene soon after the rescue to find the girl Hasadha in Phil's arms, wherewith and henceforth the engagement is busted. Buster is delighted and makes no bones at saying so. Soon after the party has retired for the night they are awakened by the entrance into camp of Judd a very disreputable looking English Tommy who adds a strange story to the plot. In the midst of this General High Commander Allaghub of the Imperial Army of Kookoostan comes upon the scene and informs that it is his honor to be their captor in the name of the Marajah.

The second act is at the palace o fthe Marajah where the company is comfortably instated as the prisoner of the Marajah. Their comfort is soon disturbed by the fact that Phil and Buster manage to get in wrong with the Marajah and are delegated to the servitude of the General. While the Rajah devotes his time to entertaining the ladies in the party, Buster gets busy with the General and finally gets possession of the whole army with the General included, but not without a good bit of assistance on the part of Pansy the comedy colored maid with the party. When the Rajah learns that the army has revolted and sworn all allegiance to a person called King Buster, he is exceeding wroth, as the saying goes, and takes Minerva and Hasahdha to the temple of Gar. The rest of the party are seized with consternation and fear for the safety of Minerva and Hasahdha, and start for the temple to rescue the unfortunates.

The third act takes place in the temple of Gar, where the action is complicated by the religious ceremonials of the priests (which includes the ballet in the form of a temple dance). The rescue takes place with much action followed by a love scene in which Phil makes known his love for Hasahdha. Meanwhile Buster by his nosing around has unearthed the idol in the temple which had been the main incentive for Professor Summerwell to make this wild trip. Naturally the professor is very elated, but his satisfaction is cut short by the announcement on the part of Phil that in order to get action out of a bunch of ham actors he had to create a realistic atmosphere so he had hired the General, the Rjah, the army, built the temple, and brought Hasahdha straight from Hollywood.

Frederick Sauvage, who is credited with the invention of the screw propeller, was imprisoned and died bankrupt and insane.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

PALACE THEATRE

Starting with this afternoon's performance, the patrons of the Palace theatre are offered a vaudeville program of feature acts, each act carefully selected, and a show of rare variety is programmed. Heading the bill will be Mme. Doree and her Flashes from Long Island, a company of five people who know how to sing songs as you love to hear them, their repetoire embracing everything from jazz to opera. Another act sharing headline honors will be Pat White, vaudeville's cleverest comedian, and Burlesques leading comic having been starred in his own productions for years. Knowing Norwich loves good clean comedy, it is with genuine pleasure the Palace management offers Mr. White, Burton and Foley as a very clever pair and offer a novel number containing comedy singing and talking. The Great Howard is without question the greatest ventriloquist and his clever work needs no introduction. The Three Rossettas Girls are dainty commediennes and are seen in a revue of varieties.

What is said to be the last word in spectacular motion picture production is promised motion picture fans by the Palace theatre management, in Lucretia Lombard, a Warner Brothers classic of the screen co-starring Monte Blue and Irene Rich.

The picture is a screen adaption of the novel of the same name from the pen of Kathleen Norris.

The spectacular element is what we have been laying particular stress on, the big kick of the picture being a forest fire. I think that we have photographed one of the most spectacular forest fire scenes that has ever been done. Another hazardous scene to photograph, which should be very effective, is a water scene in which we show the breaking of a dam and the thrilling rescue in the roaring rapids."

A fine cast of players have been assembled under the direction of Jack Conway for Lucretia Lombard with Monte Blue and Irene Rich playing the two leading roles. Other important players standing out prominently are Marc McDermott, Alec B. Francis, Norma Shearer, Margaret Seddon, John Roche and Otto Hoffman. The novel was adapted for the screen by Sada Cowan.

The ninth Round of Fighting Blood completes a truly wonderful show.

BREED THEATRE

An exceptionally brilliant cast of screen players has been assembled for the William Fox adaption of the Belasco stage success, The Governor's Lady. Robert T. Haines, who has appeared in numerous stage plays and photoplays, has the role of the man who comes up from the ranks to the highest executive position in his state. Jane Grey, a well known actress returned to the screen after a successful dramatic career, to play the title role in this picture.

Among the popular screen players who will be seen in The Governor's Lady are Ann Luther, Frazer Coulter, Leslie Austen, Dorothy Allen and Eleanor Daniels.

Harry Millarde directed the picture. It will be remembered that he also directed Over the Hill, and more recently, If Winter Comes. The Governor's Lady will be shown for the last time today at the Breed theatre.

Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news, Frogland and an Educational comedy.

The White Sister To Play Here Soon

Lillian Gish's triumphant success, The White Sister, is announced for all next week at the Breed theatre.

The White Sister was made in Italy with the cooperation of the Italian government. It has been characterized as one of the most beautiful films ever screened.

In addition to the superb acting of Miss Gish, who plays the role in which Viola Allen starred so successfully on the speaking stage, The White Sister, has many thrilling spectacular scenes. The eruption of Mt. Vesuvius supplies the climax for this powerful picture which was directed by Henry King, best known for his work in Tol'able David.

The White Sister is an Inspiration picture, of which company Charles H. Duell, Jr., is president, and is released through Metro.

"SO THIS IS LONDON"

Whatever an artist of distinction says about his art is nothing of consideration. No artist can become distinguished without having some definite ideas about the nature, purpose and limitations of his art. It is, therefore, pleasing to learn that in the selection of the cast which will appear here in "So This is London," George M. Cohan is said to have remarked that as a fitting whole a more evenly balanced and technically perfect selection could not have been made. Whatever Cohan does is certain to be done well. Being free from the limitations imposed by purely commercial producers he does not fall into the error common to so many under like conditions, that of trading on his name with inferior casts and productions. His reputation is sustained in whatever he puts forth.

It is safe to say that lovers of the best the stage affords will find an evening of rare enjoyment when "So This is London" is presented at the Broadway theatre, tomorrow night at 8.15.

Its remarkable success in New York where it ran for a solid year is certain to be duplicated when it is presented by the special cast of Cohan Comedians before local theatre-goers.

Seats are now on sale at box office.

Police in Floral Park, N. Y., believe they know the identity of a man who, during the last two months had poisoned thirty-four dogs of the community and announced his arrest was imminent.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

In advance of the official announcement of the republican caucus in Killingly to name delegates to the state convention of the party, which state convention, in turn, will nominate Connecticut's delegates to the republican national convention to be held in Cleveland in June, it may be explained for the special attention of members of the party, that Killingly's caucus will be held on the afternoon of March 19.

The explanation has to do with why the caucus is held in the afternoon instead of in the evening. Some years since it was voted in a republican caucus here that all such party events thereafter should be held in the evening of any designated day. This year it happens that the adjourned annual town meeting is scheduled for the evening of March 19. It also happens to be the fact that the republican state organization has made a fixed rule that all party caucuses throughout the state be held on the same day, and this year the date selected also happens to be March 19. Manifestly this establishes interference of events for the republicans of Killingly. Many of them desire to attend both the adjourned annual town meeting, which will pass upon the budget and decide upon the tax rate for the current year, and the republican caucus.

To relieve this situation the republican town committee of Killingly, exercising its power to say at what hour of any designated day a caucus having to do with the naming of a state delegation of the party shall be held, has selected 2.30 of the afternoon of March 19, for the caucus to name Killingly's delegates to the state convention. This action has been taken to simplify matters for republicans—action that will be generally appreciated by interested electors.

For the stabilization of those who are daily saying that spring, with its showers and flowers, is just ahead it may be mentioned that tomorrow (Wednesday's March 12) is the 36th anniversary of the great blizzard of 1888.

Of all of those who arrived at the age of intelligence since that time, not a one has ever seen a storm like it in southern New England or has any real conception, through experiences hereabouts, of what the elements can do on such an occasion.

Old-timers with good memories talked Monday about this historic storm. Maybe the fact that the wind was in the northeast quickened their recollections and again lighted the picture of those storm bound days for them. Verily, the storm was one of a life time. Harking back to Civil war days, Judge James N. Tucker said Monday afternoon that he recalled no other such storm. He has remembrance of another great snow storm that came in or about January 1867, if memory does not fail him, but even that storm did not approximate the great blizzard of 1888.

Scores of people in Danielson and vicinity have their own memories of the great storm and of their experiences with it. A dozen volumes would not hold their stories. Yet among them there is one who will rank any storm since as in the same class for severity.

One who was a boy in those days told Monday of his present impressions of the business section of Danielson as he saw them several days after the storm. Running from Woodward's store, at the corner of Center and Main street, diagonally across the street to the Exchange block was a drift whose top was above where the tops of the show windows are in the Woodward store at the present time. There was another tremendous drift in the yard about the Methodist church, which in those days occupied the site now taken up by the Danielson Trust company building and the Casino arena, which originally, by the way, was the old Methodist church. A series of such drifts blocked Main street—piled up by the raging northeaster. One of them cut diagonally across the street from just below the Main street crossing to the present Jodoin property, at about where the A.&P. store is located. For days after the storm vehicles did not make their way through the streets. Shovel brigades gradually dug out the borough. There was no train service—no mail—no newspapers—no supplies of fresh food. Only meagre bits of information filtered through as to what happened in other sections of southern New England.

An average of nearly 40 inches of snow fell in Killingly, and in places drifts were 10 to 12 feet in height. Over in the Sparks district a tunnel was dug through a hollow that had been filled level, and horse-drawn vehicles used this tunnel for days in getting people to and fro on missions of business in that isolated section.

Business was practically paralyzed. The mills did not operate. Some of the stores remained closed.

The suffering of those who were caught in the height of the storm was intense and deaths were caused in this county. So fierce was the force of the gale that it was difficult for a human being to breathe. The volume of snow and sleet was so great as to be utterly bewildering. The sleet, driven with such compelling force, cut like razor blades. In Pomfret a man who attempted to go from his house to his barn, only a few rods away, was almost immediately confused, became lost and died in the snow. Horses that attempted to breast the storm in urgent service of their owners collapsed and died.

Such, briefly, was the kind of storm that came 36 years ago tomorrow. Killingly was in the heart of the storm belt. No one living, has seen anything like it—nor do those who went through it ever want to see it again. Spring may be just ahead, but here is a little account of what can happen in March in New England. One never can be too sure of just when winter is over. Officially, it is supposed to end next week.

"I like to pick up every Crumb, when I eat any of Drake's Cake," said a visitor looking at the baking of a large batch of raisin cake at the Drake Brothers' bakery, in Brooklyn. "There seems to be so much goodness in every crumb that you hate to lose the pleasure of a single atom of it." Every cake in thousands of cakes is alike—uniform in ingredients and in baking.

PUTNAM

The annual adjourned town meeting for the purpose of laying a tax to raise the necessary money to meet the appropriations voted at the annual meeting in October, was held in the Municipal building at ten o'clock Monday morning. The call was read by Town Clerk, David Flagg, and in the absence of the moderator, Thomas P. Ryan, Whitman Danielson was moderator.

When the matter of laying the tax was submitted to the meeting Attorney A. S. Macdonald made a request that the selectmen or some one in a position to know, inform the meeting how much it was necessary to raise.

While the amount was not definitely stated, Selectman C. E. Pierce said that he thought that a larger tax than last year, 20 mills, would be necessary.

The town clerk stated that the town started last year with $12,000 cash on hand and ended the fiscal year with a deficit of $8,000, that there was a bond of $7,000 coming due and which would have to be paid, that the interest account would be increased $1,500 on account of a debt of $35,000 assumed in building an addition to the Israel Putnam school and that the school appropriation was $6,000 greater than a year ago. Mr. Pierce also stated that the selectmen anticipated the expenditure of a greater sum than last year for assistance of those in need. Rev. John Stoddard made a motion that the tax be 28 mills. On an aye and nay vote the moderator was doubtful. On a rising vote it was found that the motion was voted down.

Attorney Irving H. Mixon, made a motion that the rate be 22 1-3 mills. Attorney Macdonald spoke on the motion saying that no one present enjoyed paying more taxes, but that it was a business proposition, the town's bills had to be paid and the only way that this could be done was by a sufficient tax to raise the money, otherwise the town would have to borrow and pay interest, putting the town into greater debt, a debt that would sometime have to be met.

Rev. Mr. Stoddard spoke along the same line and said that it was a patriotic duty for the citizens to pay their bills.

The moderator stated that possibly some present thought the meeting was fixing expenditures. He explained that this had already been done at a previous meeting and that the present meeting was for raising the money to pay these bills. The question was put and the motion was carried by a narrow margin.

It was voted that the tax be collected on or before the first day of May.

Of interest is the forecast that Major John B. Byrne, state bank commissioner of Connecticut, is to be finance officer of the Connecticut units that will be included in the reorganization of the coast artillery forces of New England and adjoining territory, this command to be designed as the 43d division, as set forth in press despatches appearing under Washington date lines Monday. Major Byrne's home is in this city.

Connecticut complement of men in the coast artillery service at wartime strength will be 9,000, but only a skeleton force of about one-third that number will be maintained under the peace time reorganization.

Mention of the fact that Commissioner Byrne is to be finance officer calls to mind that there was some talk here last fall of forming a military organization in Putnam. Nothing came of it, but in view of present developments it would not be surprising to some if a coast artillery company were recruited in this city.

For many years there was a military company of the National guard of the state stationed in Putnam. During the Spanish war Company G of the Third Connecticut infantry went into service from this city. For more than a decade, however, the city has been without a military company—one of the few places of its size in Connecticut without such an organization.

It is believed that a company could be formed here if sufficient enthusiasm and energy marked the effort, opportunity, of course, presenting itself. The recruiting of such a company might mean eventually that Putnam would get a state armory, as have many communities of the state that have shown special interest in military affairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon T. Wilson were again at Troy, N. Y., Monday, where they were hurriedly recalled after being with their son, Leon T. Wilson, Jr., freshman at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, who is seriously ill. The young man had improved so much by Saturday that his parents returned to Putnam. Sunday a telegram recalled them, he having taken a turn for the worse. Plans of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson when they left were for Mrs. Wilson to remain in Troy until their son is definitely out of danger. Mr. Wilson is expected to return in a day or two.

The illness of the son is said to be due to overstudy. It developed suddenly and by Sunday had become of a serious nature, though there had been a period of improvement meanwhile.

Today (Tuesday) will bring the opening of the trial of cases assigned Friday to be heard by Judge George E. Hinman in the superior court. Of the cases assigned for trial today it appeared Monday as though all with one exception will be heard. A forecast of settlement was made in the other case.

May 1 is the date on which the Putnam Savings Bank likely will be located in its new home on Main street. Steady progress is being made in finishing the interior of the new building, on which work has progressed throughout the winter. The new bank building not only will furnish quarters for the institution that has caused its erection, but also store space for one firm and office quarters on the second floor.

Plans continue to be worked out for the convention of French-speaking societies of Connecticut to be held in this city in June. This event will bring approximately 200 delegates representing many towns and cities of the state. They will begin to arrive on Sunday and the convention will continue through Monday and Tuesday. A fund of several hundred dollars has been raised for the entertainment of the visitors.

A feature of the activities of the Windham County Farmers' association during the present month is its co-operation with the Nebraska-Dakota farm bureau for the purpose of supplying horses to farmers in this particular county. A carload of horses from the west already is in this county and will be made available for farmers on Wednesday of this week.

The menace of the southern cotton mills as competitors with the cotton mills of the north, as frequently elaborated upon during the past year, may give birth in towns like Putnam to a genius for manufacturing special cotton products in a small way and prove the salvation of textile industry in New England. A suggestion was heard Monday of the possibility that awaits even manufacturers in a small way that can turn out novelties in cotton goods. The big plants may be forced out only to be replaced by scores of smaller ones making things that cannot be easily duplicated. The market for such products seems assured.

Now and Then, a one-act play, was presented at the high school assembly hall Monday afternoon in connection with the regular monthly meeting of the D. A. R.

The town school board is giving consideration to the matter of reestablishing a kindergarten in the Israel Putnam school. Need of space forced out this department some time since, but the building of an addition, now in use at the school, has made consideration of a kindergarten again a possibility.

This (Tuesday) evening members of Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows will be at Danielson to attend a meeting of lodges of District 25 at which the grand master and other grand officers will be in attendance.

Mrs. Sara Kent, Mrs. Gladys P. Johnson, Miss Bertha White and Miss Mabel E. Lee make up the committee that has charge of the program for the Parent-Teachers' association meeting to be held this (Tuesday) evening in the assembly hall at the high school.

Mrs. Sarah Kent, Mrs. Gladys P. Johnson, Miss Bertha White and Miss Mabel E. Lee, a committee of the Parent-Teachers' association, are arranging a fine program to be presented at the regular meeting of the association at the high school tonight (Tuesday).

Announcements have been received of the marriage in New York of Marion Elizabeth Wheaton, of Bellingham, Washington, and Charles James Pomeroy of Akron, Ohio. Miss Wheaton is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wheaton, formerly of Putnam, and is a granddaughter of Mrs. E. M. Wheaton, Grove street. Mr. Pomeroy is head of the foreign department of a tire manufacturing concern. Following a short residence in Akron, Mr. and Mrs. Pomeroy will go to Havana, Cuba, for a year and then to South America.

Reservations are being made and plans have been perfected for the annual dinner of the Northeastern Connecticut Fish and Game club to be held in Putnam next Thursday evening. The special guest and speaker will be John Titcomb, superintendent of the state fish and game commission. He will later speak at the Bradley theatre where he has taken personally and which will be of interest to all sportsmen.

The Fish and Game club was organized a little over a year ago—and interest and membership has steadily increased, until nearly every man in Windham county who enjoys fishing and hunting and is interested in the propagation of fish and game has become actively interested in the club. Thousands of fish have been distributed in ponds and streams and hundreds of game birds have been liberated in the cover since the club came into being.

The state board of education through its vocational training division, co-operating with the state highway department, has added to its many branches a truck and tractor school. This will be of interest to young men of Putnam where there is already established a state trade school, although the truck and tractor department will be in Portland. A number of pupils in the local school have expressed a desire for training in the line that the new school affords.

The object of the new school is to fit the individual taking the course to become automotive mechanics, having sufficient experience in repair work and the theory of internal combustion engines as will enable them to obtain employment with concerns operating a fleet of trucks or as mechanics in service stations. Also as drivers in truck and tractor service, each man having acquired a knowledge of the equipment he is to handle.

The course of instruction covers automotive repairing. Instruction and work processes are arranged in unit courses, and students progress successively from one unit to another until they have acquired experience in all of the following unit: Frame and spring repairing; engine repairing; transmission; rear end; front end and steering gear; assembling; ignition and electrical; testing; training as drivers; training for fleet operation. Admission is free to any person over 14 years of age, physically fit to undertake the work.

The school has available for work equipment, 260 trucks, 20 tractors and 70 touring cars; also road repairing and snow removing equipment, cranes, hoists, electric and pneumatic tools, air compressors, power and and hand tools equal to the best equipped service stations in the large cities.

On account of the illness of Rev. Mr. Browne, Sunday, Sidney Eard, lay reader, of Brooklyn, conducted the morning service at St. Philip's Episcopal church. In the evening there was choir rehearsal at the home of Mrs. Pierre Myers. It was announced that the first in a series of organ recitals will be given next Sunday evening by Walter Dodge, organist of the Methodist church.

At the Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Simeon E. Cozad spoke on The One Increasing Purpose. At the Men's Forum at 12 o'clock, Dr. Edward F. Perry was leader, the subject being Unsung Heroes of American History. At the 6 o'clock Y. P. S. C. E. meeting the subject was Dangers of Trifling With Life, God and the Soul.

The morning service at the Baptist church was conducted by Rev. Dr. W. E. Witter of Assam, who is in the United States, on a furlough from his mission center. The senior men's class was led by Judge M. H. Geissler. The class reading and tudying the city charter. At the evening service the pastor, Rev. John C. Stoddard spoke on Fatted on the Same Grass.

After the Sunday morning service at the Methodist church the afternoon was devoted to the every-member canvass to secure pledges for the coming conference year.

There was a large attendance at all masses at St. Mary's church Sunday morning, the first Sunday in Lent. Tuesday and Friday evenings during Lent special devotions are held.

Two drunks, thirty days each, was written into the records of the Putnam city court, Saturday morning. Louis LaMountaine of North Grosvenordale gambled with his life by drinking a quantity of medicated alcohol which he procured at a local drug store. The man works more or less—generally less—and when not working lives on his mother. Louis wasn't feeling very good after his medicated spree when he appeared in court.

The second drunk was William Regan, of Fall River, whose last place of employment was Attawaugan. Well into the month of April he will be working for the county in the village of Brooklyn.

Announcements have been received in Putnam of the marriage in Willimantic of Loretta Ruthier Gaucher, who died in Putnam several years ago, and Roderick G. Dion, of Willimantic. They were married in St. Mary's church, Willimantic, by Rev. W. Arthur Routhier, curate of St. Mary's church, Putnam, a brother of the bride. The witnesses were Rev. J. J. Papillion of Willimantic and Nazarie Routhier. The bridegroom, who is the son of Mayor Dion, is the proprietor of a bakery in Willimantic and Mr. and Mrs. Dion will make their home in Willimantic upon their return from a wedding trip.

Frank Visocchi, a shoemaker, shot and probably fatally wound Marietta Bianchi, 16 years old, at her home in Newton, Mass., and then turned his pistol on himself. A bullet entered his head at the right temple.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

That soggy spot you can't explain—

Moist atmosphere, even temperature absolutely control it

OCCASIONALLY in the middle of an otherwise very good-looking loaf of bread, you will find a soggy spot that you cannot explain.

The cause of this is practically always what the experts call imperfect fermentation. That is, the bread has not risen uniformly. At some point in the rising process, there has come a change in atmospheric conditions—in temperature or in the degree of moisture—and the growth of the tiny yeast plants, that alone can make bread light, has been checked.

To secure perfect fermentation, it is important that the bread should be raised at a certain even temperature and an even degree of humidity. If either varies by so much as a fraction of a degree, the effect will show itself in a spot of a doughy consistency and darker color than the rest of the loaf. Only the up-to-date model bakery, with its scientific means for keeping the atmosphere always at the same temperature and humidity, can absolutely guarantee you against such accidents.

White Rose Bread, the Master Loaf of the Six Bakers, shows always the same even texture and pure creamy color because the bakeries in which it is made are equipped with every scientific device for perfect control over atmospheric conditions.

This, together with the fact that it is made of the best materials, and that it is carefully baked by experts, is what gives the White Rose Bread its reputation for being always of the same high quality.

Ask for it at your grocer's—in the new wrapper with the checked tea-towel pattern.

PLAINFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Currier of Millbury, Mass., moved to Plainfield last week with their family consisting of seven children. They occupy one of the houses in the new village, Mr. Currier is employed by the Lawton Mills corporation.

Miss Clara Atwood and Miss Alice Driscoll have concluded their work in the Lawton mills medical department. Miss Atwood left Saturday for Stonington and Miss Driscoll will finish her engagement this week. Both nurses have done exceptionally good work and have been greatly appreciated for their efficiency in the service. Miss Gorman, of the medical department of the Lancaster mills, one of the Lockwood and Greene mills, will be transferred to Plainfield to fill the vacancy. The plan is to reduce the force to one nurse for the present.

Miss Joan M. Kirby was one of the callers in Putnam recently on Miss Rose Beaudry at the Day Kimball hospital, who is getting on well, having sat up Sunday for the first time.

Miss Ethel Dawley, bookkeeper at the store of Arthur C. Tillinghast, has been living at the home of her brother Irving Dawley, for the last four weeks. She returned home Saturday.

Robert Flowers was home from Providence over Sunday, visiting his parents, returning Monday.

The Monday Afternoon Sewing class at the Community house was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Drescher, of Baltic, were in town Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stubbs.

Mrs. Jennie Babcock, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Hermon B. Chapman, returned Saturday to her home in Hartford. Mrs. John L. Chapman accompanied her to Hartford for a week's visit.

What's Best for a Bad Stomach?

Nine-tenths of all stomach trouble—indigestion, sourness, gas, pain, heartburn, etc., are caused by an excess of acid in the stomach.

Artificial digestants, such as pepsin, are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids, and instead neutralize the acid that has upset your stomach with a spoonful or two tablets of pure Bisurated Magnesia, taken with a little water. This instantly sweetens the stomach and stops the pain and discomfort and your food digests as nature intended. For quick positive relief from Acid Stomach

WHAT CARELESSNESS DOES.

The motor vehicle department has repeatedly presented the number and type of accidents in the state due to automobiles, but not until this week has it set forth just what it meant in dollars and cents. Figuring lives on that basis may be regarded as cold blooded but there is a basis for such and insurance actuaries have been consulted in arriving at the conclusions.

Whether the setting forth of the fact that there was a financial loss due to the 280 fatalities last year amounting to $4,200,000 will create any greater care on the part of those driving cars or those using highways is doubtful. Perhaps it will have no more effect than the presentation of the fact that the motor vehicles did damage to the extent of $7,728,600 to property and individuals, but there is cause for stopping, looking and listening to the portion of the report which shows that there were 10,947 accidents due to bad driving, 697 to defective equipment, 3,281 to carelessness of persons other than operators, 157 to carelessness of pedestrians and 26 to persons jumping off or onto motor vehicles.

It thus sets forth where the responsibility rests for bringing about a material reduction in the number of accidents. There is indicated the need of greater care on the part of the operators, on the part of other persons than operators, on the part of pedestrians and of those who jump on and off of vehicles. It is in fact a strong argument for the exercise of more care, the assumption of a greater degree of responsibility and the putting forth of the needed effort to protect the other fellow as well as self.

It is time for recognition of the fact that motor vehicles are increasing, that others have a right to and are using the highways, that rules of the road should be strictly respected at all times, that carelessness is a habit that should be shunned, that there is danger in the highway and that the quicker everyone does his part in the commendable work of preventing accidents as well as protecting self the quicker will there be that reduction in accidents and financial losses that have already grown to too large proportions.

CONNECTICUT LUMBER.

No doubt State Forester Hewes recognizes that he is struggling with a hard problem when he urges the importance of planting more trees for the purpose of growing lumber, but there is no dodging the fact that he is directing attention to a situation that should get more attention. If he succeeds in stimulating interest by his efforts he will accomplish his object. But in view of all that has been said and the response that has been made it is bound to be a steady job.

Connecticut isn't rated as a lumbering state. Large acreages have been cleared and used for other purposes. Connecticut is engaged chiefly in manufacturing but there is nevertheless a constant demand for lumber. Building operations are increasing and even though other materials are being extensively used the day when lumber is not required has not as yet been reached, and there is no chance that it will be.

This state may not be in a position to furnish all the lumber that is used but it can provide much more than is done at the present time. Vast acreages are practically unemployed. Woodlands are cut off and allowed to remain idle, except for natural growth, when the devotion of a little attention to such land would provide for timber in the years to come.

When it is realized that the freight charges on the lumber brought into this state amounts to $3,000,000 each year it is evident that there is a wonderful chance to cut that down. Perhaps Connecticut cannot meet the demands in the way of lumber, but it can supply a larger proportion of the demands, to the advantage of the land owners, and to the relief of the person who builds.

Endeavors to awaken an interest in this direction are therefore highly commendable and deserving of the greatest success. It means a sensible utilization of the land which is now little better than waste land. It has been persistently maintained that Connecticut could grow a larger proportion of the crops that it requires, and lumber is one of those crops. It requires time but it is profitable and a proper provision for the future.

THE ALIEN INSANE.

An interesting phase of the immigration problem is brought to light by the report of the hospital commission of New York state which shows that there were included on the books of the institutions for the past year over 18,000 aliens, in addition to whom there were over 7,000 naturalized aliens among the patients, or a foreign born population in the hospitals of over 43 per cent.

Just what this means to New York state is shown by the statement that there was an expense of $3,000,000 during the year because of the alien patients and in view of the fact that a majority of the aliens have been in this country so long that they cannot be deported under the five-year law it means a continuous expense.

The alien insane and the insanity among the foreign born population is a problem that concerns more than the Empire state. Connecticut feels the effects of it quite the same as other states. It all contributes to the demands for constantly increasing facilities for caring for the mentally disturbed, and makes it evident that a corresponding degree of care should be exercised in seeing that the number of such aliens admitted should be kept at the minimum.

In getting the history of insanity cases and those who are liable to become public charges because of it the idea of having the fitness of aliens passed upon abroad has its good points. With the insane institutions being filled, new institutions necessitated and large expense involved because of the many cases from abroad it becomes evident that the problem of meeting this situation must steadily grow bigger unless a different method of dealing with such conditions is adopted.

When the question of new immigration legislation is under consideration it appears to be one of the problems that is entitled to thoughtful attention with a view to betterment in the future. New York is one of the states which is sure to feel the effects more than some others, but its experience cannot fail to make a lasting impression.

SETTING GOOD EXAMPLES.

It is possible for nations as well as individuals to set good examples. There was a most impressive one offered by the United States at the opening of the conference at Washington that resulted in the naval agreement. It has continued to have its good effects and the attitude of other nations on various questions can unquestionably be traced thereto. Other things may have had their influence but there was that example to serve as a guide and to disarm suspicion.

It is known what sympathy has been shown by Japan along the same lines. It is not only following the agreement requirements but even before the earthquake it was cutting its appropriations for army and navy requirements. Probably no nation ever felt a greater relief than did Japan following the quake to realize that it was not necessary for it to plunge into enormous expenditures for military purposes when there was a real need for them in other directions.

Likewise there is noticed in Great Britain a disposition to steer clear of those outlays that annoy others. Recently it has been announced that there would be a number of cruisers laid down in order to give employment to many out of work, but along with it comes the intimation that there is to be an appreciable cut in army appropriations and the claim that the ministry will not approve the proposed outlay of $50,000,000 for a naval base at Singapore.

It is clearly the reflection of conditions and the attitude of nations toward the limitation of armaments. The good example of the big nations cannot fail to have its effect upon the smaller ones, where there is quite as much if not greater need for curbing extravagant outlays.

ALFRED H. SMITH.

That the day is not past when a person can rise from an obscure place to that of commanding importance is illustrated by the career of Alfred H. Smith, the president of the New York Central road, whose untimely end came as the result of being thrown from his horse on the path of New York's central park.

In his case, as in that of others, there had been the remarkable advancement of going from the shovel-swinging, tie-ballasting section hand to the head of one of the greatest railroad systems in the country, and all because of the manner in which he grasped the essentials of railroading and the way in which he devoted himself to his duties.

Few are there who become division superintendents before they are 30, yet that was the distinction of Alfred H. Smith. That it was deserved is shown by the remarkable manner in which he continued to climb the ladder. His capabilities marked him for advancement and he was ready for the successive calls when they came.

The government in recognition of his ability made him assistant director general of railroads during the period of government control of railroads during the war, but his railroad service has been most prominently identified with the upbuilding of the New York Central system since he assumed that important task. He was one of those transportation leaders whose passing is certain to be seriously felt by the great organization of which he was the guiding force.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to the Bulletin)

Washington, D. C., March 10.—"Who is the democratic presidential nominee as viewed from a Washington standpoint?" was the question asked your correspondent a few days ago. Like the man at the zoo, who saw a giraffe for the first time we might reply, "There ain't no such animal." Of democratic aspirants there are plenty, but apparently no man at this moment holds anything like the balance of power at the coming New York convention.

The writer asked four democratic senators and four democratic members of the house their opinion as to the outcome of the national convention with almost as many opinions expressed in reply as there were questions asked.

Toy balloons, to show which way the wind is blowing have been sent up by a score or more aspirants, whose hats are already in the ring, or who are twirling them ready for a throw if the wind blows in their direction. All seem to have some followers, but all suffer from the outspoken opposition of other staunch democrats, religious affiliations, locality, whether wet or dry, the bonus, the tax bill, the league of nations or a world court, ku klux, labor union and several other "stands" previously taken by would be candidates play a big part in the game. At this moment no one seems to have a sure lead, and roughly summed up the situation, as viewed here is this:

McAdoo, still has some loyal supporters, but has lost so much ground through his oil connections and huge fees received from big corporations that he is practically out of the running; Underwood has firm friends but will have the antagonism of the K. K. K., the prohibition extremists, and has the disadvantage of being a southerner who openly boasts that he is glad of it; Reed of Missouri is not taken seriously here beyond the possible control of the Missouri delegation should he be able to dictate who goes to the New York convention, something that seems doubtful at this moment; former Secretary of the Navy Daniels, whose oil lease policies are said to be identical with those of Denby, is not regarded as even a possibility, though one hears his name sometimes mentioned; Smith of New York is regarded as "out of it" except by a few eastern men who still cling to him; the name of Copeland of the senate is regarded as a joke; Walsh of Montana is a Roman Catholic, and it is doubtful whether in any event his mix-up in the oil bearings and his warm friendship for Doheny, as revealed in personal telegrams read in the committee, would gain him, a hearing at the convention; Ralston of Indiana, except for his age of 67 or thereabouts is evidently a strong favorite for the presidency, and even now seems to be figured by many as the best dark horse in sight. But, by the way, has no illusions regarding his chances. "I am all right for one term," he is said to have remarked, but a second term would be out of the question and I think our people will want a man good for eight years of hard work in the White House." In a general way that sums up the opinion here.

It was noticeable that one of the eight men referred to mentioned the name of Homer S. Cummings, although a while ago he was spoken of as a possibility, when convention candidates were being enumerated.

It is by the process of elimination that each would-be candidate and his friends base their hopes. For instance, in talking with the eight senators and members of the house your correspondent got these replies either as shown by direct quotation or in substance, although the men talking were not willing to be quoted in person.

Said a senator from the south: "McAdoo is my candidate. The oil hearings haven't even touched him. Of course many delegates to the convention who would otherwise have been pledged to him will go unpledged now, but the result will be the same." Senator No. 2 from the south remarked, "McAdoo is entirely out of the race. The oil hearing killed him, although I personally believe he was entirely within his right in accepting the fees he did. With McAdoo out of the way we shall have no trouble in putting Underwood in." Senator No. 3 from the west said, "Neither Underwood or McAdoo have the slightest chance, and with those two men out of the race we shall put up a strong western man to head the ticket, when the time comes. I have no comment to make on who it will be. If a dark horse comes in it looks to me like Ralston in spite of his handicap in age. Senator No. 4 was entirely non-committal. "It will depend entirely on the issue before the people when June comes. We shall put up a progressive democrat who will gather in the votes formerly cast by the so-called insurgent republicans for I do not believe a third party of any strength will develop." One of the democratic senators praised the level headedness of President Coolidge; one remained silent, and the two others either insinuated or openly boasted that they could beat a New England man anyhow.

The result of questioning members of the house was about the same. Their replies ran all the way from "No one can predict now" to one for McAdoo, one for Smith and one for Underwood.

The situation of the republicans is exactly opposite at this moment, for it seems that as no scandal touches the past life of President Coolidge, the only means at hand for weakening his tremendous strength in the country is to either conduct a "whispering campaign" against him and go by insinuation involve him in matters with which he has no connection, or to assail his personal friendships even to the extent that he cannot extend the ordinary civilities of life to persons not to the liking of those who plot to get Coolidge out of the running by hook or by crook. Those men also believe they can weaken his influence and power by making a target of his well known caution and insistence that he will not act till he knows the right course to follow nor will he condemn unheard, those who have been accused of wrong doing but for which no proof has been put forward. The impression here is that the country will soon tire of these attempts to belittle the president and will condemn all such cheap partisanship and unwarranted malice. The more staid and experienced democratic senators are urging a letup in such methods, believing they will act as a boomerang and come back against the democratic party before the November election takes place. Whether or not they can influence their colleagues who lead the assaults on the president and his cabinet, cannot be forecasted. Unfortunately Democratic Floor leader Robinson has been guilty of wantonly aggressive assaults, else the course of weeding out such unseemly attacks would be easier.

A bonus bill along entirely new lines was introduced "by request" today by Congressman Tilson. The bill was was written by Sergeant von Hacht of Milford, Connecticut, who served all through the war as chauffeur for General Pershing, and who asked Colonel Tilson to get it before congress.

The bill is partly along the lines of that offered by Congressman Fish. It calls for no cash payment and is in the form of a paid up annuity based on length of service. The new feature is that the bonus is not to be paid to men under 62 years of age unless they are in need and distress, when the government would pay them the sum designated in the rating. At the age of 62 the sum would be available regardless of need or distress of the recipient, and before that time it could be used as security on borrowing if need be.

The ways and means committee will hear von Hacht on the merits of his bill at a hearing this week, and although none of the member of congress including Col. Tilson, stand sponsor for the measure, several have expressed the opinion that it has many excellent features.

The ways and means committee will urge a paid up life insurance but a proposal to include an option of full cash payments is also under consideration. In fact, through amendments, it is impossible to make even a tentative prediction of what will happen to the bonus.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

Last night at dinner, when I came in a little late after the matinee and tea downtown, mother eyed me accusingly. I could see that for some reason I was the subject of her displeasure. I often wish that mother were of a more placid nature. Indeed, I have told her that I was sure that the lines in her forehead and the tiny wrinkles around her eyes were caused by her unfortunate lack of self-control.

"It is really wearing on your nervous system, mother darling," I told her, "to allow yourself to be so easily disturbed over small annoyances."

"Small annoyances!" she repeated in a tone of exasperation, and I realized that it was hopeless to try to help her gain a sweeter serenity of spirit.

Since that conversation I have merely tried to be patient with her. So, as we were leaving the dining room last evening I answered very gently when she asked me why I had borrowed her beaded bag without her permission.

"You weren't home, dear, when I happened to need it."

"Well, Lucile, you might at least have returned it. I had a perfectly maddening hunt for it this morning. I wished especially to carry it, for I was going out with Aunt Rachel, and I know it pleases her to see me using a gift of hers. However, I don't think it pleased her particularly to see that about half the fringe was torn off."

"That, mother, is the reason that I didn't put it back in your room. I've been intending to match those beads and have cousin Fannie repair that fringe. The bag got caught in Dexter Hainer' car door, and he offered to send it to a jeweler to be mended, but, of course, I had better taste than to allow him to do that, even if he did slam the door on it. Don't worry about it, dear, for I'm sure that Cousin Fannie can do it beautifully. You know she is wonderfully clever at bead work."

"I konw that it will be a very difficult task, Lucile, which shouldn't be imposed on Fannie. It must be sent to a jeweler's and be mended and relined," declared mother emphatically.

"Why relined?" I asked.

"Because you utterly ruined the lining, and this dress I have on will have to go to the cleaner's. The whole front of it is simply daubed with [illegible]."

"I don't see what I have to do with that, mother," I said.

"Let me tell you. When I met Aunt Rachel at her club for luncheon she explained at once that I was covered with white paint. I said I couldn't be, but she insisted that I had rubbed against some fresh paint, and when I looked down at myself I believed her, although I had gone right straight downtown in the bus and hadn't been near any fence or building of any kind. I went into the dressing room and the maid scrubbed me off, and—"

"Still, mother, I don't understand what I had to do with it."

"Wait!" mother commanded. "After luncheon when Aunt Rachel and I rose from the table she pointed at my skirt. I looked down and there I was again, all daubed in white. It certainly was mysterious. I had it wiped off again, and then we went over to the Art institute to see a collection of jade that Aunt Rachel is interested in, and she suddenly exclaimed that I had got some more paint on me.

"In despair I handed her my bag to hold while I wiped it off with my handkerchief as best I could, and, Lucile, when she gave me back the bag I saw with horror that there was a lot of that white stuff on her velvet frock. Then the mystery was solved. I found the large tube of cold cream with the cap off, that had been oozing through the bag all day. I'm afraid Aunt Rachels dress is ruined. It's next to impossible to get that greasy stuff off velvet. I do wish you weren't so rattlebrained, Lucile."

"But, mother, I——"

"There's no excuse you can offer," she said shortly, "which will undo the damage done by your heedlessness."

Sometimes I think mother is the most unreasonable person I know.—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Today is the twenty-fifth birthday of Crown Prince Christian Frederick, who in the natural course of events will one day sit on the throne of Denmark, being the oldest son and heir of the present sovereign of that country. The title or name which this Prince bears has one peculiar feature which may be truly said to distinguish the royal family of Denmark from any other, it being the law of Denmark that Christian must be succeeded by Frederick and Frederick by Christian. To attain this end without the changing of names every Danish prince, no matter what other names he may receive, always includes Christian and Frederick among them, and, therefore, every King of either Christian of Frederick, and it has been thus for more than 400 years. The present king (son of the late King Frederick VIII) bears the title of Christian X., and the Crown will upon ascending the throne become known as King Frederick IX.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Agrees With Mr. Troland

Mr. Editor: In reading Mr. Troland's letter on keeping politics out of the church, I heartily agree with him. The church's mission is to teach the doctrine of our Saviour, and as He said. His teachings were so simple that any wayfaring man could understand them. May I venture to recall to mind, not in a spirit of controversy, but as some facts of Holy Scripture, that our Saviour came, not only to save, but also to teach. He instructed his apostles and sent them forth saying: "Go ye forth and teach all nations, baptizing them in the Name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Ghost. Teach them all truths which I have commanded you." He also told them, "They have persecuted me, they will persecute you." Now, we will see how well they performed their tasks. They were fearful for a while of the angry crowds and were huddled together in a small room when the Holy Ghost came down on them and they were filled with the Holy Ghost and were no longer afraid, and as Holy Scripture tells us, there were over 2000 converted that day. The story of their trials is well known to all of us, but to show how strong they planted the faith in them they underwent all kinds of hardships even to giving up their lives. They were persecuted by the Roman government for 300 years. When they won over the government without bloodshed, they went forth anew and in about the same period of time converted all of Europe. In the 8th century the Turks had a schism and by the sword undid all their labors and caused no end of trouble. In the 14th and part of the 15th century civil history tells us the people were more contented than at any other period. Then a wave of worldliness, such as we are experiencing now, took place in the 16th century. The reformers borrowed some Christians, some willing and some by the sword. They said, "Let us show you, you are not doing it right," but spiritually they were a failure for when they took them over they were Christians, believing in God. They have everything in their favor. Money, the press, and education, but every year finds them farther from the goal. I wonder who is responsible for the lost sheep. I believe the Pharisees could have avoided this controversity in Christianity had they accepted our Saviour. It would have confirmed all our Saviour's teachings and the critics would have to find new grounds for their opinions. It does not make any difference what we individuals think. It is God's way and His way is one way for everybody.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

by DAVID CORY

Off For Rabbitville

"Now cross your heart and shut your eyes,
There's going to be a great surprise.
And when he comes to Rabbitville,
You all must be so good and still,

Not misbehave or say a thing
Which might hereafter leave a sting.
Be always kind and most polite,
And go to bed before midnight."

sang the Ladybug ticket agent at the Bunnybridge station as Little Jack rabbit hopped on the train for Rabbitville.

"Choo, choo!" went engine No. 23.

"Toot, toot!" screamed the whistle. "All aboard!" shouted the Old Red Rooster, who was now conductor. Away went the cars, over the bridge and through the dell, while the engineer as he passed his little house close to the railroad track, sang clear and loud:

"Goodbye Mrs. Engineer,
I'll be home tonight, my dear.
Have the supper steaming hot,
Boston Baked Beans in the pot,
Angel cake and succotash,—

But please don't have Corn Beef Hash!"

By this time, the little bunny had seated himself in the "Lallapaloosa" Parlor Car as soon as the porter had placed his bag in the turn-around chair. Then he turned to the little bunny and said: "Brush you, Sir?"

"Not now," answered the little rabbit, "Mother brushed my hair just before I started."

So the Black Poodle Porter trotted on to the next car, and just before they came to the next station, he poked his head in through the door and shouted:

"Cabbage City! Change care here for Turnipville and Lettucemere."

"Wait a minute," cried an old Lady duck. "Did you say "Gooseville?"

"No, I didn't. That comes next," answered the Old Red Rooster conductor who happened to take the tickets at that moment.

"Tickets, tickets, if you please.
Full of holes, like nice Swiss cheese,
I will punch them one to ten,
So they can't be used again."

All of a sudden, he pulled the bell rope and pretty soon the train came to a standstill.

"Gooseville!" shouted the Black Poodle Porter.

Out jumped the Lady Duck with her bag,
While the brakeman waved his bright red flag.
Then the engine whistle gave a toot,
And away went the train just lickety scoot.

But, Oh dear me. They had gone but a mile
Then the Old Red Rooster said with a smile,
"Close the windows, and please don't shiver,
For we're going under the Sippi River."

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

CHILD TRAINING

OBEDIENCE IN CHILDREN

By Julia W. Wolfe

All educators are firm believers in obedience, but just as soon as the child is old enough to reason—and this age is reached much earlier than we usually assume—obedience to law should be given equal stress with obedience to individuals. This necessity is sometimes lost sight of.

Law is universal; the child meets it at every turn. He will find that it is impartial, if relentless, and that its rewards for obedience are as certain as are its punishments for disobedience. Parents cannot always be with their children to guide and control them, and, the sooner they teach them the inevitable operation of law, the better fitted the children will be to meet the obligations of the future.

Two mothers of my acquaintance followed two distinct methods with their children. The first became their mentor, calling them each morning to get ready for school long before it was necessary. She followed this call with a continous supervision of their preparations and with frequent remonstrance, such as, "You'll be late; do hurry; it is almost nine o'clock." (when it was not half-past eight) until the children were off. This same mother had a habit of setting the clock forward, and, this being discovered by the children, their demoralization was complete.

These children are now grown up, and they attribute their habits of procrastination and tardiness to the faulty training they received in childhood.

The second mother, as soon as her children reached the school age, said to each one earnestly, "Now, my dear, you have learned to tell time, and mother, as well as your teacher, will expect you to be prompt at school. I will remind you the first two or three mornings, but, after that, you must depend entirely upon yourself."

It happened in the first or second week that one child, becoming interested in something else, forgot to make his preparations in time to reach school before the bell sounded. But in this one tardiness he learned his lesson. Though the mother knew he would be late, she did not depart from the rule not to remind him, and, while no one could have been more sympathetic than she over the tardiness, at the same time, she very gently and lovingly encouraged the child to realize that, if he were careful, it would not occur again. The result was that her children early learned the value of time, while punctuality became second nature to them.

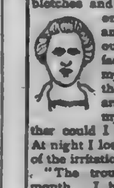
The same method wisely applied would solve many of the every day problems of life without the friction that frequently occurs and which is so injurious to the nervous organism of the child, to say nothing of the mental strain on the parents.

Appeal to the highest sentiments in your child, and the result will be gratifying.

There are simple systems of reward for very young children, which are of assistance in helping to establish certain beneficial habits at an age when habits are easily formed, but these rewards should be discontinued as the child grows older, and appeal should be made to the sense of justice and the sense of altruism which children often possess to an uncommon degree.

Of course it is consoling to the spinster to hee a married man leaded to the guards with moonshine.

Cuticura Heals Itching Eczema On Arms and Face



"My trouble began with red blotches and itching and burning on my arms and face, and then eczema broke out with a rash. My face was disfigured and my clothing aggravated the breaking out on my arms. I could not put my hands in water, neither could I do my regular work. At night I lost my rest on account of the irritation.

"The trouble lasted about a month. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Leon Hallock, 104 Atkins St., Bellows Falls, Vt.

MRS. REESE PLEADED GUILTY TO EXTORTION

Cambridge, Mass., March 10.—Mrs. Lillian Hardy Reese, co-defendant with William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, and three others charged with extortion, today pleaded guilty to two counts of the indictment withdrawing her previous plea of not guilty.

The jury for the trial was selected late this afternoon, Judge W. H. Whiting asking the panel to inform him if any persons should attempt to influence their opinion in the case. Corcoran has twice been placed on trial in Suffolk county, and in each instance a mistrial has been declared, the second time because to influences the jury were alleged by a witness.

A motion for a separate trial for Theresa Duggan, one of the defendants, was denied. The other defendants are U. Warren Kane, and Theodore Barse. All five are charged with attempting to extort money from Kenneth Merrill after women in the employ of an alleged "blackmail ring" had lured Merrill into compromising situations.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. John H. Cranston

The death of Anne Borodell Denison Cranston, wife of the late John H. Cranston of this city, occurred at her home in Mystic at 9 o'clock Monday morning. She was born in Mystic February 9, 1844, the daughter of Isaac W. and Eunice Burrows Denison. On September 19, 1865, she was united in marriage with John H. Cranston, for many years owner of the Cranston Printing Press company of Thamesville. They made their home in Norwich from 1865 to 1911 and from the summer or early fall in 1873 resided at 198 West Thames street. From 1911 until her death Mrs. Cranston had lived in Mystic at her former home. She was a member of the Central Baptist church and while in this city took an active interest in church affairs.

Mrs. Cranston has two children living, Mrs. Fannie Denison Cranston Parsons of Providence and Frederic H. Cranston of this city. She is also survived by one brother, Frederic Denison of Mystic and three sisters, Mrs. Hannah B. Meservey of East Bridgewater, Mass., Miss Lavinia F. Denison and Miss Emily F. Denison of Mystic. Two cousins also survive, Charles D. Noyes and G. Frederic Noyes of Norwich; also one grandchild, Doris Cranston Parsons of Providence.

Mrs. Cranston had been ill for about two months although not seriously until recently. On February 9th she quietly observed her 80th birthday, several Norwich relatives attending. In October of last year she was in Norwich to attend the birthday celebration of her son, Frederic H. Cranston.

She was a woman of high ideals, possessing a kind and loving disposition which gained for her a wide circle of friends in Norwich, Mystic and other places where she had been. In her death the family has lost a member whose place can never be filled and many friends are left to mourn the loss of a loved one.

Peter Srocha, pastor of the church. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. There was a large attendance and there were many beautiful flowers. Shea & Burke had charge of the funeral arrangements.

STORRS HENS SHOW BEST WEEK SINCE NOVEMBER

The hens in the Storrs laying contest are now on a fifty-fifty basis; which means that on the average half the hens in the contest are on duty one day and off the next. Tuesday in the eighteenth week they laid 2435 eggs or a yield of approximately 50 per cent. This is a jump of 563 eggs over the previous week's production and is in fact the best week the birds have had since the contest started last November. C. T. Darby's pen of Leghorns from North Branch, N. J., won first place with a score of 62 eggs, which exactly duplicates their performance for the preceeding week. Leghorns owned by Hilltop Farm at Suffield, Conn., and Fernside Farm's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Attleboro, Mass., tied for second place with 57 eggs each. Two Massachusetts pens of Rhode Island Reds entered by Sunset Poultry Farm at Amherst and Red Mount Farm from Franklin were third and fourth with 56 and 54 eggs respectively.

Clean eggs for the consumer ought to be every poultryman's motto. Wiping eggs with a damp cloth does not injure the product but to launder eggs in a wash tub as has happened in some extreme cases is carrying cleanliness a little too far. Washing does not improve the quality. It is far better to protect the dropping boards, provide clean litter and clean nests and thus produce clean eggs. Such a plan saves poultrymen the trouble of washing and delivers to the consumer a product of higher quality. Washed eggs lose flavor and keep less well, and furthermore a poorly washed egg that is streaked and smeared is not at all attractive.

The four leading pens in each of the principal breeds are as follows:

FUGITIVE FROM MYSTIC CAUGHT IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Mass., March 10.—Joseph Adds, 19, of 24 Park street, Charlestown, Mass., who escaped from jail in Mystic, Conn., about two weeks ago, while awaiting trial for robbery, was captured by local police today as he alighted from a freight train after 10 days in New Hmpshire. He robbed a house in Mystic, he confessed to the police, to secure funds to accomplish his escape.

Automobile Accident

Dominic Pasqualine of 131 Thames street reported at police headquarters Monday afternoon that while he was about to drive his automobile from Thames street into High street a car with registration CX-1376 that was coming behind him ran into the sidewalk steps and fence at this point and also hit his machine. The other car suffered two bent mud guards but proceeded on its way to New London after giving its registration number to Mr. Pasqualine.

CONNECTICUT RIVER OPPOSITION TO DEEPENING THAMES RIVER

Two new members were taken into the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, William H. O'Neil of O'Neil Electric company, and Max Sternlieb of the Connecticut Pants Co., at a meeting of the directors of the chamber held Monday noon.

Reports of progress were made regarding equitable taxation activity, also concerning the establishment of a bus station and reservation in this city for the comfort of the traveling public served by the three bus lines operating from Norwich.

Attention was again called to the rather strong opposition that has developed in Washington concerning the deepening of the Thames river channel from Allyn's Point to Norwich.

The detailed survey ordered by the war department, as a result of a conference in Washington last May between a board of army engineers and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, has been made and final touches are being given to the report.

Among the army engineers are those who do not believe the commercial tonnage carried on the Thames river justifies the expense of deepening the channel, the tonnage being less than that carried on the Connecticut river to Hartford and other cities along the river. It is argued that the Connecticut river channel is but 12 feet deep while the Thames, from Allyn's Point to Norwich, is 14 feet and Norwich is asking for a deeper channel.

The local officials of the Chamber of Commerce met this argument, stating that the boats for navigating the Connecticut river were specially constructed for use of the channel of that river, made especially for the company operating these boats. This is not true of the line operating the Thames river. The engineers also claim that other boats can operate in the Connecticut river channel, and the local members of the Chamber of Commerce agree but claim that such boats are very limited in number, the consequence being that the freight charges are about the same as all rail freight and in some case exceeds the all rail freight.

The local officials claim that nearly $260,000 may be saved annually by industries and manufacturing interests of this section of the state through cheaper freight rates, should the channel of the Thames river be deepened sufficiently to accommodate boats of the type needed to meet the demands of the business in this section of the state.

At their meeting the directors authorized the appointment of a special committee to again confer with Major Peterson in the final effort to bring this important improvement to a successful issue.

GRAND OPERA DELIGHTS BIG NORWICH AUDIENCE

An audience that filled the Palace theatre practically to its capacity Monday night had warm words of appreciation for the theatre management for bringing the San Carlo Grand Opera Co. here and high praise for the performance of Madame Butterfly that the company gave with Tamaki Miura, the Japanese prima donna, singing the title role. The excellent company, with the flawless orchestra so completely responsive to its conductor, Aldo Franchetti, made the evening quite the most notable of the musical season in the city and oft repeated curtain calls at the end of each act brought the leading artists, with Conductor Franchetti, back to bow their acknowledgments of the enthusiastic reception given them by the Norwich audience.

The following was the cast:

Madame Butterfly (Cio-Cio-San) Tamaki Miura

Suzuki (Her Servant) Elvira Leveroni

B. F. Pinkerton (of U. S. Navy) Colin O'More

Kate Pinkerton (His American Wife) Alma Shaw

Sharpless (U. S. Consul) Graham Marr

Goro (Marriage Broker) Amado Baldi

Yamadore (Suitor for Cio-Cio San) Fausto Bozza

The Bonze (Cio-Cio-San's Uncle) Charles E. Galagher

Trouble Frances Hess

Good acting and good singing went hand in hand throughout the cast assembled by Fortune Gallo and the appearance of a Japanese soprano as Madame Butterfly lent a unique interest to the performance. Tamaki Miura lived the part for her audience and sang with a voice of beauty and power. Colin O'More as Lieut. Pinkerton, used his fine tenor voice in an admirable manner and acted his part convincingly, while Miss Leveroni, Mr. Marr, Mr. Baldi, Mr. Bozza and Mr. Galagher made their roles equally satisfactory.

Beautiful and adequate stage settings were a part in the complete success of the production. Manager William Harding of the Palace theater had the lobby converted into a bower of beauty with special floral decorations arranged by Ernst for the evening.

SAN CARLO MANAGER PRAISES PALACE THEATER

Manager William Harding of the Palace theater, has received the following from W. E. Cuthbert, manager of the San Carlo Grand Opera company:

Norwich, Conn., March 11, 1924.

Mr. William Harding, Manager Palace Theatre, Norwich, Conn.

Dear Mr. Harding: I wish to thank you sincerely for the splendid manner in which the San Carlo Grand Opera company was housed at the Palace theatre last evening.

In my estimation the Palace theatre offers facilities ample in every respect for the handling of the biggest productions on tour. Nothing has been overlooked. The dressing rooms were fine—clean—airy and large. The electrical equipment is modern and your stage ample. The San Carlo Grand Opera company, while the largest traveling grand opera organization in America, had room enough for its entire production of Madame Butterfly.

After the performance Madame Miura, Colin O'More and other members of the organization spoke very highly of the acoustics of the Palace theatre. We have played practically all the large cities in the United States and Canada and in many instances the acoustics were not to be compared with your own Palace theatre.

I also wish to thank you for the true spirit of showmanship as shown by yourself and employes. Our engagement in Norwich at your theatre was a delight and I sincerely hope we return again next year.

With kindest personal regards, I

Yours truly,
W. E. CUTHBERT,
Manager San Carlo Grand Opera Co.

NEW LONDON RUNAWAY BOY FOUND HERE

John Swanson, an 11 year old New London boy, whose parents live at 351 Vauxhall street, left his home Monday after he had been scolded by his mother, and was found in Thamesville early in the evening by a fruit peddler named Zeller who lives at 57 Maple street.

Mr. Zeller took the boy to police headquarters where he volunteered to take care of him until his parents were located. The latter came here Monday night and took the boy home. The little fellow left a note in his bedroom when he went to school, saying that he was going to leave home and never coming back.

GIFTS FOR PATIENTS AT STATE SANATORIUM

Mrs. Victoria J. Plante and Mrs. Gee of the sick committee of the Hourigan Post Auxiliary visited the tuberculosis sanatorium Sunday and distributed fruit and magazines among ten patients, two nurses and eight men, who had seen service in the world war. The gifts were greatly appreciated by the patients who extended their heartfelt thanks to the women. The magazines were donated by Peter Sellas and Shea's News Bureau.

TO EFFECT SAVING ON ROAD COSTS

After an exhaustive survay of motor truck traffic in Connecticut, conducted by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and the state highway department, sufficient data has been obtained it is believed, to bring about large savings in nationwide road construction costs.

Statistics compiled as a result of the census are being used by the Bureau of Public Roads as a basis for further effort along the same lines in a number of other states. The system is being used as a model and it is expected to have far-reaching effects on future highway development in the country as a whole.

Accurate details concerning the weight, type, and tonnage of traffic—vital information for the road designer in plotting a section of highway—are obtainable only through such a census, and the result of the Connecticut experiment is expected to prove that future roadways can be built that are calculated to meet the particular demands of motor transportation in certain sections.

In a preliminary report of the Connecticut census, by T. Golden McKay highway economist of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, conclusions have been drawn from the statistics of the undertaking which show that the effort has produced an invaluable array of firsthand information at a comparatively nominal cost.

Modern highway transportation, the survey shows, is a factor which threatens to revolutionize the movement of commodities in heavily-populated areas, as the growth of motor truck hauling during the past decade will attest.

Development of highway systems to meet this condition has been stimulated, Mr. McKay says in his report, by a realization of the economic and social values arising from the rapid movement of freight through the increased utility of the motor vehicle in commercial life.

In regard to the need for investigation and analysis of highway transportation, the report says that "The history of the modern highway is so brief and its growth has been so rapid that there is an amazingly meager body of authentic evidence from which we can measure its economic value or determine its economic sphere of operation as a correlated part of our transportation system.

"The highway engineer of today is limited on the one hand by lack of revenue for construction of maintenance of highways, and hard pressed on the other hand to maintain adequate highway service for the amazing growth of traffic, and he is critical of traffic elements which, from his point of view, are destructive of the highways, or increase the original cost of the investment."

Mr. McKay points out that scientific analysis of the data compiled throughout the country will be necessary before a proper solution of the highway transportation problem in its relation to rail transportation can be arrived at.

CRITICISM MAKES WILLIMANTIC STREET SUPT. RESIGN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 10.—Superintendent of the Streets and Sewers George M. Flint resigned his position and John S. Sullivan was appointed as his successor at the monthly meeting of the common council held Monday night in the council chamber. It was said that Mr. Flint was disgusted with the criticism by the public which was so much in evidence during his recent struggle with the snow and ice which accumulated on the city streets following recent snow storms. In accepting Mr. Flint's resignation chairman of the street committee, Alderman Hickey, expressed regrets for his withdrawal saying that if Mr. Flint remained he bid fair to outclass any of his predecessors. Mr. Dion then recommended Mr. Sullivan and he received the appointment. After the meeting had been called to order Mr. Lavigne complained that one of his neighbors has a cesspool in front of his home on Young street and that twice weekly he pumped accumulation from this into the street. Mr. Lavigne said that he had notified the city health officer of this condition but that the latter had refused to take any action. Chairman Lee of the sanitary committee moved that the corporation counsel cause the removal of the nuisance and the resolution was adopted. The report of the chief of police, Allan MacArthur, was read. There were 23 arrests during February. The expenses of the street department for the past month amounted to $1,491.12 over $900 of which were for the removal of ice and snow. Permission was given for the removal of trees at 79 Spring street on Hurlbee property; 84 Prospect on the Burlingham property, and 617 Jackson street on land owned by Joseph Slowick.

The resignation of Fred L. Avery as a call member of Engine Co. No. 1 was read and accepted and Amos E. Lewis appointed to succeed him in that capacity. The application of Peter E. Marotte as a motorcycle officer of the police department was read and referred to the police committee for action. Damage claims filed by David M. Feldman and Katie Martin were referred to the claims committee. The resignation of Walter S. Tripp as supernumerary officer of the police department was accepted. The application of Fred A. Lawton, a world war veteran, and a former supernumerary policeman for that position was referred to the police committee. Sidewalk applications were read from Charles B. Pomeroy and Parmeda Vegiard. A fire hydrant will be installed opposite St. Joseph's church on Jackson street by the adoption of a resolution introduced by Alderman W. E. Jackson.

Another of the evening's business which was of considerable importance was the appointment of an additional permanent fireman to Engine Co. No. 1. Up to the present time there has been nine regular men. The plan is to have a man to act as desk sergeant to relieve the chief during day and to answer calls while the department is out on duty. Chairman Larame of the fire committee said that the names of three applicants have been presented and he asked that the common council vote on these applications. Alderman Lee objected to this procedure and asked that the committee follow its rules and recommend one of the three men. After some dickering and a short recess the committee recommended Clifford C. Smith, one of the call members, for the position. The other two applicants were Edward J. Manemann, a world war veteran, and George W. Larkin, an electrician. Mr. Smith was recommended on his seniority rights but the board saw fit to select the veteran and he received the appointment.

A pledge of cooperation in any city undertaking was read from the chamber of commerce and ordered placed on file. Mayor Dion pointed out that the support of the chamber would be needed to bring about such an important movement as the laying of another water main, purchasing of a new truck for the fire department and other matters which would involve considerable money. Alderman Lee asked that the members of the chamber show a willingness to cooperate by attending the city and town meetings. A resolution introduced by Alderman Hickey was adopted whereby the water supply of the city will be analyzed to determine its fitness for drinking purposes. Alderman Jackson asked if the city auditors were being paid at the past rate of $150 a year or in accordance with the city charter which provides for a compensation of $3 a day for work rendered. Corporation Counsel Kelly stated that they were to be paid according to the charter as the $150 rate was illegal. Not all of the councilmen realized that at the rate of $3 a day the auditors will receive $189 a year as they worked 5 days a month and are entitled to three extra days. The $3 a day rate places the auditors nearer the goal which they sought in vain recently when they asked for an increase up to $200 a year. Alderman Larame asked that steps be taken to round up delinquents who have failed to pay up their city taxes. Upon the advice of the corporation counsel a committee consisting of Aldermen Hickey, Larame and Jackson will meet with the board of selectmen to formulate a plan to collect back town and city taxes.

Alderman Jackson pointed out that for the past ten years the town of Windham had been paying only $2,600 a year for its share of the upkeep of the city streets. The street committee will point out the increase in the cost of caring for the street and ask the town to pay a larger percentage as its share of the expenses.

A discussion waxed warm with regard to the raising of the weekly salary of the members of the fire department. The firemen have been petitioning for a raise of $3 a week to equalize their pay with that of the policemen who now receive $30 weekly. Alderman Lee asked the board to vote on the matter in order that it might be disposed of. Committeemen Larame and Hickey of the fire department pointed out that should the increase be granted the appropriation would be overrun. The question was finally brought to a vote and the boost salary was lost. Mayor Dion was authorized to borrow the sum of $10,000 to defray the current expenses of the city. Resolutions pertaining to the police department were introduced by Alderman Lee and adopted. The members of the department will be given a six weeks' course of instruction in their work and tags will be furnished the officers to attach to automobiles which owners have put in such a place where traffic laws are violated. Public sentiment will be asked for in regard to remodeling or sale of what is known as the Hilltop Hose Co., No. 2, firehouse on Summit street. Alderman Larame said that the members of Company No. 2 could be accommodated at the back street engine house and something done with the Hilltop building so that it would no longer continue to be a loss to the city. Mayor Dion said that as far as he could learn the only person who ever entered the building was the janitor who kept the place heated. With the advent of motor trucks the building is not a necessity and has been in disuse for some time past. If the building was remodeled into tenements or sold it could be made to become a source of income to the city. The meeting adjourned at 10.10.

Dull Spotted Teeth Bleached White Quick — Safe Way

To whiten dull, yellowish, stained teeth, all you need now do is brush teeth with a few drops of mild, harmless liquid—then use a special paste—and watch stains disappear. This new method is called Bleachodent Combination. The liquid softens the stains—the paste not only gently removes them, but prevents formation of new stains. Fine for removing green stains from children's teeth. No effect on enamel—its mild ingredients are intended to act only on surface stains. Bleachodent Combination is the formula of a group of prominent dentists who used Bleachodent on their own teeth for four years with highly beneficial results before offering it to the public. Millions of teeth have been whitened this new safe way. For the sake of your teeth, and to avoid disappointment, always insist on Bleachodent Combination, the SAFE treatment and avoid cheap liquid imitations which may do serious damage. # FAST GAMES FEATURE NEW LONDON MILITARY BASKETBALL LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 10.—In the two games played in the Military league Monday night on the state armory floor, the New London Ship and Engine won easily over the J. N. Lapointe five by a 40 to 23 score in the first game of the evening. In the second contest the Tabs won a fast game from the New London Independents by a 29 to 27 score.

In the first game between the Ship and Engine and the J. N. Lapointe team, the ship workers gained an easy victory in a slow and uninteresting contest. Except for the fact that these teams are bitter rivals in all sports, the game was lacking in the fast and hard play that characterize the games played by these two teams.

Probably the members of both teams had yet to recover from the effects of Saturday night's contest. At any rate whether this was partly the cause that can be attributed to the slow play, it should have had a little more pep. Both teams started off like a house afire and a good close game was expected by the fans, but this was not so as the game progressed. After tying the Ship and Engine at 10-all with about ten more minutes to play in the first half, the Lapointes were left so far behind in the score that at half time the score stood 20 to 11 in the Ship and Engine's favor.

The scoring was a little closer in the next half, but the early lead piled up by the Ship and Engine was too much for the Lapointes to overcome.

Both McGowan and Risch for the winners kept up their good work of Saturday night and accounted for the majority of the scoring for their team.

Belknap for the Lapointes gave a fine exhibition of guarding. He was the only member of the losing team to play a fast game throughout. He also led his team in the matter of points secured, with 11 to his credit.

Tabs Beat Independents

The second game which brought together the Tabs and the New London Independents proved to be a fast and close fought contest from the start. This game more than made up for the first game by furnishing numerous thrills throughout. From the very first whistle the teams battled like demons for a victory and did not stop until the final whistle blew.

The passing was not as fast and accurate as it should have been, this possible flaw in both teams was made up by good dribbling. Although a good fast and snppy passing system is one of the biggest assets that a team can possess. The lead changed hands several times with both teams forging ahead by a short offensive drive that netted them enough points to go into the lead for a short time.

Taylor a recent addition on the Tabs team was largely responsible for the victory hung up by this team. Although held well in check in the first half, Taylor broke away from his guard long enough to send the ball through the hoop seven times in the final twenty minutes of play winning the game for the Tabs. The winning basket made by him came after the Tabs overcome a 4 point lead.

Kirchoff with six field baskets threatened to put the game on ice for the Independents time and again. Only for Taylor he would have probably succeeded. The lineup and summary:

SERVICE BATTERY TAKES MEASURE OF PUTNAM TOWNERS

Saturday evening at Putnam the Service Battery of Danielson took the measure of the Putnam Town Team 40-34 after one of the most exciting games of the year. At half-time Putnam led 17-15 and with six minutes to play the score was tied at 31-31. At this point Pendergast and Keech were removed for unnecessary roughness and the visitors gradually drew away. A tendency to rough play on the part of the home team was offset by the excellent refereeing of Cartier. Murphy did fine work for Putnam both in shooting and floor-work. The Battery victory was due to the passing and general team play of the entire quintet. Bill Armington showing up best on the score book. The summary:

COMMISSION TO DISCUSS BERLENBACH CONTROVERSY

New York, March 10.—The controversy growing out of the matching of Paul Berlenbach, New York middleweight, with Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., at Madison Square Garden next Friday night, despite protests of Newark promoters, will be aired before the state commission at its regular weekly meeting tomorrow.

Officials of the Newark Sportsman's Club for whom Berlenbach agreed to fight Jackie Clark of Allentown, Pa., next Monday night, contended they have a prior claim to Berlenbach's services and that his bout with Delaney violates the New Jersey boxing code which prevents a boxer from participating in two bouts within 72 hours.

Plat Adams, Chief inspector of the New Jersey commission, advised Tex Rickard today that since no infraction of the Jersey laws had yet occured, he had no ground for interference now. Newark promoters, however, insisted they would press their claims and possibly resort to court action to prevent Berlenbach from fulfilling his engagement this week.

MEETING TO START BOWLING TOURNEY WED. AFTERNOON

The final arrangements for the Eastern Connecticut championship individual bowling tournament will be made at a meeting to be held at the Aetna Bowling alleys Wednesday afternoon. Practically all the bowling alleys in the eastern part of the state will be presented at the meeting and each will enter a bowler in the title matches. New London is the only city that will not be represented in the tournament as Hallisey, the star pin crasher of the Whaling city will not be able to enter the tournament.

Those who will be contestants will be Fillmore of Norwich, Dugas of Taftville, McKensie of Moosup, Conrad of Willimantic, Barber of Danielson, Vandale of Putnam and possibly bowlers from other alleys. Any one interested in entering the title tournament are invited to be present at the meeting.

CONG. FIVE PLAYS BACON ACADEMY TEAM TONIGHT

(Special to the Bulletin.)

New London, March 10.—Tuesday night on the First Congregational churches basketball court, the First Congregational five, one of the leaders of the Intermediate churches league, will act ab hosts to the Bacon Academy quintet of Colcester.

One of the fastest junior games played so far this season is expected to be the result when these two teams meet. Bacon Academy has played Chapman Technical high two games, losing both by small margins. Since these two defeats, Bacon Academy has gained several victories.

The First Congregational five is regarded as the strongest junior team in New London. Only three defeats are charged against this team in nearly 20 games. A large crowd is expected to attend this game judging from present indications.

SECOND ROUND GAME IN NEW LONDON LEAGUE

(Special to the Bulletin.)

New London, March 10.—The final game of round two will be completed in the International Church league on Tuesday evening when the First Baptist and the Methodist teams meet on the Y. M. C. A. court. While the First Baptist team is hopelessly out of the running for the league leadership, yet it is in a position to make trouble for some of the league leaders. A victory for the Methodist boys will mean that three teams will be tried for first place with 3 victories and 2 defeats. A defeat for the Methodist team at this time will spoil all chances this team has to catch up with the league leaders.

ROCKNE MAY BE AFTER IOWA COACHING BERTH

Iowa City, Iowa, March 10.—Coach Knute Rockney of Notre Dame University, left this afternoon for Chicago, after an all-day conference with President Walter A. Jessup, and other University of Iowa officials.

Rockne declined to say whether his visit had any connection with the vacancy in the position of head football coach caused by resignation of Howard Jones, but declared that he was here on business and admitted that the business "might be" football.

University authorities refused to discuss the matter and earlier would not confirm the fact that Rockne was conferring with them.

Maurice Brocco, of the winning team, is credited with $25,000 within the year both amounts are said to exceed all baseball salaries except those of John McGraw and Babe Ruth.

Walker-Dempsey Bout Stopped.

Pittsburgh, March 10.—A scheduled ten round fight between Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, and Mike Dempsey of Rochester, N. Y., was stopped in the fifth round here tonight by Referee Joe Keeley, who claimed Dempsey was stalling. He awarded a technical knockout to Walker. Both fighters were overweight.

Reich Begins Training.

Buenos Aires, March 10.—Al Reich, the New York heavyweight, today began training in public for his bout with Luis Firpo, the Argentine champion, which has been definitely fixed for March 22. Reich boxed with Argentine sparring partners. His work evoked applause from the crowd that watched the exhibition.

DEMPSEY NOT TO HAVE AS ACTIVE A SEASON AS FIRST EXPECTED

New York, March 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—The probability that Jack Dempsey will defend his world heavyweight championship but once this year and on that occasion against a South American Challenger loomed today out of a series of developments in the year's prospective fight program.

Through a return between Dempsey and Luis Firpo has been regarded generally as a foregone conclusion, there now is a possibility of the giant Argentine's ambition may be shelved in favor of other Latin contenders. On top of his agreement for a series of bouts here with Quintin Romero Rojas, Chilean heavyweight, promoter Tex Rickard announced he also had signed Erminio Spalla, Italian holder of the European heavyweight title who was knocked out by Firpo in fourteen rounds.

Spalla and Rojas both are expected in the United States within a month, according to Rickard. The promoter plans to test them against several American heavyweights, after which if successful, they may be matched to determine which shall challenge Dempsey. Rickard asserted he had the consent of Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, to a fight in the fall with either Spalla or Rojas.

The prospect that Dempsey may be idle until fall developed after Kearns rejected a $500,000 offer from Providence, R. I., promoters, representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars, for a match on July 4 with Harry Wills at Cumberland, R. I. the promoters, John Griffin and James J. McGinnity, who claimed to have obtained previously Kearns' tentative assent to the match, declared they came prepared to advance $350,000 to Dempsey as a guarantee but the champion's manager turned down the proposition because of a prospective motion picture engagement.

This movie work, Kearns said, might keep Dempsey busy for eight to ten weeks this spring, thus jeopardising the prospective return match here in June with Tom Gibbons. Kearns declared he had made no agreement for a Gibbons bout but Rickard, who obtained the St. Paul boxer's consent to terms, professed his desire to go ahead with this match.

Regarding the Rhode Island offer, Kearns denied he had given Griffin and McGinnity any assurances and added that he was given no guarantee that such a bout would not be interfered with.

Firpo, through his American representative William McCarney, was offered a match with Wills by the Rhode Island promoters but the latter were informed the Argentine already had booked a summer exhibition program which would prevent acceptance. Wills, according to the promoters, had agreed to either match.

Dempsey left New York today for a western trip, declaring he had recovered from effects of the operation he recently underwent. He will stop off in Chicago for a few days before going to Salt Lake City and Los Angeles.

Wills arrived shortly after the champion's departure and announced his intention of resuming training, although the negro's chance of obtaining any important matches this season has dwindled rapidly.

BASEBALL NOTABLES TO BE AT MORAN'S FUNERAL

Fitchburg, Mass., March 10.—John A. Heydler, president of the National league, arrived here tonight to attend the funeral of Patrick J. Moran, manager of the Cincinnati National league baseball team, who died at the spring training camp of the club at Orlando, Fla., last Friday. The services will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Sacred Heart church.

Jake Daubert, veteran first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, telegraphed tonight that he would arrive to join Ivy Wingo and George Harper, who are here to represent the Cincinnati player. Louis C. Widerig, treasurer of the club, arrived here today as representative of the officers and directors of the Cincinnati club.

Many persons visited the home of Thomas F. Moran, the brother of Pat Moran. Floral messages from all the clubs of the two major leagues and from fans and players filled the room in which Moran's body lay. George Sisler, player-manager of the St. Louis Americans, Heinie Groh and Frank Frisch of the New York Giants, and many other prominent players had sent offerings to the memory of the popular manager.

Mitchell Wins Over Freidman.

Philadelphia, March 10.—Ray Mitchell of Philadelphia, won the judges' decision over Sailor Freidman of Boston, in a ten round bout tonight. Mitchell was the aggressor throughout. Their weights were announced as 138 3-4 pounds each.

Hamilton Tigers Hockey Champs.

Hamilton, Ont., March 10. — The Hamilton Tigers won the senior championship of the Ontario Hockey association by defeating Stratford Indians, 3 to 1, tonight.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Miami, Florida, now has seven golf courses.

Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion, has taken part in more than 200 battles.

The Western league has decided upon a season of 168 games, with April 16 as the opening date.

Only 200 of the 12,000 students at Ohio State University are not competing in some lines of sport endeavor.

The world's long distance archery record is 316 yards. It was set up in 1897 by Major Straker, an Englishman.

With $40,000 added, the Coffroth Handicap to be run at Tijuana on March 30 is the richest all-aged handicap ever offered.

Among the rookies being given a trial by the New Yirk Giants this spring is a son of Bernie Wefers, the once famous foot racer.

With Johnny Nee, as its new pilot, the Augusta club hopes to make a good showing in the South Atlantic league race this season.

China is the thirteenth nation to challenge for the Davis Cup. But then perhaps the Chinese are not wise to the thirteen superstitution.

Golf is becoming popular with the rank and file of the British army. They are now allowed to wear fatigue dress while playing.

Among new collegians or near-collegians signed by the St. Louis Cardinals of late is Donald Hurst, a player who made a reputation as first baseman with the Ohio Military Institute last season. Donald will be given the ...nce over by that graduate of the rival mines Jim Bottomley, in the Cardinals' training camp.

Pepys has an entry in his famous Diary dated January, 1665, describing a football match played by apprentices in the streets to keep themselves warm.

The record sum paid for a professional football player in Britian was $20,000 paid by Burnley last season for one of the stars of the Plymouth Argyll team.

The wise ones of the fighting game are generally of the opinion that Al Reich, in going to Buenos Aires to meet Firpo, is traveling a long way to get a beating.

A football match between two teams of women players recently took place at Burnley by artificial light. This was the first successful attempt in the British Isles to light a football field by electricity.

Boston appears to be a Waterloo for the British pugilists who have come to this side recently. Billy Wells, Roland Todd, Freddie Jacks, Ted Marchant and Frank Mlody, all have been defeated in their fights in the Hub.

The cry "Fore," as used in golf, is short for "before," and is used in exactly the same way as a man dropping something from a ladder might call out "heads." In the one case, "Look out for your heads" is meant, and in the other, "Look out, those before," or in front.

Clyde Milan, manager of the New Haven team, of the Eastern Association has signed up Al Schacht, pitcher and comedian partner of Nick Altrock.

The Seattle Club last week disposed of First Baseman Wheeler (Doc) Johnson to the Little Rock Club of the Southern League. Doc Johnson was in the Southern 15 years ago and was considered pretty much of a veteran even then.

Sam Crawford, former slugger of the Detroit Tigers, who last year attempted to start a school for baseball players without great results has now engaged himself as baseball coach of the baseball squad of the University of Southern California.

Harry Rew of Parksley, Va., recently elected president of the Eastern Shore League, has notified the clubs that because of other duties he cannot accept. M. B. Thawley of Crisfield, Md., therefore will continue in charge of affairs temporarily.

Alvan Elliot, an outfielder, and Raiph Mimtree, a catcher, have been purchased by St. Joseph from Moline. Elliott, a former University of Wisconsin player, who last year refused to join Moline and was suspended.

To Be Co-Manager Of Chicago White Sox

Johnny Evers, former manager of the Chicago cubs, who will be co-manager of the Chicago White Sox with Eddie Walsh, during the illness of Manager Frank Chance. Both these men are his assistants. Chance's doctor has reported that he will not be able to report for spring training, and Owner Comiskey has kept the berth open, as Chance is too valuable a man to lose.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the first week in March building showed a marked upward trend and permits for new buildings to the value of approximately $40,000 were granted at the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton. The largest permit was granted to the Connecticut Engineering company to erect a large warehouse on South Thames street for the Richmond Radiator Co. This permit however was granted by the fire commissioners and approved by the common council. It calls for a large wooden structure, 50 feet high and 153 feet long. The frame is of slow burning mill construction. The sides are to be covered with corrugated iron.

Included in the permits were three for new dwelling houses, two being two tenement houses and the third of the one-story bungalow type. The other permits were for garages. In many sections of the city there is a noticeable increase in the number of new buildings and contractors report that the coming year will see a large number of new buildings erected in the Greeneville section of the city as well as in the outskirts of the town. Local architects report many plans in the works and they have put in an exceptionally busy winter.

The permits issued during the past week are as follows:

To Stanley Beaudo to build a two-story frame house at 154 W. Pleasant street. The house will be built on a stone and cement foundation and will be 24 x 26 feet. The exterior finish will be in clapboards and the interior finish will be in plaster and hard wood.

To George E. Boucher to build for Donita Cugini a two-story house on Palmer avenue. The house will be 20 x28 feet with stone and concrete foundation. There will be six rooms on each floor finished in pulp plaster and hardwood trim. The exterior finish will be in clapboards and shingles. The roof will be covered with asbestos shingles. There will be a veranda 8 x 30 feet on the first floor.

To William N. Douglas to erect a frame bungalow on Corning Road. The bungalow will be of one story 28x32 feet, with concrete and stone foundation. The exterior finish will be in shingles and the interior finish in plaster and hardwood.

To Joseph W. Wooley to build a frame garage, 24 x 26 feet on Dunham street. The foundation and floor will be of cement and the exterior finish will be in composition shingles.

To C. Eugene Saunders to erect a 5-stall garage on Laurel Hill avenue. The garage will be of frame construction with stone foundation.

To Connecticut Engineering Co., to erect fo rthe Richmond Radiator Co., a large frame storehouse on South Thames street. The building will be 80 feet high and 253 feet long and used for the storing of the surplus output. The construction will be of heavy wood framing of slow burning mill construction. The roof will be covered with fire resisting roofing and the sides will be covered with corrugated iron. There will be no heating plant in the building. The permit was granted by the fire commission and approved by the common council.

NEW LONDON

Plans for a residence to be erected on Gardner avenue for C. H. Dinick, of the Coast Guard Academy, are now being figured. The proposed dwelling will be of frame construction, with Spanish tile roof, and will contain 12 rooms. There will be hot water heat, tile baths, fireplaces and all modern improvements.

The contract has been awarded for the erection of the proposed addition to the store of the Schwarts Furniture Co., on Bank street. The addition will be 24x50 feet, four stories high, of brick and mill construction, with steel sash. It will be connected and will be arranged for showrooms and storage purposes.

Plans for a residence to be erected on Shore street for Antonio Rispoli have been completed. The house will be 24x28 feet, arranged for eight rooms. There will be such improvements as steam heat, oak trim, tile baths, etc. The foundation has been completed for the owner by day work. The owner will also furnish the materials but will contract for the carpentry and other work.

Applications for Building Permits

A. G. Ruddy, garage, 17 Stewart street $500.

William R. Golding, garage, Montauk avenue $400.

Joseph Sacchifaro, addition, 321 Jefferson avenue $350.

Ida Fargo, garage, 9 Cutler street $300.

Number of permits issued for the week, 5; estimated cost of buildings, $1,750.

CENTERBROOK

Bids for the erection of the proposed new school at Centerbrook will be received at the office of the architects until March 15, at noon. The plans, which are now ready to be figured, may be procured at the architects' office. The building will be two stories high, of brick construction, and will contain four school-rooms, a library and a teachers' room. Bids for the construction, plumbing, heating and electric wiring will be received separately. The building committee is as follows: A. R. Wright, G. H. Blake, H. N.Prann and W. H. Wright.

THE STATE SITUATION

Building permits granted this week in the leading cities of the state show a decided gain over the first week of March in the two previous years according to the Commercial Record The open winter has been a decided factor in keeping up the steady stream of new building projects and from the plans now in the hands of architects indications point to no dullness in the building trade this spring. During the current week 173 permits were issued as against 101 in 1923 and 109 in 1922. The cost of new construction this week amounted to $816,289, comparing with $891,489 in 1923 and $114,730 in 1922.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 10 sales of real estate, exactly the same number of sales as for the corresponding week in 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $64,300 and $5,900.

There were 3 sales of real estate in New London last week as compared to 6 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $31,985 and $15,-200.

As part of the deal St. Joseph sends Arnold Luschen, a southpaw pitcher, to Moline.

Among early arrivals at Hot Springs were two veteran pitchers, Urban Faber of the White Sox and Jack Quinn of the Red Sox. They arrived at the Arkansas resort on February 12 and plan two months of real work to get their old soup bones and legs in shape.

Oscar Stanage, veteran catcher, who went from Detroit to the Pacific Coast and last year "retired" to play independent ball, has agreed to join the Toronto Internationals as coach of pitchers and backstop if needed. He will be with Dan Howley, his old pal, now manager of the Toronto team.

President Bob Allen of the Little Rock Club of the Southern Association has signed Charles Ward, a youngster from Huntington, W. Va. He is a six-footer.

Outfielder Ed Barney, veteran of many years' service, has been secured by Shreveport on a 30-day trial. Barney was with Seattle last year but got in only 34 games.

Boosters who are organizing the Easton, Md., club, which is to be a member of the Eastern Shore League announce that J. Franklin Baker will manage the team.

The New York Yankees have released Pitcher Elbert Johnson to the Des Moines Club of the Western League. Another help for Mike Kelly from his friend, Miller Huggins.

Louisville has added another Cuban to its roster signing Vincent Tarracho a first baseman. He had a trial with Memphis a few seasons back. He did not play ball last year.

Pete Curtis who has managed teams in Atlantic City, Jersey City, Des Moines and other points, has been signed by Martinsburg of the Blue Ridge League to manage the team the coming season.

Joe Gleason, who preformed with Columbus of the American Association, has been sold to the Galveston Club of the Texas League. Gleason went to the Columbus team from Washington in 1922.

The decapitated body of Pitcher Alan Hill, of Columbus, was found on Feburary 26; along the tracks of the Pittsburg & West Virginia Railroad near the Allegheny County Home, where Hill had been receiving treatment for a nervous breakdown. Hill had been in the American Association since 1920, being with Toledo for three years and last season with Columbus.

The St. Louis Browns have taken on for trial Milton Hyland, a New Britain, Conn., semi-pro pitcher. Hyland is a lefthander, and according to business manager Bill Friel of the Browns struck out 71 batters in five games last year.

The outright sale of First Baseman Dick Burrus by Columbus to Atlanta was announced the other day. Burrus had been with Columbus for the past three seasons and replaces Turner Barber at the initial bag for Atlanta.

The Toronto Club of the International League has signed Justin E. Simons, of Los Angleos, Cal., 19-year old catcher. He was taken on at the recommendation of Dutch Leonard, former pitcher for the Red Sox and Tigers.

Honors among the major league teams in training for hitting the first home run of the 1924 season go to John Donaghue a recruit with the Boston Red Sox who accomplished the feat on February 28 at the Sox camp in San Antonio.

Charley Deal, third baseman of the Vernon Club of the Pacific Coast League, has decided to report to his team Deal was traded last year to Vernon by the Los Angeles Club for Cecil Smith, but did not don a uniform owing to ill health.

Tony Welzer is the third man of the Muskegon team of the Mint League, to be sold to the Chicago White Sox since Red Fisher has been in charge of the Muskegon outfiit. The other players who joined the Comiskey outfit, going direct from Minkegon, were Pitcher Gillehwater and Clyde Crause who will have to stand in line for Ray Schalk's job.

At least six collegians are to be tried out in the National League this season. The youngsters from rah-rah land are Llewellyn of the University of Nebraska; Knox, Iowa State College; Leete, Amherst; Hurst, Ohio State; Rhem, Clemson and Stone of Mercer. All of them but Knox are pitchers. At least, that's what they were in school.

N. LONDON COUNCIL ASKED TO PERMIT NO MORE PEQUOT AVE. OIL TANKS

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 10—Judge Allyn L. Brown, of Norwich was in New London Saturday night where he held a conference with Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield and the father of Robert Powers, the Crystal avenue youth, who was convicted with Rex Bogue a week ago of sending in false fire alarms. The conference was to consider the advisability of allowing Powers to go to a farm operated by his uncle in Vermont and not serve a year sentence, imposed by Judge Brown in the superior court a few months ago for Powers' complicity in burglarizing the hardware store of Lyon & Ewald, which sentence was put into operation by Judge Victor Prince in the police court when Powers was convicted. Judge Brown did not render a decision in the matter, deferring such action until a letter is received from the uncle in which a willingness is expressed to take charge of the youth and exercise watchfulness over him. Powers is now a prisoner at the New London County jail.

William J. Quilty, chief of Police of Springfield, Mass., this morning informed the New London authorities that a Buick sport model automobile was in their possession and that the car is the machine stolen from Lieutenant Commander L. E. Denfield of 36 Nathan Hale street, New London on the night of April 13, 1923. Chief Quilty also stated that the thief was also in custody and was Frank Carpenter recognized in Springfield as an automobile thief. The numbers of the stolen car had been altered, but there is no doubt that the car is the New London machine. When arrested Carpenter had in his possession a bill of sale purporting to have been issued him by Jacob Konoski, proprietor of the Brass City garage, Waterbury, for the Buick car. The Springfield authorities believe that the bill of sale is a fake document. A warrant for the arrest of Carpenter was issued by Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin and was forwarded to Springfield. As soon as the case against Carpenter is disposed of at Springfield, Carpenter will be brought back here for trial. Carpenter was arrested by the Springfield police for the theft of a Dodge Sedan and following his arrest the New London car was discovered in his possession.

Libby Goldberg, administratrix of the estate of Morris Goldberg, has sold a house and lot on Brewer street to Charles Antis.

Mrs. Joseph Holland of Montauk avenue, Mrs. Victor Johnson of New Haven, Mrs. Orvin Ohlin of Groton, Samuel F. Friedman of the Hotel Mohican apartments, George Charpe of Potter Hill, R. I., Mrs. Ernest Newman of Tinker court, John Desches of Potter street and Whenna Selloum of Franklin street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

There is a belief here that Theodore Lasta, accused of the theft of a gold watch and chain of the value of $200 from the rooming house of Mrs. Mary McGarry in Tilley street, has some ulterior purpose in not facing the music that will be provided in a court of law here for he has fought and resisted banishment of the said [illegible] Lasta would be [illegible] by a New Haven [illegible] Lasta has result. An [illegible] to have the bond [illegible] by Judge Prince [illegible] Prince is not disposed to lower the bail [illegible] could not furnish the [illegible] so he was sent back to jail, [illegible] Saturday next. Inquiry has been made from New York on the phone as to the amount of bail [illegible] in the case and as to the [illegible] for hearing, so it is inferred that Lasta has some friends there who are vitally interested. It does not seem probable that this would be the case if, as Lasta claims, he was never in New London till he was brought here under arrest. Mrs. McGarry positively identifies Lasta as a man who roomed at her house at the time a watch that was the property of James Kiroy was stolen from a room. She says she is confident and told the police of characteristics of the face and mouth by which she identified the accused. Lasta is under a bond of $2000 at New Haven, it is understood, to answer for a crime in that city.

The funeral of John F. Silliker was held this morning at 11 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Emma Purdy, 84, widow of William Purdy, died Saturday night at her home on Bayonet street. Mrs. Purdy is survived by two nieces, Mrs. William Hicks and Mrs. Mary Benjamin both of New London.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Page, 77, wife of John Page, died Saturday night at her home, 597 Ocean avenue after an illness of a week. She was born in New London and is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Page was well known and was a member of the First Baptist church.

Mrs. Ellen Louise Douglass, widow of Frank E. Douglass, died Sunday at her home, 16 Bayonet street after three weeks' illness with pneumonia. She is survived by two sons, Franklin and Lawrence Douglass, both of New London and by two daughters, one being Miss Marion Douglass of New London.

The city council this evening received a protest from manufacturing concerns along Pequot avenue against the erection of more oil tanks or additions to those already erected there. The claim is that the fire risk on property adjoining the tanks is increased and that therefore no more tanks should be allowed. Representatives of the manufacturers and the oil companies were on hand to present their claims and the council listened to them in executive session.

The council seems now to be disposed to restrict the erection of oil tanks, for it tonight withheld granting of applications for tanks on the so-called Gentilella property on Bank street, which the Gulf Refining company has purchased, also on the application of the Lawrence estate to erect a station on Main street. These matters are to be investigated and a report is to be made at the next meeting of the council. Former Mayor B. L. Armstrong petitioned to remove a tank on his property on Sparyard street, also for the changing of the location of the office building of the Texas company at the same point. The petition was not definite enough in defining the location on which the tank and office would be hereafter located, so the petitioner was give leave to withdraw.

The council voted that its purpose was to widen Tilley street its entire length, from Bank street to Washington street, to remove trees from the highway and improve the street, at an estimated cost of $7,500. It is estimated that the benefits and damages to abutting property will be about $1,500 for each. The matter now goes to the compensation board and to the planning board, for the action they may take.

Architect Dudley Donnelly presented a bill to the council this evening and asked for its payment. The bill is for $8,142.44 being a balance due him for his services in designing and planning for a school building that has never been constructed—the junior high school building. Mr. Donnelly has been paid $16,000 in fees, but a contract was made with him for the amount of the bill as stated and he asks for his pay. He told the council that he had presented his bill to the board of school visitors, but that body takes no notice of it. Now the matter has gone to the director of law for an investigation and report, which will be forthcoming at the next meeting of the council.

It is pretty conclusive that the city council is to ask the trolley company to take better care of the streets through which its tracks are laid than the company has heretofore taken. Councillor Clark made the move in that direction this evening when he asked that the city manager confer with the trolley company and ascertain what that corporation was willing to do in the matter. It became known that the general assembly of 1922 relieved the trolley company of a part of the burden it had assumed up to that time by changing the space the road must take care of from two feet either side of the outer rails to eight inches from either rail. Mr. Clark expressed a desire for the cities to go to the legislature and have the former order of things reenacted. He complained of the rotten ties that are now in use in the streets and attributed much of the condition of the roadway between the tracks to the ties.

Henry L. Bailey, Jr., son of Town Clerk and Mrs. Henry L. Bailey of Ramsdell street, Groton, and Miss Anne L. Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Harvey of Solcumb terrace, Groton, were married Saturday afternoon at the home of the bridegroom's parents, by Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, of Norwich Town, uncle of Mr. Bailey.

Miss Kate Huntley of Huntington street was admitted to Lawrence hospital Sunday as a medical patient. Miss Huntley sustained injuries of a serious nature Thursday when she slipped and fell upon the pavements on State street.

Harry O'Brien and sister, Miss Nellie O'Brien, and William Gayner have returned to their homes in Brooklyn, N. Y., having visited Mrs. Mary Holmes of Winthrop street.

The condition of Mrs. Lawrence Burrell of Granite street, who underwent an operation at Lawrence hospital last week, has so far improved as to assure her return home within a few days.

Mrs. William Brennan and son Harry are visiting relatives in Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Cyrus B. Fengar and daughter, Miss Elsie Fengar of Post Hill place are spending a few weeks in Georgia. During their absence their home will be occupied by Mrs. Fengar's son, Lieut. and Mrs. Henry Clay Fengar.

Katherine M. Zuccardy of Noank, who had been under treatment but a short time at Home-Memorial hospital, died at the institution this morning.

Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin has left for the south where he will remain about three weeks. During his absence the duties of prosecuting attorney will be fulfilled by Mr. Cronin's brother, Frank G. Cronin.

Mrs. Sophie Kenerson and daughter, Mrs. George Batting of 270 Huntington street are visiting in Boston.

The will of Emmett L. Crowell was admitted to probate at a hearing for that purpose this morning. The will disposes of an estate estimated at about $2,000. Of this amount $500 is bequeathed to Laur Hayes Baker, in trust, for the benefit of a sister, Janet Hayes, the latter to receive $15 per month during the remainder of her life, or until such time as the fund is exhausted. Laur Hayes, a niece of the testator is appointed executrix. The will was witnessed by Thomas E. Troland, Alice V. Buckley and F. O. Bent.

Dr. Thomas Rogers of Huntington street is at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Dudley Brand, Mrs. Thomas Reilly of New London, and Mrs. Frank Johnson, have returned home, having spent several weeks in Miami, Fla.

The lord mayor of London receives an allowance of $50,000 toward the expenses of his year in office, but it costs him at least as much again from his private fortune.

GURLEYVILLE

A fine supper was served Wednesday evening, there being a good attendance. Some came from Storrs, Knowlton Hill, and Willimantic.

Ralph Morse of Hartford was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Morse the first of the week.

Miss Arlene Dunham is boarding at Storrs during the bad traveling. The country roads are so bad that on even the best of them automobiles travel in continual danger of being mired.

The committees from the M. E. churches of South Coventry and Gurleyville met at Willimantic last Saturday and agreed on a time schedule for church services the coming year. South Coventry will have morning service April, May and June, October, November and December. Gurleyville will have morning service July, August and September, January, February and March.

COLUMBIA

In a circular letter issued periodically by E. S. Russell, school supervisor of this district, he states that the Pine street school, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Cummings, teacher, has 100 per cent enrollment in the Chelsea Savings club, also that Miss Clough, the teacher of the Chestnut Hill school, engineered a community social at her schoolhouse Feb. 14, and that from all reports everyone had a pleasant and helpful evening. He makes some comparisons regarding salaries paid teachers in the schools of Columbia, and in the surrounding towns for the school year 1923-24, and a comparison of the cost of education for pupil for 1922-23. He finds that Columbia paid the lowest average salary of $916.66 per year to its teachers, and that it cost Columbia but $51 per pupil, per annum for education, which was the lowest amount paid in his table of comparisons.

At the meeting of the grange, Wednesday evening last, there was a good attendance. The lecturer, Mrs. Howard A. Rice, presented a program on Our Present System of Education. Papers were read by Miss Marion Holmes on teaching the four lower grades, and by Miss Esther Granstrom on the four higher grades which are taught in the elementary schools. A general discussion on the subject followed.

A daughter was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Burton of New Haven. Mr. Burton is a grandson of Mrs. Willard Clarke, who now has twelve great-grandchildren, six boys and six girls.

Measles have recently developed among the children on and near the green, but so far not many have been detained from school.

The roads which until recently have been frozen and very slippery, are now very muddy. Owing to the mud the milk truck has been unable to make its rounds on Chestnut Hill for the daily collection of milk, which is now brought to the center, by horse drawn vehicles.

The work of transferring the telephone wires at the center to a cable system, is apparently completed as all the debris has been removed, and the new poles which were set, have been painted.

Mrs. Alice Turner and daughter, Miss May of Willimantic, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Hunt over the week end.

Charles K. Hitchcock, who has been confined to his home during the past month with an acute attack of sciatica, is improving slowly, but is not yet able to be out.

Rev. William S. Woolworth, pastor of the Liberty Hill Congregational church, and Rev. Charles C. Heun, pastor of Columbia Congregational church, exchanged pulpits Sunday Sunday morning.

BLACK HILL

Ted Graves left the past week for a tour of the western states.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brown of Collinsville spent Sunday with their parents.

Miss Mary Averill returned Tuesday to Worcester.

Mrs. Goldie Graves is in Moosup this week.

Everett E. Brown is constructing new poultry buildings.

Miss Abbie Medbury was a caller at Woodlands Sunday.

John Welcher was in Moosup recently.

Henry Moore, Claude Morgan, Benjamin and Amos Cornell are attending the Boston automobile show.

EKONK

The community meeting is to be held in Grange hall Thursday evening March 13. An interesting program is being prepared, the committee in charge being Harmon Frink for Sterling Hill, Miss Florence Gallup for Ekonk and Walter Congdon for the Wylie district.

Henry and Roy Congdon were home last week as the Sterling mill was shut down.

The frost is coming out of the ground and the roads are in a terrible condition.

Mrs. Alva Sayles and sons, Howard and Franklyn, visited in Danielson Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. C. S. Nightingale preached a very earnest and helpful sermon on Sunday afternoon, his subject being Prohibition.

Everett Carr is visiting his sister, Mrs. Myra Gallup.

The Ladies' Aid society of Sterling Hill church is to meet this (Tuesday) afternoon in the vestry.

Miss Sarah T. Palmer visited the local schools recently.

REPARATION EXPERTS ARE STUDYING FORM OF REPORT

Paris, March 10—(By the A. P.)—Getting down to the last stage of their work, the reparation experts today began studying the form in which their report would be presented to the reparations commission.

The greatest confidence prevails among the experts that their report, as roughly outlined in the discussions up to this time will be unanimous, and they have received information to convince them that it will be accepted by all the allies. The underlying principles of their findings are that Germany must pay the greatest amount she can and that there must be a minimum interference with her economic and financil affairs so long as she executes the final terms of settlement.

The experts will recommend that the minimum annual payments be fixed on a progressive scale to be paid: firstly, from receipts of railroads and monopolies any deficiency to be met from taxation. The theory underlying this decision is that the German people must be taxed as much as the people of any allied country, and their paying capacity judged by the sums derived from such taxation.

When the receipts from pledges, railroads and monopolies exceed the minimum payments, the surplus will be turned into the German treasury.

Growers of the dasheen, a new potatolike vegetable, have organized in Florida to develop a market for their product before the industry has become fully established on a production basis itself.

OPERATION ADVISED FRIEND SAID "DON'T DO IT!"
Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First. Proved Good Advice

Chicago, Illinois.—"Just a few lines to let you know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was married going on for three years, and went to a doctor and was taking treatments twice a week for pains every month. I used to lie in bed three or four days with them and the doctor would call and inject something into my arm to put me asleep so I would not feel the pains. At last she said I would have to be operated on if I wanted any children. Well, I just happened to go to see a friend with her first baby and I told her I was going to the hospital, and she said, 'Don't do it! You go and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you won't need any operation.' So my husband got me a bottle right away. Now I have two lovely children. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to every woman. It has helped me and a lot of my friends."—Mrs. A. McANDLESS, 1709 South Morgan St., Chicago, Illinois.

ANNOUNCING THE Spring Fashion-Fabric Show
AND SPECIAL DEMONSTRATION OF McCALL PRINTED PATTERNS

A Style Event of First Importance Begins Today
MRS. ESTA KROEGER
of the McCall Company, New York

WILL give practical talks and demonstrations all this week of the famous McCall Printed Patterns. She will explain the laying out and cutting of a garment and with the aid of a living model will show the proper way to drape it. Every woman in the city will be interested in our splendid collection of beautiful spring fabrics, and will be eager to see how these materials can be made into smart new spring clothes with the help of the Printed Pattern.

Never mind if you have not sewed before. With the Printed Pattern you can do so easily. The margin ensures absolute accuracy. Directions printed on every piece of the pattern make it the simplest in the world to use. The demonstrations are held—

TWICE DAILY—10 A. M. and 3 P. M.

TEACHERS—Are invited to make arrangements for special pattern demonstrations for their sewing classes. Call Mrs. Esta Kroeger at this store.

WESTERLY

Superior court for Washington county convened for the sixth day of the Westerly trial calendar, Monday morning, at the court rooms on Union street, with Judge Sumner on the bench. The trial of the Grasso-Fiore automobile damage suit, adjourned from Friday was continued, with the following jurymen present: Charles B. Smith, retired, North Kingstown, foreman; Omer Emond, mill operative and George E. Campbell, weaver, North Kingstown; Henry B. Northup, mill employe; Arthur L. Cook, farmer; Simon Wreschinsky, tailor; Harry W. Scott, farmer, and William E. Wilbur, mill employe, South Kingstown; William O. Barber, laborer, and William G. Holberton, farmer, Hopkinton; Henry Wright, operative, Richmond and Frank J. Murray, clerk, Narragansett.

In this suit Atanasio Grasso, represented by Attorney Ferguson sought to recover the sum of $500 for damages and losses sustained by an automobile collision Dec. 14, 1923, at the junction of School street and Chester avenue, with the automobile of Antonio Fiore, represented by Attorney Gallagher. Feb. 1, this case was tried in the Third district court before Judge Turano and a verdict was rendered for the plaintiff, Grasso, to recover $167.73, from which decision Attorney Gallagher appealed to the Superior court.

Police Patrolman George Champlin, the first witness, testified to the poor condition of Chester avenue and the location of the wheel tracks of the Grasso automobile which came down School street and the Fiore automobile on the left side of Chester avenue.

Arthur Holmes Coy for 9 years in the employ of the town of Westerly in the water and sewage departments, testified as to the condition of Chester avenue when as an inspector for the sewer department, the highway was turned back to the highway department.

Henry L. Morin, auto mechanic, testified as to the repairs required on the Hudson automobile of Grasso and as to the length of time required to obtain parts. A witness lacking at this trial was C. Harry Dennison of of the Dennison garage, who has been ill for the past two weeks.

Shortly before noon Attorney Gallagher opened for the defence and the spare jurors were excused until 2 p. m. Antonio Fiori, the defendant, testified to the positions of the automobiles which collided. In the afternoon session at 2 o'clock Frank Crandall, of the Westerly garage, was the first witness and was followed by Richard Waters and Mrs. Nelson, passengers in the Fiori auto. At 4 o'clock Attorney Gallagher finished his pleas to the jury and was followed by Attorney Ferguson.

MYSTIC

Mrs. Annie Denison Cranston, 86, died Monday morning at the Denison homestead on Broadway, follows an illness of about two months. Mrs. Cranston was the daughter of Isaac and Eunice Burrows Denison and was born Feb. 9, 1844. Sept. 12, 1865 she married John H. Cranston, of Norwich in which city she resided for many years. After the death of her husband, she came to Mystic to make her home with her sisters, the Misses Denison, but spent a portion of each year with her daughter, Mrs. Adrian Parsons, in Providence and with her son, Frederic H. Cranston in Norwich. Mrs. Cranston was in full possession of all her faculties, able to get about at will, and was keenly interested in the affairs of the day and up to the beginning of her last illness had enjoyed exceptionally good health. She was well liked by those who knew her and during her stay here she had made many friends who will be sorry to hear of her death. She is survived by a son, Frederic H. Cranston, of Norwich, a daughter, Mrs. Adrian Parsons, of Providence, who was with her mother constantly during her illness, three sisters, Mrs. Hannah B. P. Mecervy, of East Bridgewater, Mass., Misses Lavinia and Emily Denison and a brother Frederic Denison, all of Mystic, and a granddaughter, Miss Doris Parsons of Providence, R. I.

At the Union Baptist Church this (Tuesday) evening the first of the meetings arranged for this week will be held and will be in charge of Rev. J. G. Sallis, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of this place. The speakers for the other evenings are: Wednesday, Rev. E. E. Gates of Hartford; Thursday, Rev. Byron U. Hatfield of Westerly; Friday, Rev. H. R. Sloat, of Hartford. A chorus of young people of the church is being trained under the direction of Byron Hatfield of New York, who will have charge of the music during the evangelistic services to be held the latter part of March by Rev. John Morgan Currie, of Melrose Highlands, Mass.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union is to meet Wednesday afternoon.

Anniversary day will be observed at the Community House Thursday of this week. During the evening there will be a musical program and entertainment and the facilities of the house will be open to the members both day and evening. The Community House was opened in March 1921 and in the three years that it has been in existence there have been many ups and downs, but the undaunted spirit of its leaders has been such that today the affairs of the Community house are in as comfortable a state as they ever have been and it is therefore fitting that this observance should be held.

Miss Marion Cooper, a student in Willimantic Normal school, was home over Sunday.

Miss Ellen Boggsmus was home Stratford over the week-end.

GOVT COUNSEL AT WORK ON THE OIL LEASE CASES

Washington, March 10. — Special government counsel in the oil lease cases left today for Wyoming and California to initiate this week the long court fight looking to the recovery of the naval fuel reserves in those states from the Sinclair and Doheny interests.

Meantime the oil committee will resume its public hearings tomorrow under plans calling for an inquiry into several new phases of the question after it has wound up its investigation into the affairs of Edward B. McClean, Washington publisher, as they relate to the oil matter.

Receivers to take charge of both Teapot Dome in Wyoming and naval reserve number one in California pending the outcome of the annulment suits will be asked of the federal district courts in the two states. In addition the court at Cheyenne will be requested to issue a temporary injunction to prevent further extraction of oil in the Wyoming reserve where the wells already have been shut down.

No injunction to prevent production in the California reserve will be sought, but the court will be asked to restrain the Pan-American Petroleum company from drilling any new wells. Also it will be requested to impound the royalty oil revenue from this reserve during the litigation.

TALK OF THEATRICAL STRIKE RIDICULOUS

New York, March 10.—Talk of a theatrical strike on June 1 as a result of the demand of the Actors Equity association that casts be solidly of equity members or contain no equity members, is ridiculous, Edgar Selwyn, who with his brother, is the producer of five current Broadway shows, declared today. He said closing of any one of the Selwyn shows had not been considered for one minute.

In taking his stand with the Shuberts, who control 70 per cent. of New York's theatres, against the 27 members of the Producing Managers' association who recently announced their rejection of the equity demand, Mr. Selwyn said continued refusal of the demand would end in a split in the P. M. A. which eventually would cause its disruption.

Officials of equity said today that after the organization's policy had been given a vote of almost unanimous support last night, the next move would have to come from the managers.

The equity council, at its regular weekly meeting this afternoon, was understood to have made plans for the reception and consideration of possible compromise proposals from the managers.

It is understood that John Emerson, president of the equity, took occasion at last night's meeting to accuse E. F. Albee, head of the Keith vaudeville interests, of being partly responsible for the deadlock between actors and managers.

Mr. Emerson was quoted as having said that Mr. Albee, in order to head off possible trouble in his division of the amusement world, desired to weaken or destroy the Equity association through a contest with the producers of legitimate drama.

Organization of the vaudeville players, it was said, had been on the equity program for some time.

HOUSE APPROVES FORD MUSCLE SHOALS OFFER

Washington, March 10.—Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals, pending before congress for more than two years, was approved today by the house.

By a vote of 227 to 142 the McKenzie bill, which would authorize acceptance of Ford's bid, was passed and sent to the senate where there is uncertainty as to what action, if any, will be taken on it at this session.

Continuously before the house for a week, the McKenzie measure was approved practically in the form in which it was reported by the military committee, which had been informed by Mr. Ford that he would take over the government's nitrate and power project on the Tennessee river under the terms embodied in the bill.

To the last, advocates of the Ford offer resisted attempts to modify the proposed contract. Amendment after amendment, aimed at the heart of the bill, was thrown out by decisive vote, and as passed the measure carried less than half a dozen of minor importance which proponents of the bill were willing to accept.

Attached to the bill, however, was the Madden amendment, approved by the military committee, which obligates the government to replace the Gorgas steam power plant, recently sold to the Alabama Power company. Provision is made that this plant, which is not to cost, with a transmission line to Nitrate Plant No. 2, more than the $3,472,487 received for the Gorgas plant, is to be sold to Mr. Ford, along with Nitrate Plants Nos. 1 and 2, and the Waco quarry, near Russellville, Ala.

Under terms of the bill, Ford will have the right to lease for 100 years dams two and three at Muscle Shoals and adjacent power stations. Outnumbered, but fighting stubbornly to the last roll call, opponents of the offer made a futile last minute attempt to bring him under the terms of the federal waterpower act, thereby limiting his lease to 50 years, and to keep in the bill an amendment, adopted Saturday, which would enable the government to "recapture" the properties in the event the Detroit manufacturer failed to live up to his contract in any particular.

DIFFICULTIES CONFRONT THE OPIUM CONGRESS

Geneva, March 10.—(By the A. P.)—The opium congress, which adjourned tonight to meet in Paris, March 28, has brought out the tremendous difficulties in the way of reaching an international agreement which will meet American ideas and really limit the production of opium and its derivatives to medical and scientific needs.

Reflecting the views of India, the British delegate suggested to the congress that opium became a world menace when exported, and that the legitimate internal needs of a country like India, where opium is eaten, should not be subject to an international convention. This, it is considered, strikes a blow at the American viewpoint, which favors actual limitation of production. It is also feared that other producing countries, like Persia and Turkey, will use similar arguments and leave the road open to continued smuggling of large quantities of opium.

SENATE DEFEATS FIRST FARM RELIEF MEASURE

Washington, March 10.—In the first record vote of the session on a farm relief measure, the senate today defeated, 54 to 28, the proposed appropriation of $5,000,000 to be used in financing fertilizer purchases.

Party lines were not discernable in the result, southern democrats and eastern republicans joining in opposition to the proposal which was denounced as "communistic in theory," and entailing an unwarranted intrusion of the government into an already highly competitive business.

The appropriation was proposed as an amendment offered by Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, to the Norbeck-Burtness bill which would appropriate $75,000,000 to finance diversification of crops among "one-crop" farmers. Objections made to the Harris amendment were laid also against the parent measure. The Norbeck-Burtness bill was still unfinished business of the senate when adjournment was taken.

An office seeker would rather occupy a seat in the political band wagon than in a costly limosine.

Takes pills for years—finds first permanent relief in Kellogg's Bran

Have you found permanent relief from that terribly disease—constipation? The woman whose letter follows discovered—as thousands have discovered—that Kellogg's Bran succeeds when all else fails. This is because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be so effective. This is what she wrote:

"Gentlemen:

I am so wonderfully happy over my discovery, I feel I must tell the world about it. For years I have been ill continually from constipation, always resorting to pills or the like, never having any permanent relief until I heard of your Krumbled Bran.

Every morning I take two tablespoonfuls before my breakfast—and since the latter part of August I must admit have not experienced one sick spell which I have had for years. I have started my little girl of four years on your Bran, and already I have noticed a change in her. I thank you."

Name and address furnished on request. Write the Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is guaranteed to relieve permanently the most chronic cases of constipation. Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Money returned if not effective.

Notice the wonderful nut-like flavor. This flavor is delicious—so different from ordinary, unpalatable brans.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, made in Battle Creek, is served by America's leading hotels and clubs. Demand Kellogg's Bran. It will bring back your health. Start eating it today. Sold by all grocers.

March Birds

Though blasts of March are roaring high,
And clouds run races through the sky,
And weathercock are vexed to know
Which way to point the winds that blow,
And in the snowdrift on the hill
Winter is hid in ambush still,
Thou, little bird, with faithful wing,
Hast staked thy life upon a spring;
Hast come so full of faith possessed,
Winds ruffle but thine outer breast.
Perched on the garden's tallest pear,
Because thy last year's nest was there,
Thy song is of a quiet June.
My life has many a gusty sigh
To blow the clouds of memory.
And my poor brain is vexed to know
Which way my feet had better go,
And in a venture white and chill
Sorrow is hid in ambush still;
But still my heart shall strive to sing,
And stake its life upon a spring.
My heart, with constant faith possessed,
Shall keep a quiet inner breast,
In season's haunts, though blown and bare,
Because its last year's love was there,
My heart shall sing a quiet tune
Unto the halcyon days of June.
—Erastus W. Ellsworth.

To Keep True Lent

Is this a fast, to keep
The larder lean
And clean
From fat veals and sheep?

Is it to quit the dish
Of flesh, yet still
To fill
The platter high with fish?

Is it to fast an hour
Or ragged to go,
Or show
A downcast look, and sour?

No; 'tis a fast to dole
Thy sheaf of wheat
And meat
Unto the hungry soul.

It is to fast from strife,
From old debate
And hate
To circumcise thy life.

To show a heart grief-rent;
To starve thy sin,
Not bin;
And that's to keep thy Lent.
—Robert Herrick

In a little old-fashioned village in the Connecticut hills lives a woman of moderate means who resents the newly coined word, "scofflaw" as applied to those who violate the prohibition laws. She has offered a prize of $100 for the best invented word that will serve as an antithesis to "scofflaw."

Although plague is spread by the bite of rat fleas that have formerly feasted on the blood of a plague-infected person or animal, not every species of flea performs this office. It has been found that one species of rat flea is apparently responsible for most of the outbreaks of the pestilence, at least in India where it is endemic. The geographical distribution of the disease varies there with that of the flea Xenopsylla cheopis, while other species of rat fleas predominate where plague is uncommon.

Efforts are being made to establish a closed season on wolverines which are now facing extinction. Formerly found in all the northern forests, and in those of the Rocky mountains and Sierra Nevada, they are now found only in California in the high levels of the Sierra Nevada. One practical argument in favor of the preservation of the animal is that wolverines prevent the spreading of animal diseases by eating the carcasses of their victims. Known sometimes as "gluttons," wolverines are mighty eaters but no hunters; feasting rather on what they can find. They have been known to drive mountain lions and bears away from carcasses on which they wished to feast.

You no longer have to rub soap on your clothes to get them soapy and you don't have to rub the soapy clothes to get them clean.

CLEANSING RINSO SUDS gently dissolve the dirt from even the inmost fibers of the clothes you put to soak.

Only the specially dirty places like cuff-edges, neckbands, seats of rompers, need a little dry Rinso sprinkled on them and a light rubbing between your fingers. Then you rinse it all thoroughly and the loosened dirt is carried away.

Because Rinso dissolves completely you cannot possibly have any bits of soap left sticking to garments and turning them yellow under the iron, as so often happens with bar soap.

YOU GET a good clear rinse that absolutely floats off all the soapy solution—your clothes are cleaner than ever and with so much less labor!

The only soap you need for the Monday wash is—just Rinso. You soak with it, boil with it, use it in your washing machine. You don't have to bother with bar soap or washing powders any more.

Manufacturers of Famous Fabrics say: "Rinso saves the clothes because it soaks dirt out, rinses easily and there is no hard rubbing to wear out the fabric."

GALES FERRY

At Sunday morning worship in the M. E. church, Rev. W. D. Woodward spoke from Acts 11:26, the theme being 100 per cent Christian. Preceding the sermon, he spoke to the children from the motto of the marines, in the World war—"It Can't Be Done! Here It Is."

The leader of the Epworth League evening service was Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt, with the topic, The Farthest Reach of Divine Love. Special music at this service was The Lord is My Light (Dudley Buck); duet, Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham and Everett Noyes, with Miss Caroline B. Freeman at the piano; solo, Bearing His Cross, sung by C. E. Colver. Miss Jennie G. Perkins, pianist; readings on the topic were given by Miss Jennie G. Perkins and R. Irving Hurlbutt.

World service pictures, furnished by the Centenary movement, from Boston, will be shown next Sunday evening in the church, in place of the regular evening service.

Miss Edith Mason, clothing specialist from Storrs college, met a class of seven, in the Country Club house here, Friday, and gave instruction in lingerie making. Luncheon was served at the club house. Miss Mason plans to set a date in May for a class in dressmaking. Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, chairman of the educational department of the Village Improvement association, and the farm bureau, were in charge of the arrangements here. Mrs. Buckingham invited the class to meet at her home and continue their work, Wednesday afternoon, March 12, at 2.30 o'clock.

The Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church, met at the home of Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt, Wood Lawn farm, Friday afternoon, Mrs. Nelson Parker, the vice president, presiding. The work was on aprons.

Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Woodward, Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins and daughter, Miss Jennie G. Perkins of the Ferry, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Colver of the submarine base attended the first number in the series of five lectures, that M. A. Honline Litt. D., of Pasadena, California, is giving in the First Baptist church, New London.

F. E. Burdick, scout executive of New London, gave a talk to local Boy Scouts and friends, at the Country club house, Friday evening, on the activities of scout work, and showed slides of the life of the scouts at Camp Wakenah, taken last summer. Another meeting for reorganization is to be held Friday evening, the 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. Justin H. Peckham of Breakwater, with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peckham, of Waterford, motored to Kenyon, R. I., Monday, to attend the funeral of their uncle, James C. Tucker.

The Gales Ferry Pinochle club held its Thursday evening meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund B. Lewis, at Allyn's Point. Prizes were won by Miss Julie Chaisells and Orrin S. Bennett. Consolation awards went to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis. Mrs. Lewis served luncheon. Mr. Lewis holds the record for the highest score for any one evening, making 6020 points for five games. Mrs. William Austin stands second, making 6000 points, in the same number of games.

The Men's Pinochle club of the Ferry was held at the Country club, Wednesday evening. The scores follow: Miller 5010, Nylan 4910, Clark 4540, Hurlbutt 4540, A. Main 3790, Buckingham 2730 (3 games only). Lunch which is served on the first evening of the month, was cake, strawberries with cream, and coffee. J. J. Day of Norwich served as third trick operator at the railroad station here Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of last week.

A party that motored from Middletown to call on their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Colver of the submarine base, Sunday afternoon, included Mrs. Addison T. Chapman, her daughter, Mrs. Jesse G. Fox, with her two young sons, Addison and Everett, in the car of Mrs. Chapman's nephew, Charles Mildrum, who accompanied them.

Mr. and Mrs. Albertus S. Dean observed the eighth anniversary of their wedding at their home on the Military Highway, Thursday, March 6.

Judge and Mrs. Lucius Brown, with their son, Carl W. Brown, and his daughter, Virginia, of Norwich, motored here Sunday afternoon to call on their uncle, Noyes B. Allyn.

Cards have been received here by friends of Mrs. Charles A. Satterlee and her daughter, Miss Alice Satterlee of Gales Ferry from Southern Pines, N. C. Mrs. Satterlee and her daughter have been spending some weeks in Jacksonville, Fla.

Recent callers at the home of Mrs. Justin H. Peckham at the Breakwater were Mrs. H. H. Hatting and family of the village.

Airplanes are now used to lay down smoke screens which protect orchards from frost.

NO DEVELOPMENTS IN DAUGHERTY INVESTIGATION

Washington, March 10.—More calling of evidence preliminary to opening hearings on the Daugherty investigation again occupied the special senate committee today.

There was at the same time a lack of any development from Attorney General Daugherty or other administration quarters regarding his cabinet status. No explanation was given of the consideration a few days ago of eligibles to succeed the attorney general and administration leaders who have been urging his retirement admitted they were at a loss to understand why eligibles should be considered without action resulting sooner.

The Dyer anti-lynching bill was endorsed by Colonel William Hayward, United States district attorney, in an address Sunday before a negro mass meeting in New York called by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

MARKET WAS WEAK

New York, March 10.—Speculators for the decline, taking advantage of the apparent public apathy regarding price movements and the general absence of effective buying power, again exerted selling pressure against today's stock market and succeeded in bringing about a moderate reaction. Net losses in the active issues ranged from 1 to 2 17-3 points but, with few exceptions, prices did not break below the lows of last week.

Considerable speculative interest was manifested in the foreign exchange market, which was featured by the struggle for the control of French currency quotations between French governmental and banking interests on one hand and central and northern European speculators on the other. After opening nearly 30 points higher at 3.73 cents, the French franc cancelled practically all of its gain. Demand sterling yielded fractionally to around $4.26 and recessions took place in most of the other European rates.

Trade news in general was favorable. It included increase of 114,472 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation, which exceeded many of the earlier estimates and announcements of higher crude oil prices in various sections of the country.

Bear traders apparently were intent on preventing the steel tonnage statement from bringing about a rally in the general list, concentrating their pressure on the steel shares after the statement was issued. United States Steel common was hammered down to 101 5-8 as against last week's high of 104 3-4, but it snapped back later to 103, off one on the day. Republic, Crucible and Gulf States Steels closed 1 to 1 1-2 points lower.

Oil opened higher in response to an advance in eastern crude prices, but later reacted with the rest of the list. With the exception of Standard Oil of California, Houston and Mexican Seaboard certificates, which closed about a point lower, the net losses were limited to fractions. Sugars turned heavy on speculative expectation that the annual report of the American Sugar Refining company to be issued Wednesday would show a substantial loss in refinery operations. Special weakness cropped out in a few issues, particularly Coca Cola, which broke to a new 1924 low at 65 1-8 on reports that the company's cash position had been materially weakened in the last few months. Pullman established a new low at 118 and National Lead broke nearly 7 points to 126.

Chief interest in the railroad group centered in Norfolk and Western and New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, which touched new 1924 highs at 119 3-4 and 104 1-2 respectively. New York Central broke below par, apparently in reflection of the sudden death of President A. H. Smith.

Call money opened at 4 1-4 per cent. and then advanced to 4 1-2 where it closed. Business in the time money market was on a small scale with loans arranged at 4 3-4 for three and four month maturities. Commercial paper continues to move at 4 3-4 and 5 per cent.

BOND MARKET

New York, March 10.—Indications of continued easy money rates, seen in the treasury's decision to do no long term financing at this time, gave a good tone to the bond market today in the face of quiet trading activity. Prices held firm, with the exception of Wilson and company 7 1-2 per cent. bonds, which were subjected to selling pressure on the statement of the president that preferred dividends were endangered. The issue lost four points and other of the company's bonds were weak.

The action of French governmental and municipal obligations followed closely the movement of the franc, gaining in the early dealings, and weakening as the advance of the currency was cancelled. Belgian 8's also lost ground.

Renewed selling of Liberty bonds developed on the offering of the $400,000,000 treasury certificates, but the financing, which had been expected to total $500,000,000 was regarded as favorable for the general investment market.

Although price changes were mixed in the railroad issues, the general trend was higher, with Norfolk and Western convertible 6 1-2s leading the list in activity and touching a new high mark at 119 7-8 in the course of the day's trading.

CURB MARKET

New York, March 10.—Failure of the oil shares to make a quick response to higher crude oil prices was used by bear traders as an excuse for another attack on today's curb market, which developed a reactionary trend. In the absence of any public interest, trading was again on a reduced scale.

Oils were the hardest hit. Standard Oil of Ohio, stroke five points to 330, Cheesebrough dropped 3 to 417; Swan and Finch 2 1-2 to 60, while Cities Service, Vacuum, Imperial of Canada and Prairie Oil and Gas dropped 1 to nearly 2 points; Gulf of Pennsylvania moved against the current trend, closing a point higher at 61.

A jump of 15 points to 460 by Ford Motors of Canada was one of the features of the industrial list. Most of the radio issues improved fractionally. Motors were heavy.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, March 10.—Something of a selling drive which found the market minus aggressive support led to a decided break in wheat prices today. The government report on farm reserve stocks was bearish as to wheat, but was received after the end of trading and apparently had no relation to the setback of values. Wheat finished steady at the finish was 7c to 1 5-8c down, with May 1.09 7-8 to 1.10 and July 1.10 1-4. Corn closed 3-8c to 5-8c down, oats 1-4c to 5-8c off, and provisions unchanged to 10c lower.

Shortly after the opening the wheat market suddenly flattened out. Developments at Washington in regard to the McNary-Haugen bill were closely watched and with the government report due after the close and the snow falls general throughout the winter wheat belt, no adequate demand was apparent until prices had fallen 2c in some cases. Gossip was current that some of the selling came from houses with Paris connection and there was talk that France had cancelled some purchases of wheat. The bulk of the selling, however, seemed to result from dislodgment of standing orders to stop losses at certain limits. Subsequently reports of crop damage from hessian fly in Kansas tended to rally the market a little.

Declines in corn and oats was due to sympathy with the weakness of wheat. Corn receipts here, however, proved to be of much less volume than had been looked for and this with unfavorable weather conditions acted as an offset for announcement of increase in the visible supply total. The government report on farm reserves of corn and on the percentage of merchantable corn was construed as about what had been generally expected, but the figures as to oats were rather bearish.

Provisions receded in line with hog values.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. James B. Aldrich is to leave this (Tuesday) morning for Westboro, Mass., where he has been called by the death of his sister, Mrs. Alvin A. Ford, 75.

Mrs. Ford died Sunday, following an illness of six weeks, during which every possible aid was administered by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Aldrich, who has cared for her for the past five weeks. Mrs. Ford suffered a breakdown due to over-work, following the death last November, of her husband, after a long illness. Recent news from Mrs. Aldrich was most encouraging, she having stated that Mrs. Ford was able to sit up Wednesday last. Mrs. Ford was born in Vermont, the daughter of Arnold and Margery Williamson Aldrich. She was the last of her family, except for her brother, Rev. James B. Aldrich of Norwich Town. When about four years of age, Mrs. Ford's parents moved to New Hampshire, where for the following twenty years, until her marriage, she made her home. Mr. and Mrs. Ford at one time were residents of Fitchville, Mr. Ford being boss weaver of the old cotton mill at the time it was burned, a number of years ago. Besides her brother, Mrs. Ford is survived by six nephews and two nieces: Rev. Oscar J. Aldrich, pastor of the First Methodist church of Taunton, Mass., Arnold Aldrich of Boston, Mrs. J. P. Comstock of Audobon, N. J., Lewis and Mark Aldrich of Norwich Town, children of Rev. and Mrs. James B. Aldrich, and Victor Heath, manager of Ferdinand's Blue store of Boston, John I. Heath of East Thompson, Conn., and Mrs. Harry Streeter of Audobon, N. J., children of a sister who died some years ago. Rev. Mr. Aldrich will return to Norwich Town the latter part of the week.

Comfort Circle of the King's Daughters, Mrs. Stanton W. Brown, leader, was in charge of the musical hour at the Backus hospital, Sunday afternoon, at which time a delightful programme of popular music was given by the Guile trio, Miss May Guile, first violin, Master George Guile, second violin, Miss Lucile Guilé, pianist. Following were the numbers: Battle Song of Liberty, Bigelow; Star of Hope, reverie, Kennedy; L'Esprit de Nû, Zamecnik; Southern Dream Waltzes, Lincoln; Bambalina, Spothart; Kiss of Spring, Rolfe; Spring's Awakening, Bach; Mood Pensive, Zamecnik; O Sole Mio, Capua; violin solo, Adoration, Borowski, by Master Guile; Wonderful One, Whiteman; violin solo, Andante Cantabile, Pschalkowsky, Miss May Guile; Air Varie, by Dancla. The Battle Song of Liberty was again given in closing. Miss Lucile Guile played the piano accompaniments for her brother and sister.

Thomas Wilcox, manager of "Idle Manse," Mansfield Center, was a caller Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic H. Wyant of, Norwich Town.

COLUM AND VERSAILLES

But for the quick action of Homer Monty, a few minutes before 8 o'clock Monday morning, a women resident of Versailles would have been drowned in the channel of the Totokett company's plant. While in a despondent mood, she threw herself into the channel, between the company's dam and the highway bridge over which Mr. Monty was driving at the time. Mr. Monty was able, by entering the mill yard, to get a secure hold, pulling her from the water, then putting her into his car and taking her to her home.

Funeral services for John H. Richards were held Sunday afternoon. Prayer was held at the Richards home at 2.30 by Rev. C. W. Ruoff and was followed by services at the Versailles

STIMULATES SUSTAINS SATISFIES THAT IS DOING ARTOIS

M. E. church, Rev. Charles Smith of Uncasville and Rev. C. W. Ruoff officiating. A tribute was paid to the memory of Mr. Richards' nearly one-half century of helpful, lovable and upright life in the community. The services were largely attended, and there were beautiful flowers from friends and business associates. Members of the church choir under the direction of Organist H. R. Bushnell, rendered two selections, Lead, Kindly Light, and The Christian's Good Night. The bearers were George W. Allen, Robert McNeely, Henry Kendall and Frederick Irons. Burial was in the family lot in Lovett cemetery where the committal was by Rev. Charles Smith.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

A house ways and means sub-committee began drafting a soldiers' bonus bill.

Secretary Hoover issued a statement opposing any monopoly in radio broadcasting.

Charles M. Schwab told President Coolidge congressional investigations were injuring business.

Secretary Denby departed from the navy department, his resignation having become effective.

The house passed the McKenzie bill providing for acceptance of Henry Ford's bid for Muscle Shoals.

New York's state labor laws regulating hours of labor for women were upheld by the supreme court.

Attorney-General Daugherty advised the senate that the packers' consent decree had been well administered.

The state department was informed that Honduran rebels had rejected peace overtures of Central American republics.

The senate finance committee decided to complete administrative sections of the tax bill before taking up income rates.

The senate refused to approve an amendment to the Norbeck-Burtness measure which would have provided a loan of $5,000,000 with which farmers could finance purchase of fertilizer.

The house judiciary committee decided that investigation of charges against two representatives developed before a Chicago grand jury, should be left with the department of justice.

The supreme court decided that the section of the Kansas industrial relations court law prohibiting strikes by coal miners must stand or fall on the decision of the Kansas courts.

Attorney-General Daugherty and Senator Elkins, republican, West Virginia, are the only two public officials who had transactions in Sinclair oil stock so far as shown by the oil committee's audit of brokers' books, Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, announced.

E. L. Doheny, through Frank J. Hogan, his attorney, notified President Coolidge that he has personally guaranteed his companies against loss for pursuing work on No. 3 naval fuel station at Pearl Harbor and the world will continue pending the oil litigation.

LEGAL NOTICES

TAXPAYERS

TO THE TAXPAYERS OF THE TOWN OF VOLUNTOWN

All persons liable to pay taxes in the Town of Voluntown, State of Connecticut are hereby notified that I have a warrant to levy and collect a tax of 40 mills on the list as made by the Board of Assessors and perfected by the Board of Relief of said town for the year 1923.

DUE AND PAYABLE APRIL 1ST, 1924

All persons neglecting this notice will be proceeded against as directed by law of the state. For the purpose of collecting the same I will be at Benjamin Gallup's April 1st, 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. and Warren Tanner's, April 2nd, 10 a. m. to 2 p. m., at all other time I will be at the Town Clerk's Office.

After August 31st 9 per cent. interest will be added from the time these taxes became due.

Dated at Voluntown, March 8th, 1924.

WM. H. KAUFMANN, Tax Collector, Voluntown, Conn. mar11d

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

The Republican electors of the Town of Columbia are requested to meet in caucus in Yeomans' hall, Tuesday, March 18, 1924, at 8 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing delegates to the Republican State Convention and Congressional District Convention to be held in Hartford, April 2 and 3, 1924, for the election of delegates to the Republican National Convention and the appointment of a State Central Committee.

Also, for the purpose of electing a Town Committee for the ensuing two years.

By order of town committee,

WM. A. WOLFF, Chairman.

Dated at Columbia, Conn., March 8, 1924.

VICTORIA WICKOWSKI NOVAK vs Stephen Novak, alias Gus Lesur, Order of Notice.

State of Connecticut, County of New London, March 7th, 1924.

Upon the complaint of the said Victoria Wickowski Novak claiming, for the reasons therein set forth an annulment of her marriage now pending before the Superior Court in and for said county.

It appearing to and being found by this Court that on the 4th day of March, 1924, the said plaintiff filed an amendment to her said complaint alleging desertion by said defendant, and claiming a divorce by reason of said alleged desertion, that said defendant is absent from this State and gone to parts unknown.

It is therefore ordered, that notice of the pendency of said amendment be given said defendant by publishing this order in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper printed in Norwich, Connecticut, once a week for two successive weeks, commencing on or before the 20th day of March, 1924.

By order of Court.

GEORGE E. PARSONS, Clerk of the Superior Court for New London County. mar11d

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 10th day of March A. D. 1924.

Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge

Estate of Mary Agnes Chandler, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Charles E. Chandler, of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying for the reasons therein set forth that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased be admitted to probate.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 15th day of March, A. D. 1924, at 2 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing and that return be made to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing, is a true copy of record. Attest.

HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk. mar11d

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 7th day of March, A. D. 1924.

Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Jennie C. Holmes, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Ordered, That the Administratrix, cite the creditors of said deceased to bring in their claims against said estate within six months from this date, by posting a notice to that effect, together with a copy of this order, on the signpost nearest to the place where said deceased last dwelt, and in the same Town, and by publishing the same once in a newspaper having a circulation in said District, and make return to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing, is a true copy of record.

Attest: HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

NOTICE.—All creditors of said deceased are hereby notified to present their claims against said estate to the undersigned at 111 Central Ave., Norwich, Conn., within six months from the date of the above order, for settlement.

CHEVALIER BROS.

SPOTTED THIS WEEK (FEB. 25th) AT

B. F. Keith's Palace, New York

Chevalier Brothers goaled 'em in second spot with some easy lifts and balances, at times quite up to anything Rath Brothers ever showed. But the Chevaliers are far more versatile, and such wows as a double cartwheel to a hand-to-hand stand, and remarkable single foot on head balances tore down the house, as early as it was—about 8:17—when they came on. A hardshoe dance by the topmounter going into an amazing pin up to the one hand of the understander, who enters, sweeps the other up and carries him out all in one unbroken motion to the music, sent them out to a complete show-stopper.

RYE MAN FINED AFTER CRASH WHEN AUTO HIT TROLLEY POLE

Fred Gagnon of Rye, N. Y., the death of whose brother, Philip, of Montville, occurred at the Backus hospital of pneumonia after an automobile accident on the Montville road near DeWolf's switch, was before the city court at an afternoon session Monday for trial on the charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Judge A. F. Libby found him guilty and fined him $200 and costs with a 30 day jail sentence suspended for a year. He paid the fine and costs amounting to $218.26. Before finally pronouncing sentence Judge Libby indicated that he was strongly in favor of giving jail sentences in cases of persons operating automobiles while intoxicated, stating the there had been entirely too much whitewashing in such cases and he didn't propose to be a party to whitewashing. The interests of the public should be protected by the courts, he said.

Judge Thomas J. Kelly, attorney for the accused man, argued strongly, urging on the court that the accused was a stranger to the roads here and that the particular place where this happened was such a spot as to make it possible for even a sober man to have a similar kind of accident and the evidence before the court had failed to establish beyond a doubt that this man was drunk.

Prosecuting Attorney Lee Roy Robbins did not favor a jail sentence but said he doubted that Gagnon was under the influence of liquor so that this was the cause of the accident.

The accident which brought about the appearance of Gagnon in court occurred on the night of Saturday, March 1, when the machine driven by Gagnon towards Montville left the highway, got into the trolley tracks on the right and then ran into a trolley pole. Philip Gagnon, who was in the machine, was injured and was taken to the Backus hospital where double pneumonia developed and caused his death, as was shown by an autopsy. It was learned that he had been sick with pneumonia symptoms for several days before the accident but had continued to keep up and about.

State Policeman Frank Schweikert, who investigated the accident, was the first witness and testified among other things that Fred Gagnon told him he had had three drinks that night.

Benjamin H. Clark of Montville, who took the injured man to the Backus hospital, accompanied by the accused, testified that Fred Gagnon was not drunk. Margaret Neville, a nurse at the hospital, and Dr. Varney, who attended the injured man told what they observed as to the condition of the accused.

When put on the stand to tell his story of the accident, Gagnon said that he was driving the machine and they came to the city from Montville, driving around here at his brother's direction. They stopped at two or three places and at one place he was offered a drink from a bottle. He said he put it to his lips more for sociability case than for anything else. He said he was unfamiliar with the streets or the roads but his brother told him where to drive and on the way home, while keeping to his right where the accident happened, he got into the car tracks and the next thing he knew his machine crashed into the pole. He lifted his injured brother up and then ran to a nearby house and knocked but could get no response. Then he came back to the machine and asked Mr. Clark, who came along, to take his brother to the hospital. He helped lift the injured man into Clark's small roadster and held him on the ride to the hospital.

Gagnon said he was terribly nervous but he remembered kissing his brother at the hospital. He said the way he feels now he has had enough of automobiles and never wants to drive another. His own machine is so badly damaged that he wouldn't want to attempt to have it repaired.

Attorney Kelly called the clerk of the court, A. J. Bailey, to the stand to testify to the formation of the road at the point of the accident. Clerk Bailey testified that a curve at this point, the narrowness of the traveled part of the highway and the way the curve hides the road from view made it a spot where accidents might happen to anyone and he told of one that nearly happened to him at this point several years ago when he had to drive his car over the trolley tracks and up the bank to avoid a smashup.

After the court session was over, Mr. Gagnon expressed his great appreciation of the courteous treatment he had received at the hands of officers at the time of his arrest and since then.

HARTFORD MEN BUY NORWICH STEAM LAUNDRY

The Norwich Steam Laundry, for many years owned and operated by Squired Gregson was sold Monday morning to Harry Davison and Samuel Cohn of Hartford, who took immediate possession of the plant.

Mr. Gregson with his brother, John Gregson, came to Norwich from Providence in January 1887 and entered into the laundry business under the firm name of S. & J. Gregson, proprietors of the Norwich Steam Laundry. At that time the business was located in the old Lucas building at the corner of Shetucket and Water streets.

After some years in business, in 1890 it was found necessary to move to larger quarters. The McWhirr building at 192 Franklin street was purchased and the business opened there. In 1907 the business increased to such an extent that it was necessary to increase floor space and an addition was made to the building.

The partnership continued until April, 1920, when John Gregson relinquished his interest to his brother in order that he might establish the Gregson's Dry Cleaning business with his sons. Mr. Gregson continued in the laundry business for the next four years selling out Monday.

The new owners, Messrs Davison and Cohn who have come from Hartford with their families to reside in Norwich are laundrymen of experience. Mr. Davison was the recent owner of the Beacon Laundry in Hartford and Mr. Cohn is a young man of wide business experience. It is their pleasure to continue the business on the same high standards maintained by Mr. Gregson in his many years in business in this city, the patrons being assured of courteous treatment and painstaking care of all work done by the company.

NORWICH RESIDENTS IN MOHICAN INDIAN PAINTING

R. Lewis French, an artist, who recently completed a painting captioned The Last of the Mohicans, an historic scene depicting an Indian chief of the Mohican tribe with hand shading face, standing on the banks of the Thames river, has in the opinion of experts, made one of the best pictures of the year.

A tableau of the historic scene which he fancied was photographed on the scene selected for the painting. The actors in the tableau are truly the Last of the Mohicans and the scene they depict is a dramatic incident of the Indian history of Connecticut.

The scene represents Chief Uncas of the Mohicans standing on a promontory on east shore of the Thames, with his hands shading his eyes while he watches for Chief Miantonomo of the Narragansetts. This is Chief Lemuel Fielding of Norwich. To the left is Princess Tocoonwas, the first Indian to christen a United States ship. Nearby is Burrell Fielding, a war chief. Loretta Fielding is the other Indian maiden. Princess Tantequidgen, who is well known in Philadelphia on account of her anthropological work and Prince Elmer are near the campfire.

OFFICERS SEIZE WHISKEY AND GIN AT BALTIC

State Policeman Fred Caron, Sweikert, Malbruson and Church visited the places of Ernest Viou and Philip Duchane at Baltic and cleaned out all the liquor they found that was ostensibly held in violation of the provision of the Volsead liquor law. The officers confiscated three quarts of gin and as much whiskey. They also seized 50 gallons of hard cider. The men accused were held in a bond of $500 each for appearance before Justice Adams at Baltic Tuesday evening.

FARMERS' FIELD DAY AT FORESTRY SPRING MEETING

The Middlesex county farm bureau is to make it a field day for the farmers of that region when the Connecticut Forestry association holds its first field meeting of the year at the Devils Hop Yard State Park in East Haddam, Middlesex county.

Among the features of the meeting will be a demonstration of the best method of thinning out poor trees in a woodlot. The trees will be marked and actually removed by a corps of volunteer axemen so that the entire operation can be witnessed from start to finish. The cooperation of the business organizations in Norwich, New London and Middletown is expected and the States Park and Forest Commission is going to act as hosts for the occasion and to demonstrate the service which they are rendering to the public in safeguarding the beauty spots of the state. The Devil's Hop Yard has been for many years a favorite picnic grounds for people of eastern Connecticut. Recently lumbermen started to cut the magnificent hemlock forest which covered the spot, thus destroying its beauty. The Park Commission felt that the value of these particular trees standing was worth more than they would be cut into lumber and by stepping in and purchasing the area, saved it as a forest playground and game refuge for the state.

It was also decided to hold a summer field meeting in Litchfield county probably at the estate of Alain C. White near Bantam Lake where there are located some very fine forest plantations and a great deal of interesting forestry work has been done.

Later a meeting will probably be held in Barkhamsted on the Peoples Forest, when this historic 2000-acre tract, which is being purchased by popular subscription through the Forestry Association, is deeded to the state to be held as a state forest.

If enough local interest is shown a meeting will also be held in Fairfield county during the summer.

MAN WHO FOUGHT OFFICER GOES TO JAIL

There were several cases for Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Monday morning, the session lasting until after 11 o'clock adjourning until afternoon to try a continued case.

Four men charged with intoxication paid fines and costs for the actions and were discharged, one other being fined $5 and costs, going to jail to work out his fine.

Peter Bolaski charged with intoxication, breach of the peace and resisting an officer, was given a sentence of 40 days; 10 days for intoxication, 10 days for breach of the peace, the other twenty for resisting an officer. He also was fined $5 and costs amounting to $14.35. He also has two other fines of $5 and costs amounting to $17.75 and $50 and costs amounting to $60.75 hanging over him, all making a total of $92.85. With the sentences imposed Monday he will be in jail 135 days to work out his freedom, when arrested Sunday he tore the collar form officer Daniel O'Niel's coat.

Peter Guastamachi and Benjamin Budnick charged with violation of pool room laws were discharged by Judge Libby. Frank Ceccolini, charged with reckless driving of his automobile had his case nolled.

The case involving a 15 year old girl was held in chambers and continued for one week.

TAFTVILLE PASTOR SPOKE AT RADIATOR FACTORY

Under Y. M. C. A. auspices, Rev. Edwin Crowdis of Taftville gave a very interesting talk to the men of the Richmond Radiator Co., Monday at noon. His topic was "What about the end of life." He spoke in part as follows:

Last week we looked at a moment in a busy life, we found that the common people heard Jesus gladly, not only because of his truth but also because of his service. It was a passing view, as he was working with a forward look. Today I want to speak briefly of a man who had already come to the end, as far as the present life is concerned and he is ready. The apostle looking back could with real confidence face the larger future. Life gave him the opportunity and he met it like a man.

Great examples always inspire us. They show us, even though we may have fewer talents and more limited circles, a field where we may work and serve in the same high spirit.

The end awaits us all, our challenge is with us now. How shall we meet it? One of our great men, who very recently went out into the larger life, met the message and the situation, even as did the apostle with the great words, even words of fire, "I am ready."

These lessons are not just examples that have no application or meaning for us, for no man liveth or dieth to himself. These examples speak of obligation and reward. Happy are we if only we see these truths, in terms of our own lives and ply the game like men, then at last in a quiet and happy confidence we can say, each one of us, "I am ready."

DIES IN PLAINFIELD, N. J. BROTHER IN THIS CITY

Plainfield, N. J., March 10—Amos Andrews believed to have been one of the last surviving members of the crew of the Vicksburg, Admiral Farragut's flagship at the battle of Mobile bay, died at the Muhlenberg hospital here tonight in his 76th year. Mr. Andrews was superintendent of the Plainfield Union Water company for the past thirty years.

Mr. Andrews was born in Norwich, Connecticut, in 1849 and at the age of 14 enlisted in the navy being assigned to the Vicksburg during the civil war. Though only a lad he performed the duties of a seaman and took part in the battle in which Admiral Farragut captured the Confederal Ironclad Tennessee.

He is survived by his widow, and a brother in Norwich.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT BAPTIST DISTRICT SOCIAL

The Central Baptist church has planned a series of district socials in order to become better acquainted with the nearly 100 new members. The first of these was held at the home of Judge and Mrs. Allyn L. Brown on Broadway Monday evening. About 150 people were in attendance. The guests pronounced the evening a decided success. Games, sociability and refreshments were the order of the evening.

On Tuesday evening two more of these socials will be held, one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Arnold on Cliff street and the other at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Wyman on Court street.

BECAME VIOLENTLY ILL AFTER DRINKING "WHISKEY"

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 10—John Rydel of 625 Main street, was taken into custody at Greeneville this forenoon at the request of Sergeant Frank Howard of the New London police department, charged with violation of the liquor law and upon information furnished the local authorities by Rock Zekas of Winthrop St., who alleged that he purchased so-called whiskey of Rydel and that the stuff so nauseated him that he was forced to seek medical attention. The physician of whom Zekas obtained relief stated that the concoction poisoned the victim's stomach. However, it is understood that the "liquor" Zekas purchased was analyzed and its contents showed it to be grain alcohol, water and sweetening, probably burned sugar. Rydel was held in bonds of $500 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

According to Zekas he went to Rydel's home Saturday and purchased a bottle supposed to be whiskey. He drank of its contents and a short time later became violently ill. He obtained medical treatment and was relieved. Sunday he visited the police station and after imparting his information, the acting prosecuting attorney issued a warrant for Rydel's arrest. The warrant was turned over to Sergeant Frank Howard, who went to Rydel's home only to be informed that the latter was at his home only Fridays and Saturdays, and that he spent the remainder of his time at a Greeneville place. Sergeant Howard at once boarded a trolley car for Norwich and obtaining assistance there soon located Rydel and the latter's arrest followed.

PROF. TIRRELL SPEAKS ON YESTERDAY AND TODAY

Yesterday and Today was the subject of a very interesting and well prepared address given by Henry A. Tirrell, principal of the Norwich Free Academy, at the March meeting of the Brotherhood of the United Congregational church. With an attendance of about 50 the Brotherhood met at 6.30 o'clock for a delicious roast supper prepared and served under the direction of the Haviland class of the United church. Following the supper President Walter F. Lester called the business meeting to order. The usual reports were heard and accepted and other routine business was transacted. The literary committee announced that arrangements have been completed to bring Dr. J. Valdemar Moldenhauer, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Albany, N. Y., to lecture under the auspices of the Brotherhood. The meeting delegated Will L. Stearns to convey to the Haviland Class the Brotherhood's appreciation of the splendid supper.

Prof. Tirrell was presented as the speaker of the evening by President Lester. My subject, Yesterday and Today, said Mr. Tirrell, is intended to convey the thought of the relation of the past with the present. The Chinese worship their ancestors. They believe in "yesterday." What kinds of knowledge are "present" and what kinds of knowledge necessarily have to have the past in them?

A friend asked me if the world wouldn't be just as well off if we forgot all that happened back of the last fifty years. My answer was, this world is not run by knowledge but by sentiment and sentiment has its roots in the past. It is sentiment that controls. There are two kinds of knowledge. One is the knowledge of fact. The other is the knowledge our ancestors called wisdom. It is not only a knowledge of facts but a knowledge of human nature.

Mankind looks towards the past to preserve the great ideals that have come down to us. Man looks to the present for practical knowledge. The present view emphasizes the scientific view of everything. A belief in God is more important than all the science the world ever saw. Moses first taught his people that there is a God. It took years and years. Then he taught them personal purity, how to take care of themselves. In the third place he taught them the ten commandments.

What is the proper attitude of the person who recognizes the importance of the past to the present? My attitude is that all truth is God's truth. In order to keep pace with progress and to keep the great spiritual truths of the past, the world needs great interpreters of science. The reason people want some people to break with the past is they don't recognize the great truths of the past that are essential to the salvation of the race.

In bringing his talk to a close Mr. Tirrell placed particular emphasis on three points, belief in God, personal purity and belief in the ten commandments. All truths are God's truths, he said, and the things that were true, spiritually, thousands of years ago, are just as true today.

The meeting came to a close about 8 o'clock, after a rising vote of thanks had been given the speaker.

SMALL FIRE DAMAGE FROM MATCH IN WASTE

The fire department was called out Monday morning at 8:10 o'clock for a fire at the Max Gordon & Son Corp. building on Falls avenue. The fire which was started by a match being thrown by accident into a pile of waste, was quickly extinguished by the department with only a small damage to the building.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking, according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

SNOW WITH HEAVY GALES ALL ALONG THE ATLANTIC COAST

Miles of Telegraph and Telephone Wires Fell With Weight of Snow and Ice—Disruption of Wire Communication Extends Far Down Into the Southern States—One of the Worst Storms For This Section Ever Experienced at This Season.

Washington, March 11.—The blizzard which was whirling northward along the eastern seaboard tonight, had left a trail of disrupted wire communication extending far down into the southern states.

Snow and rain, lashed by the heavy gale which came up from the Gulf of Mexico, has fallen all along the coast, and storm warnings are still up from Eastport, Maine, to Jupiter Inlet, Fla. Miles of telegraph and telephone wires have been laid low by the burden of sodden snow and ice and Washington tonight had no direct wire communication with the south and many wires to the north and west also were down.

The storm, described by the weather bureau as one of the worst for this section ever experienced at this season, was said to be centrol over Delaware tonight. Continuance of the snow and rain accompanying it was predicted for the North Atlantic states tomorrow, while clearing weather was in sight for the South Atlantic region tomorrow, frost and freezing temperatures were forecast for as far down as northern Florida.

FIVE DEATHS CAUSED BY STORM IN NEW YORK

New York, March 11.—A North Atlantic blizzard, accompanied by a 75-mile-an-hour gale and alternating squalls of torrential rain and flurries of moist snow, swept over the eastern seaboard today, paralyzing shipping, seriously interfering with telegraph communication and leaving in its wake great property damage.

In New York and its vicinity, five persons were killed by flying objects, scores of electric light and telephone wires snapped, large trees were felled, windows were broken and vehicular traffic impeded. Service on a number of trolley lines in Staten Island were suspended for several hours.

Wire traffic between the city and the south, from Maryland to Texas, was subject to delays from one to four hours, the Western Union Telegraph company reported. Messages to Washington were delayed two to five hours.

In New York harbor and along the coast, marine men reported heavier seas were running than in any storm during the last twenty years.

The havoc created in the area between Washington and South Carolina necessitated one of the longest re-routing of a press wire on record, the direct Havana circuit of Associated Press being restrung in a rough circle, radiating to Chicago.

This was an example of the situation under which the press associations, telegraph and telephone companies labored. The storm was severe through Pennsylvania and the trans-continental wires of The Associated Press were changed to reach Pittsburgh by way of Chicago.

SNOW DRIFTS FOUR FEET HIGH IN WINSTED

Winsted, March 11.—Norfolk tonight reported snow drifts in some places as high as four feet. In the Winsted telephone district 16 lines with 67 connections are out of order due to the high wind. In the outlying districts many trees are reported down. Central New England railway trains are reported snow-bound at Boston Corners, N. Y., because of the drifts.

Early tonight the snow which had been falling in this vicinity all day abated but the high winds continued. Hartland, Colebrook and Barkhamsted report roads blocked by snow-drifts.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The death of Lopez Gutierres, de facto president of Honduras, was reported to the state department.

President Coolidge asked congress to adopt a resolution reducing by 25 per cent income taxes payable March 15.

An application for a pardon for Edward A. Rumely, former editor of the New York Mail, was refused by President Coolidge.

The senate defeated an amendment to the Norbeck-Burtness farm relief bill to appropriate $25,000,000 for loans to cotton farmers.

California organizations were heard by the senate immigration committee on proposals to exclude aliens ineligible for citizenship.

President Coolidge directed Prohibition Commissioner Haynes to investigate charges by Rear Admiral Charles F. Plunkett that Washington is the wettest city in the United States.

The house voted to leave to the department of justice for the present investigation of charges developed before a Chicago grand jury involving the conduct of two representatives.

President Coolidge will be guided by advice of the special oil counsel in acting on E. L. Doheny's offer to continue tank construction work at Pearl Harbor, it was said at the White House.

Senator Lenroot resigned as chairman of the oil committee. The committee again examined John F. Major, confidential employe of Edward B. McLean and went over telegrams subpoenaed from Three Rivers, N. M., home of Albert B. Fall.

LA FOLLETTE PROMINENT IN THIRD PARTY MOVEMENT

St. Paul, Minn., March 11.—Call for a national convention of political organizations favorable to the "third party" movement, to be held in St. Paul, June 17, was issued here tonight by a conference of delegates from eight states.

The purpose of the convention, as stated in the call is to nominate a president and vice president and adopt a national platform. Thirteen organizations were represented at the conference, which adjourned tonight.

Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin was most prominently mentioned as the probable choice of the June 17 convention for its presidential nomination.

CHOICE OF NEW ENGLAND LUTHERAN CONFERENCE

Auburn, Mass., March 11.—Rev. Hilding Brodeen, pastor of the Lutheran church at Houtsdale, Pa., is the unanimous choice of the New England Lutheran conference mission board for pastor of Lutheran Bethel church here. Rev. Mr. Brodeen is the son of the late Rev. John S. Brodeen a former pastor of the Lutheran church in this country, who later moved to Sweden. The board fixed the pastor's salary at $3,000.

KANSAS DELEGATIONS ARE TO SUPPORT COOLIDGE

Topeka, Kansas, March 11.—(By the A. P.)—Resolutions instructing Kansas delegates to the national convention to support President Coolidge and commending David W. Mulvane national committeeman, were passed unanimously this afternoon by the republican state convention.

OBITUARY

George C. Hosford.

Thomaston, Conn., March 11.—George C. Hosford, Civil war veteran, who was a member of the state house of representatives in 1915, died this afternoon at the home of his son, Fred Hosford in Plymouth, following a lingering illness. He was 77 years old and served with Company A, First Connecticut Heavy Artillery, during the Civil war. He was first selectman of Thomaston in 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913 and 1914.

FATALITY IN WRECK ON THE CENTRAL VERMONT

Burlington, Vt., March 11.—George W. Gaines, of Burlington, was killed and scores of other passengers were injured when a Central Vermont railroad express train bound from Boston to Montreal, struck a broken rail north of North Duxbury early today. Six of the eight cars rolled down an embankment to the ice of the Winooski river.

Because the cars were built of steel or were equipped with steel underframes they were little damaged, and the passengers' injuries were confined in most cases to wrenches, cuts and bruises, and shock. The railroad reported that more than sixty persons had been hurt, but of these only 27 were brought to a hospital here, and physicians said that most of these could leave for their destinations tomorrow.

The list of injured, withheld by the hospital authorities until this afternoon, includes the names of Joseph Grant, Minneapolis, Minn., bruised; J. A. McDonald, Montreal, back hurt; Dominic Alexandro, Woodland, Manitoba, head injured; Lydia Laporte, Southbridge, Mass., head badly injured; F. L. Converse, Boston, bruised; Miss Gertrude Hayes, South Boston, head cut; and Miss Ellen Masterson, South Boston, head badly injured.

The others hurt are residents of Burlington and other places in Vermont.

WESLEYAN ANNOUNCES NEW SYSTEM OF EXAMINATIONS

Middletown, Conn., March 11—Abolition of required attendance at the classes for seniors of high standing at Wesleyan university is provided for in a new system of examinations officially announced by Dean Frank W. Nicolson today. Action by the faculty was taken several days go and it grants certain privileges to honor students. Each senior at the end of his four year course will be given a general examination covering the whole field in which he has specialized.

Beginning with the class of 1925, seniors with grades of 85 per cent or more, either in their junior, or first three years, may take up advanced work under the direction and with the assistance of a professor in the student's major department. A course of this kind will count as six or nine hours credit toward the degree; students admitted to this special course shall be known as Wilbur Fisk scholars and those who complete the work with honor grades shall have their names printed on the commencement program. So long as these Wilbur Fisk scholars maintain an honor average, and give satisfactory evidence that they are using their time to the best advantage, they shall not be subject to the ordinary regulations regarding absences from classes.

SEN. BROOKHART ATTACKS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Washington, March 11—The chamber of commerce of the United States was charged today by the Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, with "attempting to become the super-government of the United States."

Much of the government's difficulties, he said in the course of a senate speech on farm relief, "are the result of the interference of private business sin government." He cited the chamber of commerce as the best example of such interference.

NO TRACE OF LIVING MINER AMONG THE 173 ENTOMBED

Castle Gate, Utah, March 11—Helmet crews tonight penetrated the last of the lower working and rises of the Utah Fuel company mine No. 2, without finding trace of a living miner among the 173 entombed by Saturday's explosion.

One hundred bodies have been recovered, leaving 73 to be accounted for. Searchers report that they have uncovered a number of the victims in an entry way.

HEARING ON TROLLEY FARE RATE IN STATE

Hartford, March 11—Following more than six hours devoted principally to presentation of figures and reasons by the Connecticut company counsel and officials for opposing the decrease in the fare rate on its state lines, requested in petitions from Hartford, New Haven, New Britain, Waterbury and Stamford, the hearing before the public utilities commission was adjourned late this afternoon until Monday, April 14.

The long adjournment was taken at the request of Robert P. Butler, corporation counsel at Hartford, who announced that he represented the sentiment of the petitioners, who desired time for assimilation and dissection of the mass of figures and data presented by the Connecticut company in support of its contentions. Mr. Butler, speaking for the assemblage of corporation counsels and mayors of the cities involved, stated that the petitioners would pool their interests and might wish to obtain the services of accounting experts of national reputation to assist in interpretation of the Connecticut company figures.

Objections by Company

Some objection was voiced by Attorney George D. Watrous, representing the Connecticut company, to the long continuance, unless the commission was ready to decide the petition of the Connecticut company for an increase to the three-tokens-for-a-quarter fare rate on the Bridgeport line, now operating by order of the commission on a rate of two tokens for fifteen cents

"In the meantime," said Corporation Counsel Butler, "the rest of the state will be operating on the increased rate of fare" Mr. Watrous offered no further objection.

The various petitioners also asked the commission to order the Connecticut company to present sometime before the next hearing a list of individual lines in the cities affected, showing the operating revenue on each and also the operating costs. The company representatives contended that while the actual revenue on the lines involved could be furnished it would be practically impossible to apportion the operating costs on each line and that such figures would prove of little value owing to the fact that it would be impossible to segregate fares paid by passengers riding over central lines to destinations in outlying territory.

The commission after long argument ruled that the petitioners should present formal request to the commission for information desired and that the commission would then determine whether the requests were reasonable and rule accordingly.

Request for this information as to separate lines, it was stated, was made in order that the petitioners might lay a foundation for a demand by the cities of Hartford, New Haven and Bridgeport for segregation of the lines in these respective districts for operation as separate units with a separate accounting system, so that they would not be obliged to contribute to support of outlying and non-paying lines.

The Connecticut company, in formal statements presented to the commission by Attorney Watrous and President L. S. Storrs, of the company, opposed the proposal to segregate the lines mentioned, contending that this would necessitate discontinuance of non-paying lines. It was claimed that the company was entitled to operate the entire system as a unit, thereby assuring the owners a fair return on their investment, which it was contended, was impossible under the reduced rate of fare. The statements contended that the property had been built up and extended with a continuance of this policy in view and that such expansion would never have been contemplated or carried out had there been any question as to the common rate of fare throughout the entire consolidated property.

Smaller Communities Protest

Several representatives of smaller communities appeared in opposition to the segregation of the property into separate accounting districts. Among them was John S. Carpenter of Putnam, who voiced the objection of people of his locality to decrease in fares in other sections which would necessitate abandonment of lines in his locality or further increase the fares with which they were satisfied.

Mayor Mead, of Ansonia, and Mayor Conway, of Derby, during the afternoon session expressed a protest of their respective localities against cutting the two cities off from the New Haven division of the company.

Mayor Albert A. Phillips of Stamford, read a lengthy argument which he later filed with the commission urging "fair play to the people of the state," declaring the Connecticut company was "maintaining a state-wide fare monopoly," and asking that "justice be accorded the people of Connecticut." He related his personal observation of the fare controversy in Akron, Ohio, where the traction company, he said, had finally agreed to operate on a five cent fare and one cent transfers.

E. Ervine Rudd, engineer of the utilities commission, during the afternoon presented figures showing the results of a valuation of the Connecticut company property for the commission in 1919, showing a total valuation of $51,841,631.43 the valuation of lines within the various city limits, constituting two thirds of the property being fixed at $34,636,240.97 and that of the remaining one third, outside city limits at $17,215,190.46. He also presented similar figures for each of the various divisions of the company.

This valuation, Mr. Rudd said, had been arrived at with the assistance of other commission engineers, and by Professors Charles F. Scott and L. P. Breckenridge, of Yale, by computing replacement costs in 1910-14 based on units of construction and adding an arbitrary 25 per cent. for increased value, 20 per cent. being deducted for depreciation.

Earlier in the day figures were presented by the Connecticut company by Accountant Thomas S. McCready showing the rate of income of the company before deduction for depreciation, interest or other fixed charge based on the commission's 1919 valuation of 5.65 per cent. Two of the divisions according to this table, namely Middletown and Meriden showed a deficit in income before deduction for depreciation, etc, while the rate of income on other divisions was given as follows.

New London, 6.35 per cent: Torrington, 6.43: Norwalk, 1.60: Bridgeport, 2.08; Waterbury 2.46, New Britain, 3.20; New Haven, 3.41; Stamford 3.83; Hartford 3.85.

Attorney Watrous for the company read a prepared statement quoting from many court and utilities commission decisions fixing from seven to eight per cent as a fair rate of return after depreciation, etc., , and stating that with an 8 1-3 cent fare and the same number of riders as in 1914 the company would fail far short of the return to which it is constitutionally entitled.

In a statement asking for revision of the fare order in Bridgeport Attorney Watrous gave as the company's reason that "the same rate, subject to minor exceptions, might be maintained throughout the system."

The statement declared that the returns from the entire system for 1923, as compared with those of 1922 showed a decrease in gross revenue and an alarming increase in operating expense."

"About $500,000 is due the state for the company's share of the cost of Washington bridge between Milford and Stratford," the statement said. "After paying in 1924 one half of the net income of 1923 to the state for back taxes the company will still be indebted to the state to the amount of $1,100,000 on account of principal and interest for back taxes and the company's share of the Washington Bridge."

MURDER HEARING FOR HOLYOKE POLICEMAN

Holyoke, Mass., March 11—Patrolman John H. Burns, charged with the murder of Mrs. Magnolia Milosse a month ago, in her home in a tenement block, had a preliminary hearing in district court today. The husband of the slain woman was one of the prominent witnesses for the commonwealth. Milosse testified to the shooting, saying that Burns fired two shots one of which struck Mrs. Milosse and the other barely missed the witness. Milosse testified that he leaped from a window to escape Burns. He admitted that he manufactured the liquor that Burns is said to have drunk in the tenement, saying that it was intended for use at a christening. Testimony also was given by police officers, who told of their knowledge of events connected with the shooting.

NEGOTIATING LARGE CREDIT TO FRENCH GOVERNMENT

New York, March 11.—Negotiations for a large credit to the French government, estimated as high as $50,000,000, for the purpose of stabilizing French exchange are under way with American bankers but have not been definitely concluded, it was authoritatively learned tonight private cable advices received here today indicated that a similar credit had been arranged with London bankers.

The credit, if arranged, will take the form of advances to the Bank of France through a straight bank loan operation. The transaction will be limited to a few of the larger banks. No public offerings of French treasury bills or other securities is contemplated.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKES FELT IN COSTA RICA

New York, March 11.—The All-American Cable company in this city today reported receiving from its offices in Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, the following message describing earthquakes there this morning:

"Two severe earthquake shocks were felt here early today, many buildings suffering.

"The minister of public works ordered all houses abandoned and notified the people to seek safety in the open. Cable communications were not impaired."

$760,000 CONTRACTS BOOKED BY A WORCESTER CONCERN

Worcester, Mass., March 11—The Osgood Bradley Car company announced today that it had booked two car contracts which total $760,000 one from the Maine Central railroad, the other from the Staten Island railroad.

The maine Central order is for 13 steel cars, nine of them 70 foot passenger coaches, the other four combination baggage and mail cars.

The Staten Island order is for 25 double truck electric cars of the "one man two man" type, designed to be operated by one man in hours of small traffic and two men in the rush hours.

Lenroot Retires From Senate Oil Committee

John F. Major Was Further Questioned Concerning the Celebrated McLean Telegrams.

Washington, March 11.—Retirement of Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin, as chairman and member of the oil committee today overshadowed other developments in the oil inquiry.

He will be succeeded as chairman by Senator Ladd, of North Dakota, a republican identified with the La Follette group, who has been actively in charge of the committee since the departure of Senator Lenroot for Southern Pines, N. C., a week ago to recuperate from a threatened attack of nervous exhaustion.

Senator Lenroot's letter of resignation was made public after the oil investigators had cleared up some of the remaining mysteries in the celebrated McLean telegrams by a grilling cross-examination of John F. Major, one of the agents of the Washington publisher.

Before questioning Major for the third time, the committee examined in secret session another batch of telegrams, including those from Three Rovers, N. M., home town of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior and author of the oil leases. Committeemen said the new messages shed little additional light on the oil question although some of those in code might prove relevant.

Senator Lenroot's retirement from the committee was not wholly unexpected as he gave warning of it in the senate two weeks ago during a debate in which he came under attack from the democratic side for visiting Fall here with Senator Smoot, of Utah, another republican of the oil committee, before the former interior secretary misled the committee with his statement that he obtained $100,000 from Edward B. McLean.

At that time Senator Lenroot told the senate he would be glad to be relieved of the duties of chairman and declared that if the investigation continued indefinitely he would have to ask to be relieved. His health at that time was poor and a short time afterwards he went to Southern Pines for a rest.

Coolidge Again Asks Immediate Tax Cut

Urged Through Message to Congress That 25 Per Cent Reduction Be Made Effective Before Saturday.

Washington, March 11.—President Coolidge made request of congress today to adopt immediately a resolution making effective the 25 per cent reduction in personal income taxes payable this year now carried in the revenue bill but it met with an unencouraging response. This reaction was especially pronounced in the house, where such legislation would have to originate and where leaders yesterday turned down a nattempt to obtain such action.

The president urged through a message to congress that the proposed cut be made effective before Saturday when first installments on the taxes must be paid.

Chairman Greene, of the house ways and means committee, which would first have to consider the proposed resolution, declared tonight that "at this late date it is absolutely impossible to pass the 25 per cent reduction in taxes to be paid in 1924 as a separate measure."

Both he and Representative Longworth, republican leader, argued that, as a unanimous consent agreement would be necessary to get the resolution before the house for action, a previous effort to kill the provision entirely as carried in the revenue bill appeared to foreclose any possibility of obtaining such an agreement.

The message of the president was not read to the house until late in the day, after disposition of the Daugherty resolution, and the house adjourned without considering it on the floor.

The decision of the republican members of the ways and means committee against reporting out a resolution yesterday was criticised today by Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, a republican member of the committee.

"The message of President Coolidge voices the opinion that several members of the ways and means committee have had for some time," Mr Treadway said, but there are even republican members of the committee who do not approve of such action as well as Floor Leader Longworth."

Representative Garner of Texas, ranking democrat on the ways and means committee, asserted that more than three days would be necessary for passage of the resolution, and added that it is difficult to understand why the president has not urged this matter at an earlier date."

"I wonder," Mr. Garner added "if it is for the reason that Mr. Coolidge fears that any tax reduction bill sent to him for his signature will not meet his approval, and that he would therefore veto it; or does the republican organization plan to delay the passage of a tax reduction bill until after the next election?"

Likewise, in the senate, democratic members of the finance committee, after a conference today, said they were disposed to investigate and determine the need and reason for passing the resolution before taking action on the revenue bill. Leaders on both sides in the senate agreed that passage of a resolution before Saturday was hardly possible.

TO BROADCAST ALFRED H. SMITH FUNERAL SERVICE

New York, March 11.—Activities of the entire New York Central railroad system will be suspended for one minute tomorrow afternoon during the funeral services at St. Thomas' church for Alfred H. Smith, president of the lines, who was killed Saturday night when he was thrown from his horse in Central Park.

All trains on all divisions of the system will halt for one minute beginning at 3 o'clock and all offices will be closed for business during the same period.

The services at St. Thomas' will be broadcast by radio from Station WJZ. It will be the first time that funeral services for a private citizen have been broadcast.

$350,000 DAMAGE CAUSED BY FIRE IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, March 11.—Loss estimated at $350,000 was caused tonight by fire which destroyed the grain elevator of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway company and badly damaged smaller buildings nearby. An hour after the blaze was discovered the elevator, a 7-story wooden structure, covered with corrugated iron, toppled over on the Reading tracks, blocking all freight traffic on the Philadelphia terminal division. Two firemen were injured in fighting the flames. A large quantity of grain was destroyed.

Fanned by a high wind, the fire spread so rapidly that six alarms, calling out most of the city's fire fighting forces, were sounded.

HELD FOR MILLION DOLLAR MAIL TRUCK ROBBERY

Boston, March 11—Charles Solomon, brought back here from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., after being granted a new trial on a perjury charge for which he had served one year of a five year term, was rearrested today on a charge of complicity in the million dollar mail truck robbery in Los Angeles in March 1921. He was held in $5,000 bonds pending his retrial and on his own recognizance on the new charge.

BROKERS SURRENDERED AND PLEADED NOT GUILTY

Boston, March 11—James S. Lamont, president and George F. Redmond, treasurer of the G. F. Redmond company, Inc., investment brokers, surrendered at the federal building today on warrants issued yesterday charging them with using the mails to defraud. They pleaded not guilty and were held in $10,000 bonds each for a hearing on March 26.

COINAGE OF 2,500,000 FIFTY CENT PIECES AUTHORIZED

TO CLAER NATIONAL CAPITAL OF "WETTEST" CITY STIGMA

President Coolidge Has Ordered Prohibition Commissioner Haynes to Ascertain From Rear Admiral Plunkett the Basis of Information Upon Which Opprobrium Was Made, With a View to Correcting Any Such Conditions as Described.

Washington, March 11.—Prohibition Commissioner Haynes was directed by President Coolidge today to investigate charges of Rear Admiral Charles F. Plunkett, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, that Washington was "the wettest city in the United States."

Commissioner Haynes was called to the white house and his attention directed to published statements by Admiral Plunkett at a police trial yesterday in New York and asked to ascertain from the naval officer the basis of his information with a view to correcting any such conditions as described.

The prohibition commissioner denied after his call that his visit related to Admiral Plunkett's charges but later while house officials said he had been called to the White House for that purpose and directed to make the investigation.

The Brooklyn navy yard commandant was reported in press dispatches published here today as having testified that Washington was "the wettest city in the United States," and that if all the lawyers and all the judges in the country were to give up their entire time for a year and devote it to checking the sale of liquor they would not make a dent in prohibition."

The admiral's testimony was called to the attention of President Coolidge and he directed steps be taken first to ascertain if the naval officer had been correctly quoted and if so an investigation be made to ascertain the reasons for the alleged lax enforcement of the prohibition laws in the capital.

The investigation directed comes on the another chapter in a controversy which has been going on for several months surrounding the enforcement of prohibition in Washington. Charges and counter-charges have been made, complaints have been filed by the Washington police and the matter was brought sharply to the attention of federal officials by the shooting last month of Senator Greene, of Vermont, in a pistol battle between suspected bootleggers and prohibition agents on Pennsylvania avenue within a few blocks of the capitol.

Since that time Commissioner Haynes has been absent from Washington, returning a few days ago.

$7,000,000 SUIT FOR CAMP MEADE CONSTRUCTION WORK

Baltimore, Md., March 11.—Charging fraud, graft and fraudulent misuse of government funds, Amos W. W. Woodcock, United States district attorney for Maryland, today filed suit in the local United States district court against Smith, Hauser & McIsaac, Inc., of New York, to recover $7,000,000 alleged excess spent in construction of Camp Meade, Md., lying about midway between Baltimore and Washington.

A second suit to recover $2,000,000 additional from another government contractor will be filed later, according to a statement by District Attorney Woodcock.

The camp, which was built between June 28, and December 1, 1917, "cost the government $18,000,000," said Mr. Woodcock. "This suit is instituted to recover from the contractors $7,000,000 the excess cost.

"We charge that the defendants:

"1—Wasted large quantities of materials.

"2—Employed an excessive number of employes and used them in unnecessary work.

"3—Employed them without regard to qualifications.

"4—Encouraged them to loaf rather than to work.

"5—Paid unskilled labor at the rate of skilled labor.

"6—Paid the same men on more than one payroll.

"7—Failed to use a proper organization.

"8—Permitted delays in the construction, thereby increasing the cost to the United States, as mentioned."

Under the terms of the contract the defendants were to erect temporary frame buildings and sheds and install a water and sewer system at the camp.

The contract was signed by W. A. Dempsey on behalf of the government and by W. B. Hauser, vice president of the corporation. The contractors were to be paid a percentage of the cost of the work but the fee was not to exceed $250,000.

The duty of the contractors, the suit states, especially under the existing war conditions, was to use their best efforts to protect and subserve the interest of the government, to conserve the money and materials of the government, and to construct the camp at a fair and reasonable cost.

Throughout the work, however, it is alleged, the contractors engaged in a "wanton, reckless and fraudulent course of conduct," wasting large quantities of materials and supplies for use in the construction, "furnished at the expense of the plaintiff." Lumber, mill work, wall-board, cement, hardware, stoves, piping, plumbing tools and other supplies were specified.

TURN BRIBERY CHARGES OVER TO DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Washington, March 11—The house decided tonight to leave to the department of justice, for the present, investigation of charges that have been made against two representatives before a Chicago grand jury.

In reaching this decision, the house accepted the recommendation of its judiciary committee that no house investigation be authorized and that no further efforts be made to have the two names officially disclosed.

The resolution adopted by a vote of 222 to 108, also instructed the department of justice to proceed without delay in the investigation.

TO CONSIDER SELECTION OF NEW SEC'Y OF NAVY

Washington, March 11:—Conferences to be held by President Coolidge within the next day or two probably will determine his selection of a new secretary of the navy.

Indications came today from official quarters that Mr. Coolidge had called one or more men to Washington for conferences which may lead to a tender of the navy post, but no information was obtainable regarding the identity of these with whom the president planned to confer.

BARDO TALKS RAILROADS TO WATERBURY ROTARIANS

Waterbury, March 11.—C. L. Bardo, general manager of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, addressed the Rotary club here this noon. He said that the United States has more railroad mileage than all the rest of the world put together. New England with a population of 7,000,000 is served by 7,000 miles of railroad which has a capital investment of $972,000,000.

POLICE FIND CONFIDENCE WOMAN IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, March 11.—The Waterbury police have just discovered that a confidence woman came to the Brass city about ten days ago and made perhaps the most general clean up ever accomplished by a fly-by-night in the Brass city. She took over 20 of the city's larger merchants "into camp" for sums ranging from $5 to $40 without any trouble at all, according to all her work in a few days and passed out of the town just as quickly as she entered.

Her game, which was an old one but which was considerably modernized by the woman's winning way, was as follows:

First of all she deposited $100 in a Naugatuck bank. She then came to Waterbury and made purchases in all the big stores, giving checks for small sums for the purchases. When the checks which were signed "Mae Walsh," were questioned she referred the merchants to her bank. The checks of course were declared O. K. With her credit thus established "Mae" returned on a Saturday afternoon to the stores she had previously given checks to. The banks were then closed and the fact that her first check had been good enabled her to cash checks for between $35 and $40 in all the stores visited. These checks were all returned as "no good" and the police are now trying to locate "Mae."

SPEAKING ENGAGEMENTS FOR PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

Washington, March 11—Tentative speaking engagements for President Coolidge announced today at the white house show that the executive expects to deliver a number of addresses during the spring.

The only engagement at any distance from Washington, however, is for an address in New York, on April 22 at the annual meeting of the Associated Press.

In addition, he has a list of probable engagements two addresses in Indiana early in May, one at the laying of the corner stone of the state war memorial at Indianapolis and the other at the celebration at Lafayette of the semi-centennial of Purdue University.

Besides the Associated Press luncheon in New York, the occasion on which it is believed to be virtually certain the president will deliver addresses include the opening of the annual congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution here April 14. The placing a stone by the state of Arizona in the Washington memorial April 15; the dedication of the National Academy of Sciences in Washington, April 28, and the memorial day exercises at Arlington.

THREE SLAIN PERSONS WERE FOUND IN BURNING HOUSE

Linden, N. Y., March 11. — Three persons were found murdered in a burning house here tonight.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whaley and Mrs. Mabel Morse. Whaley and Morse are employes of the Erie railroad.

About 3 o'clock neighbors saw flames coming from the windows of the Whaley home. They succeeded in extinguishing the blaze. A search of the house disclosed the murdered persons. Linden was the scene of a murder in October, 1922, of Miss Ida L. Kimball, a spinster, who was beaten to death in the basement of her home where she lived alone. Detectives and state troopers worked on the case unsuccessfully for weeks.

JOHN T. KING'S NAME AGAIN IN THE TEAPOT DOME PROBE

(Special to the Bulletin)

SNOW WITH HEAVY GALES ALL ALONG THE ATLANTIC COAST

Miles of Telegraph and Telephone Wires Fell With Weight of Snow and Ice—Disruption of Wire Communication Extends Far Down Into the Southern States—One of the Worst Storms For This Section Ever Experienced at This Season.

Washington, March 11.—The blizzard which was whirling northward along the eastern seaboard tonight, had left a trail of disrupted wire communication extending far down into the southern states.

Snow and rain, lashed by the heavy gale which came up from the Gulf of Mexico, has fallen all along the coast, and storm warnings are still up from Eastport, Maine, to Jupiter Inlet, Fla. Miles of telegraph and telephone wires have been laid low by the burden of sodden snow and ice and Washington tonight had no direct wire communication with the south and many wires to the north and west also were down.

The storm, described by the weather bureau as one of the worst for this section ever experienced at this season, was said to be central over Delaware tonight. Continuance of the snow and rain accompanying it was predicted for the North Atlantic states tomorrow, while clearing weather was in sight for the South Atlantic region tomorrow, frost and freezing temperatures were forecast for as far down as northern Florida.

FIVE DEATHS CAUSED BY STORM IN NEW YORK

New York, March 11.—A North Atlantic blizzard, accompanied by a 75-mile-an-hour gale and alternating squalls of torrential rain and flurries of moist snow, swept over the eastern seaboard today, paralyzing shipping, seriously interfering with telegraph communication and leaving in its wake great property damage.

In New York and its vicinity, five persons were killed by flying objects, scores of electric light and telephone wires snapped, large trees were felled, windows were broken and vehicular traffic impeded. Service on a number of trolley lines in Staten Island were suspended for several hours.

Wire traffic between the city and the south, from Maryland to Texas, was subject to delays from one to four hours, the Western Union Telegraph company reported. Messages to Washington were delayed two to five hours.

In New York harbor and along the coast, marine men reported heavier seas were running than in any storm during the last twenty years.

The havoc created in the area between Washington and South Carolina necessitated one of the longest re-routing of a press wire on record, the direct Havana circuit of Associated Press being restrung in a rough circle, radiating to Chicago.

This was an example of the situation under which the press associations, telegraph and telephone companies labored. The storm was severe through Pennsylvania and the trans-continental wires of The Associated Press were changed to reach Pittsburgh by way of Chicago.

SNOW DRIFTS FOUR FEET HIGH IN WINSTED

Winsted, March 11.—Norfolk tonight reported snow drifts in some places as high as four feet. In the Winsted telephone district 16 lines with 67 connections are out of order due to the high wind. In the outlying districts many trees are reported down. Central New England railway trains are reported snow-bound at Boston Corners, N. Y., because of the drifts.

Early tonight the snow which had been falling in this vicinity all day abated but the high winds continued. Hartland, Colebrook and Barkhamsted report roads blocked by snowdrifts.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The death of Lopes Gutierrez, de facto president of Honduras, was reported to the state department.

The house voted to leave to the department of justice for the present investigation of charges developed before a Chicago grand jury involving the conduct of two representatives.

President Coolidge will be guided by advice of the special oil counsel in acting on E. L. Doheny's offer to continue tank construction work at Pearl Harbor, it was said at the White House.

Senator Lenroot resigned as chairman of the oil committee. The committee again examined John F. Major, confidential employe of Edward B. McLean and went over telegrams subpoenaed from Three Rivers, N. M., home of Albert B. Fall.

LA FOLLETTE PROMINENT IN THIRD PARTY MOVEMENT

St. Paul, Minn., March 11.—Call for a national convention of political organizations favorable to the "third party" movement, to be held in St. Paul, June 17, was issued here tonight by a conference of delegates from eight states.

The purpose of the convention, as stated in the call is to nominate a president and vice president and adopt a national platform. Thirteen organizations were represented at the conference, which adjourned tonight.

Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin was most prominently mentioned as the probable choice of the June 17 convention for its presidential nomination.

FATALITY IN WRECK ON THE CENTRAL VERMONT

Burlington, Vt., March 11.—George W. Gaines, of Burlington, was killed and scores of other passengers were injured when a Central Vermont railroad express train bound from Boston to Montreal, struck a broken rail north of North Duxbury early today. Six of the eight cars rolled down an embankment to the ice of the Winooski river.

Because the cars were built of steel or were equipped with steel underframes they were little damaged, and the passengers' injuries were confined in most cases to wrenches, cuts and bruises, and shock. The railroad reported that more than sixty persons had been hurt, but of these only 27 were brought to a hospital here, and physicians said that most of these could leave for their destinations tomorrow.

The list of injured, withheld by the hospital authorities until this afternoon, includes the names of Joseph Grant, Minneapolis, Minn., bruised; J. A. McDonald, Montreal, back hurt; Dominic Alexandro, Woodland, Manitoba, head injured; Lydia Laporte, Southbridge, Mass., head badly injured; F. L. Converse, Boston, bruised; Miss Gertrude Hayes, South Boston, head cut; and Miss Ellen Masterson, South Boston, head badly injured.

The others hurt are residents of Burlington and other places in Vermont.

WESLEYAN ANNOUNCES NEW SYSTEM OF EXAMINATIONS

Middletown, Conn., March 11—Abolition of required attendance at the classes for seniors of high standing at Wesleyan university is provided for in a new system of examinations officially announced by Dean Frank W. Nicolson today. Action by the faculty was taken several days ago and it grants certain privileges to honor students. Each senior at the end of his four year course will be given a general examination covering the whole field in which he has specialized.

Beginning with the class of 1925, seniors with grades of 85 per cent or more, either in their junior, or first three years, may take up advanced work under the direction and with the assistance of a professor in the student's major department. A course of this kind will count as six or nine hours credit toward the degree; students admitted to this special course shall be known as Wilbur Fisk scholars and those who complete the work with honor grades shall have their names printed on the commencement program. So long as these Wilbur Fisk scholars maintain an honor average, and give satisfactory evidence that they are using their time to the best advantage, they shall not be subject to the ordinary regulations regarding absences from classes.

SEN. BROOKHART ATTACKS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Washington, March 11—The chamber of commerce of the United States was charged today by the Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, with "attempting to become the super-government of the United States."

Much of the government's difficulties, he said in the course of a senate speech on farm relief, "are the result of the interference of private business in government." He cited the chamber of commerce as the best example of such interference.

HEARING ON TROLLEY FARE RATE IN STATE

Hartford, March 11.—Following more than six hours devoted principally to presentation of figures and reasons by the Connecticut company counsel and officials for opposing the decrease in the fare rate on its state lines, requested in petitions from Hartford, New Haven, New Britain, Waterbury and Stamford, the hearing before the public utilities commission was adjourned late this afternoon until Monday, April 14.

The long adjournment was taken at the request of Robert P. Butler, corporation counsel at Hartford, who announced that he represented the sentiment of the petitioners, who desired time for assimilation and dissection of the mass of figures and data presented by the Connecticut company in support of its contentions. Mr. Butler, speaking for the assemblage of corporation counsels and mayors of the cities involved, stated that the petitioners would pool their interests and might wish to obtain the services of accounting experts of national reputation to assist in interpretation of the Connecticut company figures.

Objections by Company

Some objection was voiced by Attorney George D. Watrous, representing the Connecticut company, to the long continuance, unless the commission was ready to decide the petition of the Connecticut company for an increase to the three-tokens-for-a-quarter fare rate on the Bridgeport line, now operating by order of the commission on a rate of two tokens for fifteen cents.

"In the meantime," said Corporation Counsel Butler, "the rest of the state will be operating on the increased rate of fare." Mr. Watrous offered no further objection.

The various petitioners also asked the commission to order the Connecticut company to present sometime before the next hearing a list of individual lines in the cities affected, showing the operating revenue on each, and also the operating costs. The company representatives contended that while the actual revenue on the lines involved could be furnished it would be practically impossible to apportion the operating costs on each line and that such figures would prove of little value owing to the fact that it would be impossible to segregate fares paid by passengers riding over central lines to destinations in outlying territory.

The commission after long argument ruled that the petitioners should present formal request to the commission for information desired and that the commission would then determine whether the requests were reasonable and rule accordingly.

Request for this information as to separate lines, it was stated, was made in order that the petitioners might lay a foundation for a demand by the cities of Hartford, New Haven and Bridgeport for segregation of the lines in these respective districts for operation as separate units with a separate reasonable system, so that they would not be obliged to contribute to support of outlying and non-paying lines.

The Connecticut company, in formal statements presented to the commission by Attorney Watrous and President L. S. Storrs, of the company, opposed the proposal to segregate the lines mentioned, contending that this would necessitate discontinuance of non-paying lines. It was claimed that the company was entitled to operate the entire system as a unit, thereby assuring the owners a fair return on their investment, which it was contended was impossible under the reduced rate of fare. The statements contended that the property had been built up and extended with a continuance of this policy in view and that such expansion would never have been contemplated or carried out had there been any question as to the common rate of fare throughout the entire consolidated property.

Smaller Communities Protest

Several representatives of smaller communities appeared in opposition to the segregation of the property into separate accounting districts. Among them was John E. Carpenter of Putnam, who voiced the objection of people of his locality to decrease in fares in other sections which would necessitate abandonment of lines in his locality or further increase the fares with which they were satisfied.

Mayor Mead, of Ansonia, and Mayor Conway, of Derby, during the afternoon session expressed a protest of their respective localities against cutting the two cities off from the New Haven division of the company.

Mayor Albert S. Phillips of Stamford, read a lengthy argument which he later filed with the commission urging "fair play to the people of the state," declaring the Connecticut company was "maintaining a state-wide fare monopoly," and asking that "justice be accorded the people of Connecticut." He related his personal observation of the fare controversy in Akron, Ohio, where the traction company, he said, had finally agreed to operate on a five cent fare and one cent transfers.

E. Ervine Rudd, engineer of the utilities commission, during the afternoon presented figures showing the results of a valuation of the Connecticut company property for the commission in 1919, showing a total valuation of $51,941,631.43 the valuation of lines within the various city limits, constituting two thirds of the property being given at $34,636,840.97 and that of the remaining one third, outside city limits, at $17,315,190.46. He also presented similar figures for each of the various divisions of the company.

This valuation, Mr. Rudd said, had been arrived at with the assistance of other commission engineers, and by Professors Charles F. Scott and L. P. Breckenridge, of Yale, by computing replacement costs in 1916-14 based on units of contraction and adding an arbitrary 30 per cent. for increased value, 25 per cent. being deducted for depreciation.

Earlier in the day figures were presented by the Connecticut company by Accountant Thomas S. McCready showing the rate of income of the company before deduction for depreciation, interest or other fixed charge based on the commission's 1919 valuation of 2.83 per cent. Two of the divisions according to this table, namely Middletown and Meriden showed a deficit in income before deduction for depreciation, etc. while the rate of income on other divisions was given as follows:

New London, 0.35 per cent; Torrington, 0.42; Norwalk, 1.09; Bridgeport, 2.06; Waterbury 2.06; New Britain, 2.26; New Haven, 2.41; Stamford 3.41; Hartford 3.59.

Attorney Watrous for the company read a prepared statement touching [illegible] return after depreciation, etc., and stating that with an 8 1-3 cent fare and the same number of riders as in 1916 the company would fall far short of the return to which it is constitutionally entitled.

In a statement making for revision of the fare order in Bridgeport Attorney Watrous gave as the company's reason that "the same rate, subject to minor exceptions, might be maintained throughout the system."

The statement declared that the returns from the entire system for 1923, as compared with those of 1922 showed a decrease in gross revenue and an alarming increase in operating expense.

"About $400,000 is due the state for the company's share of the cost of Washington bridge between Milford and Stratford," the statement said. "After paying in 1924 one half of the net income of 1923 to the state for bank taxes the company will still be in debt to the state to the amount of $1,000,000 and through the past losses [illegible]

Lenroot Retires From Senate Oil Committee

John F. Major Was Further Questioned Concerning the Celebrated McLean Telegrams.

Washington, March 11.—Retirement of Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin, as chairman and member of the oil committee today overshadowed other developments in the oil inquiry.

He will be succeeded as chairman by Senator Ladd, of North Dakota, a republican identified with the La Follette group, who has been actively in charge of the committee since the departure of Senator Lenroot for Southern Pines, N. C., a week ago to recuperate from a threatened attack of nervous exhaustion.

Senator Lenroot's letter of resignation was made public after the oil investigators had cleared up some of the remaining mysteries in the celebrated McLean telegrams by a grilling cross-examination of John F. Major, one of the agents of the Washington publisher.

Before questioning Major for the third time, the committee examined in secret session another batch of telegrams, including those from Three Rovers, N. M., home town of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior and author of the oil leases. Committeemen said the new messages shed little additional light on the oil question although some of those in code might prove relevant.

Senator Lenroot's retirement from the committee was not wholly unexpected as he gave warning of it in the senate two weeks ago during a debate in which he came under attack from the democratic side for visiting Fall here with Senator Smoot, of Utah, another republican of the oil committee, before the former interior secretary misled the committee with his statement that he obtained $100,000 from Edward B. McLean.

At that time Senator Lenroot told the senate he would be glad to be relieved of the duties of chairman and declared that if the investigation continued indefinitely he would move to ask to be relieved. His health at that time was poor and a short time afterwards he went to Southern Pines for a rest.

MURDER HEARING FOR HOLYOKE POLICEMAN

Holyoke, Mass., March 11—Patrolman John H. Burns, charged with the murder of Mrs. Magdaline Milosse a month ago, in her home in a tenement block, had a preliminary hearing in district court today. The husband of the slain woman was one of the prominent witnesses for the commonwealth. Milosse testified to the shooting, saying that Burns fired two shots one of which struck Mrs. Milosse and the other barely missed the witness. Milosse testified that he leaped from a window to escape Burns. He admitted that he manufactured the liquor that Burns is said to have drunk in the tenement, saying that it was intended for use at a christening. Testimony also was given by police officers, who told of their knowledge of events connected with the shooting.

NEGOTIATING LARGE CREDIT TO FRENCH GOVERNMENT

New York, March 11.—Negotiations for a large credit to the French government, estimated as high as $50,000,000, for the purpose of stabilizing French exchange are under way with American bankers but have not been definitely concluded, it was authoritatively learned tonight private cable advices received here today indicated that a similar credit had been arranged with London bankers.

The credit, if arranged, will take the form of advances to the Bank of France through a straight bank loan operation. The transaction will be limited to a few of the larger banks. No public offerings of French treasury bills or other securities is contemplated.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKES FELT IN COSTA RICA

New York, March 11.—The All-American Cable company in this city today reported receiving from its officer in Punta Arenas Costa Rica, the following message describing earthquakes there this morning:

"Two severe earthquake shocks were felt here early today, many buildings suffering.

"The minister of public works ordered all houses abandoned and notified the people to seek safety in the open. Cable communications were not impaired."

$750,000 CONTRACTS BOOKED BY A WORCESTER CONCERN

Worcester, Mass., March 11—The Osgood Bradley Car company announced today that it had booked two car contracts which total $750,000 one from the Maine Central railroad, the other from the Staten Island railroad.

The Maine Central order is for 15 steel cars, nine of them 70 foot passenger coaches, the other four combination baggage and mail cars.

The Staten Island order is for 25 double truck electric cars of the "one man two man" type, designed to be operated by one man in hours of small traffic and two men in the rush hours.

Coolidge Again Asks Immediate Tax Cut

Urged Through Message to Congress That 25 Per Cent Reduction Be Made Effective Before Saturday.

Washington, March 11.—President Coolidge made request of congress today to adopt immediately a resolution making effective the 25 per cent reduction in personal income taxes payable this year now carried in the revenue bill but it met with an unencouraging response. This reaction was especially pronounced in the house, where such legislation would have to originate and where leaders yesterday turned down a mattempt to obtain such action.

The president urged through a message to congress that the proposed cut be made effective before Saturday when first installments on the taxes must be paid.

Chairman Greene, of the house ways and means committee, which would first have to consider the proposed resolution, declared tonight that "at this late date it is absolutely impossible to pass the 25 per cent reduction in taxes to be paid in 1924 as a separate measure."

Both he and Representative Longworth, republican leader, argued that, as a unanimous consent agreement would be necessary to get the resolution before the house for action, a previous effort to kill the provision entirely as carried in the revenue bill appeared to foreclose any possibility of obtaining such an agreement.

The message of the president was not read to the house until late in the day, after disposition of the Daugherty resolution, and the house adjourned without considering it on the floor.

The decision of the republican members of the ways and means committee against reporting out a resolution yesterday was criticised today by Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, a republican member of the committee.

"The message of President Coolidge voices the opinion that several members of the ways and means committee have had for some time," Mr. Treadway said, but there are even republican members of the committee who do not approve of such action as well as Floor Leader Longworth."

Representative Garner of Texas, ranking democrat on the ways and means committee, asserted that more than three days would be necessary for passage of the resolution, and added that "it is difficult to understand why the president has not urged this matter at an earlier date."

"I wonder," Mr. Garner added, "if it is for the reason that Mr. Coolidge fears that any tax reduction bill sent to him for his signature will not meet his approval, and that he would therefore veto it; or does the republican organization plan to delay the passage of a tax reduction bill until after the next election?"

Likewise, in the senate, democratic members of the finance committee, after a conference today, said they were disposed to investigate and determine the need and reason for passing the resolution before taking action on the revenue bill. Leaders on both sides in the senate agreed that passage of a resolution before Saturday was hardly possible.

TO BROADCAST ALFRED H. SMITH FUNERAL SERVICE

New York, March 11.—Activities of the entire New York Central railroad system will be suspended for one minute tomorrow afternoon during the funeral services at St. Thomas' church for Alfred H. Smith, president of the lines, who was killed Saturday night when he was thrown from his horse in Central Park.

All trains on all divisions of the system will halt for one minute beginning at 3 o'clock and all offices will be closed for business during the same period.

The services at St. Thomas' will be broadcast by radio from Station WJZ. It will be the first time that funeral services for a private citizen have been broadcast.

$350,000 DAMAGE CAUSED BY FIRE IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, March 11.—Loss estimated at $350,000 was caused tonight by fire which destroyed the grain elevator of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway company and badly damaged smaller buildings nearby. An hour after the blaze was discovered the elevator, a 7-story wooden structure, covered with corrugated iron, toppled over on the Reading tracks, blocking all freight traffic on the Philadelphia terminal division. Two firemen were injured in fighting the flames. A large quantity of grain was destroyed.

Fanned by a high wind, the fire spread so rapidly that six alarms, calling out most of the city's fire fighting forces, were sounded.

HELD FOR MILLION DOLLAR MAIL TRUCK ROBBERY

Boston, March 11—Charles Solomon, brought back here from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., after being granted a new trial on a perjury charge for which he had served one year of a five year term, was arraigned today on a charge of complicity in the million dollar mail truck robbery in Los Angeles in March 1921. He was held in $5,000 bonds pending his rearrial and on his own recognizance on the new charge.

BROKERS SURRENDERED AND PLEADED NOT GUILTY

Boston, March 11—James S. Lamont, president and George F. Redmond, treasurer of the G. F. Redmond company, Inc., investment brokers, surrendered at the federal building today on warrants issued yesterday charging them with using the mails to defraud. They pleaded not guilty and were held in $10,000 bonds each for a hearing on March 20.

TO CLAER NATIONAL CAPITAL OF "WETTEST" CITY STIGMA

President Coolidge Has Ordered Prohibition Commissioner Haynes to Ascertain From Rear Admiral Plunkett the Basis of Information Upon Which Opprobrium Was Made, With a View to Correcting Any Such Conditions as Described.

Washington, March 11—Prohibition Commissioner Haynes was directed by President Coolidge today to investigate charges of Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, that Washington was "the wettest city in the United States."

Commissioner Haynes was called to the white house and his attention directed to published statements by Admiral Plunkett at a police trial yesterday in New York and asked to ascertain from the naval officer the basis of his information with a view to correcting any such conditions as described.

The prohibition commissioner denied after his call that his visit related to Admiral Plunkett's charges but later while house officials said he had been called to the White House for that purpose and directed to make the investigation.

The Brooklyn navy yard commandant was reported in press dispatches published here today as having testified that Washington was "the wettest city in the United States," and that if "all the lawyers and all the judges in the country were to give up their entire time for a year and devote it to checking the sale of liquor they would not make a dent in prohibition."

The admiral's testimony was called to the attention of President Coolidge and he directed steps be taken first to ascertain if the naval officer had been correctly quoted and if so an investigation be made to ascertain the reasons for the alleged lax enforcement of the prohibition laws in the capital.

The investigation directed comes on another chapter in a controversy which has been going on for several months surrounding the enforcement of prohibition in Washington. Charges and counter-charges have been made, complaints have been filed by the Washington police and the matter was brought sharply to the attention of federal officials by the shooting last month of Senator Greene, of Vermont, in a pistol battle between suspected bootleggers and prohibition agents on Pennsylvania avenue within a few blocks of the capitol.

Since that time Commissioner Haynes has been absent from Washington, returning a few days ago.

$7,000,000 SUIT FOR CAMP MEADE CONSTRUCTION WORK

Baltimore, Md., March 11.—Charging fraud, graft and fraudulent misuse of government funds, Amos W. W. Woodcock, United States district attorney for Maryland, today filed suit in the local United States district court against Smith, Hauser & McIsaac, Inc., of New York, to recover $7,000,000 alleged excess spent in construction of Camp Meade, Md., lying about midway between Baltimore and Washington.

A second suit to recover $2,000,000 additional from another government contractor will be filed later, according to a statement by District Attorney Woodcock.

The camp, which was built between June 25, and December 1, 1917, "cost the government $18,000,000," said Mr. Woodcock. "This suit is instituted to recover from the contractors $7,000,000 the excess cost.

"We charge that the defendants:

"1—Wasted large quantities of materials.

"2—Employed an excessive number of employes and used them in unnecessary work.

"3—Employed them without regard for qualifications.

"4—Encouraged them to loaf rather than to work.

"5—Paid unskilled labor at the rate of skilled labor.

"6—Paid the same men on more than one payroll.

"7—Failed to use a proper organization.

"8—Permitted delays in the construction, thereby increasing the cost to the United States, as mentioned."

Under the terms of the contract, the defendants were to erect temporary frame buildings and sheds and install a water and sewer system at the camp.

The contract was signed by W. A. Dempsey on behalf of the government and by W. E. Hauser, vice president of the corporation. The contractors were to be paid a percentage of the cost of the work but the fee was not to exceed $250,000.

The duty of the contractors, the suit states, especially under the existing war conditions, was to use their best efforts to protect and subserve the interest of the government, to conserve the money and materials of the government, and to construct the camp at a fair and reasonable cost.

Throughout the work, however, it is alleged, the contractors engaged in a "wanton, reckless and fraudulent course of conduct," wasting large quantities of materials and supplies for use in the construction; "furnishing at the expense of the plaintiff" lumber, mill work, wall-board, cement, hardware, stoves, piping, plumbing tools and other supplies were specified.

TURN BRIBERY CHARGES OVER TO DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Washington, March 11—The house decided tonight to leave to the department of justice, for the present, investigation of charges that have been made against two representatives before a Chicago grand jury.

In reaching this decision, the house accepted the recommendation of its judiciary committee that no house investigation be authorized and that no further efforts be made to have the two names officially disclosed.

The resolution adopted by a vote of 223 to 105, also instructed the department of justice to proceed without delay in the investigation.

TO CONSIDER SELECTION OF NEW SECY OF NAVY

Washington, March 11.—Conference to be held by President Coolidge within the next day or two probably will determine his selection of a new secretary of the navy.

Indications came today from official quarters that Mr. Coolidge had called one or more men to Washington for conferences which may lead to a tender of the navy post, but no information was obtainable regarding the identity of those with whom the president planned to confer.

POLICE FIND CONFIDENCE WOMAN IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, March 11.—The Waterbury police have just discovered that a confidence woman came to the Brass city about ten days ago and made perhaps the most neatest clean up ever accomplished by a fair-haired member of the Brass city. She took over 30 of the city's larger merchants "for a ride" for sums ranging from $5 to $40 without any trouble at all, accomplished all her work in a few days and passed out of the town just as quietly as she entered.

Her game, which was an old one but which was considerably modernized by the woman's winning way, was as follows:

First of all she deposited $100 in a Naugatuck bank. She then came to Waterbury and made purchases in the big stores, giving checks for the sums for the purchases. When the checks which were signed "Mrs. Walsh," were questioned she referred the merchants to her bank. The checks of course were declared good. With her credit thus established she returned on a Saturday afternoon to the stores she had previously given checks to. The banks were then closed and the fact that her check had been good enabled her to cash checks for between $35 and $40 in all the stores visited. These checks were all returned as "no good" and the police are now trying to locate "Mrs."

SPEAKING ENGAGEMENTS FOR PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

Washington, March 11—Tentative speaking engagements for President Coolidge announced today at the white house show that the executive expects to deliver a number of addresses during the spring.

The only engagement at any distance from Washington, however, is for an address in New York, on April 22 at the annual meeting of the Associated Press.

In addition, he has a list of probable engagements two addresses in Indiana early in May, one at the laying of the corner stone of the state war memorial at Indianapolis and the other at the celebration at Lafayette of the semi-centennial of Purdue University.

Besides the Associated Press luncheon in New York, the occasion at which it is believed to be virtually certain the president will deliver an address include the opening of the annual congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution here April 14. The placing a stone by the state of Arizona in the Washington monument April 15; the dedication of the National Academy of Sciences in Washington, April 22, and the memorial day exercises at Arlington.

WILLIMANTIC

The garage owned by Charles Carpenter, caretaker of St. Joseph's cemetery and a resident between the North Windham and Miller Hill roads, was broken into late Monday night, or early Tuesday morning and his Essex touring car was stolen.

Mr. Carpenter was out early Tuesday morning to milk his cow and he discovered that the lock on the garage door had been pried off and the machine taken. Wheel marks showed that the car had been pushed out into the road and from there started up and driven toward North Windham.

The local police were notified and a description of the machine was given. Mr. Carpenter then started out on the trail of the thieves which led him to the vault of St. Joseph's cemetery where he found the car up to the hub caps in mud. The engine had been left running and was purring away when found. It is believed that the bandits reside in this section and are familiar with the roads as the car was driven over a short cut, leaving the back road which circles the cemetery, then through the main gate and on across the cemetery, up to the vault where it became mired. The course of the machine was easily traced by deep ruts left by the car on its journey.

Friends are pleased to hear of Walter R. King's nomination by President Coolidge for the postmastership at Willimantic. It is expected that the senate will take final action on on the nomination within a week, after which formal announcement will be made of Mr. King's appointment.

Mr. King is popular in this section Since early manhood he has been an ardent republican and a hard worker in all city, town, state and national elections for the past twenty-five years. He has been employed in the treasurer's office at the state capitol at Hartford for the last four years and has made arrangements to resign.

Walter R. King was born in Monson, Mass., August 7, 1875 and attended grammar school there. At the age of fifteen he moved here with his parents and afterwards became engaged in various pursuits. For a time he worked with his father the late William H. King who conducted a meat market in this city. November 16, 1889 he became utility clerk at Willimantic post office, then located on North street. Charles H. Dimmock was then postmaster. During his twenty-one years of service with the department he filled the several clerkships of the office with ability. When he resigned, February 16, 1926, to take a position in the state treasurer's office, he was in charge of the finance department of the post office which takes in money order, registered mail and postal savings.

One hundred and nine years old and retaining all her faculties, was the enviable honor attained Tuesday by Mrs. Maria H. Chappell, mother of Herbert R. Chappell, former mayor of Willimantic, who celebrated her birthday at the home of Mrs. Frank R. West of County street, Luther's Corners, Scotland, Mass. Mrs. Chapell is the oldest person in New England, if not in the entire country.

She is an enthusiastic radio fan, keeps well posted on current events and has a remarkable memory.

As is the custom Mr. Chappell presented his aged mother a shower bouquet of carnations, each one representing a year of her life. The clusters numbered 11v indicating that Mrs. Chapell had entered upon her 110th year. Mr. Chappell stated that he looked for more people than last year but as well as might be expected, however time she spends in her favorite arm chair and although she is strong enough to walk unassisted, she is prevented from so doing by her family, who fear that she may stumble and fall with serious consequences. Aside from a partial loss of her sight Mrs. Chappell is physically, and mentally sound. She resided in South Windham for over twenty-five years and takes a keen interest in local affairs. Last Christmas she was presented a radio set by her great grandnephew, Norton R. Alexander, of Providence, R. I., and she wears her happiest smile on Sundays when she tunes in with the Boston and Providence churches.

Mrs. Chappell was born on a farm about two miles from Hornbein church, Rhonoth, near Swansea Village, March 11, 1815, the daughter of Elphet and Mary Chase Horton. Her father was a cooper and farmer and he died when she was ten years old. She received her early education at a rather primitive village school, kept open three or four months in the winter. After the death of her father the old home was broken up and she went to live with her brother Elliphet Horton in Providence until 1847, when she married Ralph Chappell.

They lived in Providence for five years and their son, Herbert R. Chappell was born in that city, December 27, 1850. In 1852 the family moved to South Windham and Mrs. Chappell's husband died there in 1882.

Besides her son, the former mayor of this city, and her daughter, Mrs. West, two other children were born, but died in infancy.

Mrs. Chappell remembers the historical happenings of the presidential years of John Quincy Adams, 1825-29 and the two terms of President Andrew Jackson 1829-37.

Mrs. Chappell is a descendant of the Hugenots who came from France to America in 1569. She has never made any claim to being a daughter of the American revolution but in reality she is one, as many of her uncles fought with the revolutionary forces. It is expected that within a short time the Massachusetts organization of the Daughters of the Revolution will be enabled to broadcast the announcement of the certifying of Mrs. Chappell as a member. The aged woman has several relatives who have lived to attain the age of 97 and 90 and she has several nieces living who are over 80. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Chappell both come from ancestry that helped to make early history in America.

On the grounds that the evidence introduced was insufficient, the case against Samuel Goldstein, No. 48 Jackson street, charged with violation of the liquor law by keeping liquor with intent to sell, was nolled. The raid conducted on Goldstein's place and the seizure of a half pint of liquor by the officers was described by Chief Allan McArthur and Patrolman Bombria. Chief McArthur also testified that a man went to Goldstein's home Friday night and bought two drinks, but as this important witness failed to put in an appearance in court the state's side of the case was considerably weakened.

Attorney Gaucher, who represented Goldstein, offered to put his client on the witness stand but Judge Foss said that it was unnecessary as he would discharge the accused. Although there were reasons to believe that Goldstein had not been following the straight and narrow path at his home, yet the small quantity of liquor was not sufficient evidence to secure a conviction on the charge entered. Goldstein was warned to behave himself in the future, as it would go hard for him if he ever were convicted.

The board of trustees of Mansfield State Training school and hospital received bids Monday for the construction of a new dormitory to house 105 inmates and a new hospital with accommodations for sixty patients. The buildings are to cost between $425,000 and $500,000. Six bids were received. This project is the first portion of a building program for which the last legislature appropriated $400,000. The appropriation specified a boys' dormitory, a hospital and a nurses' home to accommodate 100 employes.

The cost of building rose so rapidly last summer that two of the three buildings originally planned will now be built for an amount that may be in excess of the appropriation made for all three last year. The board is also considering the building of seven cottages for employes.

Tuesday noon's session of the Willimantic Rotary Club was unusually quiet. Stanley Kelly, nationally known boys' worker and former director of a boys' camp at Hartford, was to deliver an address but a telegram was received from him stating that he would be unable to attend the meeting. A good number of the club were present at the session. President James P. Mustard was in charge and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Secretary Charles W. Hill.

The attendance figures for the past year were announced and were most favorable. The percentage for the club was 88 3-10. Two members were perfect in attendance, Charles W. Hill and Raymond A. Parker, the latter not having missed a meeting for two years.

John P. Ahern, chairman of the entertainment committee was in charge of the program. Mr. Ahern filled in as the feature entertainer by rendering several solos which were appreciated by the audience.

James P. Mustard was selected as the delegate to the district conference which will be held in April at New Britain. Harry W. Standish was chosen as alternate.

Nominations for directors were made Tuesday and the election will take place at the first meeting in April.

The meeting was adjourned at 1.25 o'clock.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pease Edwards, widow of Robert Edwards, died at her home in Essex Saturday morning. The funeral was held at her home Tuesday morning at ten o'clock and the body arrived in this city in the afternoon. It was placed in the receiving vault of Willimantic cemetery. Mrs. Edwards' husband was a member of the firm of Pease and Edwards which formerly conducted a retail business in this city where Bowman Brothers are now located. She was well-known to the older residents here.

Mrs. Nora Moriarty Crowley, 56, a former resident of South Windham, died early Tuesday at St. Mary's Home for the Aged in West Hartford. Mrs. Crowley leaves one daughter, Mrs. Daniel Hinchey of Norwich; and four sons, Dennis of Hartford, Jeremiah of Thompsonville, and Timothy and Patrick Crowley of this city.

The funeral of Margaret Elizabeth Kilkenny was held from her home, 36 Union street, Tuesday afternoon with services at St. Joseph's church at 8.30 o'clock. Rev. John E. Clark the pastor, officiated. The services were largely attended and there were beautiful floral pieces. The body was conveyed to St. Joseph's cemetery and place din the receiving vault. A committal service was conducted by Rev Father Clark and Rev. Charles M. Kelley. The Hurtoun-Bosse Corp. was in charge of the arrangements.

The unemployment situation was discussed at the March meeting of the board of directors of Willimantic Welfare Bureau, held at the rooms of the organization on Meadow street. M. H. Lincoln presided. Several cases of people out of employment and some families in want were made known. The secretary, Miss Elizabeth Anderson read her report which showed receipts of $140.56 and expenditures of $135.75. Much of the expense account was for general relief which seems now to be on the increase.

A feature of the activities of the Windham County Farmers' Association during the present month is its co-operation with the North Dakota farm bureau for the purpose of supplying horses to farmers in this particular county. A carload of horses from this west has arrived in this city and will be made available for the farmers today.

The snow and rain storm Tuesday brought to the memory of the older residents the fact that today (Wednesday) March 12, marks the thirty-sixth anniversary of the memorable blizzard of '88.

The Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company service was greatly impaired by the storm Tuesday. A high tension wire broke into flames on a pole located on the Flanders Road, a short distance from the Columbia state highway. The discovery was made by John T. Breen of Hartford, while on his way to this city. The police were notified. The lights were out three times shortly after six o'clock for short periods and several times the power went off for a few minutes during the afternoon. Another wire fell to the ground in Eagleville and held up traffic on the state highway for some time.

A wire carrying 2300 volts dropped to the street, early Monday evening, and came in contact with the iron fence on the footbridge. Sparks flew in all directions and the wire hung in such a way that automobiles were warned not to attempt to turn down or come up Railroad street where it joins the main thoroughfare. Officer Arthur Hurley notified police headquarters and a telephone message sent to Foreman Hanna soon brought a repair crew on the job.

A meeting of all the forest fire wardens and deputy wardens in Windham and Tolland counties is to be held in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium in this city Saturday forenoon. The work and methods to be employed during the coming fire season will be outlines. State Forester [illegible] F. Hawes will be the principal speaker. Allen [illegible]son, of Westbrook, is the Windham county chairman.

WESTERLY

Louis J. Perry, of 60 Mess street, received serious injuries to his left eye Wednesday morning while employed at the press works of the C. B. Cottrell & Sons Co., on Mechanic street. A 3-8 inch piece of steel entered his eye. After receiving first aid he was treated by Dr. J. DeVere Barber. The process of recovery was not as rapid as could be expected and Mr. Perry was accompanied by Dr. Barber to a specialist at the Rhode Island hospital, Providence. An effort was made to pull the steel from his eye with a magnet powerful enough to draw steel from a table two feet distant, but the attempt was not successful. Mr. Perry is now under treatment at the hospital and it is feared that the sight of one eye is entirely gone and that the sight of the other eye may be lost.

Two four-round bouts and two six-round boxing bouts will feature the opening of the Italian Athletic club for which Peter Rose obtained a permit at the last session of the Westerly town council, at the club house on Pleas avenue. Beside the feature program local listic charles will show what they can do. As agreed by Mr. Rose with the Westerly council, medical examination will be required before the bouts are staged and sufficient police protection must be provided to see that the athletic exhibitions are put on in an orderly manner.

Tuesday was the last day of the February term of the superior court for Washington county and the seventh day of the Westerly session. Before Judge Sumner, the automobile collision damage case of Grasso vs. Fiore was continued, the Monday session ending with the completion of the pleas of Attorney Gallagher for Fiore, and Attorney Ferguson for Grasso.

Upon the Tuesday morning convening of court, Attorney Gallagher requested of Judge Sumner that the jury be sent out. When the jury had retired Mr. Gallagher stated that accounts of the verdict rendered in this case by the third district court, Judge Turano, had been published, showing that a decision was given the plaintiff to recover $341.11, and the statements appeared in the Monday evening Westerly newspaper and Tuesday morning's Norwich Bulletin. Attorney Gallagher said that this statement was most prejudicial to his client and moved that the case be taken from the jury and passed. Judge Sumner replied that this might or might not be the case and that he would find out. The jury was recalled and Judge Sumner asked how many jurymen had read the newspaper article. William O. Barber, one of the jurymen from Hopkinson said that he had read the article. Upon inquiry from the judge, Barber said that the article would not influence his decision; that he had not discussed it with any of the other jurymen and Attorney Gallagher was given an opportunity to question the jurymen. The judge then denied the motion and Gallagher had an exception noted. This objection to newspaper articles was made notwithstanding that the jurors were privileged to have all the papers in the case, which would include the writ of the third district court inforsed with the verdict rendered in that trial.

In his charge, Judge Sumner cautioned the jury that the case was to be decided on the evidence as it was presented in the courtroom, whether they read any accounts in newspapers or heard them from someone else; the case should be decided solely on what they heard in the courtroom.

The jury retired at 11.30 to consider the Grasso-Fiore case.

Judge Sumner then called the case of the Empire Cream Separator Co. vs. C. Palmer Chapman, of Avondale. For the respondent Attorney Ferguson said they were not ready for trial, as it had been impossible to locate one of their witnesses, calling attention to the fact that when the calendar was read at the opening of the Westerly session this case had been placed at the foot of the calendar. For the plaintiff, Attorney Beebe said that they were ready and asked that the case be tried. There [illegible]

Miss Ruby C. Prentice was in Southport, Conn., Monday, attending the funeral of her brother, Rev. Dwight N. Prentice. The Bridgeport Morning Telegram has this to say about Mr. Prentice: "Rev. Dwight N. Prentice, former pastor of the Greenfield Hills Congregational church, was born in Mystic in 1846, the son of David Nelson and Margaret Rathbun Prentice. He was graduated from Yale university in the class of 1872 and several years later was graduated from Yale Theological seminary. He held pastorates in Branford and Greenfield Hills, Conn., and North Middleboro, Mass. He also spent many months teaching in Essex Junction, Vt. Some years ago his health forced him to retire from the ministry and his later years were devoted to fruit growing and farming in Greenfield Hills. He is survived by two daughters and four sons. Funeral services were held Monday in Southport. Burial was in Oak Lawn cemetery, Southport." Mr. Prentice is also survived by another sister, Miss Helen M. Prentice, who is teaching in Ridgefield, Conn., this year.

A storm of sleet followed by rain which began Monday night continued through the day Tuesday with alternate snow squalls, accompanied by high winds, and reminded people here of the blizzard of 1888, thirty-six years ago today, which is always recalled whenever snow and high winds join forces at this time of year.

In order to give the young people of the Methodist church a larger participation in the administration of Sunday school matters, a proposal was brought before the Sunday school board recently by Winfred Dick, president of the Reliable Boys' class that a Sunday school congress be held monthly, consisting of delegates elected by the several classes with power to make plans for the social life of the school and for the sending of delegates to the several conventions and conferences which from time to time are held in various parts of the state. This proposal was adopted by the board and the first monthly congress will be held this (Wednesday) evening following a brief prayer service at 7.30. The Reliable Boys' class is very active in church work and three of the members of this class took entire charge of the service at Noank Sunday afternoon, the president of the class delivering in a forceful and competent manner, the sermon, the theme of which was "Spectatoritis."

MARCH OPENS SUITE FOR OPTICAL BUSINESS

J. F. March for many years jeweler, optometrist and optician in this city has been forced, because of expansion of business to separate his jewelry business from the optical business. New quarters for the optical business have been secured in the Disco building, making the suite of rooms one of the largest and best equipped in the city. In the Disco building Mr. March will conduct his business in rooms 201, 202, 203 and 204. Nothing has been spared to make the rooms pleasant for patients and patrons. There is a large room set aside for a display and salesroom where all the best in the optical line may be secured. Just off the salesroom is another room where all the grinding and finishing of work will be done, the most modern of grinding machines being installed here. Off this work room is a well equipped testing and fitting room, everything for the comfort of the patrons being arranged for. To the left of the salesroom is the rest room or waiting room. This room has been completely fitted out to give a homelike aspect, magazines, books and an Actuelle Pathe machine provided for the entertainment of those awaiting appointment.

The new headquarters are open for business and people are cordially invited to inspect the newly installed machines and equipment.

At 19 Broadway where the business has been heretofore carried on, Mr. March is making extensive alterations and when completed this store will be used entirely for the jewelry business, selling and repairing. Mr. March will be in charge of both stores but will be assisted in the jewelry business by a store manager and staff.

COMING TO THE BREED

Would you like to see Rome, the city of the seven eternal hills? Would you like to visit Mt. Vesuvius, Italy's death-belching volcano? Would you like to enjoy the charm of Sorrento, the jewel of Italy's north—Naples, with its bay of blue—ancient Tivoli, the town of narrow torturous streets?

You don't have to visit Italy to see these natural grandeurs. They form the setting for Lillian Gish's greatest dramatic triumph, The White Sister which is coming to the Breed theatre all next week. Inspiration Pictures determined to bring the fascinating beauty of Italy back to America by means of the screen.

The White Sister was chosen as the first film to be reproduced entirely overseas. It has been the outstanding artistic triumph of the present motion picture season and the work of Lillian Gish, the screen's greatest artiste, in the leading role, has been characterized as better than anything she has ever done in the past.

The picture is a Henry King production for Inspiration Pictures, and is distributed by Metro.

Broadway Theatre

Theodore Roberts, in the role of John Kincaid, millionaire plantation master in the Paramount picture "To the Ladies," which will be shown at the Broadway theatre Thursday, has quite a tussle with an automatic filing cabinet, installed by one of his wilful employes.

He begins by trying to open the cabinet. He presses a button but the thing doesn't work. He presses other buttons with the same result. He begins to lose patience. He slams it back and forth and gives it a kick. Then presses more buttons. Suddenly a bottom drawer flies open, hitting the shins and sending up a shower of papers. It immediately closes again. As he bends over to nurse his shins a top drawer flies out and bangs him on the head—more papers go ceilingward and the drawer closes. He straightens up with an oath and another drawer flies out and hits him amidship—more papers are scattered. The inventor of the weird contraption comes to his rescue only to be ordered out of the way roughly when the boss roars that the files be thrown out. It is an amusing scene, that is, at least, for everyone but Mr. Kincaid.

Edward Horton, Helen Jerome Eddy and Louise Dresser are featured players with Mr. Roberts. "To the Ladies" is a James Cruze production, adapted by Walter Woods from the Marc Connelly and George S. Kaufman stage success of the same title. It is an appealing domestic comedy.

Broadway Theatre

From every point of view, the engagement at Broadway tonight of George M. Cohan's special company of comedians in "So This is London" should prove an enjoyable treat to lovers of really worth-while plays. This remarkable comedy, which ran for a whole year at the Hudson theatre, New York, was written by Arthur Goodrich and the wide experience and remarkable technique of the inimitable wizard of the stage, George M. Cohan, was brought to bear in the staging of it.

"So This is London" is just what the English have called it—A rare treat, and a ripping good comedy. It has been playing to absolute capacity for many months at the Prince of Wales theatre, London. Its avowed object is to make good native fun of the nationalistic spirit and the mutual distrust that exists between Americans and Englishmen.

Seats now on sale at box office.

BREED THEATRE

An entertainment of rare quality is promised when Viola Dana's newest picture for Metro, The Heart Bandit, comes to Breed theatre. The flapper star is said to make full use of her opportunities for comedy and pathos in this story which tells what happens when a girl bandit accidentally breaks into the home of a kindly old lady and is forced through many circumstances, to stay there.

The situations arising from the unusual association form the basis for many scenes of thrills and comedy the girl getting into several scrapes that seem impossible of solution until a new element — love — enters in.

Milton Sills, the popular leading man of a host of big productions, appears opposite Miss Dana. Others in the cast include Wallace MacDonald, Gertrude Claire, Bertram Grassby, and DeWitt Jennings. The Heart Bandit was directed by Oscar Apfel and photographed by John Arnold. Fred Kennedy Myton wrote the story, which was adapted for the screen by Tom J. Hopkins.

For the second feature Glenn Hunter will be seen in Second Fiddle. The story is by Frank Tuttle and was produced under his personal direction, which, in itself, is a guarantee of the high character of the production.

The story is laid in the quaint New England town of Spell's River and deals with two brothers who both love the same girl. The youngest brother, Jim plays Second Fiddle to the other brother Herbert, who leads it up to him. There are a series of interesting and delightful episodes and ups up to a thrilling climax.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

That of the lion which is in March reared and roared, Tuesday, in staging the worst storm of the winter. It was an unwelcome morn, an exceedingly trying one and more or less spectacular in its features. It left a blanket of snow piled on a foundation of slush and buried for the time the hopes for an early spring. It snapped off telephone wires, tore branches from trees, blew over fences, smashed in windows, delayed and held up traffic. It demonstrated once again that the early days of March are rightly classed in the winter period.

The storm came out of the northeast—that quarter to which New Englanders are accustomed to look for their most trying weather disturbances. It had its inception in an insecent enough drizzle Monday evening, but gathered strength to itself during the night and increased in its fury as Tuesday wore on through the forenoon. A mixture of rain and snow during the morning hours of Tuesday, gave place to snow in the early afternoon—and a gale sang its mournful song among the house tops.

Nothing to compare with the storm has been experienced this winter. Being out in it was anything but a pleasure. It was a destroyer of poise, a snatcher of breaths and a wrecker of umbrellas. It seemed utterly devoid of good qualities. It screeched as badly as a perfectly good radio set and had as many br-rr-rs and gr-rr-rs in its repertoire. After all it was not a blizzard, as many who have never experienced one are prone to class such storms hereabouts in these later days. It did not, on the word of those who remember well, even compare in severity with the historic storm of 36 years ago. But few will find fault about that. It was worse than was wanted, in any event. Trolley crews, motor car operators, especially the drivers handling trucks, teamsters and other out door workers called it a desperate day. They had their troubles and plenty of them until their day's work was done.

Trolley snow plows, state road plows and wreckers battled to keep transportation routes open. Linemen in the employ of different wire service concerns heard hourly reports of trouble piling up for them. Even the firemen were called but to have a real taste of the storm, but happily, they were not called upon to fight a fire of any consequence.

Some motor truck crews who were on long distance trips abandoned them here on account of the storm, fearing to drive in the blinding snow, whipped about in swirls and gusts. Broken telephone wires were reported from points in the borough and elsewhere in the division. Up to late afternoon, despite all the handicaps of travel, no accidents of any consequence due to the storm had been reported.

Grand officers of the I. O. O. F. in Connecticut came to Danielson Tuesday evening and were entertained by the members of Quinebaug lodge at a general meeting for the lodges in District No. 25, the meeting held in the Majestic theatre. The storm cut down the attendance of both local and out of town members. Following the meeting refreshments were served by the members of Dorcas Rebekah lodge in Odd Fellows' hall.

This paper will print tomorrow (Thursday) on this page a detailed budget of the town of Killingly, as prepared by the selectmen and the town school committee and as it will be submitted to the electors of the town at the adjourned annual town meeting to be held the coming week.

The budget statement is complete in detail, affording all who are so interested as they should be in town finances an opportunity to know just how much it is estimated will be required to meet the bills of the town for the fiscal years and for just what the money is needed. Study of it will prepare all electors who intend to attend the adjourned annual town meeting to known in advance all about each item of expense, insofar as the information may be set forth in the form is which the statement has been prepared.

With Danielson absolutely cut off from wire communication with Putnam and numbers of other places in Northeastern Windham county, only one circuit to Norwich and only a very few toll line wires were available. Wires continued to go down Tuesday night under the stress of a gale and weight of snow and there was a threat by 8 o'clock of this town being cut off absolutely from communication by wire. The electric light circuits and fire alarm telegraph circuits also collapsed leaving the borough with only one circuit of the fire alarm system working by 8 o'clock. Parts of the borough were without electric lights and Attawaugan and Ballouville were without any electric lights whatsoever. North of Plainfield, the storm is much more severe than at points below.

Citizens here complained following the last two alarms for fire that some operators of motor cars should be arrested for reckless driving on account of the way they rush their machines to a fire, endangering the safety of others.

There was a threat in Tuesday's storm, as mentioned elsewhere in this column this morning, that Killingly's street removal cost, which amounted for the winter to only about $100 up to Tuesday morning, would be materially increased.

A summons from Box 14 at about 2:30 Tuesday afternoon called out the fire department for what proved to be a chimney fire for what is known as the Harrington house on Carter street. Whoever pulled in the alarm, at Franklin and Furnace streets did not remain at the box until the arrival of the firemen and they had difficulty in

PUTNAM

One case was heard before Judge George E. Hinman, at Tuesday's session of the superior court here—that of Batchelder and Snyder Co., of Boston vs. Mary Jasmin of Elmville, formerly in charge at the Goodyear hotel. The suit grew out of a dispute relative to an account, the plaintiff claiming there was a balance balance due of $125.86.

Mrs. Jasmin was a customer of the concern from June to August in 1919, and was a weekly buyer of provisions placing her orders through a traveling representative of the Boston concern.

The records of the transactions between the firm and Mrs. Jasmin showed purchases she had made, credits allowed her for cash payments and that at times she had returned goods and asked that credit be given her for such returns.

In final settlement at the conclusion of her dealings with the firm she had tendered da check of some 50 odd dollars. This check the firm never cashed, though retaining it, claiming a balance still due and unpaid. This balance Mrs. Jasmin disputes. She testified in her own behalf and evidence for the plaintiff company was through Walter H. Piston, assistant credit manager for the Boston firm.

Judge Hinman took the papers in the case, reserving decision.

Memories of the great blizzard of 36 years ago today (Wednesday) were revived Tuesday when the wildest snowstorm of the winter swept out of the northeast to blanket early hopes of spring. This storm was born of a chilly, misty precipitation that had its inception during the evening hours of Monday and was heralded by a rising, moaning wind that old observers declared boded no good.

A mixture of rain and snow driven by a smart breeze greeted early risers Tuesday morning and by 8 o'clock the storm was getting into its stride. Greater severity marked the storm as the forenoon wore on and by early afternoon, when the rain had entirely given place to snow it was howling along like a record-maker.

Here in Putnam windows were driven in as early as mid-forenoon by the force of the gale, awnings were torn and various kinds of damage inflicted on property. At a filling station at Front and South Main street an ornamental column was torn from its base and toppled over.

By mid-afternoon, when this was being written, sleet forming on the overhead wires was hampering the Connecticut company in holding the trolley cars on schedule time, but the crews were doing well, despite the heavy handicap under which they were operating, especially in trying to see through vestibule windows against which the snow was driving in clouds and clinging in layers. At the carhouse at Clyville preparations had been made by 3 o'clock to send out the plows if the storm continued in its intensity.

Business here and all through this territory was seriously handicapped by the storm. Few ventured out in it afoot, and only on urgent business. The March upset kept the usual crowd of out of town shoppers away from Putnam, for motoring under the conditions existing was more of a hardship than a pleasure or even comfortable experience.

As the afternoon grew older, there was promise of plenty of snow for this morning, not a pleasant prospect nor one bringing much satisfaction to anyone.

Representatives of the National Holstein, Guernsey, Jersey and Ayrshire associations are to be in Windham county next week to help the Windham County Farmers' association in the promotion of its Pure Bred Bull campaign. Notices relative to their coming have been sent to 92 members of town committees.

Some of the experts who are coming will be in the county three days, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Visits are to be made to bull owners during the day and four night meetings have been arranged.

The meetings have been scheduled as follows: Tuesday, March 15, at 7.30 p. m. at Grange hall, Fairgrounds, South Woodstock; Wednesday, March 19, at 7.30 p. m., Grange hall, Abington; Thursday, March 20, at 1.30 p. m. at Grange hall, Plainfield; Thursday, March 20, 7.30 p. m., at the new schoolhouse, Windham Center.

Talks by the following men on What Certain Bulls Have Done to Advance the Different Breeds: M. C. Peabody, New England Holstein association, Springfield, Mass.; R. H. Holden, American Guernsey Cattle club, Peterboro, N. H.; W. A. Kyle, National Ayrshire association, Brandon, Vt.; H. E. Stevenson, American Jersey Cattle club; New York; F. E. Duffy, American Jersey Cattle club, West Hartford, Conn.; R. B. Percy, Livestock Improvement Co., Worcester, Mass.; A. R. Merrill, Dairy specialist, Connecticut Agricultural college.

This is a great array of speakers. Various breeds of cattle are represented by specialists in dealing with them, and an effort is being made to have every dairyman in Windham county in hearing the talks.

County Agent F. L. Davis of this city has associated with him in arranging the campaign the Farmers association Dairy committee which is made up of S. H. Peckham of Woodstock, Peter J. Chabot of Plainfield, J. R. Stromberg of Abington G. S. Bowen of Eastford, W. S. Warren of Eastford and F. T. Rosebrooks of Windham.

Town committees are being urged to do their best in helping to make the coming meetings successful by starting at once to interest dairymen in their section to be present at the nearest meeting

Tuesday's storm interfered to some extent with the plans of Putnam Odd Fellows to be at Danielson in the evening to attend a session of Quinebaug lodge at which grand officers of the state were to be in attendance.

At the session Monday evening the town school committee voted to reestablish the kindergarten at the Israel Putnam school. There are to be two classes one attending in the forenoon and one in the afternoon.

This city was officially represented at Hartford Tuesday at the meeting before the public utilities commission relative to trolley fares, this representation in accord with appointments recently made by Mayor Chapdelaine from among the membership of the common council.

Sheriff Charles A. Gates of Willimantic was in Putnam Tuesday attending the session of the superior court.

Sleet, which began coating wires hereabouts during the afternoon of Tuesday, carried promise of trouble for the telephone and other wire service companies.

Wind blew in one of the large window panes in the law library of the superior court during the storm of Tuesday.

A delegation of Jerry Bernard's friends from this city will be on hand to root for him when he engages in a bout at Danielson Thursday evening with Harry Doyle of Bridgeport. The affair is scheduled for six rounds.

This week brings an event in the basketball schedule of the Putnam High school team—the game with Killingly High school at Danielson.

Judge Newell Jennings of the superior court has granted the petition of Henry Breault of Putnam, to release from the Brooklyn jail where he has served six months of a twelve months' sentence for theft from the N. Y., N. H. and H. railroad station at Osoco Breault has a wife and several small children dependent upon him for support.

The order of the court is that further execution of the sentences be suspended from March 11 and that the accused be placed on probation, in charge and custody of Peter A. Gardner, probation officer of Putnam, during good behavior for the period of six months. It is also ordered that upon the breach of the order the probation officer shall thereupon present the accused before the criminal superior court for such action as the court shall deem proper.

ascertaining the exact location of the fire, which, after all, caused no damage.

There is a possibility of the extension of the street oiling plan in the borough this spring. Residents on some streets that have not been treated with oil have seen such streets get ankle deep with mud the past few days, while other nearby streets that were oiled last year and the year before have stood up splendidly.

The attention of Killingly young men is being called to the fact that the state board of education co-operating with other state department will establish a truck and tractor school at Portland, this state, and that instruction there will be without charge, affording an opportunity to receive the benefits of a fine automotive course.

Russell G. Lund, Hartford, state supervisor of elementary agriculture, will make another visit in this territory Thursday, following up work he is doing in the schools.

The trustees of the Baptist church have a meeting for Thursday evening to see what action will be taken relative to extending a call for a pastor. The pastorate of the church has been vacant since September.

Mrs. William T. Mullally, daughter of Attorney Arthur G. Bill, is to come from New York at the end of this month to make an address at the Biltmore in Providence before women in that city who are in the advertising business.

Jerome Keech, who has been a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam for several weeks, is expected to return to his home here today.

Miss Katherine D. Aylward was at New London Tuesday attending a conference of officials and employes of the S. N. E. Telephone company.

A delegation representing Danielson chamber of commerce was in Hartford Tuesday to attend a hearing before the public utilities commission relative to rates of trolley fare.

Alfred L. Reed was in Boston Tuesday on a business trip.

About those bluebirds up at East Killingly—one may wonder this morning just how they liked a sample of late winter climate in New England.

Manager Frank Barber of the Casino arena was in Hartford Tuesday on a business trip.

Killingly dairymen are being interested by county farmers' association workers in meetings that are scheduled for next week to boost the Pure Bred Bull campaign, with a view to improving Windham county's dairy herds.

One of the things with which borough officials will concern themselves this week will be fixing the date for the borough caucus. The annual borough meeting comes on the second Monday in April.

At a meeting of Killingly Woman's club to be held at the high school tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon, Haigo Jakiyan is to speak on the topic of Oriental Rugs and there will be a display of them.

Mrs. Fred Mazzo has returned to Providence, after a few days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Greely of Academy street.

At the town offices this week, figures are being rounded up in preparation of a revised budget to be presented for consideration of the adjourned annual town meeting Wednesday, March 19th.

The past seven months of the fiscal year have been relatively favorable in departmental costs as compared with last year, which required a tax rate of 29 1-8 mills to cover the budget accepted by the voters. As for instance, the state tax is less by $1100; there is no county tax this year, and this fact accounts for $7139; there has been only a small snow expense thus far less than 100 dollars, whereas last year snow cost over 1300 dollars. The item of interest on borrowed money totals about $2000 lower; while highways are booked for $4000 less expense. Last year heavy thunder storms with attendant washouts, together with the new Dayville cut-off road accounted for the higher expense of highways.

On the other hand, the slight showing down of industry in some quarters is reflected in an increased expense for the poor, running to over two thousand dollars; the Wardell case has been closed by the payment of $1500 and minor interest items; and it has been necessary to increase school cleaning and equipment at Goodyear and in Danielson these items totalling upwards of $7000.

On the profit however, the figures forecast a tax rate close to 14 mills

JEWETT CITY

Judge John T. Barry, in the Griswold town court Tuesday morning, bound over Frank Livingstone and Fred Clark to the next term of the court of common pleas. Bonds were fixed at $1,000, which the youths were unable to furnish. Although they negotiated a sale to Albert Potts of this place of a stolen horse and wagon, yet their guilt is not deemed, in view of the facts, as comparable with that of the thief, John Cohen, now in the "brig" for desertion from Charlestown navy yard. The federal authorities, in cases of infractions of law by enlisted men do not turn over their trials to civil courts. Judge Barry was for not a few reasons inclined to feel lenient toward the prisoners. He said, the two boys came here of into another state of their own free will. They might have laughed at the officers when arrested Sunday and stood out for extradition paper, yet they waived these technicalities without objection. The local court foresees a month in jail before the convening of the common pleas court, then likely their punishment may end abruptly.

Special meeting Undaunted lodge, K. of P., tonight at 8.—adv.

The weather man, just to keep the borogubites reminded that he has not forgotten the performance of 36 years ago, pulled in the medium blizzard lever Tuesday.

The gentle reminder of the great 1888 storm was tempered by soft pedal action on the temperature, for all day the mercury did not drop to freezing. Snow fell continuously in this section, driven by a howling halfgale from the northeast, but not until mid-afternoon was much gain to be noticed on the ground. As the storm grew more severe in the early evening, only necessary outdoor business was transacted.

Notable among the signs of spring, unaffected by the storm of Tuesday are the facts that six weeks from next Sunday daylight saving will become effective and ahead goes the borough clocks with advanced time in full force. Not to be separated from infallible spring signs, local drug stores are expecting the usual drive on sulphur and molasses.

A number called in Tuesday to learn of Old Cluey had predicted the storm, which proved one of the most disagreeable of the winter. Mt. Misery was called up and the information received that while the old man had made no stated forecast, yet he suspected something for in the early evening he had seen in the western sky, "the juxtapositionary perihelion of Venus and our lunmar satellite." Sunday evening with a cloudless sky, it showed, an outstanding beauty of the heavens.

As a result of the storm, the electric light and power service all through the Quinebaug zones was out of commission. Towns to the north of the borough experienced the same inconvenience. Linemen and trouble hunters were out all the afternoon, working under the handicap of the storm in the attempt to establish the current by nightfall.

Supt. E. S. Hiscox of the borough system was besieged with inquiries, but could only give the information he received from the power plant that every attempt was being made toward speedy repair. At sundown, in the open flats outside the borough, a man could scarcely stand against the gale.

Miss Helen Hull is having a week's visit with friends in New Haven.

The missionary meeting of the Congregational Women is to be held at the home of Mrs. Alex McNicol, Thursday afternoon. The announcement that it would be held with Mrs. Robinson was an error.

Pointing out some of the changes in the trade of the town, it is estimated that borough merchants retailed no less than 40 crates of grape fruit last Saturday.

This (Wednesday) evening, at the M. E. church, the pastor will lecture on "The Question of Miracles". Following that, Rev. N. B. Burton of Putnam will give an address. Choir rehearsal will be held at 7 o'clock, with refreshments at the end, in charge of the Sunday school.

Visits around to many homes in the borough, Tuesday night, disclosed illumination plans which harked back to another age.

Outside were dark deserted streets given over to the howling storm, while inside many a fireside was made bright, by means of lanterns and tallow dips.

Old lamps were gotten out and rubbed, even as was Aladdin's lamp of fabled story, but at the best they were found to be a bit smelly. One man said his kitchen bore the odor of an Indian wigwam.

The Masonic ladies' night is to be held on the evening of Aprilth fourth, as was planned at first.

The report Tuesday night from Mrs. John Perkins, who was operated on at New Haven hospital Monday was that she had had a comfortable day.

PLAINFIELD

Mrs. Charles Jerome, teacher of the third grade in the public school, is ill with grip at her home. Mrs. John A. Gallup is substituting for Mrs. Jerome.

Rev. Thomas Melrose is to address the members of the Parent-Teacher association at their meeting this (Wednesday) evening at the Community House. Misses Celia Israel and Nellie McGovern will have charge of the program. Mrs. Josie Buell and Mrs. Cecil L. Butler will be hostesses.

The storm of Tuesday increased so in its intensity that the no school signal was sounded at noon.

A large delegation of Protection loidge was planning to attend the union meeting to be held at Danielson for the official visits of the grand master, Charles J. Fowler, but the driving storm made this impossible.

Mrs. Walter P. Lathrop with her infant son is at her home of Mrs. Sherman, registered nurse, in Oneco.

Charles F. Heap has been away for a few days on a business trip, returning Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Dawley received a card recently from Mr. and Mrs. John Baton, who are in Daytona, Florida.

The cottage service is to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Barstow this (Wednesday) evening.

Jason Lathrop's brother, George Lathrop, was taken suddenly ill on Sunday, but Mr. Lathrop found his brother more comfortable when he reached his home and he has been improving slowly.

The high school game scheduled to be played at the Community House Tuesday evening was called off by the visiting team from Attleboro, Mass., owing to the increasing storm Tuesday. The failure to play the game was a great disappointment to the Plainfield team.

George Tyrer, designer at the Wauregan Mills, lies critically ill at his home in Wauregan, the physicians holding out almost no hope for his recovery. Mr. Tyrer joined the Lincoln club at the February meeting. He is a young man with a fine overseas record, holds a good position in the mill and has been married only two years. His many friends hope that his young and promising life may be spared.

Wingfield Moran of Jewett City is spending a few weeks at the home of Harry Greene.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moffitt were in Providence recently, calling on Mrs. Moffitt's mother, who is ill.

E. L. Baldwin of Norwich accompanied Arthur L. Peale, who gave a most interesting and inspiring address before the Lincoln club Monday evening.

A special program is being prepared for the next grange meeting, to be held next week. It is the second competitive meeting and the program is to be furnished by the men. It will be an open meeting, giving the public an opportunity to attend.

NO LOSS OF CONFIDENCE.

Those who have been doing their utmost to drag the president into the oil scandal have not only failed, but they have created a reaction which is resulting in a lack of faith in those responsible for it and creating an insistent demand for the ending of such tactics. They have succeeded in clearly establishing by their own acts what has been maintained throughout that political purposes have been at the bottom of the character-assassinating efforts.

There are those who are involved in the oil land leasing issue but the attempt to drag others in where there is no foundation for it is creating resentment and indignation throughout the country. They have made the grave mistake of trying to prove what isn't so and of showing extremely bad judgment in their efforts.

There are states where the inferences which have been contained in certain of dragnet methods might have served to discredit had there been the disposition of the people to be carried away by such efforts. How far they failed of their purpose is reflected in the action of the Minnesota convention where the entire delegation will support President Coolidge for the republican nomination at Cleveland. This is a state where political influences have been at work for some time, quite the same as in Iowa, but in both instances there is an unbroken sentiment for Calvin Coolidge.

Those states have done no different than have others in the choice of delegates. In spite of other candidacies and regardless of efforts of others to push the president into the oil scandal against all the facts in the case there is shown by the manner in which the various state delegations are standing for the renomination and reelection of the president that there is no loss of faith in the president. In fact there are demonstrations of confidence on the part of democrats as well as republicans which show that the public has not been swayed by the unwarranted efforts which cannot be regarded as other than exceedingly poor politics.

GUN TOTING LEGISLATION.

Reasons which are urged for the adoption of legislation that will curb the practice of carrying concealed weapons are not new ones. They have long been available, though there are new cases constantly cropping out which show the need of action.

Washington is asking for congressional legislation to deal with the problem. It is aroused by the recent unintentional shooting of a senator, though the gun was in the hands of an official who was endeavoring to stop a fugitive, and by other cases which have come to light regarding the menace from the possession of firearms.

In the state of New Jersey legislation has been recently enacted which is calculated to stop the purchase of firearms in that state for use in New York city, whether by crooks or others, and for a long time there have been demands for both state and federal legislation that would put various restrictions upon the manufacture and sale of small arms.

The aim is to eliminate the means by which most criminals are able to accomplish their work, to reduce the number of murders which result from action on the spur of the moment because a deadly weapon is at hand, and to lower the number of suicides.

Certain cities and states have laws which undertake this very thing. They place restrictions upon the sale of small arms and require those possessing or carrying deadly weapons to obtain licenses. But that hasn't as yet been found to be sufficient to eliminate the revolver from the bureau drawer or to keep it out of the hip pocket in spite of severe penalties imposed. Because it is possible to obtain them in other ways the restrictions are not respected. Unless the different states approach some uniformity in their regulations the restrictions are not likely to accomplish their object. Federal legislation with such an end in view might make some headway, particularly if there were restrictions about the mailing or transportation of such weapons without permits. There's certain to be much opposition, however, to any effort to stop the manufacture of small arms.

VENIZELOS' DEPARTURE.

In his departure from Greece, Venizelos must have felt that his worst fears had come true. Ready to do everything in his power to aid the country for which he has so much love, Venizelos went back to Athens against his will. He was skeptical about the success of the undertaking. He doubted the readiness of Greece to follow his leadership in spite of the situation that was known to exist. He was apparently convinced against his own good judgment that it was the thing for him to do and he made the effort for the sake of Greece. It didn't require long for him to grasp the full significance of the situation. He was forced into taking [illegible] which had not been the [illegible]. He can [illegible] to serve as an adviser rather than as the head of a new government. He was faced with strong and prompt opposition. He recognized that he had stepped into a position that called for a wall and physically strong man. He faced his handicaps heroically, but he was obliged by illness to abandon the effort and his physical condition was such that he was unable to give the help that was expected of him. His retirement and the fall of the succeeding government made it evident that he had been repudiated a second time. It was natural therefore that he should decide that he could no longer remain there.

What Venizelos sought was not personal gain. He in fact sacrificed much in order to render what he believed a needed service to Greece. He was the man in whom Europe and the rest of the world had much confidence and much credit must be given him for taking the chance to bring the troubled situation in his much loved Greece to an end.

Greece doesn't appear to have fully appreciated its Venizelos. The time may come when it will realize what a leadership was turned away. Venizelos will of course have his reflections, but he cannot fail to realize that it was much better to have tried and failed than not to have tried at all.

IMMEDIATE TAX CUT.

President Coolidge doesn't intend that congress shall overlook its duty to the taxpayers of the country. Neither does he intend that it should be done through any failure on his part to direct its attention to the importance of giving to the income taxpayers the benefit of an immediate reduction.

When he tells congress in a special message that it is a matter that justifies the laying aside of all other legislative business to give it consideration and bring about its adoption before Saturday he tells congress what is in the minds of the people.

From the time since the Mellon tax reduction plan was put forth it has been evident that the political gamesters have been busily engaged. They have endeavored to block the tax plan, even though they recognize that it is scientifically drawn, because they have believed that some political benefit would accrue to someone. They have been willing to deny the people the benefit of the tax reduction in order to deny any political advantage, and even now they are standing in the position of holding up an immediate cut in the taxes due on Saturday in order to force into the tax cutting bill features which ought not to be there, but which they believe can be forced through, or which will be sufficient to bring about a presidential veto.

The public is not going to be hoodwinked by any such methods. It is desirous of relief from the burden of taxation, the president is urging not only that relief for the taxes that will be paid next March, but a 25 per cent reduction on what is due March 15, 1924. It is time that congress began to recognize its duty to the people and especially after the manner in which the president is holding its conduct up to the light. His insistence is justified.

SHIPPING BOARD OPERATIONS.

Inasmuch as this government owns a fleet of merchant ships it is to be expected that they will be operated, rather than tied up and allowed to rust and rot to pieces, whenever there is an opportunity to do so. Naturally it is to be expected that they will be operated to the best advantage, the expense of operation, the revenue and the service being considered.

It is not so long ago that Admiral Palmer was made head of the emergency fleet corporation. As the result of the studies he has been engaged in since that time he comes forth with recommendations to the shipping board for the consolidation of the freight service between the North Atlantic ports and those of Scandinavia and the Baltic. He doesn't do this with the idea of handicapping the service but with the purpose in mind of terminating inefficient service and practicing economy where it seems to be greatly needed. In connection with this recommendation he likewise points out that such will not only decrease the deficit which the government must make up but that less and less is being made available for such deficits.

What seems to be aimed at is to replace inefficiency with efficiency, to make the best use of the government owned cargo vessels and to maintain service where there is ground for doing so. The government is of course paying for the operation of the fleet when the revenue is insufficient. Good business calls for eliminating the waste when it can be done without serious effect upon freight service over the trade routes, some of which may have been more or less experimental in the beginning.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

We don't hear anyone proposing the name of Vanderlip as a candidate for the presidency.

Ludendorf says the war made him an old man. But think of those he prevented from getting a chance to grow old.

The man on the corner says: It doesn't take much of a snow storm to recall the blizzard of '88 on its anniversary.

With three weeks to go March has plenty of time to display its lionlike disposition, but it will make a bigger hit if it doesn't.

If Vanderlip could persuade the mysterious John T. King to be his running mate they would make a wonderful campaign team.

The senate committee is having about as much fun looking over telegrams as some of the postal employes are said to derive from reading the postal cards.

Governor Pinchot has completed a commission to study the state tax system, but there's no indication that he thinks of abolishing the tax on earthquakes.

A scientific adjustment of taxation is more than the rabid democratic partisans and disgruntled radicals can tolerate. The taxpayers, of course, don't count.

It is an interesting pastime for those seeking publicity to get the authorities excited by declaring they caused the bomb explosion in Wall street. Maybe [illegible] will [illegible] to [illegible]

SOME PLAIN WORDS

The energetic wife who was the sort that gets right up when the alarm goes off, talked right along just as though she had not seen her husband's instant immersion in the financial page as he sank into his chair at the breakfast table.

"Bunswell!" she cried cheerily, "you never saw anything so marvelous as the sunrise effect this morning when I got up! I just happened to look toward the east, and right through all those woods across the county line there was——"

"I have no doubt!" the desperate husband broke in with the grimness of a man who sees a great danger confronting him and knows the battle goes to him who hits first. "I know all about exactly what there was, and if you don't look out I'll tell you instead of you telling me! If you are going to develop into one of these sunrise pests, Radio, right after I have entirely broken you of being a cold-bath menace to the peace of our humble little home, something is likely to drop!

"There is something especially obnoxious about the cold-bath chortle to a person who goose-fleshes at any temperature under 70, more especially as it has been so thoroughly explained to us how beneficial they are. Human nature detests beneficial health measures just as it does good advice.

"Why, I have abandoned the 7:59 train all because Alonzo Damper takes it, and he waits till we are all seated and then comes trampling down the aisle, looking just as hale and hearty as he can look by means of holding his breath and just as he gets abreast of the gang he rubs his hands together and cries out, 'My, how fit a cold plunge these brisk mornings makes a man feel!' And the rest of us hate him like poison and spoil our bridge game! You can't play good bridge unless there is peace and love in your soul.

"It was all I could do to bear it when you first tried Bamwitt's exercises set to music, and found how wonderful they made you feel. You declared that you were a new woman and spry as a kitten, and if only I would get up 20 minutes earlier and do Bamwitt I wouldn't go up and down stairs as though I were laboriously mountain-climbing across where the explosion had taken place and the debris not yet cleared up—and, possibly, I could shovel a few teaspoons of coal into the furnace without having to put a mustard plaster on my back and lie down for an hour afterward. You were particularly annoying when you found you could lie down, roll over and spring up to your feet standing without touching your hands to the floor and begged me, with tears, to exercise until I could do likewise.

"I have eluded your efforts to tell me all about diets, too. The diet pest is next to the cold-bath lunatic. No matter what the diet is he is so firmly convinced that it is the very best for what ails you! Sometimes it is starving to death by inches and again it is taking two teaspoonfuls of powered whisk broom in a glass of orange juice at four-hour intervals, guaranteed to make you lithe, supple, wealthy and fascinating. I don't want to be supple and fascinating at all. It doesn't sound right at my mature age. I want my six slices of buttered toast bacon and eggs, cream and sugar and my meringue pie—and I'll fight for 'em doggone it if I have to!

"Fond as I am of you, Radio, when you gleefully wave a tape measure my way and cry out that you are three inches smaller around the waist and why don't I have some sense and join your diet, because I'd not be bad looking if I'd get rid of my bay window—I know how a murderer feels!

"We're still living together after all these trials and tribulations, but right here I am announcing that if you are going to begin on sunrises and run in with glad cries wakening me out of my last fifteen-minute nap to hurry and look at the gorgeous red sky over the morning trees, I—"

"You'll miss your train if you don't look out," the energetic wife reminded him just as though he hadn't been saying a word. — Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Charles D. Walcott, who has been recommended for an honorary directorship at the University of Paris, is an eminent American scientist who since 1907 has served as secretary of the Smithsonian Institution. Dr. Walcott's international eminence rests on his research and discoveries in the fields of geology and paleontology, carried on while serving the United States government in various responsible posts. Thus he entered the Geological Survey many years ago, and, step by step, rose to be its head in 1894. From 1903 to 1905 he served as secretary of the Carnegie Institution, and for a time he was in charge of the National Museum in Washington. When the Federal Reclamation service was being organized and made operative he was put in charge. In recognition of his services to science Dr. Walcott has received honors from the French Academy of Science, the National Academy of Sciences, and the London Geological Society.

A Little Talk on Thrift

Stretch the Years of Useful Activity

It is good thrift not only to make the most of one's time, but to stretch one's years of useful activity to the greatest possible span.

Undoubtedly the popular viewpoint on longevity is changing. The average man is not considered "though" at as early an age as was the case two or three generations ago.

Most of the generals in the Civil war were under 45. In the World war the British generals averaged 53.9 years of age. The French average was 60.5 years.

The average age of those who sat at the peace conference in Paris in 1919 was 63.

One of New York's active financiers of today was an adviser of Abraham Lincoln. A great and useful industrial leader in this country is midway between 70 and 80. An active and honored leader of organized labor is four years beyond the alloted three score and ten.

One of the most profound members of the legal profession in America is nearing 80. Our greatest inventor is several years beyond his 70th milestone. An active, forceful leader in educational thought is nearing ninety.

A New York newspaper recently gave the average of its working staff as 47, with six members 60 and 70 and three just 70. One was still doing his day's work at 79. Yet journalism is popularly considered a young man's profession.

One might travel every walk of life and find these at their places of duty who are beyond the Biblical limitation.

The recent death of President Wilson was universally regarded as "untimely"—the result of abnormal responsibilities during the war rather than the natural wearing out of the machine.

It is an inspiring thought that we are learning more and more to give a just appraisal to the values that come only from long experience. And as these valuations continue to find their rightful levels, the universal incentive to prolong one's years of useful activity is correspondingly stimulated.

Each year that can be added to the period of usefulness to one's self and to others increases the sum total of human happiness and accomplishment.—American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

Did She Find Them?

A merchant sent his son to deliver some groceries. The lad was gone a long time. When he finally appeared the father said: "Did you get those things to Mrs. Jones all right?"

"She wasn't home," said the boy.

"What did you do with the things?"

"I put them under a tub."

"I hope she finds them."

"Oh, she will all right. I wrote a note and put it under the tub, too. I said:

'You'll find your groceries under this tub where this note is.'"

Mistaken Identity

A little girl had missed several weeks of school and was in need of help from home. When hearing her geography lesson her sister asked:

"What is a landslide?"

The little girl answered in this way:

"A landslide is where it rains on a hill and makes it slick."

During the same lesson, she was asked to spell "frigate."

She eagerly spelled: "E-a-r-s-a-t-e."

Funeral services were held at his home at Curtis Corner for James Tucker last week. There was a large attendance. He was widely known, besides being a musician and for years belonged to the fife and drum corps, playing in different cities and in the surrounding country

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

In Rabbitville

Goodness me. In the last story the Bunnybridge Express with our dear Little Jack Rabbit was just going under the Sippi River, through a long tube, to Rabbitville. And goodness me! again and maybe a third time, for now it's drawing into the Rabbitville Station.

"Last stop, Bunny Town.
Grab your baggage, don't you frown.
We're in safe as safe can be
On the Bunnybridge Train No. 22!"
shouted the Black Poodle Dog porter.

Picking up his knapsack the little rabbit hopped out on the platform and in less time than I can take to tell it, he was in the old stage coach on his way to the Rabbitville Daily News.

"Guess Uncle Dave will [illegible] arrive!"

Down by the beautiful Pumpkin Hall
Where the little newspaper bunnies bawl:
"Extra! Rabbitville News just out!
Read it tonight, for it's all about
Uncle Dave, who's coming here
To tell us a story full of cheer!",

"Well, well, well," cried the nice old dog editor wagging his tail—the only way a dog can smile you know. "It surely will be a Red Letter Day, to welcome to Rabbitville, U. S. A., Uncle Dave Cory, The Man With a Story." And he pushed over a chair toward the bunny boy, as he enquired, "When will Uncle Dave arrive?"

"On the next train," answered the little rabbit. "May I tell him who will be our next Mayor?"

"Yes, sireebus!" replied the wise old dog, "Tell Uncle Lucky the next Mayor of Rabbitville will be Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot, your dear old uncle."

"All right," answered the little rabbit. "He's President of the Bunnybride Bank and the Welsh Rarebit Club already. And when he's mayor, maybe I'll be chief of the Bunny Boy Police. I hope Uncle Dave comes soon."

"Where's David Cory?" asked the printerman. "He must get his story in on time or I'll spell his name with an X Y Z."

It was lucky for Uncle Dave that he came in just then. And wasn't the little rabbit glad to see him! Well, I guess yes three times and maybe four.

"Uncle Dave, you are to speak in all the Rabbitville Schools," said the kind dog editor. "Won't the kiddies be glad to see you? Well, I guess yes. They read about you every night in the Rabbitville News, but they want to see the man who knows so much about Rabbit Country."

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. Ice cap 15c, 30c and 60c.

Reduce Your Fat Without Dieting

Years ago the formula for fat reduction was "diet"—"exercise." Today it is "Marmola Prescription Tablets." Your fat friends—these friends tall on—they eat substantial food, live as they like, and still reduce steadily and surely without going through long stages of tiresome exercise, starvation diet and massage greases and salves. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists the world over at one dollar for a box, or if you prefer you can order direct from the Marmola Co., 4312 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.

27 ACTIVE YEARS BY NORWICH CHAPTER, K. D.

The leader, Mrs William E. Manning presided at the March meeting of the Home Chapter of the King's Daughters, Monday afternoon, at the Johnson Home, there being an attendance of about 75.

During the business session reports were read and approved, some of the members were reported to be ill, one new member was initiated on, material for aprons, to be made at home, was distributed among those present, a silver collection of $18 was taken, and announcement was made that the food sale held February 15th, netted $39. Mrs. Manning read a letter from Mrs. George H. Prior of Jewett City state president of the King's Daughters, referring to the national convention to be held in Charleston, South Carolina, from April second to the seventh. A member Mrs. Dillon, contributed $10 toward a runner for the hallway at the home, some of the important things furnished by Home Chapter for the comforts of the home since 1912 include an ice box, china, furniture, a piano, electric light, vacuum cleaner and one member has given $100 during the past year or two, to purchase linen.

Miss Berhice Underwood gave two pleading vocal solos and Mrs. Charles Burke also sang. Miss Underwood playing the piano accompaniments.

That Home Chapter has steadily grown, was manifested at the meeting Monday, when in observance of its 27th anniversary, Mrs. Benjamin H. Lewis chairman of the house committee for the Johnson Home, submitted a very interesting report of its activities since its organization. Mrs. Lewis is the only active member at this time of the original five, who formed a circle 27 years ago this month, the first meeting being held at the home of Mrs. William H. Cardwell of Main street. Besides Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Cardwell the membership at that time comprised Mrs. Edwin B. Miner, Mrs. Thomas Perkins and Mrs. H. H. Gallup. At this meeting each paid a fee of 25 cents, which totaled $1.25, the amount started with. For a few years the meetings were held in the Central building; later quarters were procured in the Buckingham Memorial. The membership had to increase to 60 before the organization could become a chapter and work for one object. Home Chapter having been formed, its object was to procure a home for worthy Protestant women. Through solicitations and contributions the chapter in the course of ten years, raised a sufficient amount to enable it to purchase the Sterry property at Norwich Town, situated on Town street. This home was opened by the King's Daughters November 5th, 1906, for one year. About this time money and property became available from the estate of Mrs. Maria Johnson of Norwich who left bequests for a home for worthy Protestant women. This being the same object as Home Chapter, the King's Daughters, after necessary proceedings, were able to connect the home with Mrs. Johnson's bequests, and it was named Johnson Home in her honor. The home, which had been all paid for by Home Chapter, also a goodly amount in funds, was relinquished by the King's Daughters, which await with the endowment referred to, is what has since sustained the home, although the King's Daughters still retain an interest in it. Home Chapter and the many different circles from time to time have rendered valuable assistance in helping to maintain this home.

The first house physician after it became known as the Johnson Home was the late Dr. Rush W. Kimball. Mrs. Erastus Gardner, now one of the home family, was its first matron. Others in order were, Mrs. Jeanette Miner, who served for a number of years; Mrs. Mary Spaulding, who was there only a short time and was succeeded by Mrs. Harriet Taylor, and the present matron, Mrs. May Bollins.

The present membership of Home Chapter is about 140. Following Mrs. Lewis' historical account, the refreshment committee, in charge of Mrs. David M. Dean, served salad, sandwiches, cake and coffee. There was a birthday cake, made by Mrs. Dean, with decorations of silver and purple, the King's Daughters' colors.

At the meeting in April the chapter is to hold a pound party, each member to bring something equivalent to one pound, that will be useful to the home.

Girls! Say Goodbye To Yellowish Teeth

Your Smile Should and Should Paste Whitens Stained Teeth—Instantly

Every man admires personal daintiness in the fair sex. But no girl can be truly comely and charming with dull yellowish teeth. Bleach-Odent Combination quits only a few cents and whitens teeth instantly, at home. Leaves teeth flashing white, hygienic and clean. Contains mild safe liquid which loosens and softens stains—and a special paste which gently removes them. Works instantly. Quicker, surer, easier than old scouring methods, which injured enamel. ## OBITUARY

Rev. Dwight Nelson Prentice

The death of Rev. Dwight Nelson Prentice occurred March 7 at the home of his daughter Mrs. Frederick Perry at Southport, Conn. He was born in Mystic in 1848, the eldest son of the late David Nelson and Margaret Prentice. He studied in the public schools of the town and graduated in 1872 from Yale theological seminary. He held pastorates in Branford, Greenfield Hill, this state, and North Middlebero, Mass. He also spent many months teaching at Essex Junction, Vt. Several years ago his ill health forced him to retire from the ministry and his later years were devoted to fruit and vegetable farming. His home has been of late in Greenfield Hills, Conn. He leaves a wife and two daughters; also two sisters living in Mystic.

FUNERALS

Cornelius Sullivan

Funeral services for Cornelius Sullivan, 30, were held Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock from the parlors of Hourigan Brothers followed at 9 o'clock by a requiem mass in St. Patrick's church at which Rev. Rocco Guerriero was celebrant. Relatives and friends attended the service. Prof. Farrell presided at the organ during the mass and for a waiting hymn sang Jesus Lover of My Soul.

Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal service was held. The bearers were the following Mystic friends: Omer Ostigny, Oscar Ostigny, Louis Burridge and Joseph Herbert.

Mr. Sullivan, who was born in Newport, R. I., had been employed as rougher in a mill at Mystic. His death occurred Sunday at a Norwich institution after a lingering illness of three years.

CHIEF LINTON HAS VIVID RECOLLECTION OF BLIZZARD

Chief George Linton, the only present member of the Norwich police department who was a policeman at the time of the great blizzard of March 11 and 12, 1888, has a vivid recollection of the terrible night the blizzard struck on. He was a patrolman in Greeneville with the late Sergeant Allen Matthews then and they were called on to do one piece of rescue work when a man named Meech, who drove the car-sleigh, reported that he had lost one of his passengers at the foot of Schofield hill. Driver Meech said his passenger had got out of the sleigh to recover his hat that had been blown away in the wind and blinding snow. The driver said he had not seen the man since and he was afraid he had perished.

Sergeant Fagan directed the two officers to look the lost man up. They struggled down from the station in Greeneville and found their man, who proved to be John Hollingsworth, in the one place that offered refuge on that wild night, Corcoran's saloon. They gave him refuge in the Greeneville station all night and in the morning he went home.

At that time the policeman had to turn out the street lights and Officer Linton had to struggle out again about midnight to do this. His last light was at Preston bridge and on the way there the wind was so strong that it blew him over in the snow as he was going past the old car shops on North Main street. He was glad to lie there for a few minutes to get his breath, but he got to his feet again, made the trip to his light and back to the Greeneville station. He was dripping with perspiration from his exertions when he finally reached there, with the steam fairly rising inside his rubber coat.

ARRESTED IN SPRINGFIELD BACK TO GROTON LOCKUP

Joseph Addo, 19, of 14 Park street, Charlestown, Mass., who broke out of the Mystic jail last August, was back in the Groton lockup Tuesday night. He was arrested in Springfield Monday afternoon, and was brought from there Tuesday by Officer Henry who was sent from the Groton state police barracks to get him.

After a long grilling following his arrest in Springfield, Addo broke down and admitted that he was wanted in Connecticut for breaking jail while awaiting trial. He later admitted that after breaking jail he entered a house to obtain funds to make his getaway. Failing to obtain any loot in the housebreak he asked a truck driver for a lift and made his way into New Hampshire.

For the last week or 10 days he had been going from one New Hampshire city to another, he said, finally coming Springfield. Monday morning on the reds of a freight train. He had just alighted from the freight train when Patrolman Cullen, his suspicions aroused by the man's actions, placed him under arrest.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. George W. Carroll has returned, after a week's visit in Providence with her cousin, Mrs. John Tinkler.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Collins of Edgewood, R. I., were week end guests of Mr. Collins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Collins, of McKinley avenue.

Steamer Franconia, on which Frederick J. Huntington and G. Wyman Carroll were passengers on a trip around the world, was due at Naples Monday. Mr. Carroll was to leave the ship at that port, motoring across Europe with three friends, to Paris. It is his intention to sail for home in May.

The next meeting of the Monday Study Club will be held with Mrs. William Zumbro. The last meeting was at the home of Mrs. Wallace S. Allis, Miss Jane McGregor Allen being hostess. The oral topic, "Fiftith," was given by Mrs. Francis Gilman, while the paper, "Hungary's Struggle for Libert—1848-1849," was prepared and read by Miss Edith M. Bliss. Following the formal meeting light refreshments were served.

NEW HAMPSHIRE DELEGATES FAVORABLE TO COOLIDGE

Manchester, N. H., March 11—Early returns from the New Hampshire presidential primary today indicated the probability that the state would send its eleven delegates to the republican national convention solidly pledged for President Coolidge. # PETITION FROM NORWICH TOWN IS PRESENTED TO SCHOOL BOARD

A petition from residents of the Norwich Town district, signed by Grosvenor Ely and 59 others, was presented to the March meeting of the town school board Tuesday evening, carrying a request for an investigation of congestion in the school accommodations in the district.

The board meeting, at which Chairman Walter W. Lester presided, and all other members were present, took action directing that the superintendent obtain all data relative to the congestion at Norwich Town, West Town street and Yantic schools and submit this to the board within the next ten days. This is intended to be a review of the increases in school attendance for the past ten years and to show the cubic inches of school space per pupil, as this is reckoned in modern educational plans.

The board went further and decided that it would inquire in a similar way into congestion on the East Side.

The following was the Norwich Town petition, addressed to "School Committee, Town of Norwich":

We, the undersigned, residents in the town of Norwich, in the district comprising the Norwich Town, West Town street, and Yantic schools, respectfully submit to your attention and consideration the school problem in said district.

We respectfully request that you make a careful inquiry into the facts and determine if we are correct in our opinion that there is great congestion in the present schools, resulting in generally unsatisfactory conditions. If this proves to be the case we respectfully petition that you take whatever action may be necessary to relieve existing conditions and to bring the schools up to the general standards of modern practice. If there is sufficient interest we should be glad to cooperate with your honorable board in bringing the matter by special town meeting or otherwise before the public for its consideration and approval.

Reappoint Superintendent Graham.

The board voted to reappoint Superintendent E. J. Graham for another year at the same salary as this year and to re-engage all teachers now in the system at the same salaries with the automatic increases applying based upon length of service.

No action was taken upon appointing a successor to Michael J. Kelly, supervisor of buildings, who resigned a month ago. The board has a large number of applications on hand for the position.

Standard Timer's Letter.

A communication from G. Warren Davis, the well known irreconcilable on standard time, was received by the board and laid on the table.

It announced the intention of Mr. Davis to send his children to school on standard time as he did in the last two years when the time for opening school was moved forward an hour by vote of the school board.

FORESTERS' HIGH SECRETARY ADDRESSES NORWICH COURT

Court City of Norwich, No. 48, Foresters of America, observed its second annual Past Chief Rangers' night in Steiner's hall Tuesday evening, over 100 members and brothers from cities in this state and New Jersey being present.

The meeting was called to order by Chief Ranger Maurice Looby after which the past officers took the chairs as follows: Chief ranger, James H. Casey; sub-chief ranger, William Mahoney; financial secretary, Edward McNerney; treasurer, William Callahan; recording secretary, Henry Clement; senior woodard, Frank Le Quinley; junior woodard, J. R. Portelance; senior beadle, Ivan Maynard; junior beadle, Michael Connors; lecturer, Cornelius J. Downes; junior past chief ranger, William Weldon.

During the period of good and welfare, Grand Chief Ranger P. J. Cavanaugh of Torrington spoke on the new ritual prepared for Armistice day. He mentioned that 36,000 members of the order were in the service during the war and 2,000 paid the supreme sacrifice. Speaking of Mother's day he said that it taught the members to follow the ritual, thus becoming better citizens and Americans. He also complimented Court City of Norwich for showing the greatest gain in membership of all districts of the state during the year 1923.

The next speaker was Thomas O'Loughlin of Naugatuck, grand secretary of the order, who told of the visits the grand officers were making to courts in this section and of the interest they have in the courts in the state; also of the interest being shown in the order. In closing he expressed a wish that this same good work could be continued.

Grand Sub-Chief Ranger John G. Fitzgerald exhorted the members to live up to the noble motto of Liberty, Unity, Benevolence and Concord, and thereby live up to what they preach and what the order teaches.

Grand Recording Secretary William H. Dunleavy of Watertown spoke briefly on things of interest to the order.

The principal speaker of the evening was Supreme Secretary T. M. Donnelly of Jersey City, N. J. Supreme Secretary Connelly in his talk said that the duty of every member to the lodge was a great one. He pointed out the advantage of membership, strength of concentration, and the benefits the order and the members derived from an association of this character.

Supreme Secretary Donnelly stated that the Foresters now number about 200,000 member and have 1,500 courts throughout the country. The order, he said, has expended during the past 28 years the sum of $52,000,000. That money, he said, has gone out in small amounts to homes, in sick benefits, doctors services and for medicine. The Foresters, he said, is the only order in America today that absolutely guarantees the payment of a death claim. The sum of $200 is paid at death of every member, the payment being guaranteed by the members. Therefore if any lodge fails to function, a member is entitled to the death claim just the same, as Foresters everywhere guarantee the payment.

In closing he complimented Court City of Norwich for its work. You have done a fine piece of work here, said Supreme Secretary Donnelly, you are a successful court and what you have done and are doing is an asset to the community. Any court that seeks to relieve poorhouse conditions in a locality by taking care of its own members is relieving the community of a part of its burden, and automatically the burden of taxation is lessened.

Following the meeting, which was one of the most successful in several months, light refreshments were served by the social committee.

CONSUMERS' LEAGUE OFFICER ADDRESSED NORWICH WOMEN

Those members of the Norwich Branch of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women who braved the storm to attend the meeting Tuesday night held in the Carroll building on Main street enjoyed a rare treat in listening to Miss Mary C. Welles of Hartford, secretary of the Consumers' league.

The meeting was under the auspices of the educational department of the Norwich branch, Mrs. Joseph P. Cummings, chairman, and Miss Welles spoke on the subject of Child Labor. In her talk she told of the work now being done in the state by various organizations, particularly the Consumers' league to relieve the strain on children, especially to take the children from work unsuited and find better employment for them.

This ward, said Miss Welles, has been going on for some time and the Consumers' league is working to make these changes wherever possible. It is also possible, said Miss Welles, that legislation may some day be enacted that will have power to keep children in school longer than at present, especially those born of parents of foreign birth.

At the close of the meeting a social hour was held and a general discussion enjoyed. The meeting was well attended in spite of the weather conditions.

Many Women Executives.

According to estimate more than 10,000 women in the United States are postmasters or industrial superintendents and farmers' managers.

STORM HITS NORWICH ON BLIZZARD ANNIVERSARY

Thirty-six years ago today, March 12th, Norwich was in the grip of one of the worst blizzards in the history of the country, and again in 1924 the city found itself in the grip of a severe storm of wind, rain and snow, which although not causing a complete stopping of traffic and piling snow waist deep, has nevertheless tended to hold up traffic and cause considerable damage.

Beginning shortly before midnight Monday night with a fine drizzle of rain and snow the storm gradually increased in fury until by morning the wind was blowing in gale force, driving a pelting snow before it. The mercury, however, stood just above freezing in this city and although the snow fell almost steadily for 24 hours it made little headway.

It was not until after darkness on Tuesday night that the snow began to show in the streets in the city and then it was mostly slush, making the travel dangerous for vehicles and pedestrians.

The continued driving snow and rain, backed by high winds, finally began to tell and late in the night reports of breaks and falling trees began to be received. The telephone service north of North was knocked out by the storm early in the evening, for there the storm seemed more severe.

In Norwich the electric lights in various sections were out for nearly two hours from 11 to nearly 1 o'clock and this trouble continued during the night. The Bulletin was without electric light and power from the city plant for two hours, but overcame the difficulty partly by starting up its own steam plant.

Shortly before midnight calls were sent to the police station that wires were down near the Old Point saloon on the Norwich-Taftville road, and breaks were reported from Norwich Town and other places.

On the Newent road an automobile party encountered a huge drift of snow which nearly blocked the road. After pushing through they called the police station, warning them of this danger and of a big tree which was down near the junction of the Newent and Norwich-Jewett City highway, blocking the road. Word was immediately dispatched by the police to state authorities who went out to clear the road.

At about the same time a big tree on Winchester street was blown over, carrying with it all electric wires nearby, cutting that section of the city off from electric lights. The tree in falling struck the house occupied by George Caswell, 17 Winchester street, breaking a window, damaging the roof of the house and doing other minor damage.

At the old Porter place opposite Yantic cemetery a shed was blown down and a chimney knocked over by the wind at the shop now owned by J. C. Turner Lumber Co. of New York.

Business houses of the city felt the effects of the storm throughout the day and theatres at night played to very small houses.

At 2 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning snow was still falling fast and it seemed as though the storm would continue for some hours to come.

The storm had been predicted by a well known weather prophet who placed the day at March 6 and 7. When these days passed his prophecy was ridiculed by many but wires from further north only tend to credit his forecast.

RETAINS FIRST PLACE IN PINOCHLE PLAY

There was little change in standings following the play Tuesday night in the Norwich Ladies' Pinochle club at the office of Dr. Marie Boynton on Main street. Mrs. Boynton carried away high score for the evening with 3340, second place going to Mrs. Crowell with 3160 while third place went to Mrs. Kromer with 3050. With her score Mrs. Kromer continued in first place with a score of 78,095, just 635 points ahead of Dr. Boynton, who has 77,460.

Scores for the evening follow: Dr. Boynton, 3340; Mrs. Crowell, 3160; Mrs. Kromer, 3050; Mrs. Standish, 7335; Mrs. Stevens, 7320; Miss McNaught, 7415; Mrs. Higgins, 7335; Mrs. Risley, 7155; Miss A. Maples, 7195; Mrs. Washburn, 7055; Miss Crumb, 6340; Mrs. L. Maples, 6505.

Standings to date are as follows: Mrs. Kromer, 78,095; Dr. Boynton, 77,460; Mrs. Stevens, 71,735; Mrs. L. Maples, 71,550; Mrs. Risley, 71,155; Mrs. Standish, 71,480; Mrs. Washburn, 70,815; Miss McNaught, 69,165; Miss Crumb, 67,780; Mrs. Crowell, 67,630; Mrs. Higgins, 67,545; Miss A. Maples, 65,400.

BAPTIST CHURCH SOCIALS ARE WELL ATTENDED

Two more of the series of district socials planned by the Central Baptist church, to get acquainted with the 100 or more newly admitted members, were held Tuesday night, one being at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Arnold, 90 Cliff street, the other at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Wyman, 21 Court street, with 40 at the former and 18 at the latter.

The programs were carried out at both homes, and refreshments were served, Mr. and Mrs. Wyman being assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Messenger. While Mr. and Mrs. Arnold were assisted by the Misses Alice and Gwynne Tracy. At the close of the evening [illegible] sleeve, Douglas Hunt and Reginald Lubin played at Mr. Wyman's. Judge John H. Barnes read an original poem and there were solos by Frederick J. Maples.

This (Wednesday) evening a similar meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Henry Geer at Trading Cove, while on Friday evening the meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Peckham of West Thames street.

GOLF CLUB TO BUILD AN 18-HOLE COURSE

At a special meeting of the Norwich Golf club, held Tuesday evening at the Wauregan hotel, the membership voted to construct an 18-hole course to replace the present 9-hole course. It is expected that work on the new course will start April 1 and that it will be completed and ready for use by June of next year. This will be the only 18-hole course in eastern Connecticut and will be constructed at a cost of about $60,000. The meeting, which lasted two hours, was called to order about 8 o'clock by President C. Royce Bliss. There was an attendance of forty and the matter was thoroughly discussed from all angles. Willis Austin explained the plan for the financing of the new course as reported by the board of governors.

Following the discussion a resolution authorizing the board of governors to acquire the necessary land and to formulate plans to finance the project was adopted. The resolution follows:

That the board of governors of the Norwich Golf club are hereby authorized and empowered to request the Norwich Golf Land company to acquire and purchase additional land adjoining the present holdings, or in the immediate vicinity thereof, sufficient to extend the present nine-hole course into an eighteen-hole course, including a practice field north of the present first fairway, and to create and make on the land now owned by the land company and the land acquired new fairways, tees, greens and improvements necessary for an 18-hole course, and to erect, build and maintain new structures, buildings and improvements necessary for the maintenance of an eighteen-hole course.

That in connection with said request and to secure an eighteen-hole course, the board of governors are hereby authorized and empowered to confer with the said land company and to suggest and formulate plans to finance the project, and to do anything necessary to carry out said project.

The board of governors are hereby authorized and empowered to request the Norwich Golf Land company to construct, build and maintain two additional tennis courts adjoining the present courts, or at some other convenient place on the land of said company.

The land which is under option comprises 160 acres and as it has been used for farming and pasturage the cost of development will be small. It is known as the old Bart farm, is owned by the Misses Lucas and is located southwest of Trading Cove brook toward Fitch hill. It is southwest of the present property of the golf club and lies in the town of Montville. The new course will be a standard 18-hole course and will be used primarily for the benefit of the members of the club and their guests. Only two of the present nine holes will be retained as the remaining seven will be relocated.

A letter of information regarding the project was sent previous to the meeting to the membership of the club. In part the letter said:

Our membership has been increasing rapidly of late, due to the increasing interest in the game of golf throughout the country, until we are now at a point where we must decide our policy for the future.

There are two courses open:

One to continue increasing the membership and to increase the dues and to enlarge the facilities of the club, improving the present layout of the holes and adding thereto, so as to make an eighteen-hole golf course easy and comfortable to walk over; not too difficult in playing, so as to discourage beginners or average players, and yet having features which will test the super-golfer. This program of enlargement will call for a considerable sum of money.

The other course, which is open to us, is to continue just as we are; restrict our membership, restrict the use of the course and leave things as they are.

It is apparent that the first proposition means progress, energy and work for its accomplishment. The second would be termed, by some, conservative, and some others dry rot.

At a joint meeting of the board of governors and the officials of the Land company a committee was appointed to look into this matter and to report. That report has been made and the outline of it is the acquirement of land to the west and northwest of the present property of the Land company, land now owned by the Misses Lucas, the Coggeshall family and J. C. Allen. This land has been characterized by a celebrated golf course architect and constructor as the finest natural golf land he has seen in this state and the equal of any in the country.

The cost of the land and the cost of its development into a modern 18-hole golf course, and certain necessary equipment, will bring the entire cost of the project to a point in the neighborhood of $60,000 and possibly, a little more.

The committee has calculated that with sixty additional members, that by raising the dues of the active members $25 and by proportionately raising the dues of other types of membership and estimating the additional amount to be obtained from green fees, the result of a good 18-hole course, that the additional expense of upkeep and interest upon money required to build, would be easily earned and leave an amount in addition which could be utilized for redemption of the bonds—if bonds are sold to forward this project.

SUBSTITUTE BILL FOR SPECIAL FARM RELIEF

Washington, March 11—A substitute for the Norbeck-Burtness bill, the special farm relief measure pending before the senate was offered today by Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska. It would provide for the expenditure of $60,000,000 for financing diversification of crops in four northwestern states on what the author described as the "contract installment plan," similar, he said, to that used commonly by furniture stores, whereas the Norbeck-Burtness measure would provide for direct loans.

Senator Howell's substitute was presented just before the senate recessed and after an attempt to have the Norbeck-Burtness bill recommitted had failed by a vote of 12 to 58. He explained that it contemplated the purchase of livestock by the secretary of agriculture and its sale "on installment" to farmers.

MUTINY CONTINUES IN IRISH NATIONALIST ARMY

Dublin, March 11.—(By The A. P.)—The mutinous activity in the army continued today the absorbing topic of interest in Dublin. President Cosgrave in the Dail Eireann announced that the letter of General Tobin and Colonel Dalton, written on behalf of the executive council of the Irish republican army, demanding a discussion with the government of the Anglo-Irish treaty provisions, was a challenge the government could not ignore and that the government has taken the necessary steps to deal with the situation.

DOHENY TO CONTEST ACTION TO CANCEL OIL CONTRACTS

New York, March 11.—Edward L. Doheny, the oil magnate, on leaving late today for Los Angeles, said he was prepared to defend his rights in any action brought by the government to cancel oil contracts held by him.

Mr. Doheny was accompanied by his counsel, Joseph J. Cotter, Fred L. Kelley and Frank J. Hogan, and a number of friends. The party travelled in the Doheny private car "Patriot."

Producing a folio containing photographs of his son, E. L. Doheny, Jr., and the latter's wife and children, Mr. Doheny laughingly said, "This is the main reason I am going west."

Also in Mr. Doheny's party were Herbert G. Wylie, president of the Pan American company, and Mrs. Wylie.

Averages.

The law of averages is mathematical in its accuracy. When an scientifically managed chain store system wants to open a new shop, it has "clockers" count the passing crowds, to learn what location has the most traffic flowing past its doors. It is definitely known that a set percentage of the passers-by will turn into the new store. This is the law of averages—that, while a thing may not happen repeatedly, it will show up, on the average, every-so-often. Gamblers use the law of averages, figuring systems to beat the bank at Monte Carlo. It is a law that should be taken into consideration in all proposed undertakings.

Fee for junior events is 25 cents.

TRIPLE TIE IN N. L. CHURCH LEAGUE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, March 11—The Methodist Intermediates went into a three cornered tie with the Groton and the First Congregational teams in the Intermediate church league, by defeating the First Baptist quintet on the Y. M. C. A. court tonight by a 21 to 6 score.

The First Baptist boys were no match for the faster Methodist team. The latter team took the lead from the very first and held it throughout. The losers never threatened to even make things interesting being hopelessly outclassed from the start. The Methodist Intermediates scored six points in the first quarter to the Baptist teams 2. At half time the score stood 10 to 4 in the Methodist intermediates favor.

The winners launched an offensive drive in the third quarter that netted them 10 points. All this team could score in the last period was a single point while the First Baptist scored a field goal for two points.

Harris with five field baskets led both teams in scoring. Wilson of the same team accounted for seven points.

Dunn and King for the losers were the best performers for that team. The teams lined up as follows:

LOUISIANA WANTS CARBONE SUSPENDED FOR LIFE

New York, March 11.—The New York State Athletic Commission today was requested by the Louisiana state boxing commission to suspend Frankie Carbone, New York middleweight, "for the rest of his natural life," following Carbone's failure to fulfull a contract to meet an opponent in New Orleans last week.

This action was requested after the Louisiana commission had suspended Carbone permanently. The New York board, however, in the absence of more details concerning the offense, refused to concur.

It was charged that Carbone appeared in New Orleans a few days before the scheduled match, trained in a gymnasium near the fight club and gave the promoters every indication that he was to fulfill his contract. He disappeared on the night of the fight, however and was not located, until the next day.

COMMISSION REFUSES TO ACT IN BERLENBACH BOUT

New York, March 11. — The state athletic commission today refused to intesfere with the Paul Berlenbach-Jack Delaney middleweight fight at Madison Square Garden next Friday night after hearing protests against the match filed by Newark promoters and the New Jersey boxing commission. The protest was based on a bout next Monday at Newark in which Berlenbach is slated to meet Jackie Clarke.

Platt Adams, chief inspector of the New Jersey board, and J. Frank Black, representing the National Sportsmen's Club of Newark, protested against the Madison Square Garden Match, but after examining the contract between the promoters and Berlenbach the commission refused to take action.

The board held that there was nothing in the contract to prevent Berlenbach from fighting prior to his Newark match. Inspector Adams intimated, after the hearing, that a new clause might be inserted into the New Jersey laws which would make it impossible for a boxer, under contract to fight in New Jersey, to appear elsewhere within five days of his schedule match.

Opponents of Paul Berlenbach, New York middleweight, will have to weigh as much or more than Berlenbach according to a new ruling passed to apply only in this boxer's case. The ruling allowing 15 pounds difference between middleweight boxers will not hold in Berlenbach's case in the future.

Chairman Brower said the commission had completed its investigation of the alleged ticket speculation at Madison Square Garden but would not make public its findings until the return of Col. J. J. Phelan, a member of the license committee, from Europe.

JOHNSON MAKES BID FOR FIRPO-WILLS BOUT

New York, March 11.—Despite obstacles so far placed in the path of a heavyweight match in July between Harry Wills, and Luis Angel Firpo, developments today disclosed that at least two promoters still are seeking to sign the negro and Argentine.

Although Rhode Island promoters seeking the match were advised yesterday that his exhibition engagements now would preclude the match in July, James J. Johnson announced today that, on behalf of the Cromwell Athletic Club, he had opened negotiations with Firpo and Wills.

Firpo, he said, had named terms calling for a guarantee and percentage which would be laid before the club directors next week for action. Johnson would not reveal the terms stipulated, but said they were made after Firpo rejected a previous offer. The Cromwell A. C. held a lease on the Yankee stadium last season and, according to Johnson will again have the use of the American League Park.

Despite Johnston's statement, however, William McCarney, Firpo's American representative, asserted that no negotiations now were in progress between Johnston and the South American boxer and reiterated his doubt that Luis would alter his program in order to fight the negro.

Nevertheless, Tex Rickard also renewed his bid for a Firpo-Wills bout, but struck an obstacle when Paddy Mullins, the negro's manager, rejected a guarantee of $150,000 and countered with a demand for 20 per cent. of the receipts. Rickard previously had offered Wills $100,000 and Firpo $200,000 for the match.

DEMPSEY NOT ANXIOUS TO MEET GIBBONS

St. Paul, Minn., March 11—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, is not anxious to meet Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul, in a return match, because he does "not want to take a chance of losing his title," declared Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, in a statement tonight.

Gibbons has not been given "a fair break" for the championship according to Kane who charged that Dempsey was avoiding American fighters in favor of foreign "set-ups".

Osborn Appointed Director.

New Haven, Conn., Mar. 11.—The Yale board of control tonight announced the appointment of C. B. Osbourn as director of freshmen athletics.

Osbourn has been coach of the freshmen football team for three years. Osbourn will cooperate with J. T. Blossom, graduate director of athletics in Yale athletic activities.

YALE BEATS HARVARD IN CLOSE GAME

New Haven, Conn., March 11—Yale defeated Harvard in basketball here tonight, 30 to 23. Harvard led at the end of the first half 13 to 12. Yale came to the front in the second half and despite a late Harvard rally won out. Luman starred for Yale with seven field and two foul goals. Captain Gordon featured for the visitors with six field and three foul goals. This is the second victory over Harvard by Yale this season.

The lineup and summary:

| Yale (30) | Position | Harvard (23) |
|---|---|---|
| | left forward | |
| Pite | | Gordon |
| | right forward | |
| Haas | | Smith |
| | center | |
| Luman | | Rauh |
| | left guard | |
| Hall | | Hudofsky |
| | right guard | |
| Giblin | | Black |

Scoring: Field goals—Pite 4, Luman 7, Haas 1, Gordon 6, Smith 1, Rudofsky 3, Black 2. Foul goals—Pite 1 out of 5; Suisman (substitute for Hall) 1 out of 2; Luman 2 out of 3; Haas 2 out of 2; Gordon 3 out of 6; Rauh none out of 2; Combs (substitute for Rauh) 1 out of 1.

Referee, Brennan.

DEMPSEY GOING HOME TO REST AND RECUPERATE

Chicago, March 11.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, said over the the telephone from Benton Harbor, Mich., today that he was going to his home in Salt Lake City to recuperate from his recent operation.

The champion, who left the train at Elkhart, Ind., motoring to Benton Harbor with Floyd Fitzsimmons, promotor of the Dempsey-Miske bout there four years ago, said he stopped in Benton Harbor to spend the day with Fitzsimmons and get a "swell home-cooked feed."

Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, remained in New York.

Dempsey confirmed reports that he probably would not box again until fall, when he engages Luis Angle Firpo or another opponent in New York.

The champion intends to leave for the west tomorrow.

STATE RECEIVES $10,692.63 FROM BOXING GAME

Waterbury, March 11.—Total receipts of the State Athletic Commission from boxing licenses and taxes for the period from June 15 to the present, amount to $10,692.63, it was announced today by Acly W. Castle, of this city, secretary of the commission. Of this sum, $6,302.63 was in taxes and $4,390 in license fees. Since the first of the year, five promoters, 27 boxers two matchmakers, 26 seconds, five managers and one time-keeper have been licensed. There were 59 boxing shows since June 15th, 1923, of which 14 have been held since January 1, 1924.

INTELLIGENT PITCHING WOULD CURB RUTH'S SLUGGING

St. Louis, March 11—Intelligent pitching would prevent Babe Ruth from slamming out so many homers, a dispatch from the St. Louis Americans' training camp at Mobile, Ala., quotes Manager George Sisler as saying:

"I do not mean that Ruth is not dangerous," Sisler is quoted as declaring, "but if pitched to intelligently his home run total will not approach his record.

"Eddie Cicotte never gave Ruth an intentional base on balls, yet Ruth never hit Cicotte for a home run. He hit only one off Hubert Pruett and that was on a fast ball, the only one Pruett ever pitched to Ruth."

JENKINS ELECTED CAPTAIN OF YALE HOCKEY TEAM

New Haven, March 11—George A. Jenkins of Ardmore, Pa., was elected captain of the Yale varsity hockey team for next season at a banquet of the team tonight. Jenkins is a junior and was goal tender on this year's championship team and was on the varsity last year. He was also substitute infielder on the baseball team. He prepared at St. Mark's school where he also played on the hockey team. Walter H. West, of Milton, Mass., was elected assistant manager.

AMERICA LOSES TWO OLYMPIC NET STARS

New York, March 11—The United States will be without the services of its two tennis "aces" in the 1924 Olympic competition as a result of William T. Tilden's withdrawal because of a ruling that American Olympic competitors cannot write for the newspapers or syndicates while they are abroad.

William M. Johnston, former champion who ranks next to Tilden on the national lists, previously had decided he would not compete.

TILDEN SAYS WRITING RULE BARS HIM FROM OLYMPICS

Philadelphia, March 11. — William T. Tilden, II, national tennis champion, said today that the rule adopted by the American Olympic committee barring members of the Olympic team from writing for newspapers while abroad, automatically bars him from competing in the games.

Tilden said this is his interpretation of the action recently taken, as he is under contract to write two articles a week during the present year.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Charley Bell who managed Jackson in the Cotton States League last season until suspended by the National Board for one year, has been reinstated by order of Secretary Farrell. Bell's suspension was the climax of an assault on Umpire Baird in a hotel one evening after a ball game in which Bell took exception to a decision by Baird. Bell's application has been pending for some time.

Ed Koney, manager of the Petersburg Club of the Virginia League, announced from his home in St. Louis last week, that he had just signed Tom Erbe, catcher; Bill Meyer, second base; Gene Martin, shortstop; and Frank Smith, pitcher. Koney says that he has his eyes on several other youngsters who will aid him in his reconstruction of the Petersburg team.

President Bob Allen of the Little Rock Club of the Southern Association, announces the outright sale of Infielder Art Ritter to Greenville of the South Atlantic League. After leaving Little Rock at the opening of last season, Ritter played in the Western Association and Cotton States League, finishing the year with Greenville.

Attorneys for the Cincinnati Club have been instructed to press as rapidly as possibly the suit brought by the club against the publisher of Collyer's Eye, for alleged libel of Pat Duncan and Sam Bohne. The action was based on an article published in the defendant's paper just after the Reds had lost five straight games to the Giants last summer. Last week Judge Carpenter of Chicago quashed the demurrer filed by the defendant.

Although it was generally understood that John McGraw had arranged with Joe McGinnity, who managed and helped pitch the Dubuque team of the Mississippi Valley League, to a championship last year, to aid him in developing the Giants' pitching staff for this year, the Iron Man has decided not to accept the offer made him by the Giant's manager. McGinnity, who is now a millwright at Decatur, Ill., says he is through with the game, after 31 years in professional baseball.

President Johnson of the American League, in assigning his umpires for spring work, instructed Ducky Holmes to work in the exhibition games between the Chicago White Sox and the New York Giants. Brick Owens was assigned to handle the Detroit exhibition games, while Clarence Rowland will officiate for the New York Yankees in their games. William A. McGowan, formerly an umpire in the southern association, will be in charge of the games of the Washington Nationals.

Enid was awarded a berth in the reorganized Southwestern League at a recent meeting of the league directors. Enid will be the only Oklahoma city in the league, the other franchise being held by Kansas City, Coffeyville, Independence and Salina. A schedule of 126 games was adopted, the season opening on May 1 and closing on Labor Day. A split season will be played, winners of the first and second halves meeting in a play-off for the championship.

Commissioner Landis announces the reinstatement of three major league players to their respective clubs. Martin Dumovich, brother of Nick Dumovich, of the Cubs, was among the number. Last year the Cubs sent him to Kalamazoo to which club he failed to report and was suspended. He will report to Manager Killefer at once. Charley (Chick) Shorten of the Cincinnati Reds who failed to go to Nashville last year, also was reinstated. He will report to the Reds in Florida. O. G. Ogden, who accepted terms with Brooklyn in 1921 and failed to report, was the third player placed in good standing. He will join the Dodgers in the South.

Charles Schmidt, manager of the Springfield Club of the Western Association, has signed Leo Rossi to a Midget contract. Two years ago Rossi refused to sign with Springfield when sold there by Pawtuxets. He pitched a no-hit, no-run game in the Western Association two years ago. He is a left-hander.

The war department has decided after investigation not to change its policy of storing surplus explosives at the Raritan, N. J., arsenal.

CHRISTIERNSON SETS NEW MARK FOR HIGH HURDLES AT METROPOLITAN GAMES

New York, March 11—New York A. C. athletes won the senior indoor track and field championship of the Metropolitan association of the A. A. U. at Madison Square Garden tonight scoring 36 points with the Newark A. C. second with 29 points. Six men from Princeton University scored fourth with 11 points.

Carl Christiernson, Newark A. C., established the only record of the meet when he was clocked in the sixty yard high hurdles at 7.35 seconds. This is a record with four hurdles standing, all previous records at that distance being with five hurdles.

Loren Murchison, Newark A. C., was the only double winner of the evening, sprinting to a sensational victory in the 300 yard, after an exciting brush with Jackson V. Scholtz, New York A. C., who finished second; A. Woodruff, Newark A. C., third. The time was 1:1[illegible]

Cook, Syracuse University, running under Newark A. C., colors the second; G. F. Lit, Princeton, third. The time was 1:13 2-5.

Abel Kivlat, Wilso A. A., won the 1,000 yard run easily from a field of 12 starters. Jack Sellers, New York A. C., was second; John J. Barnes, St. Anselm A. C. placed third. The winners time was 2:16 2-5.

Loren Murchison, Newark A. C., had little difficulty stopping away from a small field in the 60-yard run, Jackson V. Scholz, New York A. C., was second and L. R. Rawlings, New York A. C., third. Murchison was clocked in 6 2-5 seconds.

The 60 yard high hurdles went to Carl Christiernson New York A. C., with Herb Meyer of the same club second, and R. R. Gross, third. The time was 7 2-5.

Edith W. Bostic, Princeton's crack [illegible] of her action, won the [illegible]

MARKOW-TAYLOR MARRIAGE TUESDAY, AT NEW LONDON, SETTLES SUIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 12.—Louis Markow of New London and Norwich and Miss Fannie Taylor, of Quaker Hill, were married in New London this afternoon, the marriage ceremony being a part of the agreement entered into last week when the $15,000 damages suit brought by Miss Taylor against Markow, in which breach of promise was alleged, and which was settled the day the case was scheduled to be tried. The marriage was performed by a justice of the peace, it is understood.

John W. Swanson, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Swanson of 261 Broad street, who was turned over to the youth's father by the Norwich police late last night, following the lad being brought to the Norwich police station by a Hebrew peddler when the boy was found crying on the highway in Thamesville, declares that he was lured to Norwich and then abandoned to get home the best way he could. The boy stated that he was offered a ride by the operator of a white ice cream truck on Broad street, near Fitch avenue, Monday afternoon. The boy accepted and when the truck reached Thamesville the driver requested Swanson to alight and pick pussy willows. When the boy jumped to the highway the driver started up the truck and drove away. A short time afterwards the peddler came along and realizing the lad's predicament caused the youngster to be taken to the Norwich police station for safe keeping. The father of the boy went to Norwich later and upon his arrival home with his son lodged a complaint with the police because of the act of the truck driver. The father declared that he was of the opinion that the truck driver was employed by the New Haven Dairy Co.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth H. Page, wife of John Page, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence, 197 Ocean avenue. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester E. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial was in Union cemetery, Waterford.

Mrs. Fred Galpin of Niantic, Mrs. Genry Bayerle of Steward street, Mrs. William Burrell of Granite street, and Miss Flora Burdick of Westerly, patients at Lawrence hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

Benjamin H. Bidwell, 30 Evergreen avenue, informed the police this forenoon that he was the driver of the automobile that was in collision with a machine owned and operated by Mrs. Bessie Creswell of 221 Bank street, Saturday afternoon, on Truman street. Mrs. Creswell in reporting the accident to the police, claimed that Bidwell, whose identity she did not know at the time, was not only responsible for the accident, but endeavored to evade responsibility by attempting to drive his car away without stopping to ascertain the extent of the damage to Mrs. Creswell's car. This Bidwell denies and alleges that Mrs. Creswell was responsible for the accident. Bidwell claims Mrs. Creswell's car was proceeding at a high rate of speed and appeared suddenly in the rear of his car as he attempted to turn the automobile around.

Thieves operated in the Pequot section last night, for this morning it was discovered that a tool shed on Hillside avenue, where a quantity of carpenters' tools were stored, had been entered and many of the implements were stolen. Freeman Daniels was one of the carpenters to lose tools, Daniels reporting a cross-cut saw, ratchet, miter square, hammer, chisel and cutting iron having been stolen. Another carpenter, Manuel Vera, reported that a rip saw, cross-cut saw, steel square, jack plane, two bits, brace, five or six chisels and a hatchet belonging to him were missing.

The rain and snowy storm today was accompanied by a severe gale and as a result of the hurricane velocity of the wind considerable damage was occasioned. A large tree on Cedar Grove avenue, opposite Organ park was felled this afternoon, the huge tree landing across the avenue and completely blocking traffic. On Richards street and Summit avenue, high voltage wires of the Connecticut Power company were dislodged from poles and fell to the highways. A repair gang, however, quickly caused the wires to be put back in position. At Ocean Beach, the waves reached tremendous height, the water pouring over the board walk and entering the cellars of some of the cottages while volumes of water were deposited upon Bentley avenue, the main thoroughfare there.

John Riddle, a chauffeur, was today fined $150 in the police court for selling liquor to Rock Zekos, a Pole, who had a long record in the police books of this city. Rock claimed to have bought white mule from Riddle and drinking it, he became sick so that he went to a doctor and the latter told him he was poisoned. Rock didn't disclose how much he paid for the poison. He was in a new role as plaintiff in the court, but he seemed to have a case that was conclusive that he had bought liquor. Before a jury, a man who has been arrested as many times as Rock has been for intoxication, would not be a strong witness in the prosecution of a seller. Still, the accused, having demurred to the complaint, there was no course for the court but to find him guilty. Riddle is employed by the Johnson family at the Jerome place. There was no third party present when the liquor was sold so that the testimony of the men concerned was all that could be adduced in the case. Judge Prince included a jail sentence in the judgment, but suspended the execution of that part of the judgment. Riddle paid and was pleased to get out of the mess with the experience he had.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Manheimer of New York are being entertained by Mr. Manheimer's nephew, Harry Manheimer, 16 Pearl street.

Mrs. Mary Nichols Crandall, 85, the widow of John D. Crandall, died last night at the residence of her son, Charles M. Crandall, Eastern Point road, Groton, with whom she had resided many years and who is her only surviving relative. Mrs. Crandall was born Oct. 14, 1838, the daughter of Capt John F. and Susan Dillington Nichols, of South Kingston, R. I. She had been in feeble health many months due to infirmities of age and recently was losing her sight.

Bruce E. Sloan, formerly of New London, at which time he was employed in the freight service of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, now residing in Rochester, N. Y., is seriously ill at his home in the latter city, according to advices received by his brother, Harry Sloan of Union street.

Theodore Hugo Meyers and Miss Muriel Elizabeth Yeager, both of Mystville, were married in New London, Feb. 29th, according to announcement by the couple. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ.

Mrs. W. P. Chappell of the Golden Spur, Waterford, is a patient at a local private hospital, having been admitted to the institution Saturday.

Mrs. Maynard L. Bray is in West Lynn, Mass., for several weeks, visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond N. Harris.

Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth is spending a few days in New York.

New London experienced the worst storm of the winter today and as a result considerable damage was occasioned besides traffic impeded and public service conveniences put out of commission or temporarily suspended. Rain began falling early this forenoon and later snow and a terrific gale prevailed. By noon the wind had reached hurricane force and trolley and telephone service was greatly interrupted. The fire alarm system was put out of commission somewhat because of crossed wires while traffic to Groton by the ferryboat Mohican was at irregular periods.

At Ocean Beach the surf reached a tremendous height, the huge waves continuing across the beach and over the board walk, great volumes of water being emptied into the cellars of some of the cottages while Bentley avenue was also deluged with the flow from the Sound.

Trees were blown down in various parts of the city, big elms being razed on Summit avenue, Richards street, Bank street and Cedar Grove avenue.

At Montville, just north of the center of the town, a huge tree was felled by the gale about 4.30 o'clock, the collapse of the tree bringing electric light and trolley wires to the ground. As a result of the crash trolley traffic between New London and Norwich between 4.15 and 5.15 o'clock was practically at a standstill. The gale continued in force tonight and in many points about the city electric lights failed to illumine because of mishaps to the Connecticut Power company's equipment.

Frank Sabagh, proprietor of a pool room at 193 Main street, complained to the police late this afternoon that Edward (Tinker) Sullivan of 76 Harrison street had caused damage at Sabagh's place and he desired Sullivan's arrest. Sergeant Frank Howard on going to the Sabagh place found that Sullivan had smashed a show case and on the police being notified, had made his escape. Sullivan is well known to the police, having a lengthy police court record.

Two of the lights on traffic signals went out of commission this evening and upon important stations. One of the lights was attached to the silent policeman, corner of Howard and Bank streets, and the other was on the "policeman," located at the corner of Montauk and Glenwood avenues.

A small dory used in transporting sailors and provisions from one of the government boats in the lower harbor, went, adrift this afternoon, and before the fact had been discovered, the craft was out of sight. The duty officer at the submarine base requested the police to maintain a watch for the craft that it might be returned to the ship, if located.

G. Warren Davis of Norwich addressed a small audience at the Y. M. C. A. this evening, having as his subject, Standard Time vs Daylight Saving Time.

Mrs. Edward Wood of Hartford is spending a few days in New London, visiting her mother, Mrs. Laura Davidson.

The treasury of the Crowley club will be considerably enriched as a result of the two minstrel performances given by that organization recently at the Lyceum theatre. As near as can be estimated at this time the profits of the venture will be close to $1,000.

Members of Mizpah circle, King's Daughters of the First Congregational church, made themselves useful at the church house today by devoting their time to making articles of use to patients at Home Memorial hospital. The donations will be delivered to the institution this week.

Funeral services for Horace S. Dart of Old Lyme, well known in New London, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Mr. Dart's home. Rev. Howard Wells officiated. Burial was in South Lyme.

THE NEW CORSETS

The Smart Figure Is Flexible—Youthful

Suppleness and youthful contour are only relative. If you are so fortunate as to have the slender, boyish figure the modern corsets help to preserve it. If your figure is of the more mature type the proper corsets of the present mode will skillfully mold or conceal the full lines, and bring a suggestion of youth to your appearance, and absolute comfort to your body.

Do not select any old corsets. Choose under expert advice — have them fitted — and you will know real comfort, and still be stylish.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS QUIET.

New York, March 11.—Stock prices pointed upward in today's market, the quietest full day session this year.

Bear traders, who succeeded in bringing about a general reaction yesterday, encountered stronger buying support today and finally abandoned their efforts, except in a few vulnerable stocks, on their inability to force widespread liquidation of weakened marginal accounts. Operators on the long side apparently limited their commitments to supporting their favorites and this, together with the restrictions imposed by wire trouble, gave the market a stagnant appearance.

Chief financial interest again centered in the abnormal fluctuations of the French franc, which reflected the international battle between French governmental forces and European speculators for the control of that currency in foreign markets. Today's demand rate moved erratically within a range of 20 points, late buying, ostensibly for the account of the Bank of France, sending the demand rate above 3.80 cents to around the top prices of the day. Demand sterling rallied about four cents from yesterday's low and sharp recoveries also took place in most of the other principal European currencies.

American Sugar Refining broke 3 5-8 points to 52, a new 1924 low, on forecasts of a poor 1923 report to be issued tomorrow. Other sugar shares held firm, Punta Alegre closing more than a point higher. Pan-American Petroleum issues bounded upward on the announcement that E. L. Doheny, chairman, was returning to Los Angeles, confident of victory in the suit brought by the government to annul the company's leases on the naval oil reserves.

President Coolidge's special message to congress recommending an immediate cut of 25 per cent on income taxes, created bullish enthusiasm in the afternoon trading, when the best prices of the day were recorded. U. S. Steel, American Can, Baldwin and Studebaker, generally referred to as "The Big Four" closed at net gains of 3-4 to nearly 1 1-2 points. Copper shares improved slightly on publication of February statistics, showing a reduction of 19,000,000 pounds in the surplus stocks in the hands of refineries.

Special buying of Norfolk & Western, which crossed 120, to its highest price since 1920, and of Southern Railway, which closed 1 6-8 higher at 30 1-4, were the outstanding developments in the irregular trading in railroad shares.

Strength and activity of International Combustion Engineering, large blocks of which changed hands around 26, was one of the features of the industrial list. General Electric closed 4 1-2 points higher at 213 and Davison Chemical showed a net gain of 2 3-4 to 53 1-4.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent, and then eased to 4 1-4. Time money and commercial paper markets were dull with trading on a 4 3-4 to 5 per cent basis.

BOND MARKET.

New York, March 11.—Recovery of French governmental and municipal bonds, which were accorded support along with buying of the franc was the outstanding feature of today's quiet bond market. Aside from a demand for Norfolk & Western Convertible Sixes and some of the Wilson & Company issues, the absence of buying was reflected in general heaviness throughout the rest of the list. The determination of the French government to check the fall of the franc brought renewed buying of the Republic issues and leading municipal obligations, which moved 1 to 2 points higher. Belgian government issues improved on reports that redemption of a portion of the bonds under sinking fund provisions soon would take place, a block of the 8's selling at par.

Bonds of the fertilizer companies, including Virginia-Carolina and American Agricultural, continued under selling pressure and lost 1 to almost 3 points.

An early offering is expected of approximately $11,000,000 of New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5's, out of a $23,000,000 issue which the interstate commerce commission has been asked to authorize. Proceeds from the sale will be used to retire about $6,000,000 outstanding bonds and to finance the purchase of the International Great Northern Railway.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, March 11.—Unexpected scantiness of corn receipts today lifted the corn market to within a fraction of the topmost prices so far this season, and checked a decline in the value of wheat. Corn and wheat both closed unsettled, corn 1-4@2-3 cent higher, May $1.1-8@1.1-4 to $1.1-4, wheat 2-3 to 3-4c off, May 109 1-4 to 109 3-8 and July 109 7-8, with oats 1-8 to 1-4c down and provisions varying from 7c lower to 6c up.

Corn prices began to develop strength when estimates were posted indicating that arrivals of corn here today would total fewer than 100 carloads. Besides, rural offerings were unusually small, and it was said that owing to 36 hours of rain and snow many country roads were almost impassable. Under such circumstances, the corn market which at first had been heavily affected by wheat weakness became soon the virtual leader, buoying up wheat and oats as well. This was all the more the case inasmuch as no big movement of corn could be looked for during the remainder of the week, or perhaps even for two months.

Wheat was depressed chiefly by selling based on the government report about stocks of wheat on farms. The government figures regarding country mill and elevator stocks of wheat were also viewed as bearish, but were only at hand after the day's trading was ended. Sellers appeared to be giving more attention also to the fact that mills have plenty of time to supply themselves with Canadian wheat at the old duty. Meanwhile, some adverse crop reports were current, especially from Ohio and the suddenness of corn strength took wheat traders by surprise. Provisions were barely steady, despite a firmer hog market.

CURB MARKET.

New York, March 11.—Stock prices made irregular recovery from recent heaviness in today's extremely quiet curb market. Speculative interest was confined largely to the oil shares, several of which began to respond to higher crude prices.

Standard Oil of Indiana, Mutual and Vacuum, three of the most active issues, closed fractionally higher. Borne Scrymser jumped 12 points to 265 and net gains of 1 to 5 1-2 points were recorded by Prairie Oil & Gas, Solar Refining, Southern Pipe and Standard Oils of Kentucky and Ohio. Swan & Finch dropped 2 points and Chesebrough Manufacturing yielded fractionally on the announcement of a new stock issue.

Strength of Glen Alden Coal, which climbed 1 1-2 points to 86, was one of the features of the industrial list. Rapid stocks were again firm. Gillette Safety Razor moved up nearly 2 points on odd lot sales. Ford Motors of Canada climbed five points to 465, but the other motors were heavy.

INDIAN MOSLEMS DEPLORE EXPULSION OF THE CALIPH

Delhi, British India, March 11.—(By the A. P.)—The expulsion from Turkey of Abdul Mejjil as caliph came as a thunderbolt to India. Moslem opinion here, representing all shades of religious thought, is expressing sweeping condemnation of the action of Mustapha Kemal in abolishing the caliphate and dispossessing the imperial family from Constantinople.

It is felt that the Turks have not only dealt a severe blow at Islam, but have belittled Indian Moslems in this vital matter and the action is denounced as a grave insult.

King Hussein's accession to the caliphate is not thought to be accepted in India, and the Egyptian plan of holding an Islamic conference of leading Moslems from all over the world in order to elect a caliph is generally favored here.

The Turkish Red Crescent Mission from Angora which already has collected $80,000 in Delhi for Turkish sufferers, in the Greco-Turkish war, has asked Mustapha Kemal for permission to return to Turkey.

Villians in plays have to be awfully bad in order to make good.

JURY WILL RECEIVE $10,000 SUIT FOR DEATH OF FORMER NORWICH WOMAN

The suit for $10,000 against the Connecticut Co. for the death of Mrs. Alexander Fiona of Waterford, formerly of this city where she has relatives, will reach the jury in the superior court at New London today (Wednesday) after Judge C. L. Avery delivers his charge when court opens this morning.

Mrs. Fiona received fatal injuries when she was struck by a trolley car on the night of Nov. 29, 1922, on the Lyme turnpike near her home. Before Judge Avery and the jury in court Tuesday, the arguments were made after Judge Avery had disallowed the motion of Attorney C. B. Whittlesey, attorney for the trolley company, to have the case taken from the jury for lack of evidence.

Attorney Thomas E. Troland made the first argument for the plaintiff, and was followed by Attorney Whittlesey for the defendant. Attorney Frank L. McGuire closed the case for the plaintiff, ending his argument at 4 o'clock.

In view of the bad weather and the distance some of the jurors have to get home, Judge Avery decided not to give the charge until Wednesday morning, excusing the jury for the day after Attorney McGuire's argument.

$4,500 Verdict Stands

In court Tuesday morning Judge Avery decided the motion to set verdict aside and for new trial in the suit of Lycurgus M. Sistare of New London against the Connecticut Co., in which Mr. Sistare was given a jury verdict of $4,500 because of injuries to himself and damages to his automobile on Broad street, New London.

Attorney for the trolley company made the motion to set aside the verdict on the ground of contributory negligence.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Avery says:

The location of the trolley tracks at that place where this accident occurred on Broad street makes a dangerous situation at night. The trolley car comes up the middle of the street, in the middle of the macadam and turns to the left in the street.

There is evidence from which the jury might have found that the plaintiff was driving his automobile on the right-hand side of the macadam at a moderate rate of speed, being on the extreme right-hand of the macadam with ample room to pass the trolley if it had not changed its course and he saw the trolley car coming up in the center of the highway on his left. The plaintiff was following another automobile which was a short distance ahead of him and at the same time there was an automobile on his left. The light on the trolley car and on the automobiles were lighted and it was more or less dark. The plaintiff did not see the place where the trolley track turned. The plaintiff was driving into New London and the trolley car was going out Broad street in an opposite direction.

The rate of speed of the trolley car was testified to by the motorman as between 8 and 12 miles an hour. It was a one-man trolley. At that rate of speed when the trolley reached the turn its head end would travel from the center of the road to the edge of the macadam or a point near the edge in a very seconds. The motorman of the trolley saw the plaintiff's automobile approaching and thought that he had time to get over the crossover before the plaintiff's automobile reached that point. The motorman did not give any warning to the plaintiff when the trolley car reached the turn. The motorman slackened the speed of the trolley at the turn to about eight miles an hour, but turned the power on again thinking he had time to get across ahead of the plaintiff's automobile. When he saw that the automobile was going to cross the tracks, the motorman then put on his brakes. The plaintiff apparently did not see the trolley at the moment when it changed its course.

The principal contention of the defendant on this motion is that the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence. It seems to me that under all the circumstances, the time of day and amount of light available, the automobile ahead of the plaintiff's car and one on his left, and the entire circumstance, that the court ought not to say as a matter of law that the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence in not seeing the trolley when it changed its course or not seeing the exact point where the trolley tracks turned and crossed in front of him on the macadam. It seems to me that the question was a question properly for the jury to decide and it seems that there is ample basis in the testimony for the finding of the jury that the defendant's motorman was negligent.

The amount of the verdict in this case was reasonable considering the damage to the automobile and to the plaintiff's person and it does not seem to me that the court ought to say as a matter of law that the jury were not justified either in finding the defendant negligent or in finding the plaintiff free from contributory negligence under the circumstances.

The motion to set aside the verdict and to grant a new trial is denied.

SAYS GOD IS SOURCE OF LAWS OF NATURE

Rev. E. C. Dunbar addressed the men of the Norwich Bell Co., under Y. M. C. A. auspices. He spoke as follows:

Great businesses and corporations advertise power for use in factories and homes. Great inventions are coming into being for the use of mankind as never before. Many of us may feel that these are results of man's genius. This is not altogether true. We are convinced today that we live in an orderly and rational universe. Where there is order there must be law. If there is law then somewhere there is a law-giver. A centralization power must be somewhere. To me it is in God. I believe all fundamental and basic law, of any realm of life, comes from God, our Heavenly Father.

It makes for the highest of the Creator. Men of the past have often, though of God only in terms of the spiritual. These inventions which are coming in such numbers and the result of men discovering these laws of God and adapting them to the use of humanity.

Turn to the realm of physical science and we find laws of nature, such as the four seasons and the law of growth of animals and plants. In chemistry we find by mixing certain elements with certain others that the same reaction always results. There is the law of the inclined plane, the law of gravity, the law of falling bodies in physics. Did these just happen? I believe because God is the Creator that they came from His power.

It is equally true that the laws of the intellectual realm are from God. It makes no difference whether we name after the man who discovered them, they still have the stamp "Made of God". We may classify and separate one from another and say this is theology, this psychology, this philosophy, this pedagogy, and this sociology, but we do not change them from being God's laws.

This view does not in any sense of the word lessen God's power in the spiritual realm. It raises man's conception of and reverence of the God he worships. Jesus was the great discoverer and exponent of God's spiritual laws. We would do well to study his teachings. It was Jesus who brought out the law of the Golden Rule, the law of loving one's neighbor, the law of individual faith and many others.

In our human thinking we fail to appreciate God in realms apart from the spiritual but he is in these others and if we are to worship the true God we must recognize Him in all life.

Kesley Hearing Continued.

The hearing before Justice of the Peace Appleton Main of Preston in the case of Thomas J. Kesley of this city, accused of an assault on Oct. 26 upon the late Julius Mattern of Preston, which was continued to March 12, has been continued for a week because of the illness of County Detective William Lewis. Mr. Lewis is sick with the grip at his home in New London.

Dr. Dudley Carleton, who was in Norwich for a brief time Saturday, is head surgeon at Springfield, Mass., hospital. His brother, Dr. Ralph Carleton, is an eye specialist in Springfield. They are sons of the Charles M. Carleton, a leading surgeon in Norwich up to the time of his death.

Cause of Piles

Dr. Leonhardt found the cause of Piles to be internal. That's why salves and operations fail to give lasting relief. His harmless prescription, HEMROID, removes the cause. Every box or it fails. Ask Lee & Osgood or any good druggist for Dr. Leonhardt's Hemroid.

WHEN YOU WANT to sell your business property or your home, there is no better medium than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

DOCENT COMMITTEE CONDUCTS ART ASSOCIATION MEETING

The Norwich Art Association held its regular monthly meeting Monday afternoon at the Slater Memorial. After the reports were read and accepted, the meeting was put into the hands of Mrs. Frederick Sayles, as chairman of the docent committee. Mrs. Sayles told the club what the Boston Museum of Fine Arts has done in educating public and private school children, by taking them through the museum, and when requested sending a teacher into the school to give brief courses in art or mythology.

Mrs. Orias Dodge reviewed the docent work of the Art Association, showing how it started with an enthusiastic group of workers from the Art Association, who gave instruction in the museum, to the sixth grade pupils of the public school. Later, Miss Mathilde Butts, who is a professional teacher, was chosen by the association to do this work. Last year Mrs. Philip A. Johnson, and this year, Miss Faith Leavens, went into some of the schools to give an introduction to Miss Butts' work, by telling the Greek myths to the sixth grade children. Mrs. Dodge emphasized the fact that this is one of the most important phases of the work of the association.

Mrs. Johnson, in her report, assumed that the audience was a typical group of grade pupils, and conducted the class, showing how the children responded to the mythology, how they used ingenuity, and demonstrated real ability in dramatizing the myths, rewriting them and illustrating them with original drawings and paintings. She laid stress on the importance of extending this branch of the work into all of the sixth grades, in order to give more children the opportunity for different kinds of artistic expression, and interesting them in more extensive reading in the library.

Miss Butts concluded the program of the afternoon by taking the audience through the Slater Museum, showing the casts, as she does with the children, telling the history connected with them, and also pointing out the beauties of the Greek sculptures. She laid emphasis on the fact that we have a great opportunity in our valuable equipment if we only would use it to its full extent.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE MAKES BUILDING ADDITION

J. T. Purtill, son of Jere Purtill of Westerly, is a student this year at St. Michael's college, Winooski, Vt. He was a student of N. F. A. for one year and a 1923 graduate of Stonington High school.

The college has just provided accommodation for at least 300 students, by the erection of a new structure.

The new building will contain administration offices, classrooms, laboratories, in the main portion. The west wing, 30 by 80, comprises the gymnasium and chapel. Plans are made for another wing to the east for other class-rooms, library and museum. The structure is of red brick with cast stone ornamentations. Over the main entrance the College motto: "Quis ut Deus" is engraved. In the central panel above the cornice is encased the College Seal—St. Michael and the Dragon.

The old building will be remodeled and transformed chiefly into a dormitory and private rooms. Winooski College, which received its charter from the state of Vermont in 1918, aims at numbering eventually 500 students. The actual president is the Rev. William JeanMarie, of the Society of St. Edmund.

CONGREGATIONAL MINISTERS HEAR INTERESTING PAPERS

Owing to weather condition the attendance was somewhat smaller than usual at the meeting of the New London association of Congregational Ministers held Tuesday morning at the Hugh Henry Osgood Memorial Parish House, but those attending enjoyed a most interesting and instructive program.

The meeting was opened at 10.30 o'clock with a devotional service led by Rev. Allen S. Rose of Gales Ferry who officiated at the organ and offered prayer. Rev. W. J. Reynolds of Lisbon the moderator, read portions of St. John, 10th chapter.

At the business session the report of the last meeting of the association was read by the secretary, Rev. Mr. Bush and letters of greeting were read from Rev. C. H. Ricketts who is visiting in West Virginia. It was voted that a memorial be prepared to be sent to Rev. Henry T. Arnold of this city on his recent loss in the death of his wife. The following committee was appointed to draw up the memorial; Rev. S. H. Howe, D. D. and Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, both of this city.

A nominating committee to report at the next meeting was named as follows: Rev. Roderick MacLeod, of Hanover; Rev. H. W. Hulbert, D. D. of Groton; Rev. F. C. Crowell, Taftville, it was voted to hold the next meeting on April 8th at the Congregational church, New London, when Rev. C. H. Sheldon of Boston will speak on the Possibilities of the Church School.

Rev. Dr. Hulbert read an interesting paper on A Vital Church Year, bringing the attention of the assembly to the days of the church year and how they might be observed to better advantage. He suggested as arranging a program, which could be observed by all churches.

At 12.30 o'clock a fine luncheon was served in the dining hall by the hospitality committee of the Woman's Federation of Park church. The committee was as follows: Mrs. Harry B. Prentice, chairman; Mrs. William P. Eastwood, Mrs. Neville Bliss; Mrs. Frank H. Pullen, Mrs. W. Humphrey Almy, Mrs. William H. Collins and Mrs. Edward J. Graham.

At the afternoon session Rev. Mr. Crowell read a paper of The Doctrine of Retribution in the Preaching of Yesterday and Today. A discussion of the subject followed the reading of the paper.

The program for the day was in charge of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, Rev. Allen S. Bush and Rev. Roderick MacLeod.

FOREST FIRE PREVENTION AT WILLIMANTIC MEETING

Methods of preventing forest fires and of limiting the area of fires that occur will be discussed at a meeting of forest fire wardens of Tolland and Windham counties at the Chamber of Commerce rooms in Willimantic, Saturday, March 15. The call for the meeting was issued by State Forester Austin F. Hawes of Hartford.

The meeting is an annual affair and is held at this time to permit organization to combat the usual spring epidemic of fires. Mr. Hawes states that the meeting is open to the public and all persons interested in preservation of woodland in Eastern Connecticut are expected to attend.

The program for the session is as follows:

Morning session, 10:30 o'clock A. M. Connecticut fires in 1923, Austin F. Hawes, State Forester; Cooperative Forest Protective Ass'n., P. L. Butterick, Sec'y Conn. Forestry Ass'n. How the weather bureau can help prevent fires, Leonard M. Tarr, U. S. Weather Bureau, New Haven.

Afternoon session, 1:30 o'clock Outlawing large fires, A. E. Moss, Connecticut Agricultural College, Storrs; Original fires vs. back fires, James Stocking, Ass't. State Forest Fire Warden; Railroad fires, Wm. J. Barber, N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. Wm. J. Backes, N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R.; R. J. Guthrie, C. V. H. R.

VANTIC CHURCH WOMEN DO LENTEN SEWING

The regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, was held Tuesday evening in the Parish House. Mrs. George Fraser, vice president, presided in the absence of the president Dr. Lillian M. Lanes. Following the business session the evening was devoted to sewing on work for a southern mission hospital. Cocoa, fancy cookies and doughnuts were served by Mrs. Fraser. By special invitation the meeting next Tuesday evening is to be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Kimball on Washington street.

TRAPS FOR BACTERIA ON SANATORIUM BEACH

A new winter sport has been established in the last few months on the shining white beach on the western shores of Niantic Bay. Doctor John F. O'Brien, the superintendent of the state's famous seaside institution for children who are crippled by bone tuberculosis, accompanied by his assistants, has been laying traps on the sands and among the queer sea plants driven ashore fresh from the depths of the Atlantic by the winter storms.

These traps have been set not to catch fish or birds, but to catch bacteria, the wonderful microscopic organisms that do so much to help and to harm all animal and vegetable life. His first motive was his desire to learn whether or not the bacterial flora of White Beach had any part in effecting the wonderful cures of the state's little patients that have occurred at the Seaside ever since the establishment of the institution. He found that he had opened up a much larger problem than he expected.

At a meeting of the medical officers of the five state tuberculosis sanatoria this week at Niantic, he made a preliminary report of his researches of the past winter. The physicians present were greatly interested to hear him say that the winds from the ocean and the seaweeds contained only one class of germs, that known to bacteriologists as the spore-bearers and that the winds from the land brought to his bacterial traps some spore-bearers, but mixed with many other various kinds of organisms that often simulate disease-producing germs. He showed pictures and cultures of many of his captured bacteria.

Doctor O'Brien discussed the question whether the spore-bearing types of germs are the mother-forms of all other kinds of germs, and the larger question of whether the ocean now, as in prehistoric times, supplies new forms of life to the land.

A large chart showing the noon temperature for a year of the water, the beach and the north side of the Seaside building was displayed and discussed. The constant difference between the temperature of the beach and that of the north of the institution surprised the physicians, but was considered a strong endorsement of the wisdom of selecting the Niantic White Beach as the site for the Seaside.

SCHOOL IN HARTFORD FOR DEMOCRATIC WOMEN

Lieutenant Governor George R. Lunn of New York is to be one of the speakers at the banquet, which the School of Democracy will hold on Thursday night, March 20, in Hartford. Already plans have been almost perfected for this school which opens Tuesday noon, March 18, at the Hotel Bond and concludes Friday noon. At a reception at 12 o'clock, Mrs. Wilson will be introduced by Mrs. Pamelia Dixon Welch, Mrs. Thomas J. Spellacy and the reception committee will receive the guests. A luncheon will open the sessions at 1 o'clock at the Hotel Bond, Mayor Richard J. Kinsella of Hartford will welcome the assembly. The school proper will open at 3 o'clock with Mrs. Halsey, the director in charge. The address that afternoon will be given by Professor Henry W. Laurence, of Connecticut College, who will speak on "Partisanship, Old and New," with the difference between the two major parties.

Mrs. Henry W. Farman, Jr., of New Haven will be the speaker in the evening and will take as her subject "Love Thy Neighbor As Thyself."

The hostess for the second day will be Mrs. Edith Tilton Lowry of Hartford. Hon. Augustine Lonergan will be the speaker at the morning session. Miss Mary Bulkley of Hartford will be in charge of the afternoon session. Rev. Willis W. Butler of Hartford, will be the speaker. His subject will be "The Ideals of Woodrow Wilson."

Miss Emily Whitney, of New Haven, will be in charge of the evening meeting, at which Don Seitz, of the "New York World," will be the speaker.

Mrs. Ward Duffy of West Hartford will be leader on Thursday morning, March 20. Thomas J. Spellacy will be the speaker.

Mrs. James Curry of Hartford will conduct the afternoon session. Hon. Harry Morgan Ayer will be the speaker as will Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker. The banquet will have Miss Caroline Stuutz Rees, of Greenwich, as toastmistress.

Mrs. Wilson conducts classes at every session of the school and on Friday morning will conduct her model school.

Those wishing to register may do so by consulting their local club president or representative or directly to Miss Martha Moore, 71 College street, New Haven.

Mrs. Pamie Dixon Welch, of Columbia, is in charge of the program. Mrs. A. H. Wightman, of Hartford of the luncheon and dinner, Mrs. F. W. Barrett, arrangements, Mrs. James A. Curry, of Hartford, hospitality.

Returns From Hartford.

George W. Harris of East Great Plain, who has been at the Hartford hospital, has returned home. While his condition, which resulted from a fall from a ladder, is improved, he is not able to be about as yet.

REPORT FINANCIAL SUCCESS IN SUPPER AND DANCE

Reports of most satisfactory financial returns from the bean supper and from the dance conducted by Mercier assembly, No. 13, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, were made at the assembly meeting Tuesday evening in the rooms in the T. A. B. building. Incomplete reports from the mammoth minstrels recently given at Broadway theatre indicate that this also will be a huge financial success. Miss Mary H. Maloney, the president, was in the chair at the business meeting.

There was a good attendance at the meeting and enthusiastic praise was given for the attractive way in which the rooms have been entirely redecorated in rose, gray and yellow. The work has been done under the direction of the house committee, Mrs. Margaret Desmond, chairman.

Like A Highlander He Comes

March is like a Highlander.
Ribbons dying in the breeze,
And his kilties all a-flutter,
Showing raw red knees;
Yet so daily stepping.
Down the street he comes,
To the pipes a-skirling
And the beat of drums.
Every little lad and lass
Rushes out to see him pass.

Of a jolly Highlander
March reminds'th me;
Ruddy, ruddy, rollicking.
Every bush and tree
Lifts its head to see him come.
Claps its hands to see him pass
Out the woods, across the fields;
Every little blade of grass
Springs at thrilling of his fife
To the merry dance of life!
O what thrills of waking come
At his call of pipe and drum!
—Louella C. Poole in Boston Transcript.

Night and Day

There is no beauty like the beauty of night,
When the stars hang within that sea of blue,
Miraculously lovely. God looks through,
His eye the moon forever silver bright.
Watching the earth bathed in cascades of light.
How shall I name the ecstasy I knew
On certain summer evenings when I flew
Somewhere to regions far and infinite?

Up one great starry path I seemed to go,
Divinely drunk with joy; and on and on
Impassed beyond the glory of earth's white
Reaffection of the heavenly portico.
There is no beauty like the beauty of night,
Save when the heart looks up—and sees the dawn!
—Charles Hanson Towne in The Designer.

NO REDUCTION OF INCOME TAXES BEFORE MARCH 15

Representative Longworth, Republican House Leader, Has Informed President Coolidge That the Parliamentary Situation Would Not Permit Such Action Before Saturday —Senate Democrats Take Refuge in the Statement That the President's "Message Comes Too Late."

Washington, March 12.—Republican leaders definitely turned down today the request of President Coolidge for a resolution making effective immediately the proposed 25 per cent. reduction in income taxes payable this year.

Representative Longworth, republican leader, late today told Mr. Coolidge the parliamentary situation would not permit action on such a resolution before Saturday, when first installments on taxes must be paid.

At the same time, the revenue bill passed by the house and containing provision for the cut in 1923 taxes was assailed by Secretary Mellon before the senate finance committee. The treasury secretary insisted it would bring about a treasury deficit of at least $55,000,000 in the fiscal year 1925.

Preceding the death of the resolution proposal, an attack on the president's request was made in the senate, after a suggestion from Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, that action on the resolution be instituted there. Chairman Smoot replied that although the constitution specifies only that revenue raising measures must originate in the house, a resolution asked a reduction in revenue would undoubtedly be considered by the house as unconstitutional if action on it were first taken in the senate.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, democratic leader, led the attack on the proposal, declaring the president's message "comes too late" and charging that the executive merely wanted a free hand to veto the revenue bill itself.

Mr. Longworth declared the proposal dead tonight after a conference with republican leaders, including advocates of the proposal who had started an eleventh hour move to put it in motion.

In a statement tonight, Representative Hull, Tennessee, chairman of the democratic national committee and a members of the ways and means committee, declared the appeal of the president came too late.

"If it is not unfair to say," Mr. Hull asserted, "that the utterly belated tax message of President Coolidge on yesterday is in harmony with his past record of delay when confronted either by an important problem or by an emergency situation."

The statement of Secretary Mellon supported a previous declaration of Chairman Smoot of the finance committee that the house bill would have to be revised to provide for more revenue. Some democratic members of the committee also later indicated their belief that the measure would have to contain some higher rates to prevent a deficit.

Mr. Mellon told the committee the revenue measure would cut down government receipts by $460,000,000 in the fiscal year 1925 against an estimated surplus of $185,000,000 under the present law. This surplus, he said, was based on hopes of the strictest government economy. He warned that the estimate deficit would increase annually.

The treasury secretary also assailed most of the house amendments to the bill, and particularly the Longworth compromise surtax schedule. Specifically he denounced the increase made in estate taxes, the new gift tax, the limitations placed on the earned income provision, and the opening of the income taxe returns to inspection by certain congressional committees.

Mr. Mellon will further amplify his statements before the committee tomorrow.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR LATE ALFRED H. SMITH

New York, March 12—Five minutes of activity of the New York Central railway systems was stilled for two minutes just before three o'clock this afternoon when funeral services for the late Alfred H. Smith, president of the road, were conducted in St. Thomas' Episcopal church in Fifth Avenue in the presence of hundreds of his friends and business associates.

In crepe-draped Grand Central terminal, thousands stood in respectful silence as the bell tolled for two minutes. In the grand ballroom of a nearby hotel, 1,500 employes and minor officials of the railroad listened to the church services broadcast to them by radio.

Throughout the railway system, the lights were dimmed, telegraph and telephone instruments hushed and trains stopped in respect for the memory of the former president who died as the result of a fall from his horse while riding in Central Park Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Smith's body was brought to New York from the family home in Chappaqua at two o'clock in a special train, festooned with black and flying black flags. In the train, also came Mr. Smith's widow who had dashed across the continent from Los Angeles in a special train in the record time of 69 hours, and a number of other relatives and friends.

Traffic in Fifth avenue was halted as the funeral procession proceeded by a group of policemen on motorcycles arrived at the church.

The eight active pallbearers were men intimately associated with Mr. Smith in his railroad work in the road's general offices here. Honorary pallbearers were entirely from the officialdom of the system.

After the services, the funeral procession went to Woodlawn cemetery where the interment took place.

CALLED BY RADIO TO DEATH BED OF MOTHER

Winsted, Conn., March 12—Called home from California by a radio message informing him that his mother was seriously ill, Frederick Parsons, of Maybrook, N. Y., conductor on the Central New England railroad, arrived at the bedside of his mother, Mrs. William L. Parsons, of East Canaan just before her death. Mr. and Mrs. Parsons were touring the west and as their exact whereabouts were unknown, news of his mother's illness was broadcast in the western states. Parsons heard the message in California and with his wife started at once for the east.

BURTON CHAIRMAN OF HOUSE BRIBERY COMMITTEE

Washington, March 12—Representative Burton, republican, Ohio, will be chairman of the house committee authorized to investigate the criminal charges said to have been made against two representatives before a Chicago grand jury.

Other members of the committee announced late today by Speaker Gillett are Representatives Purnell, Indiana and Michener, Michigan, republicans, and Wingo, Arkansas, and Moore, Virginia, democrats.

TOBIN AND DALTON LETTER READ TO THE DAIL EIREAN

Dublin, March 12—(By the A. P.)—President Cosgrave today read in the Dail Eireann a letter signed by Gearoid Tobin and Colonel Dalton explaining that they sent their original letter to the government demanding on behalf of the army a discussion of the Anglo-Irish treaty, to call attention to the seriousness of the situation.

"We will consider our duty inclusive if in consequence of our action the army situation is righted," the letter said.

VAN ELECTED SUNDAY DIED WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Springfield, Mass., March 12—Thomas Van, 56, pensioned New York policeman, who was elected collector, treasurer and tax collector in a special meeting Sunday, died tonight in the Wesson Memorial hospital. He was stricken with pneumonia last Tuesday and

24 MEN PROBABLY LOST WITH FREIGHTER SANTIAGO

New York, March 12—The captain of the freighter Santiago and 24 of his men are believed tonight to have been lost with their vessel in the snow-freighted hurricane which last night swept the Atlantic coast, taking eight lives in New York city alone.

After raging at 80 miles an hour along the eastern seaboard from Cape Hatteras, where the Santiago went down to Eastport, Me., the gale appeared tonight to have spent its fury. Its path on land and sea was marked by scores of disabled craft, enormous property damage and a long list of dead and injured.

Transportation, sewer distributing systems and lines of communication were most seriously crippled. The storm inflicted upon Brooklyn a complete tieup of her rapid transit lines, stranding hundreds of thousands of commuters upon the island this morning.

Ten men were reported rescued and 24 were missing from the Ward liner Santiago, news of whose sinking 60 miles south of Cape Hatteras was carried in the message intercepted today by the Charlestown, S. C.) navy yard station.

How the Santiago sank was not told. Her first message signed by the captain of the Norwegian Steamship Clasy, simply said:

"Picked up lifeboat containing six sailors, three firemen, one carpenter, from the steamer Santiago, which sank 60 miles south of Hatteras. No other lifeboats seen. Proceeding Baltimore."

Local officers of the Ward line, which operated the ill-fated ship through a defunct subsidiary, the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship company, listed the other 26 members of the crew as "probably missing," including the captain, J. S. Baldwin, from whom they had not heard since the disaster.

The Santiago left Cienfuegos, Cuba, March 4 bound for New York with 32,000 bags of cargo for the American Sugar Refining company. She was to have reached this port tomorrow. She was a 5,000 tonner built in 1905 and valued with her cargo at approximately $1,500,000.

CLASH OF L. OF N. COUNCIL IN DISCUSSION OF MEMEL

Geneva, March 12—(By the A. P.)—Norman H. Davis, of New York and M. Skirmunt, representing Poland, clashed today at the meeting of the league of nations council during discussion of the Memel convention which the American presented for approval of the great powers.

M. Skirmunt claimed the convention failed to extend proper economic guarantees for Poland and accused Mr. Davis of neglecting to point out that a state of war between Lithuania and Poland over the Vilna question existed only on the Lithuanian side but that Poland considered herself in a state of perfect peace with Lithuania. Mr. Davis rejoined that he never wished to imply that Poland was in a state of war.

The convention under discussion transfers the former German territory of Memel to Lithuania with full sovereignty, but on condition that the Niemen river be kept open for the commerce of the hinterland, which includes Poland, Germany and Russia. Its preamble explains it is an agreement between Lithuania and the British empire, France, Italy and Japan, signatories of the United States as the principal allied and associated powers to the treaty of Versailles.

After hearing Mr. Davis and Mr. Skirmunt, Gabriel Hanotaux, representing France, announced the names of the representatives of the four great powers who could sign the document, but the hearing was adjourned pending the arrival of former Galvanauskas of Lithuania, who will defend the interests of his country.

The British Dairy Farmers' association has awarded the gold medal to the government of Ontario for its collection of dairy products, including butter, poultry and eggs.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Approve Washington Treaty.

The Hague, March 12.—The lower house of parliament today approved the treaty concluded at Washington, February 15, extending the arbitration pact between The Netherlands and the United States.

A Rebuke For Austria.

Geneva, March 12 (By the A. P.)—Austria was rebuked today by the council of the league of nations. Having balanced their budget the Austrians want to free themselves from league control, but the council, after hearing Dr. Zimmermann's report, adopted a resolution that "the Austrian government entered into a solemn undertaking and that league control can be withdrawn only when the permanent equilibrium of the budget is established and the financial stability of Austria assured."

McLEAN TELLS HOW HE WAS DRAWN INTO OIL SCANDAL

Washington, March 12—Edward B. McLean, published of the Washington Post told the oil committee today that he had been drawn unwittingly into the oil scandal through a well intentioned effort to aid his trusted friend, Albert B. Fall.

He insisted that the true story of his $100,000 loan to the former secretary was that which he told Senator Walsh, of Montana at Palm Beach in January; that he had given Fall checks for that amount in November and that they had been returned to him uncashed.

His previous statement that the loan had been in cash he said, was made because Fall had requested at a conference in Atlantic City last December that he make that explanation if it became necessary. He testified that Fall, ill and a broken man, had assured him that his worries and embarrassments had "nothing to do with Sinclair or the Teapot Dome."

It was not until after he had testified in Palm Beach, McLean declared that Fall told him he had obtained $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny, on November 30, 1921.

Declaring he had had no other connection with the whole subject under investigation, but did not know either Sinclair or Doheny and never owned stock in any of their oil companies the publisher summed up his situation thus:

"I was trying to go down the line as far as I could for a friend. I have never done a dishonest thing in my life financially I never had anything to do with this darned Teapot Dome thing that it really the truth. You can decode telegrams, you can look through them for the next year, and you can never find anything dishonest I have done."

SENATE CONSIDERING FARM RELIEF MEASURE

Washington, March 12—The senate added five hours today to the time already devoted to consideration of its first farm relief measure—the Norbeck Burtness bill—without a vote and recessed with it side by side in the indefinite future.

Beyond plans to report the attitude of prohibition senate senators present today as only accomplishment of the day was the adoption of an amendment by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, giving the secretary of agriculture discretionary power in the selection of an agency for the sale which the $50,000,000 to be appropriated would be distributed. Senator Walsh first proposed that use of existing agencies, such as the farm loan board be made compulsory but the amendment was lost on a vote.

"We are on the eve of a national campaign" Senator Walsh said, "in support of this proposal and I undertake to say that if the distribution of this fund is left in the unrestrained control of the secretary of agriculture, we are likely to have a national scandal of the same sort now holding our attention."

An attempt by Senator Trammell, democrat, Florida, to eliminate language of the bill which would restrict the aid to the spring wheat states and, he said "make it a real farm relief measure" was defeated without a roll call.

By unanimous consent the senate agreed further to limit debate, beginning tomorrow at one o'clock. Each senator then will be restricted to five minutes on the bill and five minutes on any amendment.

The amendment of Senator Bursum, republican, New Mexico to add $29,000,000 for loans to banks in the wheat sections "to restore credit and confidence" was under discussion when the session closed.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The senate ordered an inquiry into the administration of the bureau of internal revenue.

Former Senator W. S. Kenyon, of Iowa, it was disclosed, is under consideration for secretary of the navy.

House leaders refused to bring up the resolution providing for a 25 per cent. cut in taxes this year.

The house Daugherty investigating committee opened its hearing with Roxie Stinson of Columbus, Ohio, as the first witness.

The house ways and means subcommittee made public its plans for insurance policies as a feature of the bonus bill.

The suspension of section 28 of the merchant marine act was lifted by the interstate commerce commission, effective May 30.

Secretary Mellon told the senate finance committee that the revenue bill passed by the house must be revised to prevent a treasury deficit.

The army appropriation bill was reported to the house carrying $320,234,939 and calling for the maintenance of the army for another year at its present strength.

Congressional investigation of bribery rumors affecting members of congress was ordered by the house, with Representative Burton, republican, Ohio, as head of the investigating committee.

Edward B. McLean told the oil committee his assertion that he had loaned Albert B. Fall $100,000 in cash was made at Fall's request, added that he had no interest in the Sinclair and Doheny oil companies and denied any knowledge of the Fall oil policies except what he had read in the newspapers.

MEMBERS OF BOARD OF MONTICELLO MANAGERS

Hartford, March 12.— Governor Templeton has appointed three Connecticut men to the board of Monticello managers. This board is to draw up plans for the purchase of the Thomas Jefferson estate as a memorial. Those appointed are: Paul U. Tyler of Haddam, William Thomas of Wallingford, and Governor Lonergan, of Hartford.

American Bankers To Aid French Gov't

Are to Establish a Credit of Not Less Than $100,000,000 to Stabilize Exchange.

New York, March 12—Establishment of a banking credit of not less than $100,000,000 in favor of the bank of France has been arranged by an American banking group headed by J. P. Morgan and Company, it was announced tonight.

The loan is fully secured by gold held in the vaults of the Bank of France, which is acting for the French government, and will be used to stabilize French exchange and for such other purposes as the French government may determine.

While details of the loan were not made public, it is understood that it will not run for more than one year. In the event that the credit is not at maturity liquidated in other ways, gold in amount equal to the loan will be shipped to the Morgan firm in New York.

The group is limited to bankers of New York and neighboring cities, applications to share in the loan largely exceeding the amount required by the French government.

In connection with this credit, the governor of the bank of France has issued a statement which sets forth the following points:

1—Complete measures are being taken to better the financial situation.

2—The French government is insisting that the senate shall ratify the new tax measure, which means balancing the budget, and shall approve the policy of stopping new expenditures.

3—Until the financial situation has been greatly bettered, the government will undertake no new borrowings whatsoever except for funding existing floating indebtedness.

4—After such improvement in the financial situation has been shown the government will make no new loan, even for reconstruction in the liberated regions without being assured that the budget will cover the service of such new loan.

5—The bank of France will continue to envisage and assist the situation.

POINCARE TO RENEW HIS FINANCIAL FIGHT TODAY

Paris, March 12—(By the A. P.)—The senate finance committee definitely took issue with Premier Poincare on his financial measures today in a report which it will present to the senate tomorrow, when the premier will renew his fight to force his ideas for financial rehabilitation through parliament.

Strong objection is shown by the committee to the premier's demand for power to effect economies by decree and it substitutes a plan for putting what it thinks into the senate by regular procedure. It calls the premier's method unconstitutional.

Economies amounting to 4 billion francs are proposed in the committee's report, which provides also for four billion francs through added revenue. The receipts through this plan would surpass those which would be derived through the plan of M. Poincare, as adopted by the chamber, by about 830,000,000 francs.

The committee also rejects the idea of abolishing the match monopoly.

SENATE PROBE OF DAUGHERTY OPENS WITH SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY

Washington, March 12.—With an amazing tale, replete with insinuations, inferences and charges, the senate committee investigation of Attorney-General Daugherty got under way today with a cyclonic start.

Roxie Stinson, of Columbus, Ohio, divorced wife of Jesse W. Smith of Washington court house, "bumper and friend" and confidant of the attorney general, who committed suicide in the latter's apartments here a year ago, was the first and only witness.

From behind the crumpled folds of a tear-soaked handkerchief, she sobbed and murmured a sensational story that ranged from stock transactions to motion pictures of the Carpentier-Dempsey prize fight, all of which she insisted were connected with profits for her late husband and the attorney general.

In all the accounts of his doings in Washington which Smith confided to her, the divorced wife contended against all cross-examination that when Smith said "We" he meant himself and Daugherty and that when she said "They" she meant the same two men.

Specifically, Miss Stinson testified that Smith had given her 25 shares of White Motors stock, which was a part of what "They" had obtained without any cost; that Smith told her "We" looked forward to profits approximately $150,000 if it could be arranged to exhibit the motion pictures of the Carpentier-Dempsey fight; that Smith had come into possession of a large amount of the stock of the Pure Oil company of Ohio; and that Smith, proprietor of a small town store in Ohio, worth approximately $175,000 when he came to Washington in 1921, soon increased his fortune to approximately $733,000.

All this Miss Stinson said, was done by "We" and "They" and she pointed out that the second man of the combine always was Attorney General Daugherty, because she declared that in all their confidences Smith never meant anyone else. And that furthermore when he did he mentioned the person specifically by name.

Having gone two nights without sleep, Miss Stinson said she had exhibited a protest from Senator Wheeler, democrat, of Montana, the committee's prosecutor, to keep her on the stand only an hour today. She will return and finish her story, if possible, tomorrow. She was just getting down to questioning about a Washington green house on K. street when the committee let her go.

But in a short time she occupied the witness chair the events of the session resembled a carload of ammunition being set off. Senator Wheeler launched into a machine gun fusillade of questioning in which the questions and the answers flew so fast and covered so wide a ground, that a room full of veteran newspaper correspondents hardened to the rattle and fire of congressional investigation, simply couldn't keep up with the proceedings.

When Senator Wheeler led up to the White Motor stock transaction Miss Stinson said the shares were made out in Smith and that Smith told her, when ordering its sale "quickly and quietly," that it didn't "cost them anything." Asked again who was referred to, the witness said:

"The topic of conversation, Mr. Daugherty."

In giving her 22 shares of Pure Oil stock later, Miss Stinson said Smith told her that "they'd make another deal." Again the query of identity arose and she replied:

"I assume Harry Daugherty."

Pressed further by Senator Jones, republican, Washington, Miss Stinson said she couldn't say whether Mr. Daugherty's name was or was not mentioned specifically, but added:

"It was they in my mind who he (Smith) meant."

All of the transactions mentioned Miss Stinson said, were some time after Smith had come to Washington with Mr. Daugherty after President Harding's death. Although divorced from Smith only a year and a half after their marriage in 1909 Miss Stinson said their relations subsequent to their divorce were most friendly, particularly concerning his every or telegraphed her success and visited her frequently at her home at Washington Court House, Ohio, where Smith's body now lies.

"Jesse Smith gave his life for Harry Daugherty," she said. "He absolutely adored him. I would not have come here voluntarily, yet I have always told Mr. Daugherty (the attorney-general's brother) I would come if ever sent for. I told him months ago before this thing was started because I knew it would have to come when I knew what Jesse was going through for months.

"What do you mean 'what he was going through?'" interjected Senator Wheeler.

"Because of pressure being brought on him by different people to try and destroy Harry Daugherty, which he would not do," was the answer. "She wanted to shield him in every possible way. He used for him; he loved him. He had not been here in Washington for three or four months until July."

"But not made for this. This income is getting me crazy. If I could just come home but I am in now and I cannot stand by Harry. That is what the always said."

British Liner Was Seized at New York

For Violation of Customs, National Prohibition and Narcotic Laws.

New York, March 12.—Upholding the seizure today of the British liner Orduna by the government after a raid in which liquor and narcotics worth $10,000 were seized, United States District Attorney William Hayward tonight charged that virtually every foreign ship entering New York harbor allows traffic in liquor and narcotics.

"On every ship they sneer and jeer at the United States and openly defy our government with arrogance," said Colonel Hayward, who personally led the raid which resulted in the issuance of an order in Washington by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon for the seizure of the Orduna. Eight members of the Orduna's crew were arrested in the raid.

"Either there is the lowest stage of discipline on the ships, which is a constant menace to passengers," said Colonel Hayward, "or the head officers themselves, or possibly the lines themselves, are in collusion and sharing in profits.

"The government of the United States through the treasury department did everything in its power to prevent annoyance or serious interference with the routine of the ships, permitting liquor to be carried as medical stores under the certificate of a public health officer. These ship people, instead of accepting this concession, have frequently violated it and abused the privilege on every occasion.

"Outgoing liners make no pretense of complying with the regulations of the health board. Instead, on every ship, they sneer and jear at the United States and openly defy our government with arrogance. It has been the worst instance of breach of good faith I have ever known in my official life.

"In the case of the Orduna, it is perfectly clear that they were bootlegging liquors in great quantities, which were never included in medical permits, and they have been constant smugglers of narcotics. I expect to report all these facts to Washington, with the recommendation that all privileges and amunities heretofore granted for the purpose of maintaining good will, be revoked and that we be allowed to stand squarely on the laws of the United States and make them apply to foreigners the same as they apply to our own people."

Colonel Hayward said libel proceedings against the Orduna would be started as soon as possible. He said a bond of not less than $2,000,000 would be demanded. This is said to be the value of the vessel. The eight prisoners were held in $10,000 each when arraigned before the United States commissioner.

A. C. Hunter, local manager of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, owners of the Orduna, said today that the company had been cooperating with the government. "It is impossible," he referred to the incident as "very unfortunate."

"We try hard to be responsible for our crews," said Mr. Hunter.

Treasury department guards took charge of the steamer.

ONE FATALITY WHEN TRUCKS CRUSHED BRIDGE IN ONECO

Clarence Gates of Moosup Was Crushed Between a Cab and Girder When Bridge Over the Moosup River Collapsed Beneath the Weight of Two Trucks of the State Highway Department—Eight Other Men Who Were Riding in the Trucks Escaped Injury—One Truck Was Partly and the Other Completely Submerged.

(Special to The Bulletin)

Danielson, March 12.— Clarence Gates, 30, lost his life when two trucks of the state highway department, hitched tandem, broke through a bridge over the Moosup river in Oneco this afternoon and slid off the collapsed structure into the river, where they were submerged. Nine men who were riding on the trucks were thrown into the water, but all escaped without serious injury, excepting Gates, who was pinned in the cab of the second truck and jammed between the side of the truck and a girder of the crushed bridge. Hours afterwards while every effort was being made to recover the body, one of his hands was protruding from the water, a dread marker of his watery grave.

The trucks that figured in the accident were working out of Moosup, headquarters for the state highway crew of which Hugh Fleck of that place is foreman. Mr. Fleck and his son Floyd, who was driving, were riding in the cab of the front truck. Gates, with his cousin, Adrian Zercie, the driver, were in the cab of the rear truck.

The big machines, loaded down with sand to make their efforts more effective, were engaged in plowing out the roads, choked with snow in the big storm. Riding with them were nine men, as near as could be ascertained hours after the accident.

The first machine is said to have been fully upon the bridge and the second truck, to which the head one was chained had its front wheels on the structure when there came the creaking and swaying that indicated the bridge was going down. With a crash one side of the bridge let go forming a sort of chute, down which the trucks plunged and crashed through into the water. The front truck and jammed between the side of the truck and a girder of the crushed bridge. Hours afterwards while every effort was being made to recover the body, one of his hands was protruding from the water, a dread marker of his watery grave.

FLIPPED COIN FOR THE PRIVILEGE OF FIRST SHOT

Chicago, March 12.—A bizarre wager, by which the toss of a coin was to determine which of two persons would have first shot at the other, was described to a coroner's jury today by Mrs. Bell Gaertner, divorcee, and resulted in a recommendation that she be held for murder in connection with the death of Walter R. Law, automobile salesman.

Law was found today slumped over the wheel of Mrs. Gaertner's automobile with a bullet through his head. Two blocks away, the police found Mrs. Gaertner pacing the floor of her apartment and sobbing hysterically. The jury decided that Law, married and father of a baby was killed by a bullet fired by Mrs. Gaertner.

According as her story, Law and she had become embarrassed on the way home argued about their marksmanship. Mrs. Gaertner said she had a pistol and they agreed to toss a coin, the winner to have one shot at the other. If this missed, the loser then was to take one shot, the process to be continued until a hit scored.

Mrs. Gaertner admitted she was intoxicated and she did not remember what happene dafter this. She declared she saw blood on Law's face, then fled to her home in terror. She said that someone else may have shot him. Mrs. GaGertner was badly scratched and bruised and her gloves were bloodstained, but she was unable to explain how she was injured. Her pistol, with one chamber exploded, was found on the floor of her automobile with an empty gin bottle.

Mrs. Gaertner was formerly a cabaret singer and had been twice divorced from William Gaertner, a wealthy manufacturer. Gaertner told the police today that he was arranging to marry the woman for the third time.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS THE TRIPLE MURDER IN LINDEN

Batavia, N. Y., March 12.—An inquest held here today failed to dissipate the mystery surrounding the slaying in Linden last night of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whalley and Mrs. Mabel Morse. Developments tended to indicate a connection with other similar crimes in the village of Linden. Authorities said, but no leads had been uncovered to show the identity of the slayer.

The inquest showed Mrs. Whalley was shot through the neck, the bullet striking the spinal cord. Mr. Whalley died from a undetermined number of gunshot wounds, and Mrs. Morse was beaten to death. All three bodies were badly charred.

A can containing kerosene was found at the Whalley home, but was not the property of the Whalley's, was said by authorities to furnish a connecting link between last night's murders and an attempt in September 1923 to burn the home of Justice of the peace Maurice Nolan in Linden. A similar can was found at the Nolan home at that time. The authorities also believed that last night's crime and the murder of Miss Frances L. Kimball in 1923 were the work of the same person, presumably a maniac. Miss Kimball was beaten to death.

SEARCHING FOR BODIES OF ENTOMBED MINERS

Castle Gate, Utah, March 12—Small fires which hampered rescue crews in Mine No. 2, Utah Fuel company today have been extinguished and the grim task of searching for bodies of the entombed miners has been resumed.

The bodies of the 136 victims was recovered this afternoon leaving 45 to be accounted for.

Lower recesses of the mine are filled with water, with pumps disgnaged, but steps are being made to have them repaired.

Thirty four bodies were taken to Helper and Price, Utah, for interment. Several also were shipped to other Utah points and to Nevada towns.

Funeral services for many of the miners who resided here were to be held today. Full military services will be accorded the twenty two men of the world war who lost their lives in the disaster. Because of the large number of funerals only short services will be held at the graves for the victims, but a solemn public service will be given in place for later

A large number of American and French tourists are held up in Egypt and Palestine by the suspension of railway traffic owing to floods.

KENYON OFFERED THE NAVAL SECRETARYSHIP

Washington, March 12.—William S. Kenyon, former senator from Iowa, and now a federal circuit judge, has been offered the naval secretaryship by President Coolidge. He will give his answer to the president probably tomorrow.

Considered first by the president for the post of attorney general in event of the retirement of Harry M. Daugherty, Judge Kenyon was asked to come to Washington and, arriving last night, went direct to the White House. During a two-hour conference with Mr. Coolidge, he was tendered the navy appointment and is understood to have asked that he be given until tomorrow to think it over and commune with some of his closest friends.

Whether the former Iowa senator and farm bloc leader will accept the appointment appeared tonight to be a question which he alone could answer and he declined to do it. He refused to discuss the matter in any way, except to say that he had conferred last night with the president for two hours. When asked directly whether he had been offered a place in President Coolidge's official family he made this reply:

"Well, you know it is one of the ethics of the bench that the judge cannot talk—can discuss nothing."

President Coolidge is known to be very desirous that Judge Kenyon take the place, which was vacated by Edwin Denby last Monday, and believes that the experience of the Iowa man as assistant to the attorney general in the Taft administration as United States senator for eleven years and as federal circuit judge since January, 1922, would make him an admirable head for the navy department.

SPECTACULAR RALLY IN PRICE OF FRENCH FRANCS

New York, March 12—Announcement by J. P. Morgan & Co., of the establishment of American banking credit of not less than $100,000,000 for the Bank of France was preceded by a spectacular rally in the price of French francs, which during the day soared more than 35 points to 4.32 cents. The rate at the close eased off to a range of 4.15 to 4.25 cents.

The new quotations of the francs were above the level at which the latest drive against French currency was begun and represented a recovery of about 1-4 of a cent from the record low mark established last Saturday.

The effectiveness of the measures instituted by France to check the depreciation of its currency were demonstrated from the opening of today's market, when buyers for French accounts began to take offerings in unlimited amounts. An overnight gain of 15 points was extended gradually to 25, and the rise was aided late in the afternoon by a rush of short covering.

Speculative operations in the exchange, it was reported, were transferred from the selling on the buying side on reports of an impending announcements of the bank loan to France.

Recovery of the French franc stimulated activity in sterling, which was quoted at $4.36 1-8 and $4.36 3-8 and in Belgian francs, which jumped almost 20 points to around 5.47 units.

FOR VIOLATING TRADING WITH THE ENEMY ACT

New York, March 12.—Dr. Edward A. Rumely, former M. Gaudelus and S. Walter Kaufmann, who were assigned to serve one year and a day for violation of the trading with the enemy act in connection with the purchase of the New York Evening Mail were ordered today to surrender to the United States marshal on Friday, according to a statement made by Assistant United States Attorney E. Joyce.

The three men were convicted in the United States district court before Judge Denby last Monday, and believes that the experience of the Iowa man as assistant to the attorney general in the Taft administration as United States senator for eleven years and as federal circuit judge since January, 1922, would make him an admirable head for the navy department.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
31 Church St. Telephone 1052

Something more than the mere adoption of a resolution was started at the common council meeting Monday night, when Alderman William H. Jackson introduced a resolution instructing the street committee to confer with the town authorities in regard to making the town pay a larger share of the expenses of caring for the city streets. The street committee includes Aldermen George W. Hickey, William A. Buck and Charles H. Beebe.

First Selectman Russell A. Andrews is up in the air. He wants to know "How Jackson gets that way." The selectman points out that the town is paying and has been paying annually the sum of $3,600 to the city as its portion of the street expenses. He further states that Alderman Jackson must be forgetting or does not know that for the past few years the state has been giving a substantial lift to the city, by paying for the upkeep of one-tenth of the total mileage of streets within the city limits, while the town continues to hand over its $3,600 allotment.

The stretches of city highway being taken care of by the state are West Main street from the city line to the junction of Columbia Avenue and Main street, Columbia Avenue, lower Main street to Horseshoe Bridge, lower Ash street and Natchaug street to the city line.

According to the selectman, there are about fifty miles of city streets and between forty and forty-five miles of roads in the town.

Whether or not anyone thinks that the town is getting out of it cheap, Selectman Andrews calls attention to the fact that the city has never been "soaked" for its rent of rooms in the town building. It is occupying the common council chamber, adjoining rooms and lobby; police station, police court rooms and library quarters all for the small sum of $500 a year. In addition to this, the city pocked a certain clause in the agreement, whereby it is obliged to keep these rooms in good repair and presentable in appearance, until about a year ago when needy alterations were made. The police court chamber is still sadly in need of "dolling up."

It has practically become a question of "raise me and I'll raise you." Selectman Andrews would like to know how the city would feel if the rents on these rooms were boosted.

Mr. Andrews believed that the common council showed ingratitude pure and simple in adopting such a resolution as that introduced by Alderman Jackson. He recalls to mind the fact that since the city was incorporated the town has built and repaired the Horseshoe and Natchaug street bridges, both of which are in the city limits, this in addition to the bridges over the Willimantic River at Bridge street and at the foot of Jillson Hill.

The building and upkeep of these structures cost something, as does also the care of the city's poor at the town farm on West Main street.

The board of selectmen can see no necessity of such a meeting as is called for in the resolution but say they will welcome such a conference, in that it will give the city committee a chance to learn a few facts about apportionments, share of expenses, etc.

Before a gathering of over a hundred and fifty local men, President James B. Fullerton of the Y. M. C. A. association delivered an enthusiastic address in which he outlined the program of the board of directors laid out for future activities of the "Y". The assemblage consisted of members and guests, at the stag social, Tuesday evening.

Mr. Fullerton's talk was based chiefly on three topics, the relation of the "Y" to the community, the relation of the directors to General Secretary Albert B. Smith and the relation of the assemblage to the new director, Leroy Disinger who was introduced by the president. President Fullerton said that the idea of the board of directors was to step right along with the new General Secretary and take none of his dust in making the Y. M. C. A. a living organization in Willimantic. To this remark Mr. Smith responded when he cried out: "You'll have to step some!" The speaker went on to tell of the renovations carried out on the building and he promised that still more redecorating and refitting would be done. He told of the great need of such a recreation building as a Y. M. C. A., in any community for the youth of any town or city.

The attendance at the stag social was considered excellent, in consideration of the bad weather conditions which prevailed. Physical Director Disinger was tendered an informal reception at 7.30 o'clock and this was followed by an inspection of the building.

Harry W. Standish, chairman of the social committee led group singing in the gymnasium, with R. Bullard Jones at the piano. Following President Fullerton's talk, Secretary Smith spoke briefly saying that he wished to make the personal acquaintance of every man and boy present.

Professor Clements, of Hartford, carried out the feature act in an exhibition of sleigh-of-hand tricks and magic which were greatly appreciated by the audience. The next event was a three round bout between Young Sweet and Kid Robilat.

Both fighters managed to issue safely from the bout without having over-exerted and the referee called the encounter a draw. The youngsters were loudly applauded for their efforts.

The wrestling match which was to have been staged between two students of the Connecticut Agricultural College was postponed, as the wrestlers could not be present.

Four events took place simultaneously, following the bout, swimming, bowling, hook and volley ball. The businessmen engaged in a volley ball contest in the gymnasium. The Russells were returned the victors over the Mustards in two out of three games. The Mustard outfit could not seem to put over the "hot stuff" and the first game went to the Russells, 15 to 10. The opposition then copped the next by a similar score, but lost the rubber 13 to 4. The lineups: Mustards, James P. Mustard, Kenneth N. Hillhouse, Donald Crane and Frank H. Foss. Russells, Earle E. Russell, Harry S. Gaucher, Raymond C. Comins and A. K. Greer.

Captain Ellis Cohen and his group of natators gave a fine exhibition of fancy and speedy swimming and diving in the pool.

The pockets billiards' match was a thriller. Little Count Benoit was in danger of going down to defeat to Raoul Rivers of the Wood poolroom, when he began to roll excellent pool and took the honors, 100 to 62. The contestants played good games and both won acclaim from the audience.

Clouthier's All Stars hit a winning streak in the bowling tournament and took all three strings from the 1 bowlers. Harry Noel rolled high three 379 and H. Hawkins high single 138.

Robert Ryan, 80, a resident of Andover, died at St. Joseph's hospital Tuesday afternoon. The body was taken over by a local undertaking firm to be prepared for burial.

The body of Mrs. Maria F. Clark arrived in this city Tuesday morning. Wednesday afternoon the body was placed in the receiving vault at the Willimantic cemetery. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements. Mrs. Clark died in Richmond Hill, N. Y.

Arthur Mott, a lineman employed by the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company fell from a tree to the ground, about fifteen feet, Wednesday morning while at work on the line at Mansfield Depot. Mott appeared to be seriously injured and he was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital where he was examined by Dr. M. D. Riordan. It was found that Mr. Mott had sustained only slight bruises on the side and he left for his home. It is expected that he will be at work today (Thursday).

Applicants for motor vehicle driver's licenses will have to wait until Friday to secure examinations as the police headquarters received notification Wednesday that the state policeman could not make his customary call here today (Thursday) but would be on hand Friday.

Wednesday was the fourteenth anniversary of the founding of the Social Corner of The Norwich Bulletin and a program had been planned for the meeting of the members in Central Labor Union Hall, but owing to the bad weather it was found necessary to postpone the commemorative festivities. A large number of out-of-town guests who had been invited could not attend. However, seventy-five members were present when the sessions convened.

An excellent dinner was served shortly after noon and was followed by a social hour. The hostesses were Mrs. M. E. Russ, Miss Laura Baker, Mrs. A. P. Benner, Mrs. Ida Williams, Mrs. William Green, Mrs. Fred Tracy, Mrs. George Tripp, Mrs. Fred H. Race, Mrs. Frank Rockwood, Mrs. Laura Pendleton, Mrs. F. McCallom and Mrs. Alice Bothum.

Over a hundred men and some women attended the auction of thirty western horses at the Fitch barn on West Main street, Wednesday afternoon. The sale was conducted by the North Dakota Farm Bureau. Frank Hyland was the auctioneer. The selling got under way about two o'clock and five had been disposed of at 4.30. This was considered good when the weather conditions were taken into consideration. The remainder will be auctioned off next week.

The meeting of Anne Wood Elderkin Chapter, D. A. R., held at the home of Mrs. M. Eugene Lincoln of North street was well attended. Potes' Day was observed. The home was decorated with daffodils. During the business session which preceded the social hour, the Americanization committee voted to purchase manuals in French and German to be used in the night schools. The regent, Mrs. Carrie Larrabee was in charge. Two beautiful violin solos were given by Miss Faith Webster, with Mrs. Lottie Graves at the piano. Mrs. Arthur W. Clifford of Windham then gave a most interesting informal talk on the life and works of Edgar A. Guest, supplemented by recitations of his poems. Refreshments were served by a committee comprising Mrs. Maria Bill, Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. Risedorf, Mrs. Litchfield, Mrs. Holman, Mrs. Bertha Thompson and Mrs. Mathewson.

About one hundred and seventy-five stations were put out of commission by Tuesday's storm, greatly impairing the service of the Southern New England Telephone Company. Repair crews were kept busy Wednesday making repairs.

Among marriage intentions filed at New Bedford Mass., recently was one of local interest, that of Miss Minnie G. Wyse and David M. Feldman, manager of the Willimantic store of the United Music Company. The ceremony will be performed the latter part of this month at the temple, Commonwealth Avenue, Boston. Rabbi Harry Levi will officiate.

Morris Glaubinger of Colchester, a dealer in live stock, apparently has but little consideration for the feelings of the animals in which he trades. During the snow and rain storm Tuesday he drove his truck under the footbridge on Railroad street and left a calf tied up in a cramped condition in the truck. The animal became covered with wet snow and was suffering intensely when some compassionate person complained to the local agent of the Humane Society and the police were ordered to make the arrest. The owner was not about as Officer Bombria secured assistance and the calf was taken to Doubleday's barn where it was put under shelter.

Try This Way To Get Relief From Head Colds

Nothing to Swallow—You Just Melt a Little in a Spoon and Breathe in the Healing Vapors.

To stop a head cold, try this simple, direct method. Melt a little Vicks in a spoon and inhale the penetrating Vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Juniper Tar, etc. Also put a little up each nostril and sniff well back.

Another method is to heat a tin cup, put in a teaspoonful of Vicks and inhale the vapors that way. As fast as the vapors lose their strength, throw out the melted Vicks and add fresh.

Mothers prefer Vicks for their children because it avoids so much internal dosing. It can be used with perfect safety on the youngest child.

COLCHESTER

A special meeting of the warden and burgesses was at the Otis pharmacy Monday evening. The meeting was called to order by Warden Baker. The object of the meeting was to talk over with the selectmen and other citizens, the matter of putting an addition to the engine house for the purpose of providing offices for the selectmen, warden and burgesses, town clerk, judge of probate and the school supervisor, virtually to be a town and borough building. The town or borough has never had what might be called a suitable place for the purpose of holding sessions. It would also provide a meeting place for the boards of assessors and relief. It is expected a committee will be appointed to get estimates on such an addition.

On account of the severe storm on Tuesday evening, the borough was without lights for a short time. Supt. Fernald of the electric light company put a gang of men out to locate the trouble, which they found and the lights came on again.

Hattie Jackson Temple, Pythian Sisters, held a regular meeting in Pythian hall Tuesday evening. The attendance was small on account of the storm.

Edward H. Norton of North Westchester was a caller here Monday.

The fire company is to hold a meeting in their room this (Thursday) evening.

Col. Henry Champion chapter, D. A. R., met at the home of Mrs. Robert S. Brown, in North Westchester, Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

George E. A. Baker and family of Meriden were guests of Mr. Baker's parents on Hayward avenue over Sunday.

Harold Bailey, who is working in South Royalton, Vt., is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Bailey on South Main street.

Charles T. Wilson of Worcester was a caller here Tuesday.

Earle Stevens of East Hampton was in town Tuesday.

WESTERLY

Word received from George A. Dolan, a Rhode Island commissioner of inland fisheries, of Westerly, at the first of the week a guest at the Chateau Laurier, Ottowa, Canada, was to the effect that he was having a fine time on his visit to Canada.

Miss Elizabeth Loomis, daughter of H. William Loomis, manager of the Rhode Island hotel, and Mrs. Loomis, was the hostess Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at a party on her eleventh birthday. There were present twelve guests to enjoy the dinner party and social time in the hall room of the hotel.

The severest storm of the winter, with fierce driving squalls of snow, sleet and rain, experienced about Westerly Tuesday, continued well into Wednesday morning. The strong wind accompanying the storm had only the redeeming feature that it was not accompanied by zero weather. Many limbs and branches of trees were hurled to the ground by the violent gusts, as well as poles with radio aerials. A large branch from a tree in front of the Methodist church on High street, tore the top of a Ford touring car, the property of Joseph Sherman, completely off, the car being unoccupied as it was parked at the curb. A dispole on Dixon street and a limb of a tree at the corner of Dixon and High street were blown down, the latter carrying away a section of the wooden fence on the street front. A temporary window of cloth and laths in the New Washington Trust building was blown out and in its descent struck T. J. Sullivan, with no more serious damage than to tear his raincoat. The Westerly Light and Power Co had linemen out all night who followed up "grounds" and "shorts." A loose wire on Main street at times was blown against an iron pole on the Bridge at Broad street and electric lights would be extinguished. Due to the storm, a locomotive was derailed at Wickford, R. I., and east and westbound trains were further delayed at the Westerly station, train despatching being handicapped by absence of telephone and telegraph wires, broken down by the severe storm.

In a session of Stonington town court this (Thursday) morning in Borough hall, Stonington, Thomas Addo, 21, of 24 Park street, Charlestown, Mass., will be prosecuted. Addo broke out of the jail in Mystic, when asking his keeper for a drink of water as the cell door was opened, pushed the keeper aside and dashed away to liberty over the hills of the Hewitt farm. He was arrested by the Springfield, Mass., police, and turned over today to officers of the state of Connecticut, who took him back to the jail at Mystic, from which he made his escape while awaiting trial on a charge of larceny.

Addo admitted that he escaped from jail and confessed that he broke into a house in Mystic and stole money, with which he paid his railroad fare to New York city. He told the police that while in New York he stole a woman's handbag containing checks and cash.

Elston Bromley returned the first of the week to Kearney, N. J., where he is studying ignition and batteries at a motor plant, after a short visit with relatives and friends in Westerly.

W. W. Tapley of Springfield, Mass., was an automobile business visitor in Westerly Tuesday.

Raymond E. Stillman was a business visitor in Boston Wednesday.

E. A. Card of Wood River Junction was a business caller in Westerly Wednesday.

Dr. Ronald C. Dove was in Providence Wednesday afternoon.

Hiram A. Edmond was in Boston Wednesday and attended the automobile show.

Mrs. Amelia Clements of Stonington was a visitor in Westerly Wednesday.

Charles S. Larkin returned to his home in Westerly the first of the week after taking several weeks' instruction in auto mechanics in New York.

Henry S. Crandall attended the Boston automobile show Wednesday.

Charles F. Champlin of Stonington, during the past week sold a tract or parcel of land on the west side of Franklin street formerly the post road, to Charles and Anita Ezzelli, of Westerly.

Tuesday, the no school signal was blown for the public schools of Pawcatuck and optional sessions were held in the public schools of Westerly, because of the stormy weather.

James H. McKnight and Charles F. Champlin of the West Side were Stonington jurymen in attendance at the Wednesday session of the superior court in New London.

Deed to the Daniel Brown place, in Pawcatuck, was passed Tuesday to William L. Richmond of North Stonington.

A meeting of qualified electors of the town of Stonington, held Wednesday night in Borough Hall, Stonington, was called to order by First Selectman Joseph A. Vargas. Assistant town clerk, Winifred H. Casey read the call.

The two items acted upon were: To lay the town tax on the assessment list just completed, also to fix the rate for collecting same.

There were 80 in Borough hall when a resolution as presented by Charles Foley, of Mystic, and seconded by Cornelius Crandall, of Stonington, was adopted laying a 24 mill tax. This tax is one mill more than last year and the grand list as completed by Assessors O. Hewitt, George R. Robinson and Alexander Murray, assessors of the town of Stonington, amounted to $3,434,535.

For collection of taxes 1-4 of one per cent. was voted, the same as last year. The meeting adjourned, after being in session about five minutes.

There will be no game played in the series of Bridge tournament this (Thursday) evening by those the Westerly Methodist and Pawcatuck Presbyterian [illegible]

Lenten services in churches of Westerly were held Wednesday afternoon and evening. At Christ Episcopal church the was a [illegible] service at 4.15 p. m. and evening prayer at 7.30 the preacher being Rev. J. Cleveland of Fall River, Mass., formerly rector of Christ church.

At the Pawcatuck Congregational church the lenten mid-week services were begun Wednesday evening at 7.30, the subject of the series being, Saving American Through Her Boys and Girls. The series deals with the needs of American children. How These Must be Met by the State and the Church. The topic Wednesday evening was, America's Greatest Asset.

MYSTIC

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the funeral of Mrs. Ann Borodell Denison Cranston, widow of John H. Cranston, held Wednesday afternoon at her home on Broadway. The service was conducted by Rev. J. G. Osborne, pastor of the Union Baptist church. The bearers were members of the family. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery.

Mystic Encampment, No. 17, I. O. O. F., is to meet Friday evening.

Mrs. Arthur Paine is the guest of relatives in Boston.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church meets this (Thursday) afternoon.

The storm of Tuesday proved to be one of the worst of the winter and both drivers of cars and pedestrians who had to be out in it found getting about anything but easy with the high wind which prevailed throughout the day and night. Fortunately the slush which had gathered did not freeze, but the streets were littered with broken branches of trees, the tide was very high and there were white caps on the river. A number of telephones were out of order and the electric lights were out several times during the evening, necessitating getting out lamps with which to try to see. The storm continued through Wednesday but with considerably abated force.

Henry Beebe is confined to his home by illness.

In spite of unfavorable weather, about sixty of the Royal Neighbors and Modern Woodmen of America assembled in Odd Fellows' hall, Tuesday evening and partook of the old fashioned supper which had been prepared and which was served by candle light. The candle light was intended primarily as a part of the decorative effect of the tables, but proved useful as well as ornamental when the electric lights suddenly went out. The speaker of the evening, Mr. Hughes, did not get there but the program of the evening passed off most acceptably and was enjoyed by all.

Both the Broadway school and the Mystic Academy had only one session of school Tuesday, on account of the storm.

Mrs. Rowland H. Wilcox is spending a few days in Quinebaug with her sister, Mrs. George P. Jones.

Miss Doris Parsons, of Providence, R. I., was here Wednesday, attending the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. Ann B. D. Cranston.

Mrs. Edna B. Coleman has returned to her home in Greeneville, S. C., after a visit with her mother, Mrs. H. H. Wilcox.

NORTH STONINGTON

News was received here Monday morning of the death of Gadford W. Apes, 51, of this town, at the soldiers' home in Noroton, where he had been an inmate for the past three months. He suffered a paralytic shock at his home here last October. He was a veteran of the Civil war.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Dawley and children, of Preston, called on Mr. and Mrs. George W. Tryon Sunday afternoon.

Are You a Tired Out Housewife?

Many people do not realize that the most exhausting of all work is housework and the care of children. Many a woman who should be in the prime of life finds her strength gone, her nerves unstrung and is frail, worn out and run down with pale, thin, watery blood from the strain of housework.

In such cases, what you need is something to put more iron into your blood. Nuxated Iron contains iron like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, and like the iron in your blood. You will be astonished at how much better you feel often in even a few days.

Try taking Nuxated Iron for two weeks, and you will see color come back to your lips and cheeks, you will not be so easily upset by trifles, and best of all, you will find that you have new strength and energy and endurance for your daily tasks. At all good druggists.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

TECH SHOW TO PLAY TO CAPACITY HOUSE

From all indications it is expected that the Tech Show, "The Hidden Idol," which will be presented at the Palace Theatre Friday evening by the undergraduates of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will be greeted by a capacity house. The committee in charge of the ticket sale reports that the sale of tickets has been very gratifying but there are some exceptionally fine seats still available.

The Hidden Idol was written by a Norwich boy, W. Tingley Cook, and is drawing wide attention in Norwich and vicinity. The Tech Show is recognized as the best college production in the country and in the other cities where it is to be shown the houses are sold out for every performance.

From the following cast it can be readily seen that the Tech students are very versatile, all parts, both male and female, being portrayed by the students:

|---|---|
| Prof. Summerwell, | S. F. Hershey |
| Mrs. Summerwell, | W. F. McCormack |
| Minerva Summerwell, | C. H. Topping |
| Phillip Wainright, | J. L. Clifford |
| Buster Brown, | R. H. Whiting |
| Pansy, | C. R. McBrayne |
| General Allaghab, | F. Stapleton |
| Hasahoha | H. Worthington |
| The Prince | J. D. Cochran |
| Henry Judd, | D. F. Jeppe |

Besides the cast there is a ballet of 24 students and a chorus of 16. There are several specialty numbers including dances and solos. The musical score is very attractive with bright and catchy songs and music. The show has its own orchestra made up of students and is on of the best musical organizations in collegiate circles. The scenic effects are beyond description and are entirely different from anything that has been seen by local people.

BREED THEATRE

"We went to Italy," said Mr. King, "more like the voyagers in the fabled Argosy, than the American motion picture actors and actresses that we were. We went to Italy because The White Sister, the picture we planned to make, is a story of an Italian girl.

"I have done many pictures with Italian atmosphere, but never until we arrived in Rome and saw Naples and other Italian cities did I realize how little I knew of the real Italy.

"Many directors have tried to make European pictures in America. They have succeeded very well in reproducing English atmosphere, but when it comes to filming Latin countries, their efforts are a joke after you have actually gone over there and seen the real thing.

"So when I had firmly planted myself on Italian soil, we knew we had something no other motion picture company in the world ever possessed—all of Italy at our feet. We were enthusiastic, eager to get to work. Lillian Gish, who was to play the part of Sister Angela, Donald Colman J. Barney Sherry, Gail Kane and others drank in the wonders of that fascinating land until they were impregnated with its beauty and charm.

The White Sister will be showing at the Breed theatre 7 days starting Sunday, March 16.

BREED THEATRE

"Real entertainment" was the verdict of the audience at the Breed theatre yesterday when Viola Dana's newest Metro picture, "The Heart Bandit," opened for a two day run. This latest of the Dana series has all the elements that mean enjoyment for the spectators. Romance, thrills, comedy, pathos—all play a big part; and through it Miss Dana goes her dainty way.

The story is a merry tale about a girl bandit who is regenerated when she breaks into the home of an old lady and her son in running from the police. The dramatic and comic situations arising from this premise bring forth many exciting and laughable moments in which the star is superb.

Milton Sills is Miss Dana's leading man, and he never gave a more delightful performance in any of the big successes in which he has appeared. Wallace MacDonald does a great piece of work in a semi-comedy role, and others in the cast include Gertrude Claire, Bertram Grassby, and DeWitt Jennings.

Oscar Apfel directed the production, Tom J. Hopkins wrote the adaption of Fred Kennedy Myton's story, and John Arnold did the photography.

For the second feature Glenn Hunter and Mary Astor will be seen in Second Fiddle and the Fox news and a scenic make up the remainder of the bill.

NORWICH TOWN

The Home Missionary sewing society of the First Congregational church, is to hold a meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Avery, of West Town street.

The church night service of the Congregational church, is to be omitted this evening because of the address in the city by Professor M. A. Hoolins of Pasadena, Calif.

The Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms, is to be in charge of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church assisted by members of that church choir.

Mrs. George Fraser of Lafayette street, will attend the funeral today (Thursday) in Westerly of Mrs. Albert Dickinson, of New Bedford, Mrs. Dickinson, formerly Bertha A. Gavitt, leaves four children, Robert, George, Grace and Edith Dickinson, who have visited at the Fraser home. Robert and George Dickinson called there Tuesday, prior to going to Willimantic, they having first motored from New Bedford to Westerly to arrange for their mother's funeral, the family having formerly resided there. The Fraser's at one time resided in New Bedford, since which the two families have been friends.

CHAPLIN

At a town meeting held in the town building Saturday, March 1, it was voted to lay a tax of twenty-seven mills on the dollar on the grand list of 1923 to defray expenses of the town the present year. Extra expense in regard to high school pupils is the chief item in this high rate of taxation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Babcock are to move later in the spring to New London where Mr. Babcock has secured employment.

Charles F. Gallup has formed a partnership with his brother, A. M. Gallup and F. W. Keene, the firm to be known as Charles G. Gallup & Co., contractors and builders, with headquarters at Ahlington.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

As a three-act domestic comedy, "To the Ladies," by Marc Connelly and George Kaufman, received unusually favorable mention from newspaper critics, and even greater possibilities are afforded the screen version of the story, a James Cruze Paramount production which comes to the Broadway theatre for a three days' run today.

It is presented that "To the Ladies" will more than measure up to the high quality standard set for Paramount pictures under the policy of limiting productions to 52 a year. It is unique in that it is the only production adapted from a highly successful stage play that outdistanced the stage version of the story in the matter of popularity. "To the Ladies" has been handsomely received everywhere and its presentation here will be no exception. Edward Horton, Theodore Roberts, Helen Jerome Eddy and Louise Dresser are featured in the principal roles, and the supporting cast is excellent. It is a James Cruze production, Walter Woods making the adaptation. If you like pure, wholesome comedy, you'll revel in this one.

Short subjects include a comedy and Kinograms. A concert orchestra will render appropriate music, the kind you'll enjoy.

Strand Theatre

The following aggregation of B. F. Keith big time vaudeville is scheduled for the Strand theatre for the last half of this week.

Vivian Cosby's Revuette with Dorothy Argo and her pals is a clever company of seven who present a somewhat different offering with song, dance and music.

Joe Worth and Rudy Willing, "Two Boys from Dixie" are blackface comedians.

Russell & Hayes in "Let's Sing" have a clever offering.

Stephen McNally and Lanier De-Wolfe in "Making Good" is a real comedy act.

Bigson Herbert and Barbara Neely, late of musical comedy appear in "Laughlanders."

That the art of the silver screen can be raised to the ninth power by a director unhampered by the musty traditions of the studio will be proven to theatre-goers of this city when "Phantom Justice" comes to the Strand theatre today.

A Theatre of Dignified Entertainment

The care and thought exercised by the Palace theatre management in the selection of the entertainment that is offered the Norwich theatregoer is worthy of much splendid comment. This fine playhouse has evidently determined to prove to our Norwich citizenry that only the best, the most wholesome and the most worthwhile in vaudeville, pictures and productions will be presented. Dignity seems to be their keynote, dignity and merit. Each patron knows that he or she will see an entertainment that is really entertaining. In the vaudeville for instance extreme care is exercised. The acts chosen are picked carefully from the standard vaudeville circuits. The acts that play the Palace come not from one source of supply but are chosen by the management from all the theatres of the east. Thus the Palace patron sees acts that have appeared in musical comedy for the Shubert enterprises, in the larger New York "Marcus Loew circuit of theatres, many are standard Keith Vaudeville acts, several have appeared in such theatres as the Palace in New York, the Hippodrome in New York, the State theatre, New York, which by the way, is the most modern and up to date as well as the largest playhouse catering to vaudeville in New York, and other theatres of such calibre. While the management does not as a rule boast of its source of supply, still it is a fact of which to be proud, for evidently they are leaving no stone unturned in their effort to procure for Norwich the sort of entertainment that is worth going to see. A glance at the quality of the entertainment and the extreme versatility of the different types of shows will be proof of this assertion.

The vaudeville programme that is arranged for Thursday, Friday and Saturday further exemplifies their policy. The Merryland Revue, a novel scenic singing and dancing revuette of tuneful melodies and jazzy steps is an entertaining as well as a distinctly different production. Laura Ordway with her funny songs and characterizations and her inimical style of delivery will be a source of much real laughter for Miss Ordway has no peer in vaudeville. For many years she has graced the vaudeville stage and has appeared in nearly every large theatre in America, and for nearly every standard circuit. The Artemas in a screamingly funny conglomeration of comedy and mystery is an act that every one will enjoy for it combines everything that goes to the making of entertaining vaudeville. Surprise follows surprise and laugh follows laugh. Those who like good singing will not want to miss Boland and Kelly, who sing harmony and sing it well, their repertoire includes jazz and the classics so that all classes should be pleased. Frankie Hamilton a bright snappy entertainer who has a budget of new songs stories and dances is a welcome addition to any bill and rounds out an excellent programme of fine entertainment. The feature picture has Gaidys Walton starred in her latest hit, The New Lady, a comedy and Pathe News complete the show.

SCANDINAVIAN BELL RINGERS IN ENTERTAINMENT

The Scandinavian Bell Ringers are to be at the Swedish Lutheran church, Hickory street, on Friday evening, March 14, in a concert programme that will be full of novelty and musical entertainment. The bell ringers are equipped with 178 bells, ranging in weight from a few ounces to 16 pounds, and are able to produce a remarkable variety of tone color by gradation of the energy with which the bells are rung and by clever use of the harmonic overtones. They are clever musicians whose art is combined with skill, dexterity, speed and strength to produce a most enjoyable programme.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

...proximately a miracle, there was absolutely unanimous agreement here Wednesday that the big storm coming at the time of the anniversary of the blizzard of 1888 was a 3 ringer for the audience. If there were exceptions to this, those who disagreed did not make themselves heard. People who never did hold coinciding opinions on any given thing were of a single mind on the storm Wednesday, when the unwelcome disturbance appeared to be wearing itself out.

During Wednesday, Danielson was almost cut off from communication with the outside world. The New Haven's passenger trains offered the only means of getting any considerable distance from Danielson to the north. The state road to Putnam was impassable and the same was true of the route to Providence, via Little Rest. Up to early afternoon less than half a dozen cars had managed to buck through the drifts and snow blockade between Danielson and Brooklyn—a distance of only four miles. Danielson was completely cut off from telephone communication with all points in the Putnam and Moosup divisions, all circuits being out of order. The same condition existed between the central telephone office and many points in the Danielson division, in the borough and outside of it.

There was no trolley service between Dayville and Putnam, breaking that link of communication with Danielson. Poles carrying the overhead that collapsed were responsible for this. Street lights, cut off by falling poles and breaking wires during Tuesday afternoon, were missing, as was the home lighting service in various sections of the borough. Western Union wires were mixed in the tangled skein into which the storm twisted many lines of communication. Only one of three circuits of the fire alarm telegraph system remained in working order. Bus lines operating out of Danielson for Willimantic and Providence and intermediate points had to cancel their regular schedules because of inability to get their powerful machines through the heavy drifts.

Difficulty was encountered in getting checkup of the extent of the storm damage because of meagre facilities for inquiry. Many trouble points, usually in easy reach of telephone were cut off. Blocked state highways cut off all chances of using machines to cover territory only a few miles out.

However, reports brought in by mail carriers and other men who, in many cases, made their way to Danielson on foot, plugging along over miles of drifted roads, helped fill out the picture of what the March storm did to upset things generally in this corner of the state.

Clearing highways, restoring broken poles and wires and clearing up other damage caused by the storm will cost scores of thousands of dollars. The destruction is indicated as even greater in northwestern Windham county than in the disastrous ice storm that came just after Thanksgiving time, four years ago. Miles and miles of telephone and electric light wires and high tension line sand dozens and dozens of poles are down in all the towns hereabouts. In some cases—as in that of the A. T. and T. trunk route carrying nearly half a hundred wires between Danielson and Brooklyn—poles that have not come down are broken off and leaning far each, held only by guy wires as they sway about, threatening to topple over at any minute. These poles must be replaced and all the wires on them restrung.

Between Brooklyn and Chestnut a number of trucks and pleasure cars became stalled in the snow during Tuesday night and remained where they were during all Wednesday. Other cars were stalled between Attawaugan and Putnam, others between Danielson and South Killingly and still other sat Dark Lantern Hill. No power available could release them during Wednesday, when they appeared to be where they were for an indefinite stay. Powerful motor driven plows of the state highway department availed not at all against the sodden drifted mass during all Wednesday, the crews worked like Trojans to open up the blocked routes. Moving the snow was much the same kind of proposition as moving lead. It was water-soaked, packed in and drifted.

Between Danielson and South Killingly there were drifts from four to nine feet deep, the cut at the top of Spalding's hill near the South Killingly church being packed full. On Lodge Hill, between Danielson and Brooklyn, the snow, sweeping over open fields, had piled up in the roadway to a depth of from four to six feet.

Undismayed by the wreckage that confronted them, line crews of the telephone, electric light, telegraph and trolley companies worked like slaves Wednesday in an effort to restore service to something approximating normal. The damage is so heavy, though, that days must elapse, before this object is attained, and in the meantime the public is being requested to be patient over all the inconveniences that destruction of service entails.

The S. N. E. T. company sent a line crew here from Norwich to assist the local force of the company in getting their wires back into service. Concerns like the Goodyear Mills, Inc., were handicapped Wednesday through loss of the power service from the Eastern Connecticut Power company and operated in a restricted way.

Such is the nature of the snow that shoveling will have to be resorted to to open some of the highway trunk lines. Given this assistance, the plows eventually will open the roads. There was no possible chance for an automobile to get from Danielson to Putnam during Wednesday. Late Wednesday afternoon a trail had been drilled through the drifts from Danielson to Brooklyn and workers were laboring on to open the road to Hampton, toward which points other crews were working from Willimantic.

To the south of Danielson conditions were not so bad. Machines came through from Norwich Wednesday morning but none of them got through to Killingly. The storm barriers left here were too great for anything out-

PUTNAM

Amidon Cremer of Killingly wanted to go to jail. He found it an hard to get in as to get out. Amidon appeared at the police station, Tuesday afternoon, perfectly sober and asked to be committed to the county institution. When he was told that he could not be accommodated Amidon left.

That there is an oasis in Putnam of easy access was demonstrated by Amidon, who, in a short while, appeared at the police station again with two bottles of liquor. From one bottle he had drank about half a pint and was beyond dispute intoxicated.

There is one thing that a drunken man can do that a man in his sober senses cannot do and that is get into jail. Amidon had found the key to the jail in getting keyed up. He was drunk, which is a misdemeanor, and therefore was eligible to arrest. He was arrested and spent the night out of the storm in a cell in the police station. Wednesday morning Amidon was brought to the office of the prosecuting attorney to save the court going the distance across the river to the city court room and there Amidon received what he sought—thirty days in jail and costs, which will make 45 days in all.

John Falkus of Putnam also got drunk but did not get drunk in order to get into jail. In fact it was the last thing that John wanted. He didn't have to go, but had to pay $20 and costs, which will find its way into the city treasury.

It was wild, weather-wise, Tuesday night, and Wednesday Putnam was semi-isolated on account of the storm. One early morning train was nearly on time and all trains got through during the day, but were more or less late. No trolley cars were running during the day and two cars were derailed, one on South Main street and the other on Providence street.

Tuesday night, the city streets were in darkness for several hours, but employes worked all night and repaired the damage and kept the lights burning after the first period of darkness.

All the toll lines at the telephone exchange were put out of business during the night but in the morning one line was in use. Three hundred private telephones were out of commission. Between Putnam and Danielson forty poles were down.

There were no sessions of school during the day and the evening school was omitted.

Automobiles were stalled in all outlying sections. Sixteen Putnam men were marooned at Phoenixville, as the cars in which they were returning from a meeting before the public utilities commission at Hartford could not make steep Phoenixville hill. Among the number were State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatrie, Postmaster Archibald Macdonald, Landlord Rogers of the Putnam Inn, Byron D. Bugbee and Judge Clarence H. Child of Woodstock. The party spent the night in the Phoenixville store, with plenty of canned food, but beds were an unknown quantity.

The first S. O. S. from the hill came from Dr. S. B. Overlock, of Pomfret. A local garage man sent three of his employes to answer the call. With a generous amount of shoveling they made the 14 miles in a little over five hours. It was 4 a. m. when the doctor was towed into his yard. A return trip was made and at 10 a. m. State Treasurer Gilpatric's car was brought to Putnam. Other cars from the stranded party arrived at all hours during the day.

The storm was easily the biggest of the season, but during the day the snow disappeared rapidly.

Francis James French, 74, after an illness of several weeks, died Wednesday at his home in the Sawyer district near the Children's Home. He was the son of Thomas J. and Ada Hopkins French and was born in East Killingly May 18, 1850. Mr. French leaves his wife, who was Miss Olive Jacques of East Killingly; two daughters, Mrs. Byron Billington of East Killingly, Mrs. Edith M. Byrbee of Meriden; a son, Francis J. French Jr., of Woodstock, and a brother, Irving T. French of Providence.

While shoveling snow in front of his home on Grove street, Wednesday morning, A. L. Mansfell slipped, fell and apparently injured his spine. He was assisted to his home and a physician was summoned. He was under observation during the day.

In spite of the storm the Windham county superior court was in session Wednesday, although the session was an abbreviated one on account of witnesses and principals in two cases not showing up.

The only case that went to trial was that in which David Bassen of Plainfield was the plaintiff and Benjamin Goodman of Danielson was the defendant. A mortgage and a store account by the family of the defendant furnished the cause of action. The defendant held a mortgage on the home of the plaintiff and when defendant pushed him for payment plaintiff started a counter-suit on a store account for shoes, rubbers, etc., for defendant's family amounting to $179.90. The defendant admitted that the merchandise had been purchased but alleged that the goods were paid for as bought. The case was taken under advisement by the court.

Ignoring the severe storm Tuesday night, nearly two hundred Elks attended the regular session of the lodge, which was followed by a social session, including several acts of vaudeville.

During the meeting 36 applications were balloted on and 17 new applications received. The election resulted as follows: Exalted ruler, A. Graydon Sharpe; esteemed leading knight, James Murray; esteemed loyal knight, A. Newton Vaughn; esteemed lecturing knight, John H. Buiger; secretary, Thomas J. Howarth; treasurer, Lucius P. Merriam; tyler, Hector Duvert; trustee, A. Macdonald Jr.; delegate to the grand lodge, A. Macdonald Jr.; alternate, George Lewis Jr.

Supper consisted of chicken salad, bread and butter sandwiches, potato chips, chocolate eclairs and coffee. The eleven o'clock toast was given before the entertainers had finished their program. Those participating in the entertainment, which was under the personal direction of Jack Sidney, of Boston, were: Florence Fitzgerald, pianist; May Delsto, the jazz girl; Josephine Emery, ballad singer; Selma Larochell, violinist; Miss Spaulding and Miss Anderson, dancing specialties; Billy Barker, the breezy boy.

March 15th, the lodge is to initiate one of the largest classes in its history. Officers of Willimantic lodge have been invited to conduct the work. April 15th, the officers will be installed by P. E. R. John B. Edgarton of Willimantic lodge.

PLAINFIELD

Harry H. Holloway is in receipt of a letter from his son, Ormond, which is post marked Schofield Barracks, 11th Field Artillery, Battery C, Honolulu, H. T. The letter is dated Feb. 22, and states that he arrived that day after a rough trip.

Reports have come in for two or three weeks that bluebirds had been seen, but Wednesday morning while the juncos, chickadees and tree sparrows were seeking food in the storm, Cecil Butler reports that he saw a robin, which evidently had miscalculated in his arrival.

Mrs. Alma Yerrington, who spent the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Roy Barstow, has been spending most of the winter with her other daughter, Mrs. Leonard Lovett whose husband works for Casper Bailey, at Norwich Town.

The March musical service will be given by the choir at the Congregational church next Sunday evening. James Royal will be in charge.

Lenten services are being conducted by Rev. Thomas Melrose. The theme of the series of meetings is The Four Last Things, and the attendance is good. Deaconess Robert, of Hartford, was present Wednesday evening to address the Woman's Auxiliary on their work.

Rev. Thomas M. Melrose will be the speaker at the Lenten service at St. Alban's church, in Danielson on the 26th, Rev. Leonard R. Richards of St. Alban's coming to St. Paul on the 28th.

Monday morning the freight on the Worcester division passing through Plainfield about 6.30 was stalled at Wauregan with a crippled engine caused delays to both trains running north and south, interfering with the mail service and the distribution of the local papers.

Frank Davis of Danielson is assembling his equipment, preparatory to moving back the Mercier store. The proprietors of the store are planning to build a new, modern front, at a large expense.

Throughout the village and vicinity broken telephone and telegraph wires due to the severity of the storm, are greatly crippling the service. On Railroad street, near the post office a large sign called attention to a broken, tangling wire, a menace to the traveling public.

At two o'clock in the morning the state highway department plough was working in Plainfield, and filling up with gasoline at Bousquet's, opened up the roads as far as the Rhode Island line.

Charles Barber has been suffering with a grip cold, but is improving, although confined to the house.

The Lincoln club held the March meeting Monday evening in the vestry of the Congregational church with a good company of men present, the Boy Scouts being out in full force as special guests of the club. The supper planned by the men was excellent, but it was observed that there was a group of women in the kitchen to manage the serving. The waiters were chosen from the club, Cecil Butler, head waiter. After the supper a social time was enjoyed and then the president, Alfred D. Ashley called the meeting to order. The minutes were read by the secretary, William F. Hall, also an interesting report from the executive board.

The musical program of the evening was of unusual interest, eliciting from the audience hearty applause and winning encores from all the musicians. The program follows: Piano solo, by Scout Arnold Smith; duets, Miss Alice Salisbury of Moosup and Miss Gladys Wilbur; humorous selections by the quartet, Sidney Mathewson, Rav W. Greene, Christopher Krauss and Arthur Crisfield. One of the hits of the evening was the song "Sing, Sing" by the quartet, coming in in lock step. The accompanist of the evening was Roy H. Barstow.

Arthur L. Peale of Norwich, gave a most interesting address on the history of the Indians of this locality, taking for his subject: The Pequots, the Mohegans, the Nipmucks." Mr. Peale was listened to closely by all, for he treated his subject in a manner to hold the attention of both men and boys. Mr. Peale is an easy and forceful speaker, enthusiastic concerning the history of the Indians, which topic he has made a life-study. He also showed a fine exhibit of Indian relics and curios secured in various places.

There were several guests from out of town, one of whom E. L. Baldwin, of Norwich, accompanied Mr. Peale. The club adjourned, to meet on the second Monday in April, when the O. J. S. is to furnish the supper.

LYME

Mr. and Mrs. George Cunningham and daughter Lottie of Fishers Island visited Mrs. Leonard Rand over the last week end.

Mrs. Donald Reynolds, Mrs. Clarence Lee, Lyman Harding and Reginald Stark attended a musical given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones of Ivoryton one evening last week.

Word was received here Monday of the death of Mrs. W. H. Beebe of Deep River. She is survived by her husband, three daughters and two sons.

Mrs. Ray Harding was a Norwich visitor one day last week.

E. S. Ely and family returned from Florida last week.

Mrs. Nettie Bigelow and Mrs. Mary Comstock were Deep River callers last Saturday.

Mrs. Leeds has returned to her home after spending the winter in Florida.

The body of Mrs. Robert J. Noble of New York was brought here for burial last week Wednesday.

Miss Josephine Daniels was a caller at Clarence Daniels', in Deep River Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. L. D. Harding and son were callers at L. P. Desmar's last Sunday.

COLUMBIA

The weather was so pleasant Monday that the ambitious farmer looked about to see what could be done to advance his spring work. One man who has large lawns to care for began raking off the rubbish collected during the winter; another was trimming trees, while another was spreading manure on gardens for early crops of asparagus, strawberries, etc. By Tuesday, all was changed. A fierce storm of rain, snow and sleet was raging, covering the ground with slush, so that out-of-door work was entirely suspended. Few vehicles of any kind were traveling the roads, and no pedestrian could be seen.

Two tall poplar trees which stood in front of the residence of Miss Eliza Hutchins on the green, were cut down Monday by Henry Hutchins and his son Lawrence. The trees have stood there for many years, and at one time were very handsome. But lately had shown signs of decay, and being injured by the winter's storms it was thought best that they should be taken down.

Early Tuesday morning and practically before the great storm of Monday had ceased, the snow plow of this section of the state highway department, appeared at the center, clearing the road of snow, and went westerly, in the direction of Hebron. The work of the highway department has been very efficient this season in keeping the roads in good condition which is greatly appreciated by the traveling public.

Since Monday, most of the telephones on the green have not been working, and apparently no attempt was made to put them in order until Wednesday. Most, if not all of these lines, were recently placed in a cable, and were supposed to be working properly, but as the trouble occurred before the storm, the storm cannot be held entirely responsible for the lack of service. The inability to use the telephone is inconveniencing many in business and in cases of necessity.

MANSFIELD CENTER

The concert given at the church by the Scandinavian Bell Ringers recently was a complete success. The five men of the company were skilful musicians and with their 125 bells in size from 15 pounds to a few ounces each, gave a beautiful program. They were assisted in the interims necessary for rest, by Miss Florence Tenney, of Connecticut Agricultural College, who read, and W. E. Needham of the same institution who gave several banjo solos. The church was crowded, large numbers coming from Willimantic, Storrs and surrounding towns. This was the first number of the course being given under the auspices of the Mansfield library. The next number is to be the Suwanee River quartet, the best negro quartet in the country.

Mohammedanism, the Greatest Enemy of Christianity, is the subject of the illustrated lecture to be given at the church Friday evening by Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones. Mr. Jones' lectures have all been of unusual interest and well attended.

Because of the storm Tuesday it was necessary to omit the meeting and box luncheon of Echo grange, planned for that evening.

Mrs. T. Hawthorne Jones is visiting in Torrington and Litchfield for a few days this week. At Litchfield she was to address a meeting of the Mary Floyd Tallmadge chapter of D. A. R., on True Patriotism.

The morning worship Sunday was conducted by Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones. Mrs. Jones preached at Spring Hill. On the previous Sunday twenty-two members were received into the First Congregational church.

Charging that a large combine was seeking the radio control of New York City, Joseph A. Devery, assistant corporation counsel of that city, urged passage by the house merchant marine committee of the White bill which provides for regulation of radio communication.

Frank Rikert, Who Left Illinois for California in Covered Wagon in 1864, Wouldn't Take $100 for Bottle of Tanlac.

Frank Rikert, well-known resident of North Sacramento, Cal., who came to the state from Illinois in a covered wagon in 1864, along with other hardy pioneers, recently exhibited a bottle of Tanlac, which he had just purchased, to a friend at his home and remarked: "If I thought this was the last bottle of Tanlac I would ever be able to buy, I wouldn't take one hundred dollars for it," thus proving the high valuation he places on the famous treatment.

"I believe Tanlac really saved my life when I took it after the Flu about a year ago," continued Mr. Rikert, "for the attack left me 20 pounds off in weight, and unable to turn over in my bed without assistance. I tell you, I thought my time had surely come.

"But, thanks to my wife's insistence, I kept on taking Tanlac till I was able to do all my work again, had back all my lost weight, and I've been feeling years younger ever since. I'm always telling my friends about Tanlac, and can't say too much for it."

Yes—it can be done

The finest of cars can be sold at these prices

THE Studebaker name guarantees to you the utmost in fine-car construction. For 72 years it has stood for quality, for honest workmanship, for square dealing.

It has always stood for style and class. Remember Studebaker carriages—supreme examples of fine coach building.

Consider our facilities—mark what we have at stake. $90,000,000 in assets, $50,000,000 in plants and equipment, $10,000,000 in body plants alone.

Note our multiplying sales—the sensation of Motordom.

It is fair to assume that we can and do build the finest cars and at Studebaker prices.

What is a fine car?

A fine car means the best materials any cost can buy. We use 35 formulas for steels, each known to be best for its purpose. We pay a premium of 15% on some to get the formulas exact.

All Studebaker models are equipped with Timken bearings. There are few cars in America, regardless of price, which equal ours on this point. In our Light-Six, for instance, we put more Timken bearings than are used in any competitive car, within $1,500 of its price.

A fine car means fine engineering. We spend $500,000 yearly on that department, employing 125 able men.

It means careful construction. We have 12,590 up-to-date machines. 1,120 of our operations are exact to 1/1000 of an inch. 360 are exact to one-half of 1/1000 of an inch.

It means infinite pains. For instance, we machine all surfaces of our crankshafts as was done in Liberty Airplane Motors. We are the only makers of cars at our prices who do this.

It means careful inspection. With us it means 30,000 inspections in the manufacture of each Studebaker car.

Luxury and beauty

It means a car to be proud of.

Our body finish includes 15 coats of paint and varnish.

Chase Mohair is used to upholster our closed bodies—made from the soft fleece of Angora goats.

We offer much extra equipment. Some of our Big-Sixes, for instance, have two nickel-plated bumpers, one or two extra disc wheels with cord tires, a courtesy light, a motometer, steel trunk, etc.

This factory, remember, is the ancient home of fine coach work.

A fine car must be enduring. A Studebaker Big-Six, built in 1918, has so far run 475,000 miles. That means 80 years of ordinary service.

Where savings come

Then how do the Studebakers so far undersell any comparable cars?

Because we build so many. The fixed costs are divided by enormous output—150,000 cars per year.

Because we build our own bodies. The saving to you on some types is up to $300 per car.

Because we make our own forgings, saving another profit there.

Because our plants are modern and efficient. We have spent $38,000,000 on them in the past five years.

Because we keep our men, make them partners, pay them large bonuses to stay. Changing men is expensive.

Because we conduct this business in every way on the best modern lines.

What buyers save

The Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car sells for $1,045. Under ordinary manufacturing conditions it would need to cost you from $1,200 to $1,400.

On our Special-Six the difference might be $400 to $700.

On our Big-Six type the difference may run into thousands, depending on the number produced. For this car compares only with the highest-priced cars in Europe and America.

• • •

You will respect the Studebaker methods when you come to know them. You will admire the cars they create. You will delight in the values.

Remember that last year 145,167 fine-car buyers, after comparisons, chose the Studebaker models. So many people could not be wrong.

Learn why they did so before you buy a car at $1,000 or over. You owe that to yourself.

Go and See
Why Studebaker Leads

Studebaker is now the world's largest builder of quality automobiles.

Last year, 145,167 fine-car buyers paid $201,000,000 for them.

There are 13 models.

Prices begin at $1,025.

Go see the reasons for this trend. See why sales have almost trebled in three years. Why these cars have become the sensation of Motordom.

You owe that to yourself before you buy a fine car.

MUSCLE SHOALS.

After a long period of inaction and when congress seemed to be devoting its attention to most everything else except the business before it, the plan to dispose of Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford has not only been able to get the pole position in the house but to get a favorable vote without much of a contest. This must be regarded as decided progress in view of the opposition that has been encountered in the past.

What the senate will do with the bill is a problem. That the senate will not be as speedy as was the house in its recent move can be safely inferred. Though, the proposition has been repeatedly gone over there will be a disposition in the senate to give it deep and serious consideration. It is a big deal and big deals invariably move slowly.

The action by the house is, however, in keeping with the recommendations made by President Coolidge in his message. He directed attention, it will be remembered, to the advisability of doing something with it. Millions upon millions are involved in bringing it to its present state of completion. More will be needed and it is a question whether the government could make a success of any such plant. It was intended for emergency purposes, but can now be devoted to the production of power and fertilizer. Mr. Ford believes that he cannot only make a success of it but that he can actually serve the country to its need for fertilizers and that particular section of the country in its requirements for cheap power.

What such a plant is worth and what ought to be obtained in selling or leasing it must necessarily be left to those who understand the conditions. It was one of the points made by the president that it was preferable to dispose of the plant under Mr. Ford's offer and get it into operation than it was to turn it down and let it stand idle or incompleted. This seems to have made a good impression upon the house. What it will encounter in the senate is another matter. Perhaps the senate will want to start an investigation.

JUNKING THE WARSHIPS.

There are those who have persistently argued for the towing of the condemned warships to sea and sinking them as the proper way to dispose of them. They have of course hit upon the quickest method but they have thrown to the wind any thought of salvage. According to their plan the vessels would be total losses.

There is no way of recovering anywhere near what is represented by the construction cost of the warships which have outlived their usefulness or which have been ordered scrapped by the naval agreement. It is possible, however, to recover a certain amount of material therefrom which would otherwise be a complete waste. Raw material is being produced at much expense. The various materials of which the warships are built have been through the process. They are more valuable than the ore that is being dug out of the ground, and the material can be reworked much easier and cheaply than can the raw material be brought up to a similar standard. There is an economic benefit in salvaging these great structures. The benefit to be gained would be sought by private corporations and there is no reason why the same thing shouldn't be done by the government.

The policy of salvaging has been followed by the government, but added satisfaction is to be gained from the recent announcement to the effect that the warships are to be junked at the Philadelphia navy yard instead of being sold to salvage firms as they first. The reason for this is that by having the government yards do the junking it will be possible to realize something like $400,000 more for the vessels than would otherwise be the case. Instead of getting a mere pittance for them the government is to get all that is in them or in other words to realize part of the profit which would be obtained by others through the junking operations.

It spells good business in addition to providing work for the navy yards. Construction work may be their purpose but when that is not available such advantage as is to be gained from destructive operations is not to be sneezed at.

RADIO SERVICE.

No doubt much remains to be ironed up in connection with the attitude of the American Telephone and Telegraph company relative to radio broadcasting. It cannot expect that there would be a toleration of a monopoly in this direction any more than there would in other lines. It is unquestionably eager to give protection to its patents, quite the same as any other patent holder, but it cannot expect to say who shall broadcast and who shall not, in an arbitrary manner.

It is to be remembered that under the [illegible] that was carried out as a result of the Washington conference [illegible] the wireless field in the country, but there's a difference between broadcasting. It does that and it prevents the [illegible] try by a license system, and it was no more than should have been expected when Secretary Hoover of that department called attention to the fact that the government would not tolerate a broadcasting monopoly. While the government issues licenses for three month periods it is in a position to increase or decrease the number of broadcasting stations but it is not interested in doing so any more than for the proper protection of the business. It is on the alert to see that there is fair treatment but no monopoly.

Broadcasting in the past has been deriving its profits from the direct or indirect advertising obtained thereby. Efforts are being made to change the plan. Here and there is there being urged the need of those who listen in to subscribe for the entertainment they expect and receive. The operator of an expensive station in Kansas has asked those who have been getting the benefit of his outlay to contribute $100,000 that he may continue to give high class programmes which must cease otherwise.

Whether radio remains free, whether broadcasting is done gratis or for pay, whether those who listen are to pay a tax, may be open questions, but when it comes to the matter of establishing a broadcasting monopoly in this country the prospects are not good it, in fact, such is really being undertaken.

STOPPING THE RECKLESS.

Because there are those who seem to give no consideration to the fact that there is danger at railroad crossings, there was long ago established the practice of erecting signs which warned "Stop, Look, Listen!" or "Look out for the Locomotive."

Not everyone who is killed at such a point actually races with the train to get across first. Invariably accidents are due to the fact that little thought is given to the fact that a train may be coming, dependence being placed upon hearing a whistle or having the train stop like some other vehicle with which there might be a collision.

Under the belief that the old warnings have lost their appeal the American Railway association has been conducting a contest and offering prizes for the best poster and slogan for railroad crossings. The prize went to the one who submitted, "Wait! You May Lose!"

Possibly, because it is different and new, it might catch the gaze of the reckless driver and cause him to bring his machine under control so that accidents at crossings would be eliminated, but there seems to be nothing very compelling or persuasive in such a warning. The chance of losing never gets a consideration from the reckless. The very thought of such a thing is regarded by too many as a dare. The recognition of the need of inspiring greater care is, however, most commendable, and if new slogans are all that is needed let them be erected, and a different one be placed at each crossing.

AN UNUSUAL REQUEST.

Time and again there are those who have wondered why they, in their poor state of health, have been spared and the lives of others who were younger were ended. The thought has even been expressed that it is a shame that so many young lives that might be put to some good use have to be sacrificed in various ways because of crime.

Not many, however, go to the limit it resorted to by a 59-year-old resident of Philadelphia in offering to take the place of a young man sentenced to the electric chair for murder, if the condemned man could be committed to prison for 10 to 15 years and then be released.

The older man stressed the point that he was "broken in health, cannot hold a job" and couldn't see where he would be "of any more use on earth whatsoever." He believed, however, that the younger man would be young enough to be of much use after serving the suggested term.

The first impression from such an offer is that it is a bit strange that an individual who was seeking to sacrifice himself for another and for a public benefit should pick out a murderer as the sole one for whom he desired to substitute himself. And again it seems to be against the public interest that he should desire a murderer turned loose after a comparatively short sentence. Just why he seems to think the young man would be of some use after his imprisonment when he had proved himself such a menace when all opportunities were before him he does not explain.

The offer was not only an unusual one but it is of course one which could not be complied with by the state of Pennsylvania for lack of authority, if there had been any desire to favor the substitution.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: The winds of March know no speed limit.

It will soon be time for the groundhog to release his control on the extension of winter.

Every severe storm causes much sympathy to be expressed for those who cling so valiantly to rum-row.

With the efforts to monopolize the air there's no telling how soon the "free air" signs will have to come down.

There's no use thinking that March has outgrown its lionlike disposition. Give it time and it always works out true to rule.

Speed, speed and more speed is the growing cry. London is predicting the barring of horses from the streets within five years.

Colorado and New Hampshire voters indicate the strong impression which President Coolidge has made upon the country.

So much opposition is shown toward the grade crossings in New York that the wonder is greater effort isn't made for a bit more care when using them.

The fact that there are 87 petitions filed with the pardon board of a middle west state may be one explanation why there is more difficulty in the way of law enforcement.

Admiral Plunkett probably believes what he said about Washington being the wettest city in the country, but there's a difference between [illegible]

FINDERS KEEPERS

"It seems good to sit down," sighed Mrs. Simmons' niece as she sank into her aunt's easy chair in her aunt's room. "I didn't realize I was so tired."

"Have you been going to too many parties?" asked her aunt. "Or has the baby been keeping you awake?"

"Oh, we've gone to bed early enough, it isn't that," said her niece. "It's just that I haven't recovered from yesterday yet."

"I passed you downtown one day last week," said Mrs. Simmons, "and I called to you, but you were so deep in thought you didn't hear me. I wondered what you were thinking of so busily."

"I probably wasn't thinking at all," laughed her niece. "I have fallen into a way of walking along with my eyes cast down, since Mrs. Ray told me about finding so many $5 bills."

"Gracious!" exclaimed Mrs. Simmons. "Where on earth does one find $5 bills, or any money at all, these days?"

"Mrs. Ray finds them any old place," said her niece. "She found one when on her way to market one day, I remember she said. She was crossing Broadway when she happened to look down and saw it lying right in front of her. Another day she picked one up on the floor of a store and a third time she found one that had been blown into her back yard. She's positively pursued by money and it isn't always $5 either. The week before Christmas she found a $10 bill on the south side and a $5 one over in the park. Mrs. Ray's luck started me on a mad career of looking for money."

"I was walking with a girl once who picked up a $5 bill," said Mrs. Simmons. "And I suppose I might just as well have had it as she if I had not been brought up to walk with my head up. Lots of the old-fashioned training seems to be not the thing now."

"Just wait a while!" laughed her niece. "Maybe even discipline will be fashionable and boys like George's nephew will behave."

"George's nephew?" cried her aunt.

"Oh, didn't I tell you?" asked her niece. "George's sister and her little boy passed through town yesterday. That's why I'm so tired today."

"First I've heard of it," said Mrs. Simmons. "So the young man needs discipline, does he?"

"Indeed he does," said her niece, feelingringly. "They call him a baby, and think him cute, but he's plenty old enough to be good, let me tell you.

"They came in on the 5 o'clock train yesterday and George brought them up at 7 to the house. He had to go to the office, but as they had never seen the city I parked my baby them. It was a little strenous, of over at Milly's and went around with course, as sightseeing always is, but I tried to do it brown and not mind the friskiness of that boy. I took them to a rather nice tearoom for lunch and there was such a crowd that we had to wait until some finished before we sat down. That child was so quick about grabbing the first vacated seat that he even sat down on somebody's coat."

"Too poor thing!"

"I was mighty glad when George came to join us and take us to the club, I can assure you," said her niece. "There was a crowd there, too, and as George hadn't been able to get a reservation we had to wait for a table to be free. At last we got one however, and we ate our meal in peace. The presence of a man acted very quietingly on that child, or else he was tired, for he was quite quiet until we were saying good-by to him at 10 o'clock."

"What did the youngster say then."

"We were standing beside the car platform," said her niece with a chuckle, "when George remarked that he had found a penny on his desk. He handed it up to that child, who took it without thanking him. Just as the train started he called back to us that he had found more than that and had it all in his pocket. He had found an the lunch table a 25-cent piece and on the dinner table a dollar, and he wished we'd gone somewhere for breakfast. You see, we had had breakfast at our house and we don't leave tips on our table for the waiters.—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Age of Humbug

Mr. Editor: A prominent American citizen and showman, who was also a student of human nature, and made his fortune in his profession, promulgated the dictum, "The public likes to be humbugged."

Of course he spoke of the plain simple-hearted public of his time, when humbugs were few besides himself. If he was here today he would have more competition for the general attitude of the public itself is one of humbug; and humbug is found to be in the majority wherever and whenever right and wrong comes up for discussion.

But there is another thing, the public of today delights in, and which it stands for, namely

The public likes to see a man immolated for his adherence to the right. Today as ever, "Truth on the gibbet, error on the throne."

The public whether in the mass or in its organized society forms, is always now very shy, to say the least, about standing up with the lone man who at heart they know is right.

History, of course, furnished precedents, but we have here in our community a striking example of G. Warren Davis who appears to stand alone in the observance of law, in an important particular that affects every citizen of the state and every association, educational, secular and religious.

It is not our purpose in this letter to enter deeply into the merits of the question although the task is inviting but it does seem to us that if there ever was a time when obedience to authority was so imperative it is the present time, and impressively so. The observance of authority lies at the root of all government, either in the home or the state, and with such an influx of aliens, it behooves the state to urge and secure obedience to law, as the prime requirement.

It goes without saying that our native population should set the example, and be not found wanting in this first principal of government.

It strikes us that school boards besides being servants of the public are selected as conservators of the state, and under obligation to promote loyalty, morality and intelligence, along with grammar and arithmetic, as being parts necessary in the construction of American citizenship of a type worthy of our past or future or of the emulation of other peoples. To use terms that are now fast approaching slang, this is no "fundamental" as well as "modernistic".

The consensus of the community should stand for this, and should think it worth contending for, and yet only a voice here and there is heard from some man or woman who braves the odium of a letter to the press.

Yet, every club, organization, society, church and even homes will have to submit and change its hours of meeting and of business if the humbug prevails and the law is defied and Mr. Davis put down.

THE TSETSE FLY PROBLEM

The assertion that has recently come from Germany that the German Colonial Society has a successful remedy for the hitherto incurable "sleeping sickness" of tropical Africa, but will not make it known unless Germany's prewar colonies are restored, turns attention to one of the most dreaded of known maladies.

"It is hardly too much to say that sleeping sickness, and the tsetse fly which plays an important part in causing it, have done more than mountain ranges, mighty rivers and most other natural features to affect, divert and hold back development in central Africa," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"The Boer and British settlers of South Africa had no tsetse problem," continues the bulletin, "until their pioneers had pushed on toward the tropics. Then their cattle, bitten by flies, sickened and died. With the further opening up of the hot country the tsetse fly was introduced to the world as a tiny insect more destructive of domestic cattle than the ravening lions that operate in some of the same territory.

"When Europeans came into contact with the tsetse fly in some of the more southern 'fly belts' his destructiveness seemed confined to their cattle. Flies in those regions inflicted painful bites on men, but that was the end of it. Closer to the Equator a much more sinister side of the fly became apparent when it was found that the seemingly always fatal sleeping sickness of humans in those sections followed the bites of the flies as did the death of domestic animals. The entire future of the tropical African colonies of the various European powers was seen to hang on the possibility of combating the sleeping sickness; for with the greater freedom of movement stimulated by the advance of civilization, the disease spread from its local centers and threatened to wipe out the entire population of countries. In the years just preceding the World War British, German, French, Belgian, Portuguese and Italian scientists were busy in Africa seeking to learn more about the tsetse fly and the disease, and to find ways of combating them. But though the development and transmission of the disease came to be known in detail, none of the investigators has claimed to discover any successful remedy, save the Germans.

"The investigations that disclosed the complicated plan by which nature keeps the microscopic organisms of the sleeping sickness alive and injects them into human victims makes a fascinating chapter of science despite the dark side of the picture.

"It was found that there must be a large animal whose blood is the proper sort to constitute a 'reservoir' for the organisms. If this 'reservoir' is 'tapped' by the tsetse fly the organisms drawn out undergo a slight change in the fly's intestines and glands and are injected as through a hypodermic syringe when later the fly bites a similar animal or a human. It was thought at first that a succession of ill human victims furnished the reservoirs; but all humans on certain islands were transported, and still the flies were able to transmit the disease several years later. Crocodiles were popularly suspected of being the 'reservoirs' but it was proved that the disease could not be transmitted from their blood.

"Finally, by patient research, the fact was run down that a certain species of antelope—the Situnga—is the guilty animal. Though he remains perfectly healthy himself, his blood may contain millions of the organisms fatal to man. The fly, imbibing his daily diet of blood from the infected situnga, sucks in the organisms, and in turn receives no ill effects from them. But when he bites a man, he deals out deadly poison. As far as man is concerned, antelope or fly would each be entirely harmless without the other. But they have set up unconsciously an association that forms one of the most sinister partnerships in the world.

"Though it is almost impossible to exterminate either the antelope or the tsetse in central Africa—a step that might wipe out the disease—it was possible, after their dangerous relationships came to be understood, to take certain steps to better conditions. This was made possible by the fact that the flies have restricted breeding grounds along the shores of lakes and streams. Many of these areas were evacuated much against the wishes of the natives, and abandoned to the flies. The result has been a marked decrease in the number of cases of sleeping sickness in recent years. In both abandoned areas, however, both the flies and the antelopes remain, and keep alive the fatal disease organisms. If a human ventures into the regions he is very likely to become infected.

"One interesting fact developed in a most interesting way by British naturalists who studied the tsetse fly problem, is that the flies are relatively long-lived. They live about a year and, once harboring the disease organism, preserve their power of infection to the end. The approximate life span of the flies when free was determined by patiently catching thousands of them, marking their legs, much as a cattleman 'ear marks' his animals, and releasing them. At intervals continued to appear among the captives, healthy and active, for the better part of a year."

Stories That Recall Others

No Prize, But Victory

In a certain neighborhood two small boys, age six and nine were so proficient in cleaning up the others youngsters that some of the mothers talked about issuing a prize to the boy that would clean up the "butcher knife twins" as the two terrors were called.

One day an ambitious youngster hitched his wagon to a star and started out. His mother was horrified on his return and spent some time in cleaning him up.

"I don't want no prize," the youngster cried, but some days later on his return home he said:

"Well, you won't hear any more about the 'butcher knife twins' driving us off the street. We cleaned them up. It took sight to do it but we done it!"

Worried in Earnest

This happened several weeks ago when the thermometer was a bit above zero. One barber said he believed he had frozen his ear. Another said the water pipes in his house had frozen. About everyone had given his views in "decorated" English. One exception was a big six footer, weighing about 250, and who carried on his face and expression that looked like business, sudden death or six months' illness. His comment on the weather bould have been more vivid, but he said:

The thing that worries me about this weather is that I fear all the birds will starve."

WOMAN WEAK DIZZY, FAINT

Found Relief in Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Always Recommends It.

Bridgeport, Connecticut.—"I was completely run-down, had headaches, dizzy, faint feelings and other troubles women often have. As I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before, my husband said to take it again. I have now taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, the Liver Pills, and six boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets. I am feeling very good now and shall continue taking them for a while. I have been telling my cousin about the medicine and she wants to take it, too. I always recommend it."—Mrs. HENRY C. SMITH, R. F. D. No. 8, Box 4, Bridgeport, Conn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Smith's experience is but one of many.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 121,000 replies were received, and 98 per cent. reported they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

POETRY

Paper-Making

There are moments filled with rapture as of silver bells that chime.
When the mind goes drifting, drifting to the past
With its sunny slopes and meadows of my childhood's happy time.
And the golden days too beautiful to last
And this one from recollections of the happy long ago.
Round the corner of my memory lingers still;
When the spicewood buds are swelling,
and the pussywillows blow.
And they tap the sugar maples on the hill!

For each mile along the pathway there's a patch of blue above.
And the sun between the clouds is looking down;
And it seems like fairy fingers, with a tender touch of love.
Have bestowed upon each hill a glory
crown.
So my mind goes drifting, drifting to the lilt of wooing birds.
As the flowers peep beside the woodland rill;
All of life is one fine poem running on in sweetest words.
When they tap the sugar maples on the hill!
—Alonzo Rice in Indianapolis News

Notes of Cheer

All that we have willed, or hoped, or dreamed of good, shall exist.
Not its semblance, but itself; no beauty, nor good, nor power,
Whose voice has gone forth, but each
survives for the melodist,
When eternity confirms the conception of an hour.
The high that proved too high, the heroic for earth too hard,
The passion that left the ground to lose itself in the sky,
Are music sent up to God by the lover
and the bard;
Enough that He heard it once; we shall hear it by and by.
—Robert Browning

Behind the cloud the starlight lurks,
Through showers the sunbeams fall;
For God, who loveth all his works,
Hath left his hopes with all.
—John G. Whittier

For right is right, since God is God,
And right the day must win.
To doubt would be disloyalty,
To falter would be sin.
—Frederick W. Faber

To let the new life in, we know
Desire must ope the portal;
Perhaps the longing to be so
Makes the soul immortal.
—James Russell Lowell

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Visitor—This country is dry, isn't it?

Bootlegger—Well, if you dig down deep enough you can find something.—Boston Transcript.

He—Sweetheart, I'd go through anything for you.

She—Let's start on your bank account.—Notre Dame Juggler.

He—You get on my nerves, always looking in the glass at yourself.

She—What do you mean? Why, I don't think I am half so pretty as I really am!—Exchange.

Bachelor—When you kiss a girl good-by forever should you do it quickly?

Benedict—By all means. Otherwise she might forgive you and marry you.—New York Sun and Globe.

Judge (in assault and battery case)—What instrument did you use to produce the plaintiff to this condition?

Defendant (proudly)—None at all, your honor. It was all hand work.—Life.

"Come here, Carrie," said a visitor to the daughter of her hostess, and tell me how old you are."

"Do you mean when I'm at home or when I'm riding on a street car?" asked Carrie.—Chicago News.

"Now," said the teacher, who had been giving a grammar lesson on singular and plural nouns. "What is the difference between 'man' and 'men'?"

"Well?" asked the teacher as Billy's hand shot up.

"Please, sir, 'man' is one man, and 'men' is lots of 'mans'!"—Boys' Life.

Mother—What is little Freddie bawling about?

Father—He nearly swallowed my cufflinks, so I gave him a couple of cuffs.—Boston Transcript.

Add to the evil smell of hydrogen sulphide, a common gas, the essence of decayed eggs, the odium of being one of the most toxic of gases. It is comparable to deadly hydrogen cyanide in its rapidity of action and the concentration from which death will result. Two parts of hydrogen sulphide in 10,000 parts of air when breathed for a few days will cause death. Weaker concentration will cause poisoning, and it is found in such quantities in some industries.

The autograph of an elephant on the way to his own funeral, an event which occured some million years or so ago, has been found in Nevada. The footprints of the great beast are clearly seen as he made them when he plodded wearily along through the soft sand, subsequently hardening into rock. That it was his last walk was discovered when the scientists excavated the rock and traced the footprints to where the fossil bones of this denizen of the forests of ancient times laid.

New York state leads all the others in the amount of water power development, the extent of the utilization being 1,506,000-horse power. The largest single development is at Niagara Falls. The second state in the line of "white coal" is California, where something more than 1,100,000-horse power has been developed. There is a big gap between these figures and those for Washington which occupies third place, using 454,000-horse power. Maine is fourth with a few thousand less horse power, and Montana is 5th with 344,000-horse power development.

RHEUMATISM

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given By One Who Had It.

In the year of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Subacute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who are thus afflicted know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally, I found a treatment that cured me completely, and such a pitiful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, even bedridden, some of them seventy to eighty years old, and the results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and subacute (swelling at the joints) rheumatism, to try the great value of my improved "Home Treatment" for its remarkable healing power. Don't send a cent, simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of getting rid of such forms of rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Arthur T. Randall

Word was received in this city Wednesday evening of the death of Mary Brainard Deshon, wife of Rev. Arthur Truman Randall, fromerly of Norwich and Poquetanuck. Her death occurred on Tuesday at her home on Pleasant street, Meriden, following an illness from pneumonia of a short duration. Mrs. Randall is a native of Meriden and is the daughter of the late Rev. Giles Henry Deshon, D. D., former pastor of St. Andrew's church, Meriden, of which church her husband has been pastor for the past 40 years. Rev. Mr. Randall also served as pastor at Poquentanuck and was a native of this city, gaining his education in the public schools and the Norwich Free Academy. He was well known in this city and Poquetanuck having many friends in both places who extend him sympathy in his time of sorrow.

Mrs. Randall, besides her husband, is survived by five children and other relatives.

Mrs. Louis G. Walz.

The life of Julia Ortmann, beloved wife of Louis G. Walz, came to a sudden close Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at her home at 21 Hill street when she suffered a cerebral hemorrhage. She had been up and around the house earlier in the morning in her usual good health.

Mrs. Walz was born in Worcester, Mass., on June 30, 1881, the daughter of Henry and Katherine Stamm Ortmann. Following the death of her father, when she was a young girl, she came to Norwich and attended the grammar schools of the city.

On October 31, 1900, she was united in marriage with Louis G. Walz, who survives her with three brothers, Frederick, Louis and William Ortmann; also one sister, Miss Elizabeth Ortmann.

Mrs. Walz fraternally was a member of Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, and of Home Chapter of King's Daughters. In both organizations she took an active interest, ever being willing to work when the cause was a worthy one. There are many friends in Norwich who will mourn her loss, for her loving and kind disposition had endeared her to many. The sympathy of friends in all parts of the city is extended to the family in their bereavement.

Hugh C. Callahan

The death of Hugh C. Callahan occurred at his home at 146 Boswell avenue Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. Mr. Callahan was born in this city on March 1, 1864, the son of the late John and Bridget Merrigan Callahan and his entire life was spent in Norwich. On Oct. 8, 1889 he was united in marriage with Lillian J. O'Rourke who survives him. He also leaves three daughters, Mrs. Frank B. Charmatz, of New York city, Mrs. Raymond D. Coleman and Miss France Callahan of this city; two sisters, Mrs Henry J. Pratt of Springfield, Mass., and Mrs. Thomas J. O'Rourke of this city and one grand daughter, Dorothy Charmatz of New York.

WEDDING.

Burbett-Peckham

The marriage of Miss Doris Almira Peckham, daughter of Mrs. Charles Eccleston of Mystic and Matthew John Burbett has been announced. The couple were married in New London Feb. 22. Mrs. Burbett is still teaching at the Old Mystic school.

DINNER BURGLAR AT CLARENCE PRATT'S HOME

The New Haven home of a former Norwich man, Clarence C. Pratt, who is a printer, had a visit this week from the so-called dinner burglar who is given this name because his method is to carry out his burglaries at the hour when families will be enjoying their evening meal.

It appears that Mrs. Pratt and her daughter were in the living room enjoying the evening papers when Miss Pratt complained of a draft which seemed to have its origin in the bed room, and hastening there, she sensed rather than saw, a figure which appeared to glide phantom-like out of the window.

Her glance quickly turned to the bed, on which but a few moments before, had reposed her hand bag containing seven dollars and small amount of change and by this time somewhat prepared for the shock, she was not surprised to learn that it had disappeared.

A dresser drawer, containing jewelry and other valuables, lay partly open, the thief having evidently been interrupted in his ransacking by the the young woman's appearance upon the scene, and hastily making his getaway through a nearby window. At this juncture, Mr. Pratt, who happened to be in the cellar where he was attending the furnace, heard the burglar quite distinctly when he dropped to the walk, but thinking it was a noise made by small boys playing about the yard, he did not give it his attention until informed by his wife and daughter that a burglary had been committed.

NINTH BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR ROBERT ECCLESTON

A party was given Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock to celebrate the ninth birthday of Robert Eccleston, at his home at 295 West Main street. The dining room was nicely decorated with green and red crepe paper, the favors being little baskets and comic blowouts. Games were played, prizes being won by Thelma Marsh, Leonard Royce and John Fallon. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Eccleston. The host was the recipient of many nice gifts. Those present were: Thelma Marsh, Elaine Belair, Leonard Royce, Edward Fenton, Donald Lillibridge, James Angel, and John Fallon.

Workmen's Compensation Finding

SEVENTH GRADE BOYS EXHIBIT BIRD HOUSES

In one of the large show windows of the Plaut-Cadden store in Main street is an excellent exhibit of bird houses made by the boys of the seventh grades in the Norwich public schools. The exhibit which was placed in the store window Wednesday morning is attracting considerable attention and favorable comment. In all about 70 bird houses of various kinds, all most attractively arranged and with the exhibit is a large sign bearing the words "Exhibit Manual Training Department, Seventh Grades, Public Schools." The schools which have joined in the exhibit are Broadway, Elizabeth street, Greeneville, Taftville and Norwich Town schools. All the birds houses were made by the boys under the direction of Walter U. Forschler, the manual training director.

In the collection are houses for wrens, woodpeckers, blue birds, blue jays, finches, etc., and there are also nesting shelves for robins, in color the houses are brown and green, to blend with the foliage and to make them inconspicuous to bird enemies. The exhibit will remain in the window until Friday and later the bird houses will be placed in trees and in the parks by the boys who made them in time for the birds' return in the spring.

The boys are taking a great interest in bird life and are anxiously waiting the return of the feather folk from the sunny south. No doubt the tenants of the new bird homes will be watched closely by the boys who are furnishing them rent free apartments for the summer. Sometime during the spring the boys expect to hear an illustrated lecture on birds by Wilfred Smith of the state fish and game commission.

CLEVER CAST PRESENTS "SO THIS IS LONDON"

A well selected cast appeared Wednesday evening at the Broadway theater in the international comedy success, So This Is London, written by Arthur Goodrich and presented by George M. Cohan, making an evening of thorough entertainment for which the Norwich audience will register a debt of gratitude to the Broadway management.

The comedy is an exaggerated play upon the American attitude that sees only density and slowness in our British cousins and the English belief that Americans have hardly got beyond the stage of painted savages, these two conceptions being amusingly worked out by the experiences of an American family of three who visit London and come into contact with the intense aristocracy of the eight little island. The American son falls in love with the English daughter, each in turn defying the ideas of their respective parents, but everything comes out all right in the end.

The following was the cast:

Hiram Draper (Junior) ..... Allen H. Moore
Elinor Beauchamp, Lady Azzy Ducksworth ..... Blossom O'Bryan, Marjorie Dalton
Hiram Draper, Mrs. Hiram Draper, A Flunky at the Ritz ..... Ralph Locke, Eugenie DuBois, William Dean
Sir Percy Beauchamp, Lady Beauchamp ..... Arnold Carrington, Barbara Allen
Alfred Honeycutt, Sir Thomas, a Butler ..... Donald Hall, Eugene Shakespeare
Jennings, Lady Ducksworth's butler ..... William Haseen

Mr. Moore was capital as the young American and Miss O'Bryan charming in the role of the English girl, while Mr. Locke and Miss DuBois portrayed the American parents with realism and Mr. Carrington and Miss Allen were excellent as the titled Britishers. "Spoofing" in the British style and "stringing" in the American made high spots in the lines that were "perfectly ripping" and kept the house in roars of laughter.

STORM ISOLATES VILLAGES NORTH OF NORWICH

Norwich evidently experienced but a small part of the force of the storm which swept over New England Tuesday. In many towns and villages north of Norwich people were more or less isolated Wednesday as the country roads were impassable. Slush and snow combined with deep mud made going impossible in many places. One man who is engaged in business in Norwich and who lives home nine or ten miles out of the city found it impossible to drive his machine over the country roads and could not reach his place of business Wednesday.

According to reports from Danielson the highway between Danielson and Providence was impassable Wednesday. Similar reports came from other places in eastern Connecticut. Wires, poles and trees went down from the force of the storm and the high wind resulted in deep drifts in many places.

BOY SCOUT EXECUTIVES TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Among those who are planning to attend the conference of executives in charge of Boy Scouts councils throughout the state to be held Wednesday of next week in Hartford are Scout Executive F. A. Benton of this city and Scout Executive Frederick F. Burdick of New London. The conference is to be held in the old state house.

The most important question which will come before the meeting will be the matter of rules governing the annual state contest of Scout troops. The contest, it is expected, will be held in Hartford in May or June. Last year it was held in Waterbury with the New Haven contingent winning that honors.

Workmen's Compensation

The following workmen's compensation agreements have been approved [illegible] Commissioner J. J. Donohue:

TAX REDUCTION PLAN DISCUSSED BY ROTARIANS

Among several important matters of business at the meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel was the appointment of a committee to cooperate with committees representing four other civic organizations regarding the local tax situation.

The taxation situation was brought before the members of the club by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott in a talk on "Current Events". Rev. Mr. Abbott said that every citizen in Norwich is aware that the present method of taxation does not tend toward equality and that some solution should be worked out whereby this inequality could be rectified.

There are two steps to be considered said Mr. Abbott, First, an understanding that there is a taxation situation here that needs to be rectified. Second, a definite plan of action toward securing an equalization of taxation, as recently recommended to the Chamber of Commerce by Commissioner Blodgett, who advised Norwich to get busy, as it has now the worst tax situation in the state. At a recent informal conference it was decided to suggest that five of our civic organizations, the Chamber of Commerce, the Lions club, the Manufacturers' association, the Retail Merchants bureau and the Rotary club each appoint three men to sit in as a central committee to nominate five men as the nucleus of a general committee of 15, as was done to straighten out the Middletown tax muddle. It is proposed then to go to the town for a special town meeting which will be asked to appoint a committee of 15 to analyze the situation and make recommendations. Our tax situation has been bad for a long time and the many tax inequalities all over town are recognized. Our tax rate is steadily mounting and may reach 50 mills. The method proposed, which has been adopted as a recommendation by the directors of all the five bodies mentioned, will cover the entire field and give the facts on which to base action.

In concluding his talk Mr. Abbott made a motion that the president of the Rotary club be empowered to appoint three members to serve as a committee of the other organizations. President Saxton announced the following as members of the committee: Grosvenor Ely, Frank P. Welch and F. Russell Smith.

President Charles A. Saxton and Past President William G. Park were elected delegates to the spring conference of the 20th district of Rotary which will be held at New Britain next month. Nominations for directors of the club for the ensuing year were made and 17 names were presented. From this number eight will be elected at the annual meeting in April. They will in turn elect the officers of the club. There was a lengthy discussion on various club matters but no definite action was taken on them.

Joseph C. Worth was the song leader and kept the club trying out the new songs which will be part of the Ladies' Night program. The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

HARLOW BOGUE GIVES FRIENDS PLEASANT EVENING

A number of friends of J. Harlow Bogue enjoyed an evening of pleasure Wednesday at his home on Broad street. The party had been planned by Mr. Bogue for the purpose of giving his friends a real time and every minute of the evening was filled with something new.

Those attending the party were George A. Finn, William MacKenzie and Dr. Underhill, Mr. Hall of Wallingford, Tyler Stanton, Tyler Rogers, Herbert Corey, Fred A. Watson and Lou O. Hawkins.

During the evening music, both instrumental and vocal were enjoyed. Several members of the party favored with dancing sketches and pleasing quartet numbers were given. One of the interesting features of the entertainment of the evning came when Messrs. MacKenzie and Underhill told of their trying experiences on their several exploring trips.

Later in the evening refreshments were served by the host, assisted by his mother, Mrs. William R. Bogue. The party was the first of a group which are to follow, the several members of the party to entertain at future dates.

RAYMOND WILCOX HEADS WORCESTER TECH. COMMITTEE

(Special to the Bulletin)

Worcester, Mass., March 13—Raymond G. Wilcox, son of Mrs. Rosa L. Wilcox of Norwich, was elected chairman of the commencement committee of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute senior class at a meeting held last evening. Wilcox has been prominent in student activities since entering the Worcester engineering school, being one of the two students to make Skull, the honorary senior society, and Sigma Xi, the honorary research fraternity. He has also won his letter in football the past three years; is manager of this year's baseball team; a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, and is taking the course in civil engineering.

Presented Chest of Silver.

Miss Freda Eda Krause of 256 Boswell avenue, assistant forewoman of the warping department at the J. B. Martin plant on Franklin street, was most pleasantly surprised Wednesday afternoon when the shop closed for the day. As she was about to leave the building a number of the employes asked her to step into the office, and there she found a group awaiting, who presented her a handsome chest of silver and beautiful hand painted picture.

The gifts were made in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Krause to Howard W. Edwards of 14 Cliff street, and the bride-to-be received the best wishes of her friends.

Social For Church Members.

Another successful and well attended social was held Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Henry Gear in Trading Cove, in connection with the "get acquainted" programme of the Central Baptist church.

The last meeting of the week is to be held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Peckham of West Thames street and it is expected that this also will be a success.

The ratio of males to females is higher for the farm population than it is for the total population except in three states.

FAT THAT SHOWS SOON DISAPPEARS

Prominent fat that comes and stays where it is not needed is a burden, a hindrance to activity, a curse upon pleasure. You can take off the fat where it shows by taking after each meal and at bedtime one Marmola Prescription Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous prescription Dr. Edwards which they take their name from, and try a box today. All druggists the world over sell them at one dollar a box, or you can get them direct from the Marmola Co., 4312 Woodward ave., Detroit, Mich.

LOWERED BAPTIST HILL BY 5 FEET AT MYSTIC

The grading of the road over Baptist hill in Mystic will probably be ready for concreting about April 1, it is expected. Work on the road is progressing rapidly and is being rushed to completion with all possible haste.

A rock ledge 20 feet in length was penetrated in reducing the height of the hill. However, the length of the old road which goes diagonally about 1,800 feet before striking the New London turnpike will be little changed by the new road.

Congrete is the material of which the new road will be constructed. It will be about 22 feet wide and on the north side there will be a five foot concrete sidewalk and on the south side a four foot concrete gutter. A large 36 inch drain pipe has already been laid from the hill to Main street which will carry off the water and sewerage from the houses along the line and will empty into the river. It is estimated that more pipe was used in this construction than on any other job when the distance covered was the same. At the foot of Baptist hill on the south side of the road a six-foot receining wall has been constructed. The Kupper's home which stood on the north side of the road was torn down and other houses have been removed or torn down to permit the widening of the road. Trees and other impediments have also been removed.

Buildings in many cases have been moved back over three feet. Among these are the Wilcox Co. building at the foot of the hill, the annex of the Variety store and the Williams house.

The contract for the work let by the state calls for a payment of more per mile than any contract before let for a like undertaking. Engineer Claude Zoe Jette of the state highway department and Division Engineer John Smith of Norwich are supervising the construction work. The plans were drawn by Division Engineer Bushnell of New Haven. McGann Bros. of New Haven, who are doing the work, will also build a road in Stonington.

Reconstruction of the road by the removal of eight feet from the top of the hill requires that worshippers at the Baptist church situated at the top of the hill enter through the basement door in order to reach the auditorium because of the blocking of the front door.

Considerable ground has been removed from the foundation of the church as a result of the work and it has been found necessary to build a high retaining wall to protect the building. To reach the front entrance of the church 25 stone steps have been constructed.

Baptist Hill, it is believed, deprived its name from the fact that so many people of that faith traveled over the hill to attend church in Groton. Some years afterwards the Baptist church, which was the first church in Mystic, was built there. The small building constructed at that time was soon outgrown and the present Baptist church was built in 1861. In the fall of 1901 extensive repairs and alterations were made on the new church. The entire front of the auditorium was replaced in the church at a cost of $2,650. A large choir gallery was also constructed, a new baptistry built, the pulpit platform enlarged and the interior woodwork excepting the pews was stained. The improvements were made possibly by funds left by the church by the late Stephen Woodward, in whose memory a bronze tablet has been erected on one of the walls of the auditorium. Various needed repairs have been made since.

ARREST ON BOSWELL AVE. ON LIQUOR SALE CHARGE

Joseph Marcio and his wife Raffinola, were arrested early Wednesday evening at their home on Boswell avenue, near the old engine house and are charged with the sale of booch. A bottle was secured as evidence by the police. The arrests were made by Sergeant Thomas Murphy and Officer William Sharvan.

The man and woman gave bail in $300 each for their appearance in court.

WILLIAM BROSOFSKA WINS MOOSE PINOCHLE PRIZE

William Brosofska carried away first prize Wednesday evening in the pinochle tournament, held at Moose home on Laurel Hill avenue, his score for the evening being 8150. Second place was held by Benny Wunderlick with a score of 7285, third place by Peter Carolina with 7080 and fourth place to Harry Bronson with 6985.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Friday evening at Moose home.

Supper at First Baptist Church

There was a good attendance Wednesday evening at the supper served by the Ladies' Aid society of the First Baptist church. The proceeds of the supper will be used by the society for church work.

Wind Blew Wires Together

The fire alarm struck one blow about 2.30 o'clock Wednesday evening. Wires blown together by the wind caused the bells to strike.

Some men are constantly trying to lower the record for meanness.

BIG ULCER ALL HEALED

Now She Can Walk

"I'm Happy," Says Peterson

"Here is another letter that makes me happy," says Peterson. "One that I would rather have than a thousand dollars."

"Money isn't everything in this world. There is many a big-hearted rich man who would give all he has on earth to be able to produce a remedy with such mighty healing power as Peterson's Ointment.

"Read this letter by Mrs. Albert Southcott. It seems like a miracle but it is true, every word of it.

"Is it any wonder I am happy?"

Dear Sirs:

"I was a sufferer from an old running sore and ulcer. I had tried most everything without any relief from pain. A friend told me of your wonderful ointment and the first box took away the pain—that had not left me before in years, and after using just nine dollars worth I am cured. The ulcer was 8 inches by 6 1-2 inches, is all healed and I can walk. Never, never will I be without Peterson's Ointment.

"You may use this to recommend your ointment if you wish. I cannot say enough to praise it." Yours truly, Mrs. Albert Southcott, Lyndonville, N. Y. Price 35c.

M'TIGHE MUST POST $25,000 BEFORE SATURDAY NOON OR LOSE NEWARK CLUB

New York, March 12.—Michael McTighe, president of the Newark baseball club, must post $25,000 by next Saturday noon as a guarantee that he will operate and fulfill all obligations of the club or the franchise will be revoked by the International league and will revert to its former owners, William Ashton and Bernard Moan of Baltimore. This was the ultimatum issued today by the club owners of the International league in a special session here. McTighe said after the meeting that he would post the guarantee.

In the event McTighe fails to make good this guarantee the league magnates were assured by Moan and Ashton that they would take back the franchise and operate the club during the 1924 season.

After the meeting, Edward Gray, of Newark, and Howard F. McConnell, mayor of Montclair, N. J., announced they had notified International league officials they stood ready to make a cash offer of $50,000 for the Newark franchise. Prior to transfer of the club to its present ownership, McConnell's name was mentioned in connection with negotiations for the property.

The Newark situation has been a perplexing problem for the league ever since the franchise passed into Newark hands. The present owners now are without a park or a manager and have not completed training plans, although the league opens April 16.

According to John Conway Toole, league president, $50,000 was posted by the new owners a month ago to carry out the terms of the contract with the old owners but that deposit has since been withdrawn and the league has had no assurance that the new owners would operate this year.

In explaining the situation McTighe said his partner, Corbett McCarthy, had withdrawn from the syndicate and that the failure to agree on procedure with Charles (Buck) Herzog, vice president and manager, caused the latter to resign. However, he said, new capital has been interested to insure the club's fulfillment of its obligations.

While the magnates were in session at the Hotel Commodore, a majority of the 30 players signed by the Newark club for the 1924 season, gathered in the lobby to await the league's action.

Club representatives in attendance included: A. H. Leman, Toronto; Samuel L. Robertson, Buffalo; Walter Hapgood, Rochester; Michael Kelly, Syracuse; Jack Dunn and Charles Knapp, Baltimore; Fred Shollenberger and A. Van De Burgh, Reading; Michael McTighe, Newark, and A. McGall, Jersey City.

DEMPSEY NOT LIKELY TO FIGHT OVER ONCE IN 1924

New York, March 12.—Despite increasing indications that the proposed return match in the metropolitan district early in June between Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons would be shelved, Tex Rickard declared tonight he was still in the field for the match and would make a definite offer within a few days to Jack Kearns, the champion's manager.

Faced with the statements of Dempsey and Kearns that the titleholder's next bout and only 1924 battle probably would be against Luis Firpo in September, Rickard reiterated that he is going ahead with Dempsey-Gibbons plans. The promoter already has obtained Gibbons' consent to terms.

Kearns, however, while admitting that an attractive enough offer would influence him to alter his plans, admitted that he does not expect Dempsey to risk his crown again until around Labor day. Contracts for motion picture work by Dempsey, which Kearns expects to sign in a few days, would keep the champion busy until July 1, after which he would be ready to start training for a title contest.

"I had held out hopes for bouts with Gibbons, Harry Wills and Firpo this season," said Kearns, "but so far no responsible promoter has made me a definite offer for any of these fights. Rickard has made me no offer for a Gibbons fight in June or any other time. Neither have we discussed a return bout with Firpo but right now that looks like the only definite thing likely to develop unless some new contender steps up."

YALE CREWS SHOW UP WELL AFTER WEEK'S WORK

New Haven, March 12.—The Yale crews today completed a week of outdoor work on the local harbor. Coach Ed Leader has been putting the crews through a nine mile workout each day, the weather with the exception of yesterday's being good.

Al Lindley, stroke of last year's victorious crew, reported today, as he had just finished the season with the hockey team, and stroked the "C" crew. Whitney and Ives alternated at stroke on the first varsity.

Coach Leader is making almost daily shifts in the personnel of the three crews.

English Soccer Results.

London, March 12.—League soccer football games played here today resulted as follows:

English League—First Division.

Westbromwich Albion 0, Chelsea 0; Aston Villa 2, Arsenal 1; Bolton 4, Liverpool 1.

Second Division.

Bradford City 6, Clapton Orient 0.

Fourth round replays in the English association football cup resulted in victories for Manchester City over Cardiff, 1-0, and Burnley over Swindon, 3-1. The Manchester City-Cardiff game went into extra time.

Manchester City meets Newcastle at Birmingham and Burnley will be pitted against Aston Villa at Bramwell Lane, Sheffield, in the semi-finals of the cup series to be played March 29.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

FAST GAMES PLAYED IN "Y" BASKETBALL LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 12.—Two fast and hard fought games were played in the House league games tonight on contest the Leather Pushers had to the Y. M. C. A. court. In the first come from behind in the second half in order to gain a victory over the Doormats by a 22 to 21 score. The second game found the Mebs winning over the Clerks by a 34 to 4 score.

A real battle was the result in the first game when the Leather Pushers scored a victory over the Doormats. It was a roughly played game but interesting from the spectators' point of view. On two occasions the play was so close and the rivalry so intense that a member of the Leather Pushers team and a member of the Doormats actually came to blows, but before the two players could inflict any damage on the other, the battle was stopped. Outside of these incidents the game was hard fought from the very start.

The Doormats started off in whirlwind fashion, and piled up an early lead. The Leather Pushers were away off form in the first half and it looked as though it would be a victory for the Doormats. In the second half however, the pushers of the leather sphere hit their stride again. Little by little this team began to creep up on the Doormats until a tie score at 36-all resulted with about eight minutes remaining of playing time.

The Doormats went into the lead when Slater dropped in a basket from beneath. The Leather Pushers' forwards immediately got into action and when the dust had cleared away, this team was leading by a 22 to 28 score. Three minutes and a half remained of playing time when Rankin was ejected from the game with four personal fouls. The Leather Pushers being without a substitute had to continue the game with but four men. However, the winners played a strict defensive game and the Doormats could not score even one basket. It was a remarkable comeback for the Leather Pushers to make in the first half after this team was ten points behind, as the score stood 25 to 15 in favor of the Doormats.

Jim MacMahon and Risch for the Leather Pushers were the most consistent performers for that team. Both of these players accounted for ½ of the team's total of 22 points.

Slater, with 7 field baskets and one foul goal led the losers in the matter of scoring. Taylor played a fast floor game at all times.

The summary and lineups:

Mebs Beat Clerks.

Displaying an unbeatable brand of basketball in the first 15 minutes of the Mebs-Clerks games, the Clerks suddenly went to pieces and an easy victory for the Mebs was the result. A red-hot contest tapered off to no contest at all. It takes two teams to make a basketball game, but as the first half was nearing the end, the Clerks began to crack and were more or less cracked for the remainder of the game.

The good defense of the Clerks in the early minutes of the game was a thing to brag about. The Mebs' scores were very few and far between during that time. But while the Mebs were kept away from the basket they developed a snappy passing game that proved to be dangerous to the Clerks as the game progressed. All the Mebs had to do was wait for an opening, knowing very well that the Clerks could not keep up their fast game.

The break in the Clerks' defense came like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky. And a deluge of baskets followed, with both Sistare and McDougal leading in the attack. The final score of the first half read 14 to 4 in the Mebs' favor.

In the next half what the Mebs backcourt men lacked in the first half was made up in this 20-minute period of playing time. Playing well together the Mebs were able to keep the Clerks away from the basket entirely, holding that team scoreless, while their forwards were allowed to run wild scoring baskets at almost every turn.

Brais for the Mebs was a fast player on the court at all times. He played an important part in the passing system of that team. Prince's work at guard was also good.

Griffin and Kirchoff played the best for the Clerks.

The teams lined up as follows:

Mebs.

| | G. | F. | Pts. |
|---|---|---|---|
| McDougal, rf | 3 | 0 | 6 |

FIRPO-REICH FIGHT HAS BEEN POSTPONED

Buenos Aires, March 12.—The fifteen round boxing bout between Luis Firpo and Al Reich, of New York, has been postponed until April 5.

The postponement was at the request of Firpo, who is suffering from soreness of a muscle in the left arm which developed after his recent fight with Kenneth Poolle. Firpo had the arm treated and although the soreness has not entirely disappeared, it is believed that it will not interfere with the fight.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking, according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

GOOD BOXING SHOW AT DANIELSON TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, March 12.—Big doings are scheduled for tomorrow evening at the Casino arena. Promoter Frank Barber has arranged another fine card of bouts, and the forcast for plenty of action in the Home of Action.

Starring for the crowd tonight will be by Francis Rossi of Brockton and Eddie Herman of New York, these battlers to meet in a 10-round go, at 135 pounds. Both are comers in the lightweight division. Picking the winner of this match in advance of their meeting is like trying to pick the innocent victim of the oil scandal. Rossi has been socking everybody that has confronted him in New England the past few months and added another victory to his string when he scored a victory over Romeo Roche of Holyoke—a hard hitter and clever boxer, but outclassed by the speedy Rossi.

In Eddie Herman, Rossi will meet one of the climbers of the New York lightweight division. Herman comes to Danielson tooted as speedy, aggressive, clever and anxious to win. He can sock like a welterweight. He is anxious to win a decision over Rossi, for such a win would put him in line for some big matches that Rossi will be apt to get, on the other hand, should he win. Victory tonight means a lot to both Rossi and Herman. That being the case, their's should be some match.

In the semi-final Eddie Sawyer of Boston and Johnny Wolgast of Lynn will hook up for an 8-round go. They both come from what is regarded as the greater Boston district and they are something or rivals in that territory. Each is of the opinion he can get the other and each will have his chance tonight. They will enter the ring weighing in the vicinity of 124 pounds.

The preliminary events tonight will bring Jerry Bernard of Putnam and Johnny Lawson of Boston, lightweights scheduled to go six rounds, in the other preliminary event Harry Doyle of Bridgeport, and Young Falcone of Norwich, will trade punches for four rounds.

PROFS TOO STRONG FOR ROTARIANS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 12.—Although losing the first match, the Professional Men came back strong in the next two matches and captured two sets out of three in a scheduled league volleyball game at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening against the Rotary club. The Rotary club did good work in winning even one match from the league leaders, this is more than some of the other teams in the league have done. It is the third setback for the Professional men.

Donohue, Keefe, Curran and Williamson all helped greatly toward the Rotary club victory of the first set. The final score was announced as 15 to 11 in the Rotarians' favor. The next set found the Professional Men winning by the same score, the Rotarians won in the first set. The third set, which was the deciding set, found the Professional Men at their best and an easy win resulted, 15 to 4.

The teams lined up as follows:

Professional Men — Hibbard, Lubchansky, Baker, Greisshaber, C. F. Bradshaw, H. C. Bradshaw.

Rotary Club—Donohue, Curran, Williamson, Dorsey, Keefe.

The score by sets:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Professional Men | 11 | 15 | 15 |
| Rotary Club | 15 | 11 | 4 |

Indians Have Snappy Workout.

Cleveland, March 12. — The Cleveland American league players went through a fairly snappy workout at the Lakeland, Fla., training camp today. Weather conditions were improved, although still chilly. Manager Speaker kept the Indians at work for about two hours, the drill being the stiffest put in so far and consisting of a bit of everything.

Sisler to Play Sunday.

St. Louis, March 12.—George Sisler, after a year's absence, will be back at first base for the St. Louis Americans Sunday when they play the Memphis Chicks a practice game at Memphis. Sisler has been with the Washington Senators for the past two years but was released to the St. Louis Americans last winter.

SHORTY RUSSICK SETS NEW RECORD IN GRUELLING 200-MILE DOG DERBY

The Pas, Man., March 12.—"Shorty" Russick and his six hybrid huskies from the arctic today mushed through to a record-breaking victory at the end of the long Le Pas trail.

Shorty and his half-caste wolfhound has become the world's champion 8-dog outfit. They forged into a new record of 23 hours and 46 minutes for the 200-mile non-stop The Pas dog derby, annexed three trophies and won $2,500 in prize money.

Of the ten teams to break the barrier at 11:06 a. m. yesterday at the Hudson Bay railway bridge across the Saskatchewan river, Allan McDonald drove into The Pas second and Bill Grayson, mushing Tom Creighton's famous huskies, a close third.

Shorty thrust the gee-pole of his sled across the finish line at 10:55 o'clock this morning. He and the two rivals from whom he snatched victory are residents of The Pas. The other racers were strung out far behind.

With the weather ideal and the trail faster than it ever had been before, Shorty Russick was acknowledged tonight to have won the most gruelling contest in the history of dog derbies.

He was drawn fourth to start. Yet he was leading before the ten teams disappeared in the forest after rounding the snow-banked turn in the trail which marked the first mile. He kept the lead, straining at the gee-pole as his dogs leaped into their collars, all yesterday and last night, running when the going was heavy and riding when his sled nosed downgrade.

Shorty had to make record time, for right through from camp 11 to the home stretch he was crowded by two veteran teams and two old-time derby winners — McDonald and Grayson. Even the tail-enders ran a good race. They finished, most of them, in better than the trophy time of other years.

Fifteen hundred persons lined the home stretch and cheered the leading trio—the exhausted men urging their footsore huskies into a last loping spurt—past the judges' position. Tonight the drivers and their teams were guests of The Pas at a banquet and ceremonial where Shorty was presented with his trophies and winnings.

PLANS FOR INDIVIDUAL BOWLING TOURNEY MADE

At a meeting of the representatives of the various bowling alleys of Eastern Connecticut held on Wednesday at the Aetna alleys in Norwich final arrangements were made for the individual bowling champion tournament of Eastern Connecticut. The tournament will be governed by a set of regulations adopted at the meeting on Wednesday.

The main points in the regulations are as follows: First, the balls used in the matches shall not be greater than 4¾ inches in diameter; second, there will be a referee on the foul line at each and every match; third, each ten strings rolled shall constitute one game in the standing, each man is required to bowl one complete match each week; fifth, games to be rolled on Monday and Thursday evening; sixth, two sets of new pins to be purchased from the league committee by each alley owner, and to be used exclusively for league games; seventh, all entrance fees of $50 for each man must be in the hands of the secretary, Myles H. Standish, Norwich Bulletin, not later than Wednesday, March 19th.

The first games will be rolled Monday, March 24th, and the schedule will be announced at a later date. Those who are positive of entering the tournament are: Roy Fillmore of Norwich; Mike Mrin and Fred Dugas of Taftville; Conrad of Willimantic; McKenzie of Moosup; and Wilcox of Jewett City. Frank Barber of Danielson and Vandale of Putnam have not yet signed up but it is probable that these two will be in the tourney.

The prizes for the tournament will be $25 for highest single string; $25 for highest total in ten strings and the balance to the tournament winner.

TIGER FIVE WINS EASY GAME FROM DARTMOUTH

Princeton, N. J., March 12.—Princeton's prospects for going into a tie for leadership with Cornell in the intercollegiate basketball race were brightened tonight when the Tigers vanquished Dartmouth 49 to 34, thus staving off that one defeat that will mean the end of their championship hopes.

Hynson and Anderson were high scorers for Princeton each contributing 12 points, while Captain Klaess made four field goals. Dartmouth fought hard to stave off defeat and held the Tigers until the second half when Princeton let loose a powerful attack. Edward at center accredeight points for the Green.

The lineup and summaries:

| Princeton | | Dartmouth |

BULLETIN CUP SOCCER PLAY STARTS SATURDAY

The schedule for the soccer games for The Bulletin Soccer Cup has been completed with three teams battling for the honor, Westerly, New London and Taftville. The New London Rangers are new comers in the competition and it is expected that this team will give the others plenty of opposition. The Westerly team is the present holder of the cup. The schedule is as follows:

March 16.—Taftville vs Westerly at Westerly.

March 22. Taftville vs New London at Taftville.

March 30.—Westerly vs New London at New London.

April 5.—Westerly vs Taftville at Taftville.

April 13.—New London vs Taftville at New London.

April 20—New London vs Westerly at Westerly.

TO STATION TRAFFIC COPS ON GOLF LINKS

Cleveland, March 12.—An innovation in golf will be introduced on the local municipal links this season, if plans of John J. Tyla, recreation commissioner, materialize. Mr. Tyla proposes to station traffic policemen at points of congestion.

Acting as patrol judges, the officers will blow whistles to signal players to shoot after the courses have been cleared. This, it is hoped, will remedy the practice of playing through without regard to the customary wait or signal to pass from players in front.

American Bowling.

Chicago, March 12.—Leaders in the doubles and singles of the American bowling congress withstood the attack of squads which rolled today.

Kraus and Atkins, Antigo, Wis., had the highest score in the doubles with 1247. Supple and Clayton, Hammond, Ind., hit 1235, while the third best was marked up by Stack and Zimmerman, Hammond, Ind., with 1195.

Carmichael, Chicago, counted highest in the individual event today with 672.

Hagen and Smith Win.

Belhair, Fla., March 12. — Walter Hagen and Alex Smith, defeated Arthur Havers and James Ockendon in an international four ball match here today, 5 and 4. Hagen played the best golf of his side, making the course in seventy-five, two strokes better than Ockendon.

Passaic High Wins Another.

Passaic, N. J., March 12.—The Passaic High school basketball team tonight defeated Potsdam Normal school of Potsdam, N. Y., 47 to 36. This marks the 140th consecutive victory for the local team.

"Even better than my former Essex"

And Costs $170 Less

Advantages of both Hudson and the former Essex are combined in the new Essex Coach.

And with finer body and a 6-cylinder motor, built on Hudson patents, its cost is $170 less than Essex closed car comforts ever sold for.

It continues the famous Essex qualities of performance, economy and reliability.

Steering is like guiding a bicycle. Gears shift easily. Care of the car calls for little more than keeping it lubricated.

Its economy includes not only exceptional gas, oil and tire mileage, but a policy of minimum maintenance cost with parts prices that will astonish you.

association cup, which took place here today, failed to decide the winners, the Ayr United and Airdrieonians playing a scoreless tie, while the Partick-Hibbernian game ended with the score 1-1. Both games went into extra time.

All Ready For Big Bout.

Vienna, March 12.—Elaborate preparations are being made by the promotors for the fight on April 27 between Georges Carpentier, former light heavyweight champion of the world, and Arthur Townley, English light heavyweight. The match is to be the star event of a boxing carnival which will be held in the Hope Warte.

L. C. Weir, Texas League umpire, has been engaged by the St. Louis Cardinals, as arbiter of all games played by the Rickey team on its spring training trip. Weir reports for work at Bradentown, Fla., where the Cards are training, on March 11.

AGREE ON TERMS OF THE NEW SOLDIER BONUS BILL

Washington, March 12.—Terms of the new soldier bonus bill, providing paid-up life insurance policies, were agreed upon today by a sub-committee of the house ways and means committee and will be taken before the body for decision tomorrow.

Chairman Green announced he would attempt to have the measure acted upon next Monday by the house under suspension of the rules which would limit debate, prevent amendments, and permit a vote in one day.

The insurance policies, it was decided, would be 20-year endowment and valued on the basis of length of service of each veteran, with $1 allowed for each day of home service and $1.25 for each day of overseas service, but with the first sixty days excluded. To this total would be added 25 per cent and the face value of the policy then would be determined by computing the total amount of adjusted service credit plus the 20 years of compounded four per cent. interest.

In figuring the adjusted service credit, maximums of $500 would be allowed for home service and $625 for overseas service. It was estimated then that the maximum face value of any certificate would be about $1,400 for a veteran who served full time at home or $1,900 for one who served the full time overseas.

Under previous agreement all veterans up to the rank of captain in the army and marine corps and lieutenant, senior grade, in the navy would be eligible to the policies. It also was decided to include the dependents of all veterans who have died since the close of the war. Cash payments would be made to all veterans not entitled to more than $50.

The policies would be made effective next January 1 and after two years loans could be asked at state and federal banks on 80 per cent of the cash value of the policy at the time.

The dependents of those who have died since the war who would be eligible to receive payments from the government would be fathers and mothers and children under 18 years of age. The amounts due them would be figured strictly on the basis of $1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for overseas service of the deceased. This sum would be paid out in ten annual installments to the dependents.

The total cost of the bill, it was estimated, would be about $2,000,000,000, and not more than $80,000,000 would have to be expended by the government in any one year. It was estimated that $10,000,000 would be expended immediately in payments to those not entitled to more than $50 and that cash payments to dependents of deceased veterans would amount to about $125,000,000. The insurance policies, it was said, would cost $1,231,000,000 spread over a period of twenty years.

NEW LONDON JOURNEYMEN BARBERS SEEKING TEN PER CENT RAISE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 13.—In the probate court this afternoon the agreement entered into between Louis Markow and Fanny Markow, husband and wife, of New London and Norwich, and Ernest J. and Elisabeth Seming of Woodcliffe, N. J., whereby the six months' old daughter, Lois, of Mr. and Mrs. Markow, would be adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Seming, was approved.

Chief Inspector of Police John Ahearn, of Providence, this morning communicated with the New London authorities, requesting information as to two sailors who were reported to have been apprehended by the New London police yesterday for having burglarized cottages in Connecticut and Rhode Island and upon whose persons, it was alleged, numerous pawn tickets were found. As the reported arrests were not made in New London the police were unable to comply with the request of the Providence authorities.

Mrs. Leighton Barrett and infant daughter, of Montauk avenue, Mrs. Joseph Filippeppi of Smith street, James Gleason of Bank street, Mrs. Samuel Rogers of Fort Wright and Miss Gladys Davis of Tilley street, patients at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen L. Douglass, widow of Franklin P. Douglass, was held this afternoon, with prayer at her residence, 16 Amity street at 1.30 o'clock and services at St. James' Episcopal church at 2 o'clock. Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of the church, officiated. Burial was in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Purdy, widow of William Purdy, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 43 Shapley street. Rev. Mr. Francis, the pastor of the A. M. E. Zion church, officiating. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mary J. Rhodes has sold to Hattie A. Brown a house and lot on Truman street.

Mrs. Minnie E. O'Neill, 58, widow of John O'Neill, a former conductor in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, and residing at 167 Connecticut avenue, died this morning at Lawrence hospital, where she had been under treatment but a few days. Mrs. O'Neill is survived by two brothers, William Dwyer and James J. Dwyer, the latter of New London. Her step-son is Dr. Owen O'Neill, a leading Willimantic surgeon.

Mrs. George Lowery of 32 Harris court, Mrs. Harry Beebe and infant daughter of 23 Converse place, Mrs. Ernest Clark of Saybrook, Mrs. Roscoe Barchiocchi of Noank and Herman Soltz of John street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Lucille E., the year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lauriston D. Avery of 42 Truman street, died this morning at the home of her parents. Death was caused by bronchial pneumonia.

The journeymen barbers are again seeking an increase in wages their plan is to compel the customers to pay the increase. A report on the matter will be submitted to a meeting of the barbers' union to be held the 24th inst. The proposed scheme whereby the increase in wage can be enjoyed by the journeymen is to cause the masters to charge a 10 per cent increase for all services, excepting shaves. This would raise the price of haircuts from 40 to 50 cents and massage and tonic treatments, etc., accordingly. It is not planned to increase the price of shaves, however. The price now charged is 25 cents and because of the large number of men who use safety razors, it is contended by the journeymen, that to further increase the cost of shaves would be another step towards forcing barbershop patrons to shave themselves oftener also would tend to cause patrons who now have their shaves done, to resort to the safety razor.

Patrick Kennedy, an old offender before the police court, for he has been prescribed before that tribunal no less than 28 times for intoxication was picked up by Patrolman Casloe Salamitsky early this morning when the officer detected Kennedy staggering in the severe storm at the corner of Main and Williams street. Kennedy was taken to the police station and held over night, but escaped prosecution in the police court today, for he was discharged.

The storm of Monday night and Tuesday greatly crippled the city's fire alarm system and it was most fortunate that no alarm was rung in, for, in all likelihood, great confusion would have resulted. Throughout the day, Chief of Police Rose, ex-Chief John Stanners and an expert from the installers of the system have been engaged perfecting repairs. It is probable that the system will be back to normal within the next 24 hours.

Theodore Sasta, accused of having stolen a gold watch valued at $200 with chain attached, from the rooming house of Mrs. Mary McGarry on Tilley street last January, and who has been in jail about ten days awaiting a hearing, was released this afternoon on a bond of $1,000 furnished by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company, of Baltimore, through their representative in this city. Sasta has had a taste of jail that he did not anticipate. He was released at New Haven, where he was accused of a crime and there he gave a bond of $3,000 for his appearance. As soon as he was released there a warrant was awaiting him from New London to answer for the crime of which he is now accused. Attorneys from New Haven were in the city some days ago when the case was to have come to a hearing and they sought to have the bond reduced, but Judge Prince held it at the figure of $1,000, the amount originally fixed in the case. Today, Sasta made no claim that he was accused unjustly; he was in a hurry to get away from this city. He was accompanied by friends who were in a happy frame of mind as they left here. There is no doubt but Sasta was anticipating that another complaint might be made against him for the watch, which was the property of James Kirby, a roomer, was not the only property taken from the house. Mrs. Lizzie Devault is said to have lost a wrist watch and $22 in cash at the time the Kirby room was robbed. She has not been able to identify Sasta, a fact that he is aware of.

At the meeting of the Masonic club this evening, the matter of alterations that are to be made there was considered by the members. The club is to place a veranda on the building and to make an assembly hall on the lower floor. The alterations will cost considerable money but the club is in a position to meet the expense.

An estimate of the money the city will spend, or at least that is needed in case there shall be demand, for it, is now before the council and hearings are being held at the council chamber. At the first meeting Engelbert Sauter objected to any appropriation for water for Lawrence hospital and for the parochial school, claiming that the institutions were not in the list of properties that should drink at the public fountain so to speak, without paying for it. The claim is not a new one, for Mr. Sauter has expressed the same opinion before and last year he objected to any money being appropriated for this purpose. He also objected to back taxes being considered as a source of revenue in the budget. Mr. Sauter thinks the contribution of the city to meet a portion of the expense of the Yale-Harvard races on the river and for the care of the old burial ground should not be made. He has objected to these expenditures, but they have been made. He also objected to out-of-town pupils attending the schools of New London, being charged at the same rate the New London pupils would be charged, if a charge was made. He does not think that the payment made by the out-of-towners should be an equal portion of the expense of the school figured on a per capita basis.

Mrs. Emily Speirs made a plea for a caretaker for Riverside park, she regarding that section as one that should receive the watchful care of a guardian.

Mr. Sauter's objection to an appropriation for the public library brought a reply from Frederick Edgerton, the librarian, who claimed that the city had every right to make the appropriation and he cited the law to fortify his claim.

The project of the erection of a junior high school in New London is likely to be the most interesting question that will be considered in this city during the interval between this date and the 7th of April. The proposed building will cost the city half a million dollars. That is where the municipal shoe pinches in the way of taxes. To maintain the school will cost a large sum each year, and that must be taken into consideration also. The voters are likely to so regard it. The board of school visitors, which is advocating the building of the structure, has formed a committee of 100 to boost the project along. The opposition is not known to be organized yet, but that it will be organized there is no doubt. A lot of school ammunition is to be displayed before the date on which the people will vote arrives. Many are of the opinion that the project will fail, while those in favor of the school are just as firm in the belief that the school will materialize.

Patrolman William Graham of the night shift, reported off duty tonight, claiming that he sustained a severe wrenching of his back by slipping on an icy sidewalk, last night.

George Sabagh, proprietor of the pool room at 193 Main street, who lodged complaint with the police last night, alleging Eugene (Tinker) Sullivan of 73 Harrison street, had smashed a showcase in his place and had refused to pay for the damage he had done. A lookout for Sullivan was maintained, but not until this evening was he seen by the police. He went to the Sabagh establishment and paid for the damage he had occasioned and then visited the police station and made inquiry as to why he was being sought. Sullivan was accompanied to the pool room where it was revealed that Sullivan had paid for the damage and Sabagh then decided to refrain from causing the young man's prosecution.

Miss Harriet Vincent, a resident at the Hotel Mohican, is confined to her apartment by illness believed to be pertussis.

Miss Cecelia Dean, 79 Garfield avenue, employed as telephone operator at the Hotel Mohican, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Home Memorial hospital Saturday. Her condition tonight is reported as being comfortable.

NEW MANSFIELD BUILDINGS TO COST HALF MILLION

Six bids for the construction of a dormitory and a new hospital have been received by the trustees of the Mansfield state training school and hospital and taken under advisement. The dormitory is to house 104 and the hospital will give accommodations for 40 patients. The buildings are to cost between $450,000 and $500,000.

This project is the first portion of a building program for which the last legislation appropriated $460,000. The appropriation specified a dormitory for 100 boys, $110,000; a hospital to accommodate sixty patients, $150,000; a nurses home to accommodate 100 employes, $200,000. Building costs rose so rapidly last summer that the building could not be constructed within the appropriations. An indication of the increased cost is given by the fact that two of the three buildings originally planned will not be built for an amount that may be in excess of the appropriation for all three.

The board also has under consideration the construction of seven cottages for employes, which are badly needed. Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin said after the meeting that funds for these cottages were problematical at present.

NEW LONDONERS DINE IN A FLORIDA CAMP

The St. Petersburg, Fla., Times says: A party of New London, Conn., people who are spending the winter in the Sunshine City, had a dinner party at Brown's camp in the Jungle Thursday evening. The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Crandall, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mabrey and Mrs. H. B. Weaver.

Toasts were given at the dinner by H. C. Weaver who spoke on New London of 30 years ago. Mrs. Snell spoke of School conditions. J. Humphrey, spoke of Southern Pines, his winter home. Giles Reynolds, Mrs. Mabrey, Mr. Lawless, Mr. Hawley, Mr. Snell and Mrs. Weaver also were heard on various subjects. It was voted to make the dinner an annual event.

The guests were:

MARKET WOS DULL

New York, March 13.—Dullness in trading again characterized today's stock market, neither bear nor bull operators apparently being able or willing to break prices out of the narrow area in which they have been foundering for nearly a month. Lack of a definite trend is generally attributed to the indisposition of professional traders to extend their commitments until after the March 15 tax payments have been disposed of.

Heavy buying of the railroad shares, based on a continuation of record breaking car loading and speculative expectation of favorable February earnings statements, and an inauguration of dividends on Southern Railway common tomorrow, imparted a firm tone to the early dealings. Announcement later in the day that the directors of Norfolk and Western had not considered the leasing of that road to the Pennsylvania at today's meeting encouraged a resumption of bear selling which gave closing prices a reactionary appearance. Net losses in the active issues however, were held to a point or less.

Southern Railway and Norfolk and Western were the features of the rail group, establishing new 1924 high at 53 1-4 and 121 3-8 respectively. In the late selling Southern sold down to 51 1-8 where it was up one point on the day and Norfolk and Western closed at 118 7-8 a net loss of 5-8. Some of the other strong spots in that group included the Erie issues, Seaboard Air line preferred and New Orleans, Texas and Mexico.

Chain store stocks again attracted attention when Woolworth established a record high for all time at 221. No sales of Kresge have taken place this week, but the announcement that the company had taken over a large department store in Washington, D. C., boosted the quotation to 320 bid and 360 asked. Loose-Wiles Biscuit spurted 5 1-2 points to 61 in response to the recent payment of accumulated dividends on the preferred.

Studebaker closed a point lower at 101 1-2 and U. S. Steel common, Baldwin and American Can sustained fractional losses. A sharp run-up in American Sugar Refining, which touched 54, or two points above yesterday's low, indicated that Wall Street had over-discounted the poor 1923 earnings report, which was published today. Cuban Dominican Sugar preferred advanced two points and the other sugars held steady.

Accumulation of U. S. Cast Pipe sent that stock up to 77 5-8 the closing price, 76, representing a net gain of two points. Unfavorable dividend rumors were held responsible for the sharp break in Market Street Railway prior preferred. Oils offered fairly good resistance to selling pressure, General Asphalt standing out with a net gain of 2 1-8 points. Pierce Oil preferred make a good response to reports of an early announcement of reorganization plans.

Call money held steady at 4 1-4 per cent. The time money and commercial paper markets continued dull with no change in rates.

Further recovery of the French franc featured the foreign exchange market, the demand rate again getting above four cents. Belgian and Spanish rates also moved substantially higher, while Japanese yen broke sharply. Other changes were largely nominal.
